Sir,—I notice in a recent issue of The Examiner your editorial, "Where Have We Failed," on which you continue your good work of trying to educate the public, especially those who are responsible, to the necessity of availing ourselves of the great opportunities we possess from our geographical position and the natural beauties and advantages our district is endowed with. You ask "Why have we failed to secure our share of the immense motor tourist traffic that has come to Ontario this past season?" To my mind it is plain enough. In the first place, what advertising is done is not done to the best advantage, nor is it sufficient. In the second place, we should not induce motorists to come over such roads as between Peterborough and our northern resorts, for if they come once they will never come again.

It is well enough to try and bring motor boats over our beautiful waterway, but the same energy and money expended on drawing motor car tourists would bring fifty of the latter to one of the former, but this energy should be expended first in endeavoring to get the proper authorities to put the leading highways in passable condition. Past experience has proved it useless to try and impress the township authorities with the fact that it would pay to have the main highways in good condition, in order to have the township receive the financial benefits from the tourist traffic. Though the authorities need not expect to find a dollar bill on their doorsteps every morning, still the township would gain indirectly thousands of dollars every season, judging from the experiences of the results of other tourist districts which have not half the attractions we have. The Government should have some machinery for compelling the townships to keep their main highways in passable shape, as the Government taxes heavily the owners of motor cars, while the latter have no recourse or say in the expenditures of these taxes. Take, for instance, the road to Burleigh, which is the only means of outlet for the whole country to the northeast of the county (the townships of which are not blessed with the wealth of the front townships), one would have thought a fair measure of generosity or even fair play would have been shown and the only means of access kept in passable condition. In this case I think the Government should compell the authorities to keep this highway in fair shape. I hope your paper will continue the good work of advocating a policy of good roads.

Yours truly,
PROGRESS.

THE MYSTERY MIND

Arthur B. Reeve and John W. Grey

Because Jake knew this resort section thoroughly, Dupont left him in charge of two of the men instructing him to search the entire Brooklyn shore for a place which could conceal the gang or their captive, suggesting that he investigate the Portola once more on a chance; that in particular he keep a shadow upon the Strangler. Because he realized now the value of the portrait and the resourcefulness of his enemies, Dupont took the detective Joe into the city with him as bodyguard.

At the home of Miss Julia Sutton no one was up. Dupont stole in unobtrusively, phoning the detective agency. He learned from them that four more of their best men were available. Three of these he ordered to report to him at the Washington Square home. One he directed be sent to Jake at the earliest opportunity, to assist in the search of the Jamaica Bay waterfront.

When Thelma came down, eyes heavy-lidded from too much sleep, Dupont made his house arrangements. With three detectives to reinforce the one already with him there would be two shifts of two guards each. With the picture of Steele safe, he sat back, ill at ease, barricaded, to wait for word from Violet. At her home he was ready for her call.

XXVIII

A GLASS OF WATER

The most vivid and enduring of all Violet's childhood recollections was the smell of Tuesday. After Saturday, a glorious play day always, there came Sunday, the have-to-sleep-late, dressed-up-in-white-and-musn't-sit-down, hot and starched and thoroughly uncomfortable day. Then Monday was the one when everyone spoke crossly. Doctor Sutton, her guardian, was never to be seen on Monday. He buried himself in his laborartoryas if to do penance to his science for the truancy of the Sabbath. Katy washed and—so Johnny Sterling, from the across street, affirmed—swore when it was hot. And her nurses, of whom Violet could remember a dozen, generally thought of things and sniffed.

But on Tuesday, the universe was well ordered again. Katy always fixed a nice lunch and Doctor Sutton always ate with her. This was the day Katy ironed. With the clothes all in heaps in baskets in the kitchen, with a dozen irons on the coal stove, with an open bottle of stale beer on the table, Katy sang. Her vocal method was cheerful monotony. Some one was the pride of our alley, and there was news which had to be broken to mother. Occasionally, for variety, there would be a reference to Annie Rooney.

Strongest in Violet's memory, however, was the odor of the wax as it was applied to the hot metal, of the various articles of clothing, as the Irish girl bore down upon them. This same smell first struck her nostrils when she awoke after her recapture in the Portola. This was so suggestive of her girlhood in Lawncrest that for several moments she lay still, almost ready to believe all her terrible experiences unreal, almost ready to accept the fact that she again was the child of ten, happy in the home of her upbringing.

Because she lay still, with eyes closed, the others in the room failed to realize she was awake.

"Evil Eye knows what he is doing, doesn't he?"

TWO CAMPBELLFORD MEN HAD A NARROW ESCAPE WHEN BOAT STRUCK A ROCK IN THE BAY

Frank Bonnycastle to the Rescue—Walter Sutton Came in Contact With a Live Wire — Campbellford News of Interest.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 24. — George Atwell and Charlie Potts had a thrilling experience on Bradley Bay Thursday afternoon, when their motor launch struck a rock and began to sink. As luck would have it Frank Bonnycastle saw their plight from the distance and hurried to the scene in a row boat, saving both men and part of the cargo. The wrecking crew were soon on the scene, and after viewing the situation think it will be possible to raise the vessel, and have wired for the derrick. Both Atwell and Potts are old sailors and know this channel well, but did not make allowance for low water. They were given dry clothes at a neighboring farm house and appeared little the worse for their ducking.

BRITISH REITERATE

It is said to be because of this report that the British will hold tenaciously to Chanak, the ground being taken that no naval vessels can control the Straits unless they have sufficient land forces on both sides of the waterway to prevent the Turks from planting heavy land batteries.

Premier Lloyd-George remained at Chequers Court yesterday, but he was in constant telephone communication with his office in Downing Street and with members of the Cabinet, who were holding themselves in readiness for action in case the news from Paris or the Near East made necessary a conference last night.

Many fears were expressed locally yesterday that Great Britain was drifting into a new war, which would injure the middle classes of the population, whose income taxes lately had dropped from six shillings in the pound to five shillings, and which another war probably would raise again.

Labour leaders pointed out that with one of the blackest winters in many years facing the country, it was no time to unsettle business, especially when the registered unemployment figures already aggregated 1,250,000.

Renewed representations were received from the Viceroy of India regarding the ferment among the Moslems, and favouring just treatment for the Turks.

Miniature Grand Piano

Musicians, pianists and music lovers acclaim it a very wonderful piano.

Melba, the great Australian Prima Donna, purchased a Heintzman & Co. Miniature Grand, and had it shipped to her Australian home, for her own personal use.

This beautiful little instrument not alone appeals to the eye, but lends grace and charm to the room in which it is placed, and because of its size, you can place it where the ordinary-sized Grand cannot be placed.

Fashion Hints

Cloths stamped to resemble leather are among the novelties used by the French designers for tailored gowns.

Black velvet will return to great popularity for evening and afternoon gowns. These costumes are very long and in draped designs.

Ermine wraps are made with a three-tiered skirt part. The fur goes over the shoulders and forms a high rolling collar. The lower part of the cape wrap has three rows of ermine tails encircling it at intervals to produce an effect of three flounces.

Some of the new tailored suits have skirts made of tiers of the cloth in equal widths. The coat forms the top tier.

Silver and gold lace, sometimes studded with pearls and other jewels, is used for the bodices of evening gowns over which black velvet is draped.

Scarfs and hats to match are by no means back numbers, despite their years of popularity. Small tams of cloth with scarfs to match embroidered in bright colors are very smart, especially for the young girl.

The newest hand bags are of velvet or silk, studded with steel nail-heads over the entire surface. This form of ornamention is liked also on leather bags.

It is a popular conceit to have the sports hat match in fabric the sports coat. Stitched duvetyns and tweeds, with turned-back brims and feather trimmings, are most in demand.

Flamingo is one of the popular new colors for evening, and old rose is coming back to its own. Orchid, pink, turquoise and almond green also are lovely in chiffons and satin materials.

Hand-painted footwear is something new, you must admit. Painted and stained designs are seen on some of the very newest pumps. A pair of tan shoes is ornamented in brown, and a grey pair is decorated with blue and gold.

Sixteen and 20-button length kid gloves are being featured this fall for wear with the very short-sleeved frocks.

The popularity or rather the craze for brown is responsible for the adoption of amber and tortoise shell jewelry this season.

ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN.

Street car conductors in Stockholm sell hatpin protectors for 1 cent each to all women who wish to buy.

Young women are being utilized in the yards of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad to help break the strike. They clean and oil rolling stock as they did in the emergency war time.

WOMEN AND HOME

Conducted by JEANNETTE

HAS SYMPATHY FOR A CRIPPLED LAD.

A convenience that has been afforded the management of the Children's Aid Society in the prosecution of their work on behalf of one of their crippled wards is the granting by the Hydro-electric Power Commission to little Everett Carruthers, one of the children in the Shelter, of a pass which enables him to ride free of charge on any of the company's street cars in the city. This little lad, who is a hopeless cripple, having been brought into the world with heels only to stump around on, has difficulty in getting suitable boots, and his attendance at Queen Alexandra School prevents him from walking home with his halting steps, for dinner. The street car pass, which he proudly displays in the form of a special button, is therefore very welcome to him. Everett is a bright lad, his head making up for the disabilities under which his feet labor.

AUTO SUGGESTION REGARDING NERVES.

Dear Jeannette,—

It would be a pity if your readers who are afflicted with nerves do not quite grasp the meaning of the discovery of the great French physician, M. Cone. It is working wonders and is so simple when understood. It is called auto-suggestion, and means that the person afflicted does not attempt to fight their nerves, but simply says, "No matter what my nerves may do, I am not going to get excited over it." When the patient ceases to get rattled and excited, the nerves get the benefit of the change of mind and themselves in a short time subside. Tears are like perspiration, a necessary relief to overwrought nerves, but nerves will cure themselves in a short time if not made worse by the anxiety, worry and excitement of their owner. Just say to yourself, "As for my nerves, they may tie themselves in knots, but they can't rattle me." That's all. LILY.

DYE SKIRT, COAT DRAPERIES WITH DIAMOND DYES

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple that any woman can dye or tint faded, shabby skirts, dresses, waists, coats, sweaters, stockings, hangings, draperies, everything like new. Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind — then perfect home dyeing is guaranteed, even if you have never dyed before. Tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods. Diamond Dyes never streak, spot, fade or run.

HELP ON BLUE MONDAY.

When you want to wash white goods that have grown yellow put a few drops of turpentine into the water, then lay them on the grass to dry in the strong sunshine.

When washing, if the article is badly soiled use a small scrubbing-brush and scrub the goods on the wash-board.

When ironing fine pieces, instead of sprinkling afresh, take a piece of muslin, wring it out in cold water, and lay on the ironing-board under the article. Press with a warm iron, remove the muslin and iron.

To set green or blue, mauve or purple, soak the articles for 10 minutes in alum water before washing. Use an ounce of alum to a gallon of water.

To set tan or brown color, soak for 10 minutes in a solution made of a cup of vinegar in a pail of water.

Black, and black and white goods need to be soaked in strong salt and water or have a cup of turpentine put in the wash water.

Yellows, buffs and tans are made much brighter by having a cup of strong strained coffee put in the rinsing water.

STUFFED PEPPERS.

1 cup macaroni
1 small onion
2 tablespoons butter or oil
Salt, pepper
1 cup bread crumbs or
½ cup grated cheese

Wash, wipe and cut the peppers in halves lengthwise. Remove seeds and inside pulp and sprinkle with salt.

Break macaroni in small pieces and cook until soft in boiling salted water. Drain, season well with salt and pepper.

Place in a pan, adding just enough water to prevent burning, and bake until peppers are soft. Serve with a fresh tomato sauce.

If one does not wish to serve a sauce with the peppers, mix the macaroni with enough cooked tomato to moisten.

Cooked rice may be used instead of the macaroni.

TALENTED VOCALIST.

Miss Ina Allen, a local vocalist, who has gained considerable prominence in the city with her clever work, is giving a recital on next Tuesday evening in one of the largest halls in Cobourg. Miss Allen has prepared a programme of considerable merit for the occasion, when she will be assisted by Mrs. Ford Turner, contralto singer, and Mr. Leslie Unitt, piano soloist.

DEATH-RATE OF ONT. BABIES APPALLING.

"In 1920 in Ontario 7,802 babies under one year of age died. Think what this means. Imagine nearly 8,000 families with the suffering and sorrow of a little baby's death.

"A large number of these babies died because their mothers did not know how to care for them.

"It is unnatural for a baby to be sick. Every child has the right to be loved, to be protected from disease, and to have a fair chance in life."—From "The Baby," prepared by the Provincial Board of Health, Toronto.

Reports from different chapters presented at the district rally of the I.O.D.E. in Campbellford this week showed a wide range of activities by the members. Hastings has done a great deal of work in renovating the Town Hall; Warkworth, among other things, sent a library to Saskatchewan; the Havelock chapter have in reserve the sum of $1,500 for the arch entrance to their park, which is to serve as their war memorial; Madoc chapter is very much interested in the formation of a horticultural society; Campbellford contributes towards the Children's Shelter in Port Hope, as well as to many other things; the Norwood chapter had a great deal to do with the success of the Old Boys' Re-union held recently; while the Peterborough chapters received applause for their excellent showing in every instance. Donations to the educational war memorial, to the Preventorium, to the Well Babies' Clinic, to relief work in general, towards the support of a French orphan, to the Y.W.C.A. campaign fund, to Russian relief, to the Health Association, encouraging competitions amongst school children, giving pictures to schools of the city, contributions to the Navy League, to the Children's Aid Society, the Salvation Army, the Big Sisterhood, the Sick Children's Hospital, the King's Daughters—all these came within the scope of the work of the three Peterborough chapters represented at the rally.

KEEP CHILDREN HEALTHY

To keep children healthy the bowels must be kept regular and the stomach sweet. Nine-tenths of the ailments which afflict little ones are caused by derangements of the bowels and stomach. No other medicine can equal Baby's Own Tablets in guarding either the baby or growing child from the ills that follow a disordered condition of the bowels or stomach. They are a mild but thorough laxative and never fail to give results. Concerning them Mrs. W. B. Coolledge, Sarnia, Ont., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for over three years and have found them the best medicine I have ever used for my children. I never have any trouble giving them to my little ones and they have saved me many a doctor's bill. My advice to all mothers of little ones is to keep a box of the Tablets in the house." The Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THESE WOMEN NOT THE FRIVOLOUS SEX.

Men are very fond of asserting on every possible occasion that women are the frivolous sex, addicted to an attitude of mind chiefly concerned with matters of dress and the like. But here we have the Doukhobor women in Western Canada favoring the adoption of a proposal which reduced clothing to a minimum, adoption of standard style of dress, simple living and trading with a common purse, while the whole proposal was solidly opposed by the Doukhobor men.

Evidently the latter did not look with favor on the abolition of feminine fripperies, or else it was the final item in the proposition which did not appeal to them.

Ratepayer:

Dear Sir or Madam,—

What kind of milk should the children of this city receive?

You will, of course, agree that they should have the very best.

WHAT IS THE "BEST" MILK?

Leading health authorities and physicians tell us that it is the clean milk of healthy cows, pasteurized or heated so that any harmful germ life in it is destroyed.

So vitally important is this heating or pasteurizing that Dr. Chas. J. Hastings, Medical Officer of Health of the city of Toronto, states that no city should allow the distribution of raw, uncertified milk, any more than they would allow the use of unfiltered water of doubtful purity.

Even in the case of certified milk, authorities like Dr. Coit, the originator of the certified milk plan, and Dr. Emmett L. Holt, the celebrated child specialist, advise that it be heated or PASTEURIZED before it is used.

Dr. E. V. McCollum of Johns Hopkins University says, "All city milk should be pasteurized." The people of America are listening to these leaders and in the last six years the use of pasteurized milk as compared with raw milk has almost doubled.

Safety first. When whole cities are being protected by pasteurization, can there possibly be any more important place to practice the principle of "safety first" than in our schools and public institutions?

Sincerely yours,

Peterboro Milk Products, Ltd.

What is a Worth While Battery?

Exide

MADE IN CANADA

BATTERIES

Most of the successful farm lighting plants have Exide Batteries.

Like the heart in your body, the best battery in a car is the one you are least aware of. The battery you want is the one that will give you care-free service for the longest time.

You will not be disappointed if you expect something more than the ordinary service from an Exide. And why be content with a battery that gives only halting service, when a long-life Exide proves a true economy as well as a constant comfort?

In choosing a new car, the kind of battery in it should be one of the things you consider. If it is Exide equipped, you know that so far as one important part of the car is concerned, the manufacturer has provided the best obtainable.

When you have to replace your battery, don't accept a substitute for the Exide—there is no adequate substitute. If you have any trouble in getting an Exide, write us or our nearest district distributor.

Germany Works and Waits

The following letter from Germany to a resident of New York was recently published in the New York and affords an interesting picture of present affairs and ideas in the new republic:—

BERLIN, August 20.

Dear Mr. ——: I have now been in Germany about six weeks and have had time to look about a bit and to get a perspective on the people and on conditions. I have been straight through Germany, from Hamburg to Dresden, by automobile, stopping off occasionally and getting acquainted. America and no other country ever had such crops as we saw everywhere. We did not see an acre of ground that was not producing something. If it was too sandy or rocky for rye, wheat and similar crops there were pine trees growing in an orderly manner, all set out in rows and being prepared for lumber for industrial purposes or for firewood. If the land was too swampy for grain it was producing something else.

Working Everyone was working, and hard. Old women and little children in the fields, men on the roads and in the factories; no idle and closed factories; every one running at full tilt and producing merchandise of one kind or another. Even the dogs—and Germany has more dogs than Heinz and beans—were working. Many, many times one sees a man or a woman or a small child harnessed up alongside a cow dragging a loaded wagon. We learned that milch cows are permitted to graze until 5 o'clock in the evening and then usually are hitched to a wagon to haul a load of farm produce to town.

The rural districts are dotted with factories which poke their tall red smokestacks far above the surrounding country and which are located in those places to absorb the rural population in labor.

Vast Production

Germany must be producing a tremendous amount of goods—farm products and merchandise—this year. In the cities vast quantities of merchandise are being offered, not so much for home consumption but for export to England and America. Most of it is shoddy. The largest English houses have established buying headquaretrs here and apparently are purchasing very large quantities of goods It is to their monetary advantage to do so. For instance, yesterday I purchased a small mechanical screwdriver to use on my eyeglasses and such other small work. I paid 60 marks for it, the equivalent yesterday of about five cents and probably to-morrow four cents. That screw-driver in New York would cost me at least 50 cents.

In the large cities conditions are diffreent from those in the rural districts. There is no idleness, but in the cities there is a great waste of man power because of the socialistic government. There are vastly more public employees than the Kaiser ever thought of having. Every public building is swarming and overflowing with job holders and I tell you it keeps the Reichsback printing presses busy twenty-four hours a day turning our paper marks with which to pay them. These office holders, and there seem to be millions of them, are of the new regime and for all the world they physically look like our New York brand of young hare-brained socialists.

Those of the old regime, according to their strata in society, are the merchants, the shopkeepers, and many of them, reduced in estate, are the shop workers. Or rather, the shop workers, mostly are those of dull intelligence who failed to get aboard the band wagon when the revolution gave them the opportunity. I have talked with many of them. They are a sullen lot. Few of them openly advocate violence at this time, but all declare that if the mark keeps on sinking into the depths they must quit work. "What's the use?" they ask. "The mark won't buy anything—why work for it?"

The Plunging Mark

Just now a red flag parade is passing my window, with fife and drum corps and probably 500 men, women and children marching to the air of the Internationale. It is a protest against the wild specualtion in the mark. They are factory and shop workers. They haven't the least idea what the remedy is, but they know that as the mark goes down the prices of all necessaries soar and that their wages are not keeping pace. No one has a solution. The highest government officials advise against buying foreign drafts and speculation in the mark, but they have nothing to offer to prevent it, and it goes merrily on, dancing, seemingly, the people to their national death.

Yesterday I bought 1,200 marks for the dollar. The prediction is common that it will surely fall to the low estate of the Austrian kronen. In that connection I have been making inquiries as to what will be the result. Certainly depths into which Austria has sunk. A member of a banking house told me (confidentially, he said it was) they general plan was to make the mark worWhless. Then the leadint banks Germany would join in an organization which would be authorized by the ReichatW... to issue bank notes to secured by gold or negotiable and standard securities and commodities. This new bank note, it is planned, is to become the real money of Germany. The present mark, issued by the Reichsbank, will go out of circulation as being absolutely worthless, and all business, even customs and state payments, will be based upon and paid by the notes where in the backs of their square head they think this is going to relieve them of paying war indemnities and reparations.

I never cease to marvel at German psychology. It is the same to-day, after the war, as it was before. It is Nietzche It lacks religion. It has no faith. Therefore, it is a very black and dismal thing. It makes them very unhappy. The newspapers never tell us about the suicides throughout Germany every day. There are many, many. Some are unable to keep up the fight to live any longer—those whose fortunes in marks have been lost through the fall of the mark, and those whose false philosophy shows them only the clouds and no sun'd shine. An instance: The kulture German woman whose apartment we rent, lived in luxury when the mark was normal. Gradually her income has been getting less and less—in actual value, although there have been just as many marks coming to her—and she has been obliged to eliminate the luxuries, to sell jewels, to live on the very commonest of food, until we came along as a godsend. Only to-day she told me that after we are gone and if things continue as they have been going she will commit suicide and take with her her seven-year-old daughter.

The Republic Unstable

The republic—the present government—enjoys a very limited popularity. To me it seems to be another instance of the tyranny of the minority. In six weeks I have met all classes of Germans. Those of limited intelligence in the cities are lukewarm for the republic because they blame the Hohenzollerns for getting them into the war. In the rural districts the people are paying little attention to modes of government. They are busy working. But in the cities all conversation is on government. I believe that the middle classes and the upper strata are opposed to the republic and long for the return of a monarchy—not the Hohenzollerns. Only at Potsdam is there any feeling for the Kaiser and his group.

The better classes in Berlin—I mean the people of education and refinement and of responsibility, will welcome the fall of the present government and will espouse the establishment of a monarchy with the probable selection of the late Bavarian ruling house or some other South German noble family to establish the dynasty. Even the Prussians are opposed to the return of a Prussian family to the throne which they see in the not far distant future.

Of course I am giving you this for what it is worth. I have tried to stand apart and get the perspective. But there is not the slightest doubt that the existing government is weak and that the property owners have no confidence in it. There are plenty of wealthy families in Germany, but they are doing their banking business in Switzerland, Holland add Denmark. They are converting their goods, estates, into dollars and pounds sterling, not marks, and depositing the money outside of Germany. That is a good illustration of the lack of confidence.

They do not seem to fear France or a French invasion. It is their own government they fear. Speaking of France, let me assure you that the German hatred of France is unlike anything else It is apart and aloof from hate ever engendered at any time or anywhere, and in Germany it is shared by the humblest and the highest. That is the one common ground upon which all classes unite and agree.

Another "Der Tag"

The spirit of hate has been so deeply instilled in the German mind, generation after generation, and that hatred has been so focused and centered upon France that it can never be eradicated, even by the sword. They will fight France again and just as soon as it is possible for them to do so, whether their government be republic, monarchy or bolshevik. It is the one thing they dream about, on which they even approach the idealistic. They live now to fight France some time. There can be no doubt about that. They do not conceal their intentions, nor do they try to. The shop girl will tell you that "the next time" they will crush the French. The merchant will say: "Ach the French Swinehund Their day is coming—we do not forget." The banker and the professional man will say: "Yes, we lost the war, but the next war will be different. England and France have already parted company, and neither England nor America will fight again for France."

Every German with whom I have discussed the matter is firmly of the belief that Germany exists principally for the purpose of crushing France. That is the ultimate. All they are doing now is to accomplish that end. They do not in the least conceal their aim. I never believed it was possible for hate to be so deeply imbedded in a people. They are paying reparations, or have been paying them, and as they do so the people chuckle to themselves and say: "We will get it all back with good interest when the time comes. There is to be another "Der Tag.'"

CRUMBS OF THOUGHT

When we go in for style, either in church life or home life we always do so at the expense of the best things and the best people; we may attract a few social butterflys, but we loss the faith, the love, the esteem of simple, trusting hearts, often wounding their soul, and destroying our own usefulness.

It is pathethic to run across intellectual refined men, getting on in years, who have never found the right kind of woman to help them set up that dearest of all places on earth, A home, sisters, there's a reason why they are lonely and unhappy. (Think it out).

Perhaps they are looking for sweet womanliness and brains rather than a display of limbs. One of the great fundamental truths which many men today have lost, but which our great-grandfather Adam grasped, was this—This is now bone of my bone and flesh of my flesh) therefore shall a man leave his wife for another? pardon me, I quoted that wrong, it's a job to keep out of that old rut, it's worn so deep these days I'l try again, Therefore shall a man l ave his father and mother and cleave unto his wife.'

When the Day of Judgment arrives, I fear there will still be many unpaid for church spires—And Heaven is a prepared place for a prepared people.

There's going to be a lot of fun in Ireland when they try to pass a soldiers' bonus bill.

PETROGRAD HOPES FOR A BETTER DAY

Some Day May Be Again Capital of Russia.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 23.—(Associated Press).—Hope that some day the capital of Russia will be transferred back to Petrograd is buoying up the spirits of many residents of this ghost-like city that Peter the Great built to serve as the centre of Russia's power.

No official word, not even a semi-official hint, has been given that the Bolshevik regime will return the capital here from Moscow, but many Petrogradites base their hopes that this will occur on the fact that Petrograd was built for Government purposes and is far more fitted to house Government offices than overcrowded Moscow.

If the time does come that the Bolshevik officials lose their fear of attack from outside, these Petrograd residents say the Government inevitably must return to the city that offers it comfortable quarters and immediate proximity, by land and sea, to Western Europe. While the fear of attack exists, these same features of Petrograd's location make it a dangerous site for a capital. Finland is too close, and the Finnish Gulf and the Neva offer anchorage for foreign warships.

Shrewd citizens are now buying up Petrograd's property and holding it against the day when the now almost depopulated city shall again be the crowded capital.

The Petrograd port has shown great activity this summer, but most of the factory chimneys of the city and suburbs are still smokeless, and the streets, as compared with busy Moscow, seem like those of a country village.

A few pedestrians; an automobile or two; now and then a slow moving horse-drawn truck, and the scattering of cabs in the great broad avenues laid out by Peter the Great to make Petrograd magnificent, seem lost in the city's spaciousness.

Great Government buildings that border the plazas and squares are now occupied by small bureaus of the main ministries of Moscow. Huge palaces are empty, occupied only by caretakers, or transformed into museums, open but a few hours each week and even then visited only by sightseeing tours, and now and then a little group of art students.

Many shops are open, selling mostly second-handed furniture and costly bric-a-brac from the houses of the once great, but business is dull and money is much scarcer than in speculation-mad, seemingly prosperous Moscow.

Looks as though President Harding will not have a vacation until 1923.

HOTEL DOUGLAS RAIDED AND DRUGS CONFISCATED.

NEW YORK, September 23 (Canadian Press). — A raid on the Hotel ouglas, a family house catering to the theatrical folk in Times Square district, said to be a drug distribution centre, was carried out by forty detectives last night, and when it was over the police announced that they had secured $500,000 worth of drugs.

The police declared it to be the greatest drug raid ever carried out in the United States, and the seizures cut the selling artery between the drug centre and the remainder of the United States.

WORLD WAR HERO MADE GOVERNOR SOUTH AUSTRALIA

Major-General Sir George Molesworth Succeeds Lt.-Col. Sir William Weigell.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—(Associated Press).—Major-General Sir George Molesworth Bridges has been appointed Governor of South Australia, succeeding Lieutenant-Colonel Sir William Weigell. The latter resigned the position because he said he could not live on his salary and had not sufficient private means to afford the luxury of maintaining such a position.

His successor, Sir George, is known in the British army as the "Hoy Drum Hero." That term has not been applied to him in derision, but in recognition of a memorable incident of the war in which he displayed great gallantry.

After the action at Le Cateau, in 1914, the British army started on its great fighting retreat, and men were dropping out from sheer exhaustion. Major Bridges, as he then was, went back to St. Quentin to round up 250 stragglers.

He found them in a state of collapse. At a little village shop he bought a toy drum, and falling the men into line with the toy drum and a penny whistle to serve as a band, he marched them off, laughing in spite of their weariness. They kept on marching for 28 miles.

Sir George was the military member of the Balfour mission to the United States in 1917, and head of the British war mission to the United States in the succeeding year.

DANISH GOVERNMENT SUPPORTS THE BANK.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press). — Both Chambers of the Danish Rigsdag have unanimously ratified the plan of the Government in supporting the Landsman's Bank in its process of reorganization. The new preferred capital subscribed will be 70,000,000 kroner, instead of 100,000,000 kroner, as 30,000,000 of the 35,000,000 kroner subscribed by the National Bank will be paid in as a reserve fund when the old share capital of the Landsman's Bank has been written down. There is no excitement whatever, and the rate of Danish exchange has gone up.

The Danish Minister of Commerce introduced in Parliament on Tuesday a bill providing for State participation to the extent of 40,000,000 kroner in the new 100,000,000 kroner of new preferred shares of the Landsman's Bank. The Minister also announced the appointment of a committee to investigate the affairs of the bank, the affairs of which recently were said to have been sharply criticized.

By PAUL F. GODLEY.

To all those who are using vacuum tubes in their radio work, the use of the rheostat for adjustment of filament currents is well known. But there seem to be many who do not understand or appreciate the utility of the device which is known as the "A" battery potentiometer for adjustment of the "B" battery.

For this work potentiometers of various types have been tried.

In the main they have consisted of a high-resistance unit, which was placed either in series with, or in shunt to, the "B" battery. When in series, much larger batteries than the normal ones were necessary to overcome the added resistance of the unit.

When in shunt, due to the high voltage employed in the plate circuits of the tube, considerable energy was wasted in the potentiometer unit. This was particularly objectionable since the capacity of the battery commonly called upon for this work was very small—often of the flashlight battery size.

Connection.

The "A" battery potentiometer is connected directly across the "A" or filament lighting battery. This battery is usually six volts. If the resistance of the potentiometer unit is 300 ohms or more, the amount of current flowing through it is entirely negligible. It would require many weeks to completely discharge a storage battery through such a resistance.

But the effect of the potentiometer as connected in the accompanying circuit is all that can be desired.

It enables the addition to, or the subtraction from, the "B" battery of the "A" battery voltage.

For example, when the potentiometer slider is at the extreme right, the circuit from the plate through the telephones to the filament includes the full 22½-volt battery and the full six-volt battery. When the contact of the potentiometer is slid to the extreme left on the negative terminal of the "A" battery, the potential of the "A" battery is opposed to that of the "B" with a corresponding reduction of the total potential in the plate circuit.

Condenser.

The capacity, C, connected as shown, is essential for proper operation. Lacking it, there will be considerable resistance offered to the high-frequency currents which flow in the plate circuit. Its value need not be greater than .0005 MF, although a much larger condenser may be used.

There is Strength in Every Tablet of This Newer Form of Iron

One dose often helps commence to enrich your blood and revitalize your wornout exhausted nerves—it is a newer form of iron, like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach. It is so prepared that it will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. It is ready for almost immediate absorption and assimulation by the blood while some physicians claim metallic iron which people usually take is not absorbed at all. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of this newer form of iron—three times per day, after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

NOTE—The manufacturers of this newer form of iron known as Nuxated Iron are thoroughly reliable: since its introduction it has reached the stupendous sale of over 4,000,000 packages annually, and it has been used and highly recommended by former U.S. Senators, Members of Congress, Judges of U. S. Courts and many physicians. We are able to guarantee that if you do not obtain all and even greater results than you expect from Nuxated Iron the manufacturers will promptly refund your money.

SUNDRIDGE AND DISTRICT LOSES VALUED CITIZEN

Late Joseph Edgar Was a Brother of Ex-Ald. John Edgar, Peterborough.

The funeral of the late Joseph Edgar, brother of Ex-Ald. John Edgar, of Peterborough, was probably the largest in the history of Parry Sound district. Deceased died on Sunday, September 10, in Toronto General Hospital, following an operation, the Saturday previous. The cause of death was weakened heart action.

The obsequies was held from the family residence in Sundrige, Wednesday, September 13. A private service being conducted at 12.30, following which the public service being held in St. Paul's Church, conducted by His Lordship, the Bishop of Algoma, assisted by Canon Pearcy of Sturgeon Falls Reverend G. Oliver of St. John's, North Bay, and Reverend M. McKittrick, of Toronto A very large assemblage of the Masonic and Orange Orders, totaling 200 were in the procession, only a small portion of them were enabled to gain admission to the church. Seldom has a gathering of such a nature been privileged to hear such a grand yet very human message as those of Wednesday by the venerable and distinguished Archbishop Thornloe, who was a close friend of Mr. Edgar for many years. The procession to the graveside was very large. The last funeral rites of the Orange and Masonic Orders brought the service to a close.

The floral offerings which were magnificent, were silent evidence of the esteem which the deceased enjoyed. It was possible to use only a portion of the larger ones at the service.

The ranks of the L. O. L. were materially increased by brethern from South River and other lodges. Many Masonic brethren from Gravenhurst, Bracebridge, Huntsville, Emsdale, Parry Sound, Burks Falls, South River, Powassan and North Bay joined the ranks of Strong Lodge of Sundridge in the cortege.

In addition many friends from all parts of the district came by train and car to pay their last respects to the deceased.

Among the mourners from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. George Gilchrist, Mr. and Mrs. H. McTavish, Mrs Walter Belfrey, Mrs Carruthers, Mr. Edgar Carruthers, Dr. Gilchrist, all of Toronto; Mr. John Edgar, Peterboro; Reverend and Mrs. Turkington, of Whitby.

Those who were left to mourn are his widow, and four daughters, Miss Mary Edgar, Sundridge, Mrs. George Gilchrist, Toronto; Miss Annie Edgar, of Palanpur, Punjab, India, a medical missionary of the Canadian Anglican Missionary Societp; Mrs. H. J. McTavish, Toronto; one brother, John Edgar, Peterboro, and one sister Mrs. Martin, of Ireland.

Mr. Edgar, born in Ireland, June 7th, 1856, in County Down, came to Canada with a brother in 1872, locating in Toronto for some time, afterward settling at Lefroy where he went into business and later answered the call of the north and located in Sundridge in 1885 where he has resided ever since. As a business man he was recognized as one of the stalwarts of the District, honourable, conscientious and careful. Diligent attention won him such success that at some three years ago he retired from active service, forming the Edgar Company, Having a great love for the land of his birth, Mr. Edgar, accompanied by Mrs Edgar and daughter Mary took a trip around the world two years ago, making a prolonged visit in Ireland and also India where his daughter, Miss Annie Edgar, is a medical missionary.

The late Mr Edgar occupied a position unique in his home village, his community, and the District. Courteous, honourable, upright and painstaking he won for himself every honour that the district could offer. On many occasions he found honours thrust on him which he would have preferred to have placed on other shoulders. As a supporter of all good causes, morally and financially, he has been a tower of strength. Every early settler within a radius of many miles can testify to his generosity and true sense of justice. Since his advent in this country in the early 80's he has been a constant and true member of he Anglican Church, serving as warden and superintendant of the Sunday School for many, many years. As a member of the Masonic Order he rose to the office of District Deputy Grand Master and was also a member of Barrie Scottish Dite. A true son of Ulster—he was an enthusiastic and loyal advocate of the principles of Orangeism, and a member of Sundridge Lodge 1157, for many years. He was a past-master and also a past county master of Nipissing County Orange Lodge.

The great weight of Mr. Edgar's influence and assistance was never more strikingly instanced than in the anxious days of 1914—1918. Every branch of war activity—recruiting, Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., Patriotic Society, came in for his undivided help.

As President of the Children's Aid Society he was one of its best supporters in the District. After much pressure he answered the call of the political arena and served faithfully and well as Parry Sound's representative in the Legislature assembly during the Hearst regime 1914—919. But in his own village and adjacent territory will his loss be most keenly felt. He enjoyed the confidence and esteem in a measure probably greater than any man in this district and his loss to this village is the hardest blow it has yet been called on to suffer.

First Rector of Parish.

An interesting fact in connection with the laying of the corner stone of the new Jarvis street Collegiate Institute, Toronto, (which event is to take place on Friday, September 29th), is that amongst the array of distinguished names in connection with the early history of the school is included that of Rev. Samuel Armour, M.A., who resigned his position as principal to become the first rector of the parish of Millbrook and Cavan. For twenty years, from 1833 until his death in 1853, Rev. Mr. Armour, who was then in his sixty-eight year, faithfully looked after the spiritual interests of this parish. A few years ago a beautiful memorial window, illustrating "The Good Shepherd," was placed by his relatives in the Chancel of St. John's church, Ida. Just beneath this window the handsome light oak rere-dos was installed a few weeks ago by the sons of the late Venerable Archdeacon Allen, in loving memory of their father, who succeeded Mr. Armour as rector, holding the position for fifty-two years, his death occurring in 1905. Since that time his second son, Rev. Canon Allen, has had charge of the parish, which in the one hundred years of its history has had only the three rectors at its head.

SUGGESTS A PARK ON ARMOUR'S HILL

Also Suitable Site For the Erection of War Memorial

The Chamber of Commerce, at their annual meeting held this week, again brought up the question of the acquiring by the city of the Armour's Hill property as a suitable site for the erection of a War Memorial. The idea put forward by the movers of this project when the matter was first brought to the attention of the public was to make a park in this locality with driveways and walks, and plant a number of trees so that a proper background would be provided for the ornamental memorial already planned

A by-law to determine the feeling of the public was submitted for consideration a year ago last January, and the project was turned down, but the idea has again been broached by the local Chamber of Commerce, who feel that the public does not realize the extent to which the city would benefit by turning this piece of waste ground from a rather desolate-looking hill into a place where pleasant drives and walks would wind in and out among green trees, and the memorial to the boys who are gone might look down on the tumbling waters and the busy streets of the town where they lived out their early lives.

DRUG TRAFFICKERS DEVISE A NOVEL DELIVERY SYSTEM.

Scotland Yard, London, Conducting An Extensive Campaign to Wipe Out Trade.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Scotland Yard is conducting an intensive campaign against West End Drug Traffickers whose activities of late are said to have greatly increased. Some of the methods used in delivering drugs to the purchaser are described in a recent report.

"Fourth lamp-post on the right," a trafficker whispers in the ear of a cocaine victim. He passes down the street, and with the aid of chewing gum fixes a little white packet on the fourth lamp-post. The purchaser follows at a discreet distance and removes the packet.

Another trafficker drops rolled omnibus tickets on the pavement. He is followed by a string of clients who pick up the tickets, which of course contain cocaine.

Another throws an apparently empty match box into the gutter. A minute or so later a customer picks it up and extracts one or more packets of cocaine.

Another trafficker keeps the drug in the turned-up ends of his trousers. He advises his customers where he will walk, and as he goes along he stops as if to fasten his bootlace. In reality he is placing a packet of cocaine on a doorstep, whence a customer picks it up.

NEW YORK WON FROM PITTSBURG IN NINTH

McGraw Used Six Pitchers to Overcome Commanding Lead Piled Up By the Pirates in the Early Frames.

NATIONAL.

New York 8, Pittsburgh 7.

NEW YORK, September 23 (Canadian Press). — The New York Nationals again increased their lead to four and a half games, defeating Pittsburgh in the last game of the series yesterday by a score of 8 to 7. In scoring the victory, Manager McGraw used twenty players, six of them pitchers. The Giants won off Adams in the ninth inning, when with one out Frisch was hit by a pitched ball and Meusel walked. Both advanced on a wild pitch, and Frisch scored on Young's infield hit. Kelly followed with another single to right, scoring Meusel.

Pittsburgh apparently got off to a commanding lead when the Pirates scored five runs on J. Barnes and Hill in the fourth inning on five hits, a base on balls and two errors, but New York kept plugging away and knocked out Morrison in the fifth, scoring three runs. Bigbee led in the hitting, with four hits in five times to bat. Score:

HEUMAN IS STILL CATCHING AT 56.

When a hall of fame is established for baseball veterans Maurice Heuman of Jackson, Mich., will be entitled to a prominent place.

Aged 56, he still plays great ball.

Heuman is catcher for Jackson Council No. 57, United Commercial Travellers' team. He picks hot ones off the bat like a big leaguer. He can hit, too. Recently, out of five times at bat, he made one three-base hit, one two-bagger and three singles. In 1888 and 1889 he belonged to the Fremont club in the Ohio Central League.

Of their 10 games this season the travellin~ men have lost only one. Most of the opposing teams are semi-pros.

STAR IS FOUNDER OF ENTIRE SCHOOL OF TENNIS MARVELS

(By Roy Grove.)

Mental tennis is his game.

About 12 years ago a slim boy ran balls in the Davis Cup match between W. A. Larned and J. C. Parke at the Germantown Cricket Club in Philadelphia. A few years later that same body went to Wimbledon, England, and defeated the very same Parke while royalty looked on.

Today Bill Tilden holds his third successive championship.

He disposed of all the preliminary formalities, and then defeated William Johnston of California.

Tilden is all the more a great player for being a very generous one, as shown in his tutoring of the young marvel, Vincent Richards, who shares honors with Big Bill in defending the Davis Cup. Another of his proteges is little Sandy Weiner, who, Bill hopes, will be as great or greater than Richards himself.

By reason of this willingness to help others, Tilden may be said to have founded a school of tennis of his own, so that his game will live after him.

"Some people," he says, "atribute my success to my style of service. Others give the credit to my backhand. But the truth is, I haven't a stroke that isn't done better by other players.

"What I do is to co-ordinate all my strokes and select a particular style, and my judgment in the use of these strokes is what makes my game.

"I have studied tennis since I was 6 years old. For 20 years I plodded along as an ordinary player. Then my experience began to tell.

"I never try to figure out a game beforehand.

"Freak services are useless.

"Be accurate, and then put on speed."

A Probable Contender In the World Series

SCHANG

SCHANG, NEW YORK AMERICANS—Has done the bulk of the Yankees' catching during the present season. He did all the work in the 1921 series and ranked second in the Yankees batting with an average of .286.

Schang is a fine receiver and has a wonderful arm. His throws, however, lack the accuracy of Snyder or Severeid. When his aim is right no runner can steal with any degree of success on him.

Schang is a turn-around batter. He hits left-handed against right-handed pitching, and shifts to the right side of the plate against southpaws. He is having one of the best years of his career.

* * *

There is little to choose between Snyder, Schang and Severeid, three great catchers. A draw decision would be eminently fair.

SCHULTZ FAMED AS STAR SUB IN MAJOR LEAGUES

Started at Short But Played in Every Position But the Battery.

How many times have you heard a player say:

"If you won't play me regularly, send me to the minors."

They love to play the game, not occasionally, not as fill-ins, not as substitutes, but as regulars.

Yet there must be substitutes.

There are only seven regular positions, exclusive of pitcher and catcher, and there must be insurance for each of these positions—in other words, substitutes or reserve strength.

For this work the St. Louis Cardinals present Joe Schultz, and they contend that his equal has not been seen since Artie Hofman passed out as star of the handy-man class, with the Cubs in the championship days of Chance, Sheckard, Schultz, Tinker, Evers, Steinfeldt, Kling, Mordecai, Brown, Overall, Pfeister, Reulbach and others.

Hofman started his baseball career as a shortstopper and then he started to move. He shifted and switched until he had covered the seven regular positions. When he retired they said there'd never be another like him.

However, Branch Rickey, manager of the Cardinals, disputes this statement and advances the claim of Joe Schultz.

Schultz, like Hofman, started as a shortstop, with the Pittsburg Pirates, back in 1912, when he was only 18 years old. And, like Hofman, he has travelled and travelled, in league and pastures. He has covered territory which includes the Boston Braves, the Brooklyn Superbas, the Chicago Cubs, the Pirates again, Akron, Montreal, Rochester, Los Angeles, Toronto and Kansas City. He has played every position for the Cardinals except catch and pitch and he's hopeful of getting a whack at these two before he retires from the majors.

Schultz possesses what batting judges declare is the most perfect follow-through of any batter, Hornsby not excepted. He does it with the grace of a golfing star, not much vicious swing, but with the whole body in motion. In fielding he has a sure pair of hands for an infield grounder and a steel arm for a throw from the outfield.

He is the closest mark to Artie Hofman that the game has produced.

Schultz, though he has played for more than 10 years, is far from being a veteran. He was born in Pittsburgh on July 24, 1894, stands 6 feet, weighs 175 pounds, bats from the right side and throws right-handed.

Professional Hockey League in the West?

WINNIPEG, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Local hockey officials refuse to commit themselves as to the report of the formation of a new professional hockey league, comprised of Brandon, Regina, Moosejaw and Winnipeg. Harry Mead of Moosejaw, the organizer of the proposed loop, was in the city recently and it is known that he had several conferences with local promoters in an effort to line up a local team.

HIGH PRICED PITCHER.

Myrl Brown is the International League pitcher whom Reading, Pa., sold to Pittsburg for $20,000, the highest price ever paid for a player in that league. He won his first three starts for the Pittsburg club. Brown is an Albright College gradu-

SUGGEST CHANGES IN MINT LEAGUES

Halligan Would Substitute Montreal and Ottawa For Kitchener and Brantford.

Latest Mint League gossip is emanating from Hamilton these days. The Hamilton Spectator has issued a communique in which President Halligan of the Michigan-Ontario League is credited with fostering a plan to drop Kitchener and Brantford and replace them by Ottawa and Montreal.

The league directors have not been consulted yet, and it is not likely that Brantford will be dropped without some opposition.

"Tom Haligan, President of the Michigan-Ontario League, will open negotiations Thursday with Joe Paige, President of the Eastern Canada League, with the idea of having Montreal and Ottawa replace Kitchener and Brantford in the Michigan-Ontario circuit. Halligan feels that with the two cities mentioned in the circuit, one of the strongest minor leagues in professional baseball would result. He realizes that it would mean considerable extra expense in the matter of transportation, but then the gates would be much larger, and the teams could play three games in each city on each visit. Ottawa and Montreal have been striving for some time to get something better in the way of professional baseball than the present Eastern Canada League offers, and the circuit proposed by Mr. Halligan would fill their wants to a nicety. Of course, Brantford and Kitchener would have something to say regarding the matter, but it is thought that both franchises could be purchased at a reasonable sum, as the clubs have lost money each season since the M.-O. was formed.

"While Halligan has not discussed the matter with the league directors, he intends to get some facts and figures to place before them at the next meeting, and will consult Frank Shaughnessy as well as the directors of the Eastern Canada organization. 'Shag' will not likely be with Syracuse next year, and it is thought that he would be willing to take either the Montreal or Ottawa team. Shaughnessy is a smart manager, and the fans throughout the M.-O. circuit would be delighted to see him back in the league again in any capacity.

"President Halligan's idea of dropping Kitchener and Brantford from the M.-O. League, and taking in Montreal and Ottawa, appears to be a good one, providing the Eastern Canada League will agree to the proposition. The railway jump would be an extensive one, it is true, but the attendance in the two eastern cities would more than offset that and Sunday ball could be played in both places.

"Halligan, by the way, has received word from Mike Sexton, President of the National Association of Minor Leagues, sanctioning a series between the winners of the M.-O. and Grand Rapids, the Central League champions. The arrangements are left with President Halligan and with President Dickerson of Grand Rapids, head of the Central League. Dickerson has wired Halligan to say that he would like the series to get under way not later than Monday next, as the Central League season finished yesterday, and the players do not care to be idle too long. It is likely that a series of seven games will be played, with the first three in Grand Rapids and the next three here, a coin to be tossed to decide whether the seventh game, if one is necessary, will be played.

Says Bunko

I'd hate to get caught in the Sahara Desert without a mashie niblic. Wonder what the N.Y. Boxing Commish is going to do about Tilden's title?

Diamond Dust

The two New York teams are practically certainties in the pennant league races, and the Yanks are shaping up to take a fall out of the Giants in revenge for last year's defeat in the world's series.

* * *

The Yanks have but seven games to play. If they win three and lose four and the Browns win all of their six remaining games, the two teams will be tied for first. If the Yanks lose all their remaining games, which is hardly probable, the Browns can afford to lose three and still end in a tie. If the Yanks win four of the seven, they will have the pennant cinched.

* * *

The Giants have six more games scheduled and Pittsburgh eight. If the Pirates sweep the board and the Giants lose four, the two teams will be tied. If the Giants win three, they will hang the pennant beyond the reach of Pittsburgh for this season.

The Maple Leafs, city Midget champions, will meet the Lindsay champions in a sudden death game Tuesday afternoon at Riverside. The winners of this clash will play off with St. Andrews, Toronto city champions, for the O.B.A.A. Midget title.

* * *

The Maple Leafs, under the tutelage of Manager Curtis, have shown themselves a pretty snappy aggregation of youngsters, and the local fans look to them to uphold the honor of Peterborough in the Midget circles. Judging from past performances, they ought to be able to cop the title.

The second game between Keene and C.G.E. will be played at Riverside Park Monday afternoon.

YOUTHFUL CHAMP ON GOLF COURSE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 23.—Gene Sarazen or some other golf champion of the masculine persuasion may expect to face strong competition on the links within the next few years from a girl, and one not out of her teens, either.

So, at any rate, golf experts say, and their candidate is little Lucille De Long, a Springfield girl of 12, who has just set a public course record for women here.

Her score for the 18 holes was 89 and she made it as one of a foursome including, besides herself, three of the best public course and club players locally available.

GOLF NO LONGER OLD MAN'S GAME

Many Players in Recent Championship Meet Were 20 Years Old.

(By Billy Evans.)

The oldest of the four players who competed in the semi-finals was Chick Evans, who is 32. The other three, Rudy Knepper, Jesse Sweetser and Bobby Jones, are all around the 20 mark.

As I followed Evans and Knepper around in their match, the gallery afforded me as much interest as the players. It was a conglomeration of all classes and ages, proving that golf is becoming rapidly a game that appeals to the masses, rather than the elect.

Among those who followed the players in the semi-finals it is conservative to say that several hundred were boys and girls around the ages of 15 and 16.

Not so many years ago it would have been regarded as an incident decidedly out of the ordinary if some player who had not yet reached the voting age worked his way up to the finals. Now such a happening is the rule rather than the exception.

As I hiked over the course, in company with many of the game's leading experts, the consensus of opinion was that the champions of the future in most cases would be young men.

Once upon a time the impression prevailed that youth was of no particular advantage in golf. That theory has been dispelled in the last five years. Youth must be served in golf as in other sports, all things being equal.

The suppleness of the youth's muscles, plus the steadiness of his nerves, his fighting spirit and the stamina that nature has blessed him with, certainly give a decided edge to the young.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

PETERBOROUGH & DISTRICT F. A. RE PLENTY CUP.

Sports Editor:

Sir,—It is with some surprise I read in a recent issue of The Examiner that the executive body of the Peterborough & District Football Association had decided not to enter a Peterborough picked team in the Albert Plenty Cup competition.

The P. & D. F. A. executive also refused to enter the Ontario Cup competition, and Peterborough was fortunate to possess men of football ability connected with one of the city teams (C. G. E.) who took the responsibility out of the parent body's hands and did credit to themselves in the eyes of Ontario by defeating Brantford, and also playing a good game in St. Catherines.

The senior clubs in the city are all under good management, and I can honestly say the players are in good training and ready to play, and in justice to our loyal soccer players the P. & D. F. A. management have failed in their official capacity by not entering Peterborough in the above named competition.

Peterborough can hold their own against any teams in Ontario, with the possible exception of one or two clubs in Toronto and Hamilton, and with a little more coaching would extend these clubs.

Hoping this letter will stimulate the P. & D. F. A. before it is too late, and I voice the opinions of many soccer fans who are anxious to keep soccer in Peterborough as high as in any other Ontario city.

Sports help to advertise and make a city worth while to live in.

Yours truly,
FRED SUTCLIFFE.

ALL-CANADA CIRCUIT BEING TALKED ABOUT

Talk of an all-Canadian league is in the air. It comes each year with the first signs of fall. This time those who desire to get rid of the Michigan clubs and form up with Ottawa, Montreal, Scranton, Binghampton and other New York State clubs express the belief that Saginaw will pass out of the picture as the result of transferring the series games to Hamilton, Brantford and Kitchener, heavy losers, are doubtful starters, and it may turn out that the new-league advocates will finally have their way. However, that remains to be seen. The annual meeting of the M.-O. League in October will give a good indication of what is to come.

(By George O'Neil.)

The easiest and most resultful pivot will be accomplished if the player sweeps the club back and up almost entirely with his left arm, beginning the back stroke with a left wrist movement. Ignore the right hand going up. Take the left arm well up, so that the wrist is about level with your ear at the top of the stroke. Don't push it so high that the right arm is forced too far away from the body, though it shouldn't be held rigidly against the body. At the top "transfer" the club shaft control from the left hand to the right, then snap the clubhead down exactly as you would snap a whip to make it crack. At the point where the whip would crack is the point where your clubhead snaps the ball—in plain words, crack it as a whip would crack at the same point. Don't put any more conscious effort into it than you would put into the cracking of a whip; hold the body back by stiffening the left leg coming down; hold the head still—and take 225 yards straight down the course.

From the position at the ball, as illustrated by Francis Ouimet, the player must start the club back slowly, then let it increase in speed until it reaches the top of the stroke. There must be no jerk in this, and at the top the club must not be started downward with a jerk of power, though the player must come right back with the club, then increase its speed all the way down, holding the head still and stiffening the left leg as the club comes town and through. The open stance, diagrammed as Ouimet uses it, usually gives the longest and most satisfactory drive.

(Copyright John F. Dille Co.)

It is hard to say just how you should hold the body—that is a matter of personal comfort. I believe in enough stoop to allow for a fine snap of the clubhead through the ball, but the player should not stoop too much, nor reach too far out for the ball. There should be a natural reach for it, however, taking the arms out somewhat from the body, as you stand at th eball, but not too far or the clubhead will not go straight through. Play the ball off the left instep, and as you stand at the ball, ready for the swing, make your position such that your right shoulder is slightly lower than the left. That will give you the best leverage as the clubhead snaps down and through.

Some players who are short in stature imagine they can do better with shorter wood clubs, and have the handles cut off. This is a matter for personal opinion—and personal results. Bobby Jones, pictured herewith, is short, but he uses clubs of regulation length. My idea is that once you learn to swing the full-length driver properly you will get better distance because of the greater leverage on the ball. The diagram pictured shows the stance for an intentionally sliced drive.

LUCILLE dE LONG

To prove that it was no fluke Lucille played the Country Club course of nine holes—well known among golfers as a tough course, too—in 44, and recently she made a score of 43 at the Peoria Country Club.

The girl has been playing only two years, but she has had the advantage of the coaching of Jim Barnes, the noted golfer, who predicts that she will be in the world's championship class before many more years pass.

Though only a little mite of humanity, weighing 65 pounds, Lucille has the stamina to go through a gruelling match with any player who cares to try conclusions with her. She plays carefully, drives with perfect form and, on the green, putts like a veteran.

BIG CROWD TO SEE THE LEAFS

In Sudden Death Game Here Next Tuesday With Lindsay Midgets.

Maple Leafs will have a big crowd of supporters when they meet St. Mary's of Lindsay at Riverside Park next Tuesday afternoon. The game will start at 4.30 o'clock, enabling the pupils of the city schools to be on hand to cheer their team along in the race for the Ontario championship.

The Leafs right now are a smart ball team, due to their experience in the Public School Ball League and the Juvenile City League. Since winning the juvenile championship, the players have worked hard to improve their team play, and good results are apparent.

A win on Tuesday will send the Leafs into the finals for the Midget championship of Ontario.

RICH GOWNS SHOWN IN "HER GILDED CAGE."

Gloria Swanson Wears Alluring Costumes in Her New Paramount Picture at the Capitol—Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Gloria Swanson, Paramount star, whose beautiful gowns worn in her screen productions have made her the fashion model of the screen, is limited to stately, formal fashion creations in her latest Paramount picture, "Her Gilded Cage."

Miss Swanson first appears in this story as a poor French dancer, later is seen in the modestly colourful costumes of a cafe entertainer, and then blossoms forth, under the guidance of an American press agent, as "Fleur d'Amour," the dance sensation of the season.

It is asserted, by those who saw Gloria wearing the new dance costumes about the studio, that if she is fascinating and charming in the ballroom gown, evening gown, and afternoon frock, those adjectives fail to describe her in the new theatrical costumes in which she is beautiful and alluring.

These creations are gorgeously bizarre and theatrical. One in particular is an exquisite combination of pink silk tights, silver cloth and pearl beads, set off by a head dress of clusters of many coloured birds of Paradise feathers. A stuffed bird of Paradise with long, graceful plumage, adorns her wrist, and adds a novel effect to the terpsichore performance. This costume is symbolical of the bird of Paradise.

AT THE GRAND.

The popularity of little Jimmie Evans and his Musical Revue Company is indeed an acknowledged fact with the patrons of the Grand and last night a capacity house greeted "Jerry and Ike" in "School Days," which proved to be fully up to the high standard of revues presented by this splendid company since opening in Peterborough three weeks ago. The skit of School Days, with Jimmie Evans and Joe Devine as Jerry and Ike is chuck full of laugh producing incidents interspersed with song numbers and dances, and novelties that kept the audience in an uproar of laughter from rise to fall of curtain. The chorus work being snappy in all the numbers ,and the costumes were all new, clean and bright. Mr. Burt Ryan, as usual putting over two splendid numbers in "Wana" and "I Wonder If You Still Care For Me." Miss Fraser and Miss Pippin doing "The Little Red School House" song number in clever style.

Jimmie Evans got away from the comedy part of "Jerry" in his specialty alone in versatile manner, in his impersonation of George Beban's Italian number, a recitation which called for sympathetic feeling and action ,and Mr. Evans excelled himself indeed.

The entire entertainment is full worthy of the splendid houses the comapny is drawing ,and next week will start the fourth week, when on the first three nights something entirely new to the revue stage will be offered in the musical comedy melange entitled "Behind the Foot Lights."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

HEAR! HEAR!

Stewart Street,
Peterborough, 21st Sept., 1922.
Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—I heartily second the statements made in this evening's edition by "Walk Around Martin" re the corner boys and girls—and men and women—at George and Charlotte Streets.

For a place that calls itself a city, Peterborough surely is behind the times. There are more policemen now than in the days before Prohibition did away with crime, and yet they do not make it any easier for the people to peacefully conduct their business. Very often a policeman stands, lost looking, at the corner, watching the loiterers blocking the path. A little help along the line of moving on the offenders would help to remove the memory of the hot-air about the do-nut man's crowd, which still amuses us.—Yours truly,

Jas. Roger.

New System of Fat Reduction

Here's a new way for all fat people to laugh together at that old bugaboo—Obesity. The saying that there is nothing new under the sun does not now apply to fat people any more. Here is something new for them—a new sensation, a new pleasure, a new and graceful figure, easily found by anyone who is passing beyond the limits of slimness. Everyone has heard of the Marmola Prescription; that harmless combination of fat-defying elements perfected by one of the foremost physicians. Now from the same high authority there comes another idea — the idea of condensing these same pure, harmless, ingredients into a pleasant little tablet. Taken after eating and at bedtime they help the stomach to dispose of all fatty foods, converting them into compact, solid flesh, muscle and energy, without dieting or exercise. Marmola Prescription Tablets regulate the entire system—do for you what bodily exertion and self denial can not do, and the fat, once routed, is gone for good. You can prove all this at a trifling cost. Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists or sent postpaid by the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich. A case—sufficient to bring results—is but one dollar.

BY STUART P. WEST.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23. — (Special)—With a clearer understanding of just what had happened at the Dardanelles, both security and commodity markets today took a brighter view of the Turkish situation.

Stocks as a rule went higher and Foreign Government bonds were steady... Wheat options broke sharply while cotton advanced.

"Rose Brand"

The Canadian Packing Co., Ltd., comes to the fore again with an outdoor bill-board advertising sign, the artistic merit of which lies in a faithful replica of the good advertised. This distinctively striking specimen of the sign-painting art, situated at the southwest corner of George and Charlotte streets, arrests the steps and holds the eye of lovers of all-pork sausages, especially the C.P.C.'s famed Rose Brand, which it is advertising. There is nothing garish or bizarre in its outstanding centre-piece lying obliquely across a dead black background, and picturizing an open yellow box of Rose Brand Sausages in absolutely natural coloring, but the presentation is startlingly as near the real thing as brush and paint can effect. All lettering is in bold gothic, the slogan, "Health Protection," and the purity assurance, "Guaranteed by Government Inspection," being in white "Rose Brand" and "Pork Sausages" in deep yellow and "Rose Brand Pork Sausages" in bright red, running along the side of their cardboard container. The company's C.P.C. rest, together with a crown-embellished "Canada Approved" seal, also show up faithfully in white. And to dominating an altogether exclusive sign there rises from the box of sausages portrayed, in majestic floral pride, the red rose of old England, emblematic of sterling value and unexcelled purity, the trade mark of Rose Brand sausages.

Incidentally, it is worthy of notice that Rose Brand pork sausages are manufactured under the scrutinizing eyes of Government inspectors, who guarantee their purity of production under conditions that leave nothing wanting in sanitary operation and surroundings.

The foreign exchanges, while not varying much, showed some improvement... The entire movement of the day was an exact reversal of the tendency exhibited last Monday and again on Friday when there was a suggestion of a war scare.

Trading in stocks and bonds, by comparison with other days also was quiet... This was due, to a large extent to the Jewish holiday

There was some further covering in stocks like Studebaker and Baldwin Locomotive in which the short interest had increased as the result of the weeks operations. Standard oil of N.J. made a new high. Unusual activities on the buying side developed in St. Joseph lead evently as the result of recent advance in the price of the company's product.

A sudden upturn in United States rubber preferred carried with it the suggestion that speculators who had gone short of the stock counting upon the passing of the dividend, were finding themselves in a very uncomfortable position... Railway shares did little either way.

CONCENTRATION OF TURK TROOPS OBSERVED TODAY

(Bryant Bros. Bulletin to Nelson & Martyn).

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 23.—Heavy Turkish troop concentrations were observed today around Ismid with artillery range of British outposts. Mustapha Pasha is in personal command of forces on this front which is in striking distance of Constaninople. Turkish cavalry patrols are active in the Chanak front scouting and reconnoitring parties moving toward the Dardanelles along military roads which were built as part of communication system of old fortifications of the straits.

WHEAT SOLD LOWER.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.— Wheat opened lower declining 2 1-2 to 3 1-1. More favorable news from abroad, a decline of 1 1-8 at Liverpool and break of 3 cents at Winnipeg. Liquidation ran into stop loss orders and with short demand limited market went off rather easily. Profit taking for over week end caused rally of half cent from lows.

Corn sold off about one cent but recovered some of loss. Oats off 3-8 to 1-2.

A plan of reorganization may be announced within the next few weeks which would provide new funds and place the company back on its old time prosperous condition. People who should know say the shares are a purchase.

MARKET BRIGHTER

NEW YORK, Sept. 23—Sterling was given a slightly firmer tone at the opening by intimations that an attack on British troops by Turkish forces would probably cause a complete change in French point of view regarding situation in Near East.

Stocks in turn borrowed strength from more optimistic outlook abroad Fractional gains were also scored by industrials leaders while rails were somewhat higher.

MARKET IS REGARDED AS STILL CONSTRUCTIVE

So far nothing serious has happened, but the air is full of threats and reports of movements of for... coupled with talk of ultimatums and the usual near-diplomatic gossip which always attaches itself to a strained situation of the present kind, says the Montreal Star. The Street would not be surprised over further alarms before some definite course of action is arranged, but opinion leans strongly to the pacific settlement of the difficulty.

It was stated that recent buying has been of a good character such as any substantial lowering of prices is likely to attract from influential sources so that the technical position of the market may be regarded as considerably improved from what it was at the peak of the recent upward movement.

This is the history of all bull markets. Prices go up for a time but there always develops something to bring about reactions when the situation is such that the advance falls to invite fresh buying for the bull account.

So far as the future of the market is concerned, the Street regards it as still constructive. The improvement in business which the stock market has for months been discounting is now getting well under way and if further progress is made along those lines the feeling is that there is no reason to doubt that when overseas political conditions settle down to a less embarrassing tone the market can be depended upon to resume its previous attitude.

A number of the large industries of the country are enjoying the best times they have had since the war time boon a few years ago. Although there are complaints about the prices of some agricultural products, particularly wheat, the country has never had more uniformly excellent crop results and all communities shared alike.

The Canadian dollar has returned to parity and financial leaders point with considerable pride to the exceptional position now occupied by Canada when other participants in great war are taken into consideration.

There is a very hopeful tone in high circles, and it is believed that constructive developments are at hand which will have a tendency to give a still better outlook. The mining boom in Northern Ontario is helping a good deal to bring in fresh capital and make a bigger market for Canadian products. Taking it on the whole the future looks bright.

IN THRACE, GREEK ARMY WILL REMAIN

Not Looking For Trouble, But Greece Intends Building Up Her Forces There, Declares Leaders

PEOPLE'S WATCHWORD

ATHENS, Greece, Sept. 25—(Canadian Press).—The announcement of the Allies' concessions to the Turkish Nationalists has had the effect of a frigid and undesired shower both on the Grecian people.

Greece is not looking for trouble, said an official to-day, but she intends to go right ahead with the task of building up her army in Thrace. In Thrace Greece is, and in Thrace Greece will remain, is the watchword of the Greek people.

ENTHUSIASM LACKING.

LONDON, Sept. 25. — (Canadian Press).—Enthusiasm for Paris-Near East settlement is lacking in press comment this morning, the tenor of most of the editorials being that it was the only way to avoid war and maintain agreement among the Allies, and therefore had to be adopted. In some instances the preservation of Allied unity is held to be the most important aspect of the settlement, and the question of concessions to the Turks is not emphasized. The Daily Chronicle, however, holds that the concessions are excessive, and says that "never has a victorious Power shown more generosity for the sake of peace."

Most of the commentators score the Government and especially Lloyd George for mishandling the whole situation, with the result that Britain has "suffered a severe diplomatic set-back after talking very big indeed."

The preservation of the entente, says one critic, has been bought at a very heavy price, and the Government, after committing one of the most exasperating blunders in history, has had to yield in humble compliance to French dictation.

ALL TERMS NOT ACCEPTABLE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Hamid Bey, representative of the Angora Government in Constantinople, declared to-day that the Allied invitation to a peace conference could not be accepted by the Turkish Nationalists on the terms laid down. The terms, he said, proposed to demilitarize the Sea of Marmora and part of Thrace, which would prevent the Turks from bringing out troops from Asia to Europe. Neither could they accept literally the condition that their army shall not advance while the peace conference is progressing.

TO CONFER TO-DAY.

FOUND BODY OF DANIEL SINCLAIR

Discovered at Mouth of Scugog River, Sunday

LINDSAY, September 25. — After a week's search the body of Daniel Sinclair, proprietor of Sinclair's carriage works, was found on Sunday morning near the mouth of the Scugog River, and a half mile from where the launch was found on Monday morning last.

The body was found about ten inches below water and it would have been floating to-day if the search had been unsuccessful.

Twenty five launches and two steamboats were used in the search on Sunday.

The funeral took place at 1.30 o'clock to-day under Oddfellows' auspices. Deceased was 45 years of age.

DIVORCE FREES HER FROM HIS SERMONS

Wife Doesn't Have to Be Her Husband's Audience Now.

DETROIT, Sept. 25. — Mrs. Mercy Marvin was granted a decree of divorce from Bury Marvin, a farmer and preacher, of Sumpter Township ,by Judge Henry A. Mandell in circuit court, on the grounds of extreme cruelty and neglect.

Mrs. Marvin testified Thursday, when the trial started, that her husband demonstrated his oratorical ability by preaching long sermons with her only for an audience. She also said that he was an inveterate hunter but during his hunting had only bagged three crows and four skunks.

In answer to these accusations, Mr. Mervin, who is not an ordained minister, but preaches at camp meetings and religious revivals, said that the only sermons he had ever delivered to his wife were those he had preached to her in an effort to keep her out of the divorce court. He denied that he was an inveterate hunter.

"I had to go somewhere," he said. "If I had stayed at home with her and her nagging I would have said things what would have made me lose my religion."

BETTER CHANCE FOR MOTHERS AND CHILDREN

Mrs. Kendry Tells the Rotary Club of the Work Done by Baby Clinic.

TODAY'S LUNCHEON

An eloquent plea for increased interest in maternity and child welfare work, with especial reference to the services being rendered by the Peterborough Well Babies' Clinic, was made at to-day's luncheon of the Rotary Club by Mrs. Jas. Kendrey, whose remarks were followed with the closest interest by the large attendance of members present.

President John Crane was in the chair ,and among the guests were Rotarian Billy Doyle, of Belleville, and Mr. Vincent Coffin, of Albany, N.Y.

Mrs. Kendrey opened her address by emphasizing the fact that the providing of education for the expectant mother and the furnishing of each child with a fair chance to live and be healthy, was a vital necessity. She sketched the progress that had been made in this direction in many countries and referred to the surprise occasioned at the Pan-American conference by the reports of the women delegates from the countries of South America which illustrated that more advanced legislation had been passed there than in the United States and Canada. Mrs. Kendrey illustrated the need of greater attention to the education of mothers by pointing out that statistics showed that as many women died in child birth during the eighteen months the United States was at war, as there were American soldiers killed in battle.

In referring to the work done by the Well Babies' Clinic, Mrs. Kendrey paid an eloquent tribute to the medical profession of Peterborough, especially to those doctors who had placed their services at the disposal of the clinic and who had been most faithful and diligent. They were always on hand and their work had been of the greatest value. A clinic was held every week and care was taken not to perscribe for the children but to send them to their family doctor ,and in this way there had not been the slightest friction.

The time was coming, the speaker hoped, when governments would spend as much money on and pay as much attention to the care of children as of live stock. Advantage could then be taken of such agencies as public nurses, whose work at the present time was at loose ends.

Mrs. Kendrey received the hearty thanks of the Rotarians for her splendid address.

BLAMES CHURCHILL FOR WAR MANIFESTO

LONDON, Sept. 25. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—Nation high-brow democratic Weekly Review says that in a "flaming manifesto" calling upon Dominions for assistance in the Near East while the hand was that of Lloyd George, the voice was Winston Churchill's. Apparently there are not enough graves in Gallipoli, it adds.

The Spectator, a Unionist weekly, while admiring instant response of the Dominions to the manifesto, says that what is required before making new sacrifices is to know why and wherefore of the call.

Saturday Review describes the manifesto as unprecedented and points out that the Dominions were not appealed to in 1914.

THE RAILWAYS CONTINUE THE UPWARD TREND

DEFICIT REDUCED

OTTAWA, Sept. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Operations of the Canadian National Railways for the first six months of the present year, compared with the corresponding period of last year, show considerable improvement. There is still a deficit of operation, but it has been almost cut in half in comparison with the operation deficit for the period, January to the end of June, 1922. In the six months of 1921, the operating deficit was $16,169,450, this year it is $8,938,998, a reduction in the operating deficit of $7,230,452. In the six months of last year, the Canadian National Railways spent $1.28 for every dollar earned in revenue; this year they have expended $1.17. The operating deficit does not, of course, include fixed charges, nor do the above figures include the Grand Trunk, which has an operating surplus for the six months of 1922 of $4,200,946, a considerable improvement over an operating surplus of $1,326,734, the figuré for the corresponding period of last year. This year, the Grand Trunk has expended 87 cents for every dollar earned; last year, it expended 96 cents.

TOO HOT FOR JAIL SAYS HE'LL BEHAVE

Indian Squatter Promises to Vacate Land

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 25.—It's too hot to go to jail Hiram Chase, Indian lawyer on the Omaha Reservation at Walthill, decided when put to the test.

Haled before Federal Judge Woodrough for contempt of court in ignoring a mandate of the Circuit Court of Appeals to vacate a parcel of land on which he is now living, the veteran Indian lawyer thumped his fist on the judge's desk and cried out:

"I'll never get off that land; it belongs to me!"

Judge Woodrough offered to suspend sentence for a week to allow Chase time to get off, but Chase again averred his intention to stand pat.

"If you're going to send me to jail, do it now," said he.

So the Judge sentenced him to 10 days in the county jail and ordered a deputy marshal to take him in custody at once.

But a few minutes' reflection, with perspiration pouring down his face, induced Chase to change his mind.

"If the Judge will vacate his order I'll vacate the land temporarily until we can have a jury trial and decide who is entitled to the land," was the overture he made to George Kayser, assistant United States attorney.

The party filed back into the Judge's chambers and the Judge agreed to suspend the sentence.

Mrs. Hiram Chase, also a party in the contempt charge, sat in the corridor while he was on trial.

"I'll never get off the land," she too reiterated. Rose Woll Setter is the other party claiming it.

Chase is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati. He practiced law 40 years.

HEN IS HITTING ON ALL SIX CYLINDERS

Mr. Frederick G. Carpenter, of Rural Route Number Seven, is the proud possessor of a member of the feathered family that has, considering its age, broken all records in the way of an egg-producer. This is a Rhode Island Red hen that was hatched out in April, and that has, just lately, in an excess of energy, produced twenty-five eggs within the space of twenty-eight days. Just what has caused such an ebullition of force, whether it is a certain brand of feed or merely a desire to show off to her associates, the owner of this little biddy is unable to ascertain.

Endorses the Immigration Policy Created by Canadian Government

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(Canadian Press.) — The Times to-day comments favorably upon the announced immigration policy of the Canadian Government, but expresses opinion that carrying it out will involve some difficulty. It is devised, says the paper, to meet same problem as has long vexed the United States, the tendency of incoming settlers to drift to cities and swell the numbers of what prosperity calls "unskilled labor" and hard times "the unemployed."

"With both governmental and private agencies co-operating for the first time toward the same end ,the plan appears to have a good chance of success, but, after all, the selecting of the right type, and even the chaperoning of that type to the destination best suited to its needs, is only half the battle. The harder problem still remains to cause Premier King and his ministers to work overtime, and that is the problem of keeping the settler on the twenty million available but lonely acres once they have got him there."

WAY IS STILL OPEN FOR PETERBORO TO DEVELOP ITS POWER

City Not Tied Up to Central Ontario Power System, and Free to Act Independently of Hydro-Electric, and Effect a Big Saving

SIR ADAM BECK FAILS TO ANSWER CHARGES

About two weeks ago I made the charge "that in the 14th annual report of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, Sir Adam Beck has attempted to prostitute and use this city's agreement that was made in 1913, for the benefit of the Ontario Government and not for the benefit of this city, nor for the purposes that the electors of this city intended. And that he has attempted to use this agreement to fasten upon this city a liability of 924,86.02 as our present share of the capital cost of the Hydro system in Central Ontario, without giving any information to the City Council showing how this enormous amount has been arrived at."

Sir Adam Beck has failed to answer that charge, for the very good reason that he knows it is true. Here is a new and important link in the chain that proves my charge, and it reads as follows.

Copy of an Order-in-Council, approved by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, dated the 5th day of May, A.D. 1916.

Upon the recommendation of the Honourable the Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines the Committee of Council advise that under the authority of and pursuant to the Central Ontario Power Act, Chapter 18, 6 George V., until further or other order, amending or varying this Order, the control, administration, and management of all undertakings, properties, rights, contracts, privileges, franchises, and businesses vested in the Crown under and by virtue of the said Act be granted to and vested in the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario.

The Committee further advise that the said businesses may be continued and carried on by the said Commission in their own name, or in the name of His Majesty, or in the name of any or all of the Companies whose businesses have been acquired by the Crown under the provisions of the said Act.

And the Committee further advise that the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, for the purposes of the management ,control, and administration of any and all of the said businesses, be granted all the rights, powers, and privileges of control, administration, and management thereof, which the Company, whose undertakings, property, rights, contracts, licenses, privileges, franchises, and businesses is or are vested in the Crown, had at the time of such vesting.

And the Committee further advise that in the conduct of the administration and management of the property by this Order committed to their management, the Commission do carry on the same as a separate department or branch of the business of the said Commission.

And the Committee further advise that the Comptroller of the Commission, and the auditor or auditors appointed under the provisions of Chapter 19, 6 George V., shall in respect of the account and cheques of the Commission kept or issued in reference to the property by this Order dealt with, have and perform the same duties and obligations as are imposed upon them or either of them under the said Act in reference to the other accounts and cheques of the said Commission;

Certified.

(Sgd.) C. F. BULMER,
Clerk, Executive Council.

It will be observed from this Order-in-Council that the Hydro-Electric Power Commission has simply been appointed manager of the Central Ontario power system for the benefit of the Ontario Government "until further or other order amending or varying this order." That means that the Ontario Government could at their own sweet will and pleasure dismiss their present manager and appoint any company or individual as manager in its place.

What right would any such new manager have to state that this city is liable to the Hydro Commission under its 1913 agreement? Such new manager would have no such right, and neither has the present manager, the Hydro Commission, nor has the Ontario Government the right, either in law or equity, to claim the benefit of the 1913 agreement. It is a dead letter, and a dead letter it should remain in the interest of this city.

This city is not tied up to the Central Ontario power system, and is free to develop power on its own account when it secures the necessary borrowing powers.

This city is no more bound up to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission than any of the cities and towns on the lake front.

The way is still open for this city to develop its own electric power at Dams 4 and 5 and Burleigh Falls, at half the capital cost now sought to be imposed, and obtain power at less than half the cost that the Hydro Commission is now charging.

The representatives of the town of Oshawa who attended the recent meeting at Port Hope, are to be commended for their prudence and common sense in not rushing into a partnership with sixty-four other municipalities without knowing the extent of the liabilities they were contracting nor the real benefits that their municipality would enjoy.

I regret that the same cannot be said for this city's representatives at that meeting. Our position is bad enough as it is, and our cost of power is great enough as it is. Why should this city enter into a partnership with a lot of villages and hamlets that will be an increasing load on our power and light users It may be that it will take an old-fashioned meeting of indignant ratepayers to awaken our city's representatives from the hypnotic slumber into which they have sunk under the spells of Sir Adam Beck.

SEA LION WHISKERS! GOT ANY IN ATTIC?

Long Ones Needed and Collector Is Stumped.

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Sept. 25. — Ed. H. Davis, proprietor of a mountain lodge of San Diego County and an authority on Indian affairs, has received from the museum of American Indians at Washington, D.C., a request which he admits "stumps" him. It is to furnish the museum with 100 sea lion whiskers—long ones if possible, the letter says. He has appealed to local authorities on marine mammals for aid.

"I don't like to fall down on my assignment," said Davis, "but so far no one has suggested a practical method of shaving a sea lion."

The sea lion whiskers are wanted to decorate hideous masks worn in ceremonial dances by Indians of the north-west.

THREE CARS OF HARD COAL OFFERED CITY

HARDWOOD COMING

That the City Council's Coal Commission have not a pound of hard coal in sight was revealed at a meeting of that body Saturday evening.

Fifty-seven cords of hardwood have been ordered, and Mayor Taylor said this morning, he expected this fuel to reach here within a week or two.

At Saturday's meeting Ald. Holloway, chairman of the Commission, submitted an offer to the city of three cars of hard coal for early delivery at $13.25 at the mines. The price means $16.95 a ton, on the tracks in Peterborough, to which there would have to be added the cost of handling and delivery to consumers, plus whatever there might be on currency exchange.

Ald. Phelan and His Worship moved that the city procure these three cars of coal and hold them for an emergency, but the motion failed to carry, Alderman Holloway and Turner voting in the negative.

This was the only business transacted.

SPLENDID SERVICES AT GEORGE STREET

Rally Sunday was observed in George Street Methodist Church yesterday, with special music and inspiring addresses by Prof. W. H. Greaves, of Toronto. At the evening service Prof. Greaves gave an interesting exposition on practical Christianity and its application to every-day life. His text was taken from St. Luke iv., 18. The speaker characterized the ten commandments as one of the greatest contributions to Christianity.

BISHOP M. J. O'BRIEN HONORED AT SERVICE THE LOCAL CHURCHES

His Lordship Celebrated the 25th Anniversary of His Ordination to the Priesthood--Address and Presentation at the Evening Service.

OFFICIALS PRESENT

The celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the ordination of His Lordship, Rt. Rev. M. J. O'Brien Bishop of Peterborough, to the priesthood, commenced yesterday with fitting ceremonies that were attended by large congregations of people. The occasion, which marks also the ninth anniversary of His Lordship's consecration to the episcopate, opened with early masses in the morning which were attended by a packed church in response to the request made by the Bishop some time ago that the majority of his people attend Holy Communion on this day. The Cathedral has been beautifully decorated with the pontificial colors of white and gold, large streamers extending from the windows to the choir gallery, with numerous Papal flags, flowers and colored lights making the high altar a thing of beauty and light. The exterior of the church also is draped with flags and hunting while rows of electric lights and gaily-colored pennants surround the church and the Bishop's residence.

At half-past ten o'clock yesterday morning, pontifical High Mass was celebrated by His Lordship, in full pontifical vestments, with Rev. P. Butler and Rev. Mr. Flynn acting as deacon and sub-deacon; Rt. Rev. Mons. McColl as High Priest; and Rev. J. J. O'Brien and Rev. Michael O'Brien as deacons of honor. Rev C. C. Cantillon acted as Master of Ceremonies. The choir, under the able direction of Mr. J. J. Ball, gave a beautiful rendition of Loesch's Mass in honor of St. Michael.

The Sermon

Rt. Rev. Monsignor McColl, Vicar General of the Diocese, gave a powerful exposition of the powers, the dignities and the responsibilities of the priesthood. In the Old Law, priests and prophets were regarded as the sentinels on the watch towers Then Christ came to fulfill the law of God, and to institute the priesthood, with its three-fold duties of offering up sacrifice, of forgiving sin, and of teaching the people. A Bishop had added duties; to appoint ministers to carry on Christ's work, to confirm his people in the faith, to be the custodian of the morals of his diocese and the official teacher of God's laws, in a wider jurisdiction. His was an immense responsibility.

Referring to the Jubilarian, Monsignor McColl alluded to his zeal and ability in carrying out the work entrusted to him, to his efficiency and energy, and to the charity and mercy with which he carried out the duties of his high office.

Read an Address

An address from the people of the Diocese of Peterborough, read by Sylvester S. Shaughnessy, accompanied by the delegates from the different parishes in the diocese, was read at the conclusion of Mass, and responded to in feeling terms by His Lordship, who referred to the circumstances surrounding his life in Peterboro. His parents were married in St. Peter's Cathedral, and he himself was baptized, confirmed, ordained nd consecrated within its walls. The Bishop made a touching reference to the influence exercised by his good parents on his vocation, and spoke with commendation of the support afforded him in his work by "a loyal, God-fearing, zealous clergy," and the wonderful co-operation afforded by the Sisters of St. Joseph. He was glad to live in a community that dwelt at peace with one another, regardless of religious affiliations, and expressed his kindly feelings towards those of other creeds who had grown up with him in this city.

Evening Services

In the evening, at 7 o'clock, pontifical vespers were celebrated by His

CO-EDS WEAR 'EM BOBBED AND LONG

First Dance Sets Style for U. of M. Social Season

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 25.— Irene Castle was wrong when she announced to Detroit that bobbed hair and long dresses would never become stylish. That is what the sonority girls of the University of Michigan proved when they set the style of girls' dress for the year at the informal opening party of the college social season at the Michigan Union.

Bobbed hair, set off by large earrings and long dresses, was the order of the ballroom, and those who dressed in that fashion were the ones who dictate college girl styles in the Middle West.

The affair was a riot of color and a clash of the old and new in women's formal gowns. The college flappers who wore the shortest skirts when college closed in June appeared with the longest dresses, and those who still wore long dresses before vacation returned with short ones.

Watching the hundreds dance was Miss Jean Hamilton, new dean of women, who made her first formal appearance in college social life. She was the busiest woman at the party, greeting and meeting students.

ROLL ON BOYS COAL IS HERE

Ford Workers Return to Their Jobs With Ditty on Lips—Wives of Men Are Elated.

OPEN FULL BLAST

Roll on, boys, roll on, roll,
The old joint's opened,
For Henry has the coal.

DETROIT, Sept. 25.— With this song on their lips, the first shift of the 48,500 employes of the Highland Park plant of the Ford Motor Co., happy in the realization that the threatened winter of hardship is not at hand, picked up their tools Friday midnight after a four-day layoff.

Promptly at 12 o'clock lights blazed all over the factory. The silence was broken by the roar of machinery. The huge gates closed with a bang and the watchmen took their posts. The plant had reopened officially.

"Joy is Unconfined."

In marked contrast to the hollow gaiety that characterized the demeanor of the employe sat the time of the shutdown, was their conduct Friday night. Shouts and snatches of song came from the crowds as they started through the gates at 10:30 p.m., when the first departments opened. Some of the men brought their wives to assure them that the back-to-work order was neither a dream nor a myth.

They passed through the gates in dribbles until midnight.

Roll on, boys, roll on, roll,
The old plant's opened,
For Henry has the coal.

This tune, started by a leather-lunged workman, who towered half a head above his fellows, was passed on from group to group until it became a sort of marching song. The Americans shouted it lustily. Some of the foreigners, unable to get the pronunciation, chimed in as best they could.

Wives Are Happy.

Worker and foreman shook hands and slapped each other on the back. Their wives and children, who bore buckets of lunch to the gates, waived at the men as they disappeared through the doors of the plant, then trudged away to catch up on sleep, but happy nevertheless.

Jokes and greetings flew thick and fast as the watchmen began taking up the special pass cards given out at the time of the closing.

"Glad to see you, Al. How'd you like your rest?"

"No vaaction for me, Jake. Had to help the missus clean house."

"There's Charley over there with that two-gallon lunch pail.

"What'cha got in it, Charley, a whole summer sausage?"

"I knew we'd be back in time to talk about the world's series."

These were a few of them.

Curb Merchants Thrive.

In the meantime the open air stands along Manchester avenue did a thriving business, for Saturday some of the more pessimistic, believing that an all winter layoff was in sight, had sold or discarded their gloves and overalls. Amid the hustle and the confusion came the announcementss of the "merchants."

Many of the more skeptical of the workers appeared three and four hours early ,and sat along the curb, waiting the first opportunity to slip through the gates. Word had passed that only half of the employes were to be taken back, and the "early birds" were going to make sure of their employment.

THE WEATHER

The temperature was down to 33 degrees this morning by the official instruments. There was also a heavy white frost. Probably the freezing point was reached, or even indications of ice might have been seen in lower lying sections. Frost is usual about this date. Some of the finest weather of the whole year comes in October, with the variegated tints of the leaves of the trees. A sharp frost, however, is needed to give the genuine autumnal touch to the maples and other trees.—W. P.

Edsel B. Ford telegraphed orders to Ford Motor Co. officials from Cincinnati to open the Ford plants on Friday, after he had determined that sufficient coal supplies were moving north to warrant continued operation.

Between 40,000 and 45,000 of the 48,500 men employed at the Highland Park plant have returned to work. Many of the other employes stayed away Saturday because of the Jewish holidays and are expected back soon.

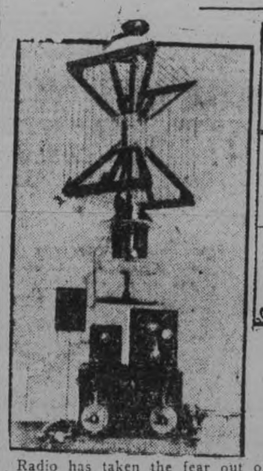
MARINERS FEAR OF FOGS ELIMINATED BY RADIO



THE RADIO COMPASS AND MAP SHOWING HOW RADIO SIGNALS DETERMINE A SHIP'S POSITION.

Radio has taken the fear out of fogs at sea.

Before the days of wireless, ships approaching the coast in a heavy fog had to slow down practically to a standstill to avoid disaster. Then, with wireless apparatus installed, operators used the ether freely trying to ascertain their ships' bearings from other vessels and coast wireless stations.

Now, all danger and trouble are avoided by an aut matic method of signalling instituted along both coasts by the United States Lighthouse Service. These signals come from established radio compass stations, whose positions are known to all navigators. Other countries have established similar stations along their coasts.

Direction.

To receive these signals the United States Bureau of Standards has perfected a special radio compass for use on vessels in connection with the transmitting sets at the radio compass stations. This compass has a loop aerial to catch the signals from the ether. The strength of the signals varies with the position of the loop. When the loop is in direct line with the compass station the signals come in strongest. They are weakest when the loop is at right angles to the line of direction between compass station and ship.

Thus a ship's captain can tell his position in relation to the known compass station and from this can learn the course of his vessel by comparison with the needle of the magnetic compass.

Distance.

But he must also know his distance from the compass station, so that he may head his ship toward his destination without fear of running into an obstruction. To ascertain this, the operator turns his radio compass until he hears the signals from another station. When these signals are strongest he knows his direction from the second station.

With the knowledge of these two directions it is an easy matter for the navigator to draw corresponding directional lines on his chart from the points where the stations are located. The point of intersection of these lines indicates the position of the vessel.

To identify the compass stations a system of individual signals has been devised. Ambrose Channel station, near New York, for instance, sends one dash in rapid succession for 20 seconds, and is silent 20 seconds. Sea Girt has a group of three dashes for 60 seconds, silent six minutes. And so on.

TO-DAY'S BLUNDER CORRECTED

A good business man finds time to meet and listen to salesmen. The man who drives salesmen from his office by brutal discourtesies, denies himself many opportunities to buy profitably and economically.

THE TIME IS NOW.

If we would dwell with Jesus, blest, for all eternity
In His house of many mansions, beside the crystal sea,
We must seek through Him Salvation, and for that home prepare.
For naught of sin's defilement can ever enter there.

We must wash our sin-stained garments in the Fountain flowing free,
That was opened for our cleansing on dark Mount Calvary.
By repentance, faith, obedience, we must strive, the right to win,
To the Tree of Life that's blooming the pearly gates within.

For only they who love Him, and seek and serve Him here
Shall pass those shining portals, and His blessed "Well done" hear;
Would we walk with Him up yonder in raiment white as snow,

And though the cross be heavy, His promise is not vain,
That they who share His sufferings here, with Him in Heaven shall reign.
While He may be found, then seek Him, call upon Him ere too late,
For mercy's day is passed, for aye, when death swings to the gate.

Salvation's cup is offered us, with blessings flowing o'e
A home beyond the reach of care, and life for evermore,
Fair wreaths of bright immortelles, for every victor's brow,
But only those may wear them, who serve the Saviour now.

Allies Draft Terms For Peace in Near East and Invite Kemal to Conference

Britain, France and Italy Ready to Concede All the Claims of Turkish Nationalists — Will Admit Them to Eastern Thrace But Reserve Dardanelles For International Control — Propose Parley at Venice As Soon As Possible.

BELIEVE KEMAL WILL ACCEPT.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Sept. 25.— The return of Turkey to Europe was assured Saturday night when Great Britain, France and Italy at the final session of the Allied conference unanimously agreed to concede all the Nationalist peace terms. The Turkish claims to Eastern Thrace, to the Maritz river and including the ancient capital of Adrianople, were approved as peace terms that can be supported by France, Great Britain and Italy in a joint invitation sent to Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Nationalist leader, to a peace conference to be held at Venice at the earliest possible date.

The Kemalists must agree in return not to enter the present neutral zone along the Straits, nor make any crossing elsewhere, and must accept complete freedom of the Dardanelles, the Sea of Marmora and the Bosphorus, preferably under the League of Nations.

The invitation which was cabled last night by M. Poincare to Kemal Pasha personaly urges an immediate meeting of the Allied and Turkish and Greek generals at Mudania to formulate terms of an armistice pending the conference. It is regarded as virtually certain that Kemal will accept the conditions and a reply is expected from Smyrna in a day or two.

In addition to other concessions, Turkey is promised the support of the three Allies for admission to the League of Nations and also withdrawal of the Allied troops from Constantinople as soon as peace becomes effective.

Text of Allied Note to Turks

PARIS, Sept. 25. — (Canadian Press.)—Following is the text of the joint note to Mustapha Kemal Pasha:

"The three Allied Governments ask the Government of National Grand Assembly to be good enough to let them know if it is disposed to send without delay representatives with full powers to attend a meeting to be held at Venice or elsewhere, and to which will be invited also, with representatives of Turkey, plenipotentiaries of Great Britain, France, Italy, Rumania, Jugo-Slavi aand Greece.

"This meeting will take place as soon as necessary arrangements are made by the governments concerned. The object of this meeting will be to negotiate and consolidate a final treaty of peace between Turkey, Greece and the Allied Powers.

"The three governments take this opportunity to declare that they view with favor the desire of Turkey to recover Thrace as far as the River Maritsa and including Arrianople.

"On condition that the Angora Government does not send armies during the peace negotiations into zones, the provisional neutrality of which has been proclaimed by the Allied Governments, the three Governments will willingly support at the conference attribution of these frontiers to Turkey, it being understood that steps will be taken in common agreement in the treaty to safeguard the interests of Turkey and her neighbors; to demilitarize with a view to the maintenance of peace in certain zones to be fixed; to obtain peaceful and orderly re-establishment of Turkey's authority, and finally to assure effectively under the League of Nations, maintenance of the freedom of the Dardanelles, the Sea of Marmora and the Bosphorus, as well as protection of religious and racial minorities.

"For the rest, the three Allied Governments will willingly support the admission of Turkey to the League of Nations. They are in agreement in reaffirming their assurance, given in March last, that they will withdraw their troops from Constantinople as soon as the treaty of peace has entered into force.

"The three Allied Governments will use their influence to procure before the opening of the conference the retirement of the Greek forces to a line to be fixed by the Allied generals in agreement with the Greek and Turkish military authorities.

"In return for this intervention the Government of Angora will undertake not to send troops either before or during the peace conference into the zones of neutrality which have been previously declared, and not to cross the Straits or the Sea of Marmora. In order to fix the above-mentioned line, a meeting might immediately take place between Kemal Pasha and the Allied generals in Mudania.

"The Allied Governments are convinced that their appeal will be listened to, and that they will be able to collaborate with the Turkish Government and their Allies to establish peace, for which the whole civilized world is longing.

MYSTERIOUS FIRE AT KING'S WHARF.

Dennis Begley's Outbuildings Destroyed — Stock Was Saved.

KING'S WHARF, September 25. — Dennis Begley, a farmer here, suffered a loss to the extent of over $300 early on Sunday morning when flames consumed his driving shed, stable, pig pens, hen house and harness. The fire started at one o'clock a.m., and quick response by neighbors who formed a bucket brigade and worked indefatigably until daylight, succeeded in saving all stock, together with barn and contents. At no time was the dwelling in danger.

BRITISH THREAT HALTS THE TURKS

Retired From Neutral Zone at Chanak — No Shots Fired.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 25. —(Canadian Press).—The British officials announce that a Turkish force of 1,100 cavalry, which crossed the neutral zone at Chanak Saturday night, retired today on Bairamjik, following a meeting at six o'clock this morning between the commanders of the Turkish and British forces. No shots were fired. The Turks retired under a white flag.

The Turks stopped their advance when the British notified the Turkish commander that a further forward movement would cause the British to open fire.

The Turkish ultimatum allowed until five o'clock yesterday afternoon for guarantees respecting the return of Trace, and it was because no guarantees were forthcoming that the Turkish cavalry crossed the border.

TURKS FOMENTING TROUBLE IN FRANCE

ROME, Sept. 25.—(Canadian Press).—A Kemalist insurrection is being organized in Thrace, according to the Messagero, in order to attack the Allies in Constantinople in the rear while the Kemalist army from Asia Minor is advancing, thus taking the Allies between two fires. Fears are expressed, says the newspaper, that Smyrna's fate will also be Constantinople's.

BRITISH DESTROYER SANK IN COLLISION

LONDON, Sept. 25.—(Canadian Press).—The British torpedo boat Speedy sank early today in the Sea of Marmora as the result of a collision with a Dutch trawler, says a Reuter despatch from Constantinople. Ten of the destroyer's crew were drowned and 87 saved. The Speedy sank within seven minutes.

RUSSIAN DISORDER.

VLADIVOSTOK, Sept. 25. — (Canadian Press). — Fighting between the Soviet forces and troops of the White, or Vladivostok Anti-Soviet Government, began yesterday near Spassk, a town about 100 miles north of Vladivostok on the Usuri Railroad, near Lake Hanka. Soviet airplanes bombed Spassk.

OTTAWA RELIEVED BY PEACE PROSPECTS

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 25.—(Canadian Press).—News that the final allied conference on Saturday had resulted in an agreement, and that the proposals agreed upon would probably prove acceptable to the Turkish Nationalists, was received with relief in the capital. The early part of the past week was marked by a feeling of tension due to the situation in the Near East, and Cabinet meetings at which it was thoroughly discussed were held morning, afternoon and night.

Two in Family Are Restored By Tanlac

One of the outstanding features of Tanlac is that very often several members of the same family are restored to health by it. Thousands of such cases are on record and it is now the family medicine in countless homes throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico and Cuba. Mrs. Bert Hewer, 193 East Avenue, North Hamilton, Ont., says:

"My health was so broken down that I was unable to do my housework but Tanlac built me up wonderfully and I now feel fine.

"My son and daughter also took Tanlac with good results. We call it our family medicine."

There is not a single portion of the body that is not benefited by the helpful action of Tanlac. By enabling the stomach and other vital organs to perform their functions properly the whole system is nourished, purified and strengthened. Get a bottle to-day at any good druggist.

SCARCITY OF HANDS IMPROVES THE PRICE

OTTAWA, Sept. 25.— (Canadian Press.) — "Owing to the extreme shortage of lamb supplies in the United States, the trade is largely of the opinion that the immediate result of the new duty will be the stimulation of prices of lambs on the American market to a point where it will still continue to be profitable for Canadian exporters to ship lambs to the United States, on the basis of the present prices obtaining in the Dominion."

This statement is made in the course of an announcement by the Dominion Live Stock Branch of the Department of Agriculture on the effect of the United Sttaes' tariff on the lamb market.

RADIO PREVENTS WASTE.

CHILDREN PLAYED IN BARN WITH MATCHES GIRL DIES IN THE FIRE

The Little Three-Year-Old Daughter of Walter Hopkins Backed Into Corner From the Approaching Flames — Men Driven Back By Smoke and Fire.

CHIEF GIMBLETT'S ACTION.

Elsie Lillian Hopkins, three years and eight months old, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hopkins, 573 Romaine street, was burned to death on Saturday afternoon about 5.30 o'clock in a fire in the hay loft over a stable at the rear of Mr. Patrick Coursey's house, 565 Romaine street, that was caused by childish ignorance of the danger of playing with matches. Patrick Coursey, Jr., about five years old, who was with her, escaped unhurt, only his eyebrows being singed.

The two children had been together all afternoon. Mr. Coursey gave each of them a cent when he was leaving home to go to the ball game, and the other members of his family were absent when the fire occurred. In some way they got matches from the Coursey home, and when their afternoon's play was drawing near to supper time they climbed into the loft of the barn. How they struggled up the improvised ladder of pieces of board nailed on two joists would puzzle any person who saw it—and who also realized that the boy was only five and the girl three.

Found in Corner.

According to the report of Police Constable Harry Young, the boy told him that "Elsie lit two matches and threw them in some hay at the north end of the barn." The dry hay must have burned quickly, and with an instinctive sense of peril the boy started down the ladder calling Elsie to follow him. Confused by the smoke and the flames, the little girl of three years backed away from the fire into the south-end corner of the loft, where her charred body was afterwards found, sitting with her back to the corner. She had evidently held both hands to her face as protection against the heat and the choking fumes, but one of them had been burned off at the wrist. The little body when recovered was practically beyond recognition.

Efforts at Rescue.

In the meantime the boy had run out to the street and gave an alarm that was taken up by other children. Charlie Cook of 474 Patterson street, who was picking potatoes in a garden close by and who rang in the alarm, says he did not hear any children's shouts or cries. His attention was first attracted by the smoke issuing from the barn. Other men from the neighborhood arrived soon in the Coursey yard, and although one opinion was expressed to The Examiner yesterday that the bystanders believed the little girl was not in the loft because they had heard no cries, the police report states that Andrew Graham and John Graham of 560 Romaine street tried to get into the loft, but were driven back, and that John Bickersteth, 389 Queen street, and Robert McCabe, 470 Gilmour street, also attempted to climb up the ladder and through another opening in the ceiling at the northeast corner provided for throwing down hay. They were forced to retreat before the smoke and flames, and the water from the garden hose turned on by Mr. Fred Christmas made no impression.

Chief Gimblett's Statement.

The fire alarm sent in by Charlie Cook was from a new box, number 113, at the corner of Romaine street and the boundary road. This was the first call from the new box, and through a mistake at the Fire Hall the motor truck was sent to box 23 at the corner of Hunter and George street.

Referring to this incident, Chief Gimblett told The Examiner that the alarm came in at 5.24 p.m. while he was on his way home for supper.

"My count was 113," said the Chief, "and when the driver of the runabout picked me up below the corner of Aylmer and Charlotte street and turned to go east I asked him where he was going. He said the apparatus had been sent to box 23. When I got there and found the box unopened, I sent the truck to 113 and told them to drive down George street. In that stretch it made close to sixty miles an hour, and I believe we saved the moments lost by reason of the greater speed we were able to make on that street than on Aylmer street south. I have since investigated the affair and found that the watchman took the number from the gong indicator instead from the tape, contrary to the strict orders I had given. As a result I have taken action, which I am reporting to the Chairman of my committee, who may consider it drastic."

Chief Gimblett estimated the material damage to the barn and its contents at $35, the fire having been confined to the loft. He believes the little girl was suffocated before the fire reached her.

"I'd rather it had been a block of buildings than that little life," said the Chief, who was keenly distressed by the fatality.

Constables Young and Bromley investigated the fire and took charge of the body, which was removed to Belleghem's undertaking rooms. Dr. Young and Dr. Harvey were also called.

Second Death From Fire in Week.

The death of Elsie Hopkins has been a deep shock to all their neighbours and friends and to citizens generally, whose sympathy naturally goes out to the bereaved parents. They have one other child, Edwin, who will be two years old in November. Mr. Hopkins is employed at Bestard's garage on Simcoe street. He happened to notice the fire apparatus as it rushed along Simcoe street from the Fire Hall, and a short time afterwards received a telephone message that he was wanted at home at once.

INDIAN PRINCES LOSE PRIVILEGE

Protection Against Seditious Statements in Press Remains Withdrawn.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press Cble.—A Reuter cable from Simla says that for the first time since the introduction of the Indian constitutional reforms the Indian legislative assembly on Friday threw out an important government measure. The Assembly rejected by 45 votes to 41 a bill providing for the continuance of the protection afforded to Indian princes against seditious statements in the press, which they have enjoyed since 1910 under the Minto Act and whereof they were recently deprived by the repeal of that measure.

The member for Home Affairs said the princes had unanimously asked for protection and the government thought itself bound by agreement to maintain the princes' privileges, rights and dignities. He was satisfied that protection was necessary. The bill, he said, provided a check against abuse as under it the government alone could sanction prosecutions.

An opposition spokesman contended that no case had been made out for protection. He feared the bill would be used to stifle legitimate criticism.

SEVRES TREATY NOT RATIFIED PREMIER'S REPLY TO MEIGHEN

Hon. McKenzie King Says Canada Could Not Be Obligated By a Treaty Which Turkey Had Not Accepted—A Statement to the Public.

PROPOSALS IGNORED.

OTTAWA, Sept. 24.—In a statement on the question of the Sevres treaty and Canada's involvement, the Prime Minister declared:

"I have observed the following statement by the Right Hon. Mr. Meighen, leader of the Opposition appearing in a Canadian Press report of a public address delivered yesterday by Mr. Meighen before the Toronto Businessmen's Conservative Club:

"'Mr. Meighen declared that Canada was a party to the treaty of Sevres. Not only were we a party to it; but, on the motion of the present Premier, we ratified by legislation the action of our representatives in signing the treaty.'

"In view of the significance of this statement and the inference based upon it, it is important that the public should be accurately informed with reference to any obligation on Canada's part in the connection referred to. In the first place there is, in reality, no 'treaty of Sevres'. On August 10, 1920 the allies formulated certain proposals to Turkey. These were embodied in the form of a treaty which was subsequently signed by representatives of the allied countries, but which never become operative, and by which no one therefore was bound. A second and third set of proposals have since been framed and there is now a fourth under consideration.

"On the 28th., of June last, the Parliament of Canada, passed, an act for carrying into effect the treaties of peace between His Majesty and Hungary and Turkey'. By this statute the Governor in Council was authorized to make such orders in council as appeared to him to be necessary in certain contingencies for carrying out what might became a treaty with Turkey, and forgiving effect to any of its provisions. This was merely an enabling act, dependent for its effect upon the so-called treaty becoming such in reality, through its acceptance by Turkey and its ratification by Great Britain and by Canada. It has never been accepted by Turkey. No order in council has been passed under the act referred to so that it has never been ratified by Canada. Moreover, it has never been ratified by Great Britain.

"At the time the bill to which reference has been made was introduced into the House, I stated distinctly that it was in the nature merely of an enabling act to permit the Government, in certain eventualities, to deal with former enemy property and debts in Turkey and Hungary in a manner similar to that which is already provided for dealing with former enemy property and debts in Germany, Austria and Bulgaria. I stated explicitly that the treaty with Turkey had not been ratified.

"With respect to the stipulation of the so-called 'Sevres Treaty' respecting Constantinople, it is perhaps advisable as a means of removing another erroneous impression, to point out that the clause of the so-called treaty referring to Constantinople is precisely the opposite of that which in much of the current discussion it is assumed to be. Article 36, under the title 'Constantinople' reads as follows:

"'Subject to the provisions of the present treaty, the High contracting parties agree that the rights and title of the Turkish Government over Constantinople shall not be affected and that the said Government and His Majesty the Sultan shall be entitled to reside there and to maintain here the capital of the Turkish state.'

"To this clauses is added a provision for its modification in the event of Turkey not observing the other provision of the document."

ALTANTA SUFFERS HEAVY FIRE LOSS

The blaze started about midnight and was brought under control shortly after 2 o'clock this morning, with the aid of apparatus from the Government reservation at Fort McPherson, East Point and Decatur, Georgia.

THE ANNUAL WASTE.

The annual waste of fruit in Ontario is in full swing, and tons of peaches and other fruit are being allowed to rot on the trees because of the lack of pickers.

Meanwhile there are idle men in the cities who complain that they cannot obtain employment.

He has marketed thirty thousand baskets of peaches from his orchard this season, and that represents only half his crop. Approximately enough peaches to fill thirty thousand more baskets are rotting on the trees. He would be able to sell more if he could get enough workers to pick them, but the labor supply has fallen down. This particular owner could put hundreds of men to work for some time. So could the owners of other large fruit farms.

The Ontario Government investigated the fruit business for some time, and many recommendations were made. None of them have succeeded in averting the great loss represented by the failure to market a large portion of the Niagara fruit crop.

A REASONABLE REQUEST.

The Ontario Motor League is endeavoring to have the regulation against the use of the spot light on motor cars removed.

It is in the interest of the safety of motorists that they should be allowed to employ this very useful device, especially in these days of road-building and dangerous detours, some of which have to be made at such a sharp angle that the head lights of the car are useless.

The spot light was banned because a few brainless individuals used it to annoy people on verandahs or dazzled the drivers of approaching cars by flashing the light in their eyes.

The abolishing of the "spot" was a mistake; what should have been done was to punish the fools who did not know how to use it.

It is a safety device that, employed as it was intended to be employed, would save motorists many an anxious moment, and perhaps prove the means of averting an accident.

The request of the Motor League is reasonable and should be acted upon by the Ontario Government.

THE LESSON OF THE TRAGEDIES.

So far as Peterborough is concerned, the two tragedies of last week drive home the lesson that Fire Prevention Day was designed to teach much more deeply than speeches or posters or newspaper articles could possibly do.

We have learned the bitter truth that fire is not only terribly destructive of property but that it is a dreadful menace to life itself.

The combination of an overheated stove and a flimsy dress and of a child and a match have resulted in two deaths under most shocking circumstances.

Most fires are caused by just such preventable conditions.

We have in Canada the highest per capita fire loss in the world, and experts can assign no other reason for the majority of these destructive fires than carelessness on somebody's part. They inform us that at least seventy-five per cent. of the loss could be averted if Canadians exercised only ordinary care and commonsense in eliminating fire hazards.

The two tragedies that have just occurred in Peterborough should cause the people of this community to resolve that so far as they are concerned fire risks shall be reduced to a minimum.

There is much room for improvement in this respect here as in every other centre in Canada.

THE BOY SCOUT MOVEMENT.

It may be that Miss Agnes MacPhail, M.P., was wrongly reported when she is quoted as attacking the Boy Scout movement because it taught "bloodshed and militarism" to the boys of Canada.

Miss MacPhail has been known to complain on more than one occasion that she did not say the things the newspapers have alleged she said.

If, however, she has been correctly quoted in this case, it must be pointed out, at the risk of being called unchivalrous, that remarks of that nature do not add anything to the reputation for wisdom of the only woman member of Parliament.

There is nothing about the Boy Scout work that savours of militarism. In fact, there is more militarism about the Salvation Army, which gives to leaders military titles and calls the rank and file soldiers.

The Boy Scouts have no military terms for their leaders, they wear a uniform that does not by any stretch of the imagination resemble an army issue and nothing in the work taken up is of a military nature.

It simply develops boys physically, mentally and morally, putting them on the road that leads to good citizenship.

Miss MacPhail is not on very sound ground in the attack she has made, and it might be as well for her to investigate first and talk afterwards.

SAFEGUARDING THE MOTHERS OF TO-MORROW

One of the most striking and pressing movements of to-day, both in Canada and the United States, as well as in the Mother Land across the seas, is the task of safeguarding the welfare of the large numbers of our women, the mothers of future generations, who have been forced by economic necessity into the ranks of industry as workers, says the Brantford Expositor. They present a grave problem, for their welfare is vital to the maintenance of sturdy, virile and responsible manhood in the citizenship of the future.

For this reason, every agency, governmental and social, which is seeking to make certain that the women of the Dominion, in their migration from the home to the shop and factory, are safeguarded in every direction, so that the future of the race may not be impaired, is to be commended and supported. For this reason the formulation of standards and policies which shall promote the welfare of wage-earning women, improve their working conditions, increase their efficiency, and advance their opportunities for profitable employment are of the highest importance to the future of the country.

The protection and adjustment of women workers is especially imperative since they have the additional role of mothers and home-makers. They are the producers of future citizens as well as of economic goods, and the Canada of to-morrow will be as strong as her women of to-day. Moreover, the greater necessity for control of standards affecting women workers is due to the fact that women have been in a weaker position economically than men. They came into industry more or less on sufferance and they have not yet bonded themselves together strongly enough to insist successfully upon better conditions.

Moreover, since most women in industry are there because of financial necessity, they cannot afford to turn down a job because of low wages, long hours, or unsatisfactory conditions. Therefore, it is necessary to provide an opportunity for the up-building of safeguards to consider alike the industrial efficiency and the health of women and to make it impossible for selfish interests to exploit them as unwilling competitors in lowering those standards of wages, working conditions, hours and industrial relations which are for the best interest of the workers, the industries and society as a whole.

The interest of women workers has thus become one of the most vital social problems of to-day, and the fact that it has the support of women's councils, influential social organizations, powerful Labor unions, with sympathetic governmental co-operation, ensures rapid progress. Perhaps the most advanced agency is that of the Women's Bureau of the Labor Department of the United States Government. This has had the benefit both of British progress and also of the work of the American women's organizations.

TO IMPROVE CIVIL JUSTICE.

When Hon. W. E. Raney became Ontario's Attorney-General he was evidently persuaded that in the public services under the jurisdiction of his department there were many conditions aeffcting the public that could bear improvement. He took the initiative in action looking to the correction of long standing evils. The Drury Government has been accused of passing its duties on to commissions. It has been prolific in the creation of commissions, and most of these have been in connection with the Attorney-General's Department. Some of them, however, have justified their appointment and a number of commendable reforms have been effected as a result of their work. The Attorney-General's method of acquiring definite knowledge of conditions in various services functioning under his department has proved very satisfactory. The commissions have served him well.

One of Mr. Raney's royal commissions has just completed its task and has made its report. It is the commission created to investigate the administration of justice in the civil courts of Ontario. It has made disclosures and offered recommendations that should lead to the advantage of the people of the province.

Chief of the commission's recommendations aims at a reduction in the colume of litigation in the civil courts to the end of a very large saving to those whose affairs now lead them to the courts. The commission believes that a great deal of litigation is unnecessary, gives unsatisfactory results, and imposes heavy expense on those concerned. It recommends the extension of the institution for providing justice in civil matters by the appointment of an official conciliator. It holds that "the meeting of this officer and the parties to the dispute and their counsel, if any, around a table, would result in the prompt settlement of many a case which is now carried from court to court at great expense, the result uncertain until the last judge has given his last guess at law."

The concluding phrase may be challenged by the dignitaries of the Ontario bench. It may also give the public more disquieting thought than the commissioners anticipated. We have not supposed that our judges guess at the law. We see one court upset the decision of another and we see judges on the same bench disagree, but we assume that in the matter of the understanding and the interpretation of the law the learned gentlemen on the bench are close to infallible, and that if justice is sometimes violated it is the fault of the law rather than of those who administer it.

However, that has nothing to do with the merit of the recommendation for the creation of the office of conciliator in the civil courts. Everybody knows that many people "go to law" when they should be able to settle their disputes themselves. A public conciliator would assist them to settlement outside the courts. Such an official, it is to be imagined, would be one of the busiest in the public service. Lawyers alone would suffer from his functioning, and many lawyers even have no liking for cases that can only result in unnecessary expense to their clients.

Another of the recommendations has to do with the office of master-in-chambers. The Commission has made known the fact that the master-in-chambers at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, collects thousands of dollars a year in fees from civil cases above his salary of $4,600 a year. It states that in one year his salary and fees have amounted to $36,352. The commission urges that no remuneration apart from salary should be allowed any official of the court. It is undoubtedly absurd that an office considered to be worth $4,600 a year should derive several times that amount in levies against the people for whom it operates. It is remarkable that this injustice should not have been brought to an end long ago.

It is to be expected that the commission's report will lead to early action by the Attorney-General. — Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Don't try to get your winter's supply of fuel now. The coal hog is the best friend the coal profiteers have.

Peterborough people are reminded of the Children's Aid Society's tag day on Saturday. It is a most worthy cause and the response should be immediate.

The crowd at Saturday's ball game forgot all about the prospects of war in the Near East, the coal shortage and almost everything else except the battle on the diamond.

Citizens of Peterborough, regardless of religious belief, will unite in congratulating His Lordship Bishop O'Brien on the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination into the priesthood.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I have no desire to have my name appear in public print, but circumstances sometimes alters cases, and I feel I am being unjustly dealt with by the Utilities Commission of this town. Two years ago last April I came to live at 181 Romaine street, and along in June I required water on my garden plants. Owing to the position of my house and lot I would require 160 feet of water hose. The house is on the south side of Romaine street, the water pipe comes out of the cellar window near the north corner of the house. The house is 40 feet long, the summer kitchen is twenty feet. There is a wood yard thirty feet and a hen house and yard thirty feet, making in all 110 feet of hose would used before reaching the garden, then the garden is 100 feet more. The dealer wanted 45 cents a foot for the hose, "they were much dearer then than now." Mr. Turner advised me to use a water pipe, and with a tap in the middle and one on the far end twenty-five feet of hose would do me. I adopted that plan. I also put a pipe in the summer kitchen and a tap there, so we, to avoid carrying water out of the house. About a month ago an inspector came and took stock of everything and charged me for three extra taps on the water pipe. I tried to show him that I couldn't use any more water than if I discarded the water pipe and used a hose. It was the pipe that came out of the cellar that regulated the amount of water I would use. He understood that all right, but he had to charge up all taps over four. He advised me to see Mr. Dobbin and explain to him. I did that, and he saw the reasonableness of my argument and advised me to write to the Utilities Commission and explain my case to them. I did that, and on September the 7th I received a letter from the secretary, Mr. S. A. Armstrong, telling me the Utilities Commission had considered my letter of Aug. 21st and they cannot see their way clear to alter the by-law which provides for a charge for extra taps and consequently cannot make the change you requested in your water rate. I wonder if this is what is called "red tape." Now, I don't care about the extra two dollars, but I do object to a dishonest deal. I ask no favour. All I want is a fair deal.

Now, Mr. Editor, I want to say that any set of men who cannot see the injustice of charging me for three extra taps when I cannot possibly draw a quart more water even if I left the three taps open at once, than if I used a hose, must be very dense indeed. A year ago they doubled the water rates on account of the filtration plant. Is the water any better? A week ago I drew out of one tap a fish worm, and a gentleman on Sherbrooke street told me he frequently gets leaches out of the water taps. I think there must be something wrong up there at the filtration plant. Perhaps a hole in the screen at the intake. I am now charged $21 a year for water and we never drink it. We get water from Mr. Howdens' pump. Just before we came to live in town I sold a $7,000 property in Otonabee and the taxes on that property was $22.37. I bought tow houses on Romaine street, for which I paid $7,000 and the taxes on these two houses this year is $181.24. Our City Fathers will likely say I have more conveniences here, but that is not the case. In the country we have telephone, mail and parcel delivery ,and some have water taps in their houses and stables, and some have electric lights, and all have good pure water to drink, instead of a mixture of worms, leaches, lizards ,alum and other drugs.

It costs me for water, taxes and light $126.60 to live in my own house. I am sorry I ever came to live in Peterborough.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor in advance for giving this article space in your Examiner, I remain,

Very truly yours,
J. GRAHAM WEIR.

Peterborough, Sept. 22, 1922.

THE MYSTERY MIND

The second voice Violet recognized. The wheeze of the hunchback was unmistakable. But the first speaker, a woman, was strange to her, unless it was the wife, Lydia, whom she had never heard utter a sound.

"Maybe he does," complained the woman. "I'm not one as is saying things I oughtn't to say, but I say it's an outrage to let her go."

The man made no answer.

"Yes, unless some one else did."

"But she was the only one here, wasn't she? Didn't the map disappear when she did? Isn't that true?"

"Yes, that's true."

"And she tried to kill Vera there in the city, didn't she? Didn't she lift her up and dash her head against a marble corner, trying to dash out her brains Answer me that."

"I guess so."

"You guess so? You know so She and her lover made fools of all of us. You men have had her in your clutches and you've had him tied up and trussed up, and what's happened? You've let them put it over on you a dozen times. You're a bunch of fools, now, aren't you?"

"Uh-huh."

"Don't you 'uh-huh' me Answer me Aren't you all a bunch of fools?"

"See here" There was a sudden burst o' anger in his voice. "You needn't talk If you hadn't gone to sleep last night, yourself——"

"Don't you talk back to me" she screamed, in passion. "Don't you dare talk back to me, you little runt Maybe I went to sleep, but I didn't let that big stiff lover of hers look me in the eye and tell me he was some one else and that he was in a barrel, and I didn't take and roll a pail of mine off to a watery grave. Renard's as big a foo as the rest of you."

Suddenly the hunchback began to Laugh. To Violet laughing emotion sounded like a file on tin. It was hard to repress a shudder.

"Go on" muttured the woman. "Its funny to you, I suppose. How'd you like to be in that barrel. Why"—her voice mounted shrilly again—"if the Strangler hadn't caught Dupont you'd all believe him dead yet Renard had us all chasing out, trying to find poor Noyes. And when the Strangler got Dupont he let him escape. He's free now and——"

Involuntarily an exclamation broke through Violet's lips. Dupont was safe He would come to her rescue, and, further, if he was safe, the portrait was safe!

"Sh-h" The warning was fromCase.

Violet opened her eyes. They knew she was awake, so the pretense was useless. She did look about, as though just returning to consciousness; but it was no surprise to find that the woman was Lydia, that the room was the one in the shack from which she had escaped before.

Very suddenly, however, she realized that she lay beneath the blanket, rather than on top, and that she was absolutely stripped of clothing. Not even her underwear had been left upon her. As Case glanced toward the bed she colored. She drew the rough material more closely about her, unconscious, in her embarrassment, of its scratch.

Case winked, the involuntary contraction of his facial muscles, and left. Violet turned to Lydia, pleading:

"Let me—let me hav some clothes—anything."

Lydia's face was immobile, expressionless. She paid absolutely no attention to Violet, but went on with her work. Suddenly Violet understood and wondered. Again the distinctive smell of the ironing board came to her.

Near Lydia, hanging here and there, were all the girl's garments. The woman apparently had washed them, for there were none of the stains of the salt or the dirt from the boats; even the torn places from her life-and-death struggle with Vera had been repaired, as near as she could tell. More, she saw a hat and a pair of slippers. They were not hers; Vera's, probably. She knew, intuitively, that she could wear them and that they would prove becoming. Lydia, busy with an iron heated over an oil stove, was finishing the last of her lingerie.

What did it mean? Why should the gang freshen her clothes make her comfortable? Surreptitiously she felt of herself beneath the cover. The stickiness of the salt was gone. Slipping one hand out, she glanced at it. Clean Again she colored. While unconscious she had been given a bath, or sponged. The red in her cheeks was very deep until the humor of the situation struck her, the very sardonic humor of this treatment of her.

Within a few moments of Violet's awakening, Lydia finished her task. She extinguished the little oil stove took down the ironing board and stood it in a corner. Then with a final glance about she went to the door, leaping, closing and bolting it behind her.

Get the Cream of the Trade

"What lovely styles! How do you manage to get all these, delightful novelties?" said the new customer as she looked around her.

"I got tired of seeing my customers boarding the trains to buy elsewhere, just because I didn't have some novelty that was being advertised."

"Whenever a new style makes a decided hit, the wholesaler or manufacturer's salesman calls me on Long Distance, and tells me about it, and I order a few."

"I haven't seen prettier veils, smarter stockings or gloves, georgette-crêpes or ginghams anywhere. And I see you have the new music, too. How perfectly splendid. They leave me no excuse at all for going up to town to buy."

That's just one of the many things Long Distance does for small-town merchants, enabling Dry Goods, Hardware, Grocery, Paint and Shoe Stores to obtain new styles immediately and cater to the progressive people in their town — the cream of the trade.

COAL PRICES TUMBLING.

DETROIT, Sept. 25. —(Canadian Press.)—Henry Ford, in an interview Saturday, advised people to "buy as little coal as possible now," declaring "coal prices are tumbling."

"What's the News?"

WHEN Columbus and his caravels returned from the New World, the first question shouted from the shore was, "What's the news?"

That's always the question of paramount importance. Years ago folks asked it of the post rider, the soldier returned from the wars, the man who had been down to the settlements, or the neighbor back from the general store.

To-day, you find the answer in your newspaper. Through the newspapers the news of the world and of the community quickly becomes public knowledge. And remember this—it takes two kinds of news to make a modern paper complete.

The first tells of happenings near and far—of fires, sports, elections, accidents, marriages, deaths, great men, great events.

The second tells of things you eat, wear and use—things you buy, things being sold to your friends and neighbors. This news is advertising.

It's just as important to keep up-to-date on the advertising in this paper as it is to read about what's doing in the world of events.

Advertising is an essential news service. It is distinctly to your advantage to be guided by it.

Special Services in the Methodist Church—Millbrook News of Interest.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 25.—Rev. Dr. Lorne A. Pierce, of Toronto, who conducts the "Book Steward's Corner" as literary critic and adviser in the Christian Guardian each week, preached in the Methodist church yesterday, morning and evening, and and also addressed the Sunday school in the afternoon. "The Sovereignty of Ideals" was the subject of Dr. Pierce's discourse in the morning, his text being taken from Proverbs, 23:7, "As a man thinketh in his heart so is he." Laying emphasis upon the effect which clean thinking, as well as clean living, has on the physical nature, and dwelling upon the ascending steps of truth, beauty, love, and finally goodness, round either one of which we may draw a circle, and make it the ideal to which we aspire to attain, the speaker urged the young people especially to beware of putting 'wrong price tags' on things which count most in developing that "abundant life" that our Saviour said He came to give; the danger always is to estimate too cheaply the things which had we eyes to see, are of the biggest value, and to sacrifice too much for those whose eternal worth is very small. Upon the border land between light and darkness, right and wrong, in and out (of the Kingdom), stands the cross, the emblem of service, the way of ultimate perfection, the true measuring rod by which we know whether we are in the company of "the high souls which walk the high road," or of the "low souls which grope the low." He who hath loved us, and washed us from our sins in His own blood, hath made us to be kings and priests unto God and His Father; "to Him be glory and dominion, forever and ever. Amen."

In common with most other Protestant schools throughout the Dominion ,the Sunday school observed the Rally Day programme sent out from Toronto, the session being held in the church auditorium. The subject for the service was "Thy Kingdom Come," and the recitation expressing the part of the little ones in the Kingdom, "Can a Little Child Like Me?" was given by Hazel Morton. Dr. Pierce used as his topic, "The Jesus Way," and by means of a fairy tale, which won the attention of even the smallest scholars, made clear the truth, "You can be anything you want to be, there is nothing that can stop you if you are willing to pay the price."

The secretary's report showed an attendance of 28 teachers and officers, 196 scholars and visitors, with an offering of $14.31; the latter goes to the General Board of Sunday School and Young Peoples' Societies to enable them to carry on for another year. The Quarterly report was encouraging, the total attendance being 1,570, average per Sunday 130, total offerings $54.62, average $4.20, verses 604, average each week, 46.

On account of other church anniversaries in the vicinity the evening congregation was lessened in numbers. Rev. R. E. Finlay, president of the Alberta Conference, who is visiting friends in Nort Monaghan, was present, and led in the opening prayer. Dr. Pierce chose for his theme, "The Church at the Centre," and after showing from Exra 3:1-4, the manner in which the ancient Jews rebuilt their temple, proceeded, by means of a dream church, to show what it is possible the church of today might mean to a community if laymen and priest, first building the altar, round that the church, and round that the state, were "all at work, all working together, all the time, and for the good of all."

The special music prepared by the choir included the anthem, "Christ has come into the Temple Courts," with duet by Mrs. P. Stinson and Miss Stewart, at the morning service, and a chorus, "Jesus is our Captain" by four boys, Walter Sayles, Oliver Brock, Nelles and Lawrence Rowland. In the evening the anthems were "Some Golden Day," and "Now the day is over," Miss Stewart and Mr. J. L. Byam having the solo and duet parts in the latter. The church was beautfully decorated with ferns, asters and other fall flowers. Probably few members of the congregation realize how much time, labor, and forethought Miss Hampton expends in this "ministry of love," willingly devoting her efforts to this particular service the year round.

The anniversary services of the Fallis Line church will be held on Sunday, October 1st, Rev. R. Forbes Stillman, of Omemee, preaching at 2.30 in the afternoon, and in the evening at 7 o'clock. Special music will be provided, the Millbrook choir assisting at both services.

PRESENTATION W. E. CARNAHAN

Surprise Event in Campbellford on Saturday Evening—Will Reside in Toronto.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 25. — A genuine surprise party was held in the library on Saturday evening when a number of friends, citizens and business associates gathered together to bid farewell to Mr. W. E. Carnahan on the eve of his departure for Toronto. Mayor A. J. Meyers acted as chairman, and opened the meeting with a most appropriate address, saying: "It is hard to part with citizens whom we all esteem, and who have been residents for so many years, and have done everything in their power in the interests of Campbellford, and it is a great pleasure for me to act as chairman on this occasion. Partings are often sad; in this case we regret the departure of Mr. Carnahan and his family from our midst, but hope that it will be for his benefit and prosperity and the interests of his family in general."

Mr. Claude H. Harris was called upon: "We are losing in Mr. Carnahan's departure one of our good citizens, one whom our town can ill afford to lose. We know that in his heart he does not want to cut connections, and will welcome him back. He has been a reputable citizen, a good business man, who fearlessly expressed his opinions; and if we had more men of Mr. Carnahan's calibre the town would have been the better for it. We are losisg not only a friend but a good business man, who took a keen interest in all manly sports—even to chess and checkers. We will miss not only you but your family, your wife who has done so much in the interests and welfare of the town. I have pleasure in presenting to you this walking stick and signet ring, as a memory of your friends and acquaintances in Campbellford, who looking back over the past 25 years of co-operation realize what your loss will mean."

Mr. Carnahan: "This is a wonderful surprise and entirely unexpected, until about two minutes ago, and to express my hearty apreciation it seems impossible to choose words; and coming from business men I can only say that I trust that I have played the game. Parting from a town like this is not only harrowing, but a real hard thing to do. I thank your for these beautiful gifts, and assure you that they will always be associated with pleasant memories ,and hope that you will not forget me."

Dr. Watson was then called, and said: "Nearly all the bouquets have been thrown except those on the table. I have known Mr. Carnahan a long time and can only confirm the statements made by my predecessors that we are losing a good citizen from our midst and we will welcome him at curling events and at Old Boys' reunions. We will try and finish the work which Mr. Carnahan has so ably started. I have often wondered why the library was not called the "Carnahan" library instead of the "Carnegie" library. In his duties extending over 22 years as secretary he has saved the board a lot of money. We will miss "Bill" from our midst and if he does not know it, it is not because we have not told him; but Mr. Carnahan is a modest man and might have missed some of the remarks. I can only say that I hope he may come back some time, and help us out later on. He may become a big man in Canada, and and send us a donation for our new Community Building."

Mr. F. E. Moffat then spoke, that Campbellford's loss would be Toronto's gain, how Mr. Carnahan had taken such a keen interest in the library board, helped to raise the standard of books, and saw that the building was kept in repair. He said he would miss the children who had attained such high honors in the school.

The other speakers of the evening were Messrs. W. J. Armstrong, Geo. Kingston, R. J. Allan and John Gay.

In his closing address the mayor spoke briefly. "This town owes a lot to Mr. Carnahan. Before I came to Campbellford he was a member of the Water and Light Commission and served them well, member of Council and Library Board, an enthusiastic bowler, curler, and in every branch took a keen interest. In fact his heart was with the people to help things along, and on behalf of the town of Campbellford I wish you every success in your new home."

Among those present were Mayor A. J. Meyers, Councillors Cole, Meiklejohn, Stone, Wiggins; Messrs W. J. Armstrong, R. J. Allen, J. P. Archer, J. C. Birmingham, Elie Brunelle, Joseph Dolman, John Gay, Dr. Andrew Haig, P. J. Kelly, Geo. A. Kingston, L. B. Glover, Claude H. Harris, T. E. Moffatt, Neil Morrison, Stanley Neale, James A. Stewart, Wesley Stephens, Geo. O'Sullivan, A. L. Reindeau and Dr. O. C. Watson. The hall was tastefully decorated with flowers for the occasion. Dr. Watson for the first time in history did not tell a story, and left Jack Allan an opening which he promptly took advantage of. Then all joined hands and the meeting closed in harmony to the strains of Auld Lang Syne.

LAKEFIELD COMMENT ON LEAGUE RESULT.

Refer to Standing of Teams and Deny Serious Dissension.

Sporting Editor, Examiner: Dear Sir: Regarding the unfortunate accident to Tom Doughty, and the consequent forfeiting of the game, and also the E.P.L. championship to Keene, mention of which was made in your paper.

Despite the "dissention" mentioned in the article the standing for the season in actual league games, is as follows:

1st half—

	Won.	Lost.
Lakefield	3	1

2nd Half—

	Won.	Lost.
Keene	2	2

It therefore seems somewhat hard that the deciding game of the playoff was given to Keene in the manner that it was, although no criticism is intended either at the work of the umpires or of the action of the Keene team at the game.

Two facts remain however. One is the above standing. The other is that it would have been dark long before the 5th inning of the forfeited game.

As far as the Wright Cup goes it might be set aside for this season for neither team has won it by an actually played game. This however is hardly a matter for Lakefield to decide; nor is it our intention to stir up ill-feeling by making any move in this direction.

The purpose of this letter is merely to say that the "dissention" is not so bad in the Lakefield team. Also how sorry we are for "Tommy's" misfortune.

Why Pretty Teeth

Are shown everywhere today

Millions of people are brushing teeth in a new way. If you don't know the good results, make this free test.

Fight dingy film

One object is to fight the film on teeth—that viscous film you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Food stains, etc., discolor it, then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film.

No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats film. So, under old methods, beautiful teeth were seen less often than today.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Very few people escaped such troubles under old ways of teeth cleaning.

New ways found

Then dental science found two film combatants. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then dentists everywhere began to advise their use.

A new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. The name is Pepsodent. In that tooth paste are embodied those two great film combatants.

Five effects

But Pepsodent brings five effects. These are very important. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to constantly neutralize the acids which cause decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Those are Nature's ever-present tooth-protecting agents. Every use of Pepsodent gives them manifold effect.

Pepsodent also polishes the teeth so film adheres less readily.

You see them now nearly the world over

These glistening teeth are now seen nearly the world over. Careful people of some fifty nations are now using Pepsodent. And those whiter teeth mean safer teeth. They mean a new dental era.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

This test will be a revelation, amazing but delightful. Cut out the coupon so you won't forget.

A Letter From Mr. Burnham

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Professor Henry C. Vedder's recent book, "The Fundamentals of Christianity," has caused a great storm of protest among American Baptists. He is on the faculty of Crozer Theological Seminary, near Philadelphia, which was one of the best seminaries on the continent 25 years ago, loyal to the faith and true, with the saintly Dr. Henry G. Weston as its President. Prof. Vedder must have been of that class also in those days—now he is a liberal of the liberals. Note some extracts. These must be "the rabies" of the —not fundamentalists — but liberals referred to by a Toronto critic:

"Paul's idea of law, of penalty, of expiation, offends the modern sense of justice and contradicts our ethical values at every point of contact. Without caricature, it may be compared to ideas that prevail in certain police circles to-day. . . . They "frame up" a case against someone who can plausibly be made the scapegoat. . . . Our theology continues to teach that the Almighty could find no better expedient to save men than to "frame up" a case against His own Son and put to death the innocent for the guilty. (Pages 191, 192.)

Paul was quite ignorant of the fact that the Jewish sacrifices were part and parcel of that system of exploitation, grafting and priestcraft against which the prophets inveighed so bitterly and so vainly (page 157.) The reasoning of Paul does not fit our case, and therefore it fails to convince (one of the Professor's viewpoints.) Paul appeals to a state of mind that has forever passed away — at least among civilized peoples, though his theology may still be helpful to African savages (pages 190.)

The above extract from the columns of the religious editor of The Globe surely must mark the lowest level yet reached by the "Reformers." It is difficult to suppose that they can get down any lower unless they are determined to make Protestantism a veritable plague in the land. And when they have destroyed the faith in which our fathers and mothers lay down in their long sleep, what do they propose to give us in exchange? They propose to rule the world from a Social Service centre with the laws of the land made into whips to lash the people with. Then with church union accomplished and all in one herd there will be no escape. Our lords and masters can then drive us whither they will. This has been the history of all reformers —by compulsion, but hitherto they have refrained from offering insult to the Deity, except as in such cases as the Red Russian debacle and the French revolution. The general public is a large body, and like the sea takes time to get in motion, but it will get going some of these days. The roots of the people are grounded in God, not in the cheeky "supermen" who set themselves up (at greatly improved salaries) not only in the places of their saintly predecessors who counted to be rich in the world's goods to be poverty, but also in the place of the word of God and of God himself. And these people, so mad with self-righteousness and conceit, as really to believe that the Creator has abandoned the world and that it is lost unless they lift it up? There is something very sinister in the conduct of those who propose not only to subdue the guilty to their will but the unoffending as well. It is to say that "unless you do what we say you must be punished." It is the Red doctrine. Is it any wonder that this is the worst age so far in the history of the world?

WILL ANSWER ANY WOMAN WHO WRITES

Montreal Woman Finds Health by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Montreal, Quebec.—"I was a sufferer for three years, not able to do my housework. My husband was discouraged, for I was no better and had had the doctor all this time and nothing helped me. I was always sleepy, had no appetite and suffered with my left side. My mother in England recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because it had helped my sister, so I have been taking it. I am now able to do my housework and I can not praise your medicine too highly as I have great hopes for the future. I will tell anyone who writes to me what good it has done me."—Mrs. E. Masson, St. Henry P. O., Montreal.

For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been helping women just as it helped Mrs. Masson; oftentimes after doctors and other medicines failed.

If you are suffering from disagreeable symptoms caused by some female weakness, try this splendid medicine. It is a woman's medicine for women's ailments, and can be taken in safety by any woman.

The Doctor of Domestic Difficulties

By MARIAN HALE.

Esther Schacht is working on a new degree, a D. D. D.—Doctor of Domestic Difficulties.

"Since I've been with the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society I've had so many family difficulties to smooth out, and have picked up so much practical psychology, that when I start to write a thesis it will fill a five-foot shelf," she laughed.

This very youthful person conceals an unusual ability for business and an instinct for helpfulness behind her smiles. When the boats land at Ellis Island she is there to offer assistance and aid to those who need it.

"It's very pleasant to help some aged mother find her son in this country, or to reunite a wife and husband who have been separated," she says, "but sometimes it is sad to see the case of the girl who comes to join her sweetheart after an absence of years.

"Perhaps quite unconsciously he has absorbed the ideas of a new country, and its standard of femininity, while cherishing in his heart the love for the girl he left behind.

"He comes to the boat to welcome the girl he thought he cared for and learns what cruel things years are, and how tricky memory may become when corrupted by imagination.

"At the boat he sees a queerly dressed girl, who belongs to the land he left behind. She doesn't fit into his life now at all. And sometimes Romance won't stand the strain."

"What can be done?" I asked.

"We just take the girl, give her a home, and help her to find work. The first thing you know she's self-supporting and has new friends, and probably another romance.

"Sometimes whole boatloads of 'picture brides' come in—the other day I met 200 of them. They had been selected in the merits of their photographs and had been wooed by correspondence.

ESTHER SCHACHT.

"Thirteen of them were unclaimed—and we took them under our protection."

"Do you think the other 187 will be happy, married to strangers?" I asked.

"They usually are," she replied. "You see, they come over intending to be good wives and to make happy homes. That's the foundation for a happy marriage. They are industrious, know how to keep house and cook and sew, and they know nothing about delicatessen stores or ready-made clothes. They don't expect marriage to be a long holiday.

"It's the girls who want all the pleasures and none of the responsibilities who find themselves later in the divorce courts," she concluded.

HISTORY TO DATE RECORDED ON CLIFF.

JERUSALEM, September 25 (Associated Press). — On the face of a cliff in the Lebanon hills Rameses II., King of Egypt, well over 3,000 years ago ordered his stone carvers to inscribe a tablet setting forth his conquest of the land. The figures of the ancient Egyptian ruler and his men still are visible. A few feet away one may see, carved in the same rock by a British stone cutter, a record of the coming in September, 1918, of Field-Marshal Sir Edmund H. H. Allenby, G.C.B., Commander of the Allied forces in Asia Minor.

And the passage of the centuries from B.C. 1300 to A.D. 1918 is recorded by various other carvings, in all, not less than twelve, and each describing the march of a victorious army.

The cliff selected for the carving of these historic records is at the mouth of the Dog River, ten miles north-east of Beirut, in Syria. This strip of country lying between the Lebanons and Egypt has been the bridge between the ancient empires of the Valley of the Nile and Mesopotamia, and over it has passed the armies of the ancient mediaeval and modern worlds. The narrowest point is where the Lebanon mountains come close to the sea, and at this place Rameses II. set the precedent of commemorating his conquests by hewing out a panel on the face of the cliff.

His example has been followed by others through the centuries until now there are a dozen of them.

They are all cut about four or five inches deep, from five to nine feet high, and from two to four and a half feet in width. The storms of more than 3,000 years have beaten upon some of them, but still the figures of the ancient Egyptian conquerors are easily discernible as they stand with their right arms uplifted in an attitude of victory. The hieroglyphics have long since disappeared except to the trained eye of the archaeologist.

Several Assyrian conquerors led their armies through this pass, including the great Sennacherib, who threatened Jerusalem, but whose army was smitten by "the breath of the Lord," and for a century and a quarter the city was saved from its foes.

Alexander the Great led his conquering hosts through the same defile on his way to Egypt, and Greek and Latin tablets tell of the conquests of the great kingdoms of Southern Europe when the march of empire passed from Asia to Europe.

Coming down to recent history a tablet tells of the coming of the army of Louis Napoleon in 1860, when the massacres in the Lebanons called for European interference, and France first set her foot in Syria.

Nearly sixty years passed by, and then the British Army, led by General Allenby, and assisted by the French, swept up like a whirlwind from the south four years ago, and ended the rule of the Turk in the southern part of the Levant.

A panel has been cut in the cliff near those of the ancient Egyptians, telling of this great victory, and bringing this wonderful cliff-record of history up to date.

DELEGATES HOME FROM CONVENTION

Kiwanians Had a Stirring Time at 4th Annual District Meeting.

Mr. John I. Allen, district trustee, Peterborough Kiwanis, and Alex. Dick, John McKone, and Walter Stocker have returned from the Kiwanis International Ontario-Quebec fourth annual district convention which was held in Windsor at new Prince Edward Hotel, on 21st and 22nd September.

The convention was a great success in every way, there being about 300 official delegates and about 100 ladies present, wives of the delegates. They were entertained by the Windsor Club, and everything was done by the citizens of Windsor to make their visit profitable and pleasant.

Kiwanis in Ontario and Quebec has grown by leaps and bounds, and it was found necessary to elect three Lieutenant-Governors in place of the two at present.

The District Governor in charge of Ontario and Quebec elected was Stewart de la Ronde, of Ottawa. The Lieutenant-Governor for the East is E. J. Tanguay, Quebec, and for the centre Fred H. Higgins, Toronto, and for the West Fred Lawrenson of London.

Presentations were made to Mr. E. J. L'Esperance, of Montreal, of a sterling silver tea set, and to the St. John, Quebec District, a sterling silver cup for having the largest attendance in proportion to distance, also a silver cup was presented to the London District for the best completed report by the President. The retiring District Governor, Bev. Hay, was presented with a handsome clock, as was also Hugh Murray, the retiring secretary.

At the banquet, International President George H. Ross, who was elected at the Toronto Convention, gave the principal address of the evening. Mr. Ross has covered about 14,000 miles in the United States and Canada since the Toronto Convention, and stated that Kiwanis was growing by leaps and bounds not only in membership, but in the interest of the communities in which the different clubs were represented.

The Convention was very successful, and plans were laid for work for the benefit of the different communities by the clubs that were represented.

There were about thirty clubs from Ontario and Quebec fully represented.

BISHOP M. J. O'BRIEN HONORED

Lordship, assisted by Rev. Father McAuley of Ennismore and Rev. Father Meagher of Lakefield, with Rev. Father Cantillon as Master of Ceremonies. Rt. Rev. Monsignor McColl, Rev. M. O'Brien and Rev. Father McHenry were also present in the sanctuary.

A very eloquent sermon on the work of the priesthood in the world was preached by Rev. J. J. O'Brien pastor of the Sacred Heart Church, who referred to the Jubilarian as an outstanding example of talent, piety and zeal for souls, whose work in the priesthood for the last twenty-five years and whose occupancy of the episcopal chair for nine years past, had been wonderfully productive of good, both in the spiritual and temporal affairs of the diocese.

"In every parish", said the speaker "there is one who belongs to no family and yet is a member of every family. He blesses the cradle, the death-bed and the bier Innocent children love and revere him and Christians reveal to him the innermost thoughts of their hearts. He is the consoler of the afflicted, and softens the pains of body and soul. He belongs to no social class, and yet to all. And he bears the name of Father, one of the most beautiful titles in the world." To this estate is added the duties and responsibilities of the episcopate, and, in the case of the Jubilarian, who has used his crozier more as a shepherd's staff than as a sceptre of power, the vineyard under his care has brought forth fruits that shall remain, and by which generations yet unborn shall benefit. "Works unseen to the eye, but written by the Angel of God in the Book of Life, have been the result of his generous heart and noble soul. May his hand be strong to bless and protect his flock; to point the way to heaven; and may his justice and judgment be the preparation for us of our thrones in heaven."

Presented With Car

Following the sermon, an address from the people of St. Peter's Cathedral was read to His Lordship by Mr. V. J. McElderry, who presented the Bishop with the keys of an Oldsmobile car which marks their appreciation of his care of his flock. An address, with the presentation of a Spiritual Bouquet, was read by Mr. W. Scollard, for the Holy Name Society of St. Peter's parish; while addresses and spiritual bouquets were presented in the name of the Christian Mothers and of St. Peter's Sodality, by Mrs. John Coughlin and Mrs. C. Rutherford in the first instance, and by the Misses May C. Kelly and Norah Shevlin in the second.

The Bishop responded to these addresses and presentations in suitable terms, once again referring to his gratitude at such manifestations of affection from his people, and alluded with feeling to the sympathy and kindness which he had received from everyone in the city during his quarter of a century in the priesthood. His Lordship extolled particularly the aims and objects of the Holy Name Society, in revering the name of the Saviour, and recommended to every man in the parish a membership therein, referring also to the excellent work done by the Society of Christian Mothers and of Sodality of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Among those outside of the congregation who were noticed at morning and evening services yesterday were:—G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., Ald. M. McIntyre, Messrs. A. A. McIntyre, F. D. Kerr, H. Rush, F. H. Dobbin, R. C. Braund, T. Brightman, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wearing, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Webb, Mrs. E. Worth, Mr. and Mrs. A. Pilling, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Widdiss, Mr. and Mrs. J. Mills, Mr. T. H. Hooper.

This morning, at 8 o'clock, His Lordship celebrated a solemn Mass for the repose of the souls of the diocesan dead, assisted by Rev. Father Meagher of Lakefield as deacon; Rev. Father M. S. O'Brien as sub deacon, with honorary deacons; Rev. J. J. O'Brien of the Sacred Heart parish and Rev. Paul Costello of St. Peter's Cathedral.

Rail Shopmen To Re-Open Parley

Canadian Organization Would Again Confer With Companies.

MONTREAL, September 25 (Canadian Press). — Canadian railway shopmen, after deliberations lasting several days, have expressed a desire to re-open direct negotiations with the companies on the question of rates of pay.

The Railway Association, which acts for the companies in negotiations with their employees, received an official notification to-day from the representatives of the shopmen that they desired a conference for the purpose of reaching an agreement concerning pay.

The request is being placed before the individual railroads by the Association.

It is believed the conference will be opened some time next week.

Before intimating to the railways their desire to re-open negotiations, the shopmen sought an assurance from the Minister of Labour that in the event of fresh negotiations, a new dispute necessitating a further Board of Conciliation proceedings would not be created.

The Shopmen's Committee possesses a mandate from their membership authorising them to call a strike on the question of rates of pay and they desred to change in their legal position in this respect.

The Minister of Labour, in his reply, said that in his opinion the re-opening of negotiations would make no change in their legal position, and that the shopmen had fulfilled the requirements of the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act.

TOO MANY BATH ROBES, A DOMESTIC TRAGEDY.

Those Pink and Blue Bunnies Nearly Caused Henry's Arrest As Masher.

Third Trip Is Fatal.

GIRL AT EXCHANGE DESK "CERTAINLY KNEW A LOT ABOUT MEN"

She had bought two bathrobes for the children's birthday—a pink one edged with bleu rabbits, and a blue one edged with pink rabbits. And two days before the birthday arrived, she realized that they hadn't come up from the store.

"I wish you'd go in and see about it, Henry," she said to her husband that evening. "Ask them why they haven't come up, and make them send up two more."

Henry promised he would, and departed. But after he had left, it occurred to his wife that Henry always promised fluently to execute errands downtown, and as fluently forgot. He found it easiest to agree first and explain later. So she went to the telephone, called up the adjusting bureau, and laid the matter before them. And the adjusting bureau promised on its honor as an adjusting bureau to look into the matter.

At four o'clock, the adjusting bureau sent up a parcel containing two bathrobes—a pink one with blue rabbits, and a blue one with pink rabbits. And at six o'clock Henry appeared with a similar parcel. He hadn't forgotten, after all.

"I'm sorry, Henry," said his wife, "I was so sure you'd forget that I telephoned down to them about it, and they sent two more up. I wonder if you'd mind taking one pair to the exchange office tomorrow and getting the money back?"

The pliant Henry agreed, and next morning was slipping unostentatiously from the house when his wife called him back and presented him firmly with the two bathrobes. They cost $2.49 each, and he was to return them and get the money back.

Henry took the two bathrobes to the exchange bureau. The exchange girl opened the parcel with disdainful fingers, regarded Henry with profound suspicion, cynically inspected seams and edges for marks of wear, and finally slid twice $2.49 through the wicket.

"The funniest thing, Henry," she said brightly, "but I found the first two bathrobes after all. The maid took them at the door when I was out, and hid them in my closet because she was afraid the children would find them and open them before their birthday. I wonder if you'd mind dropping into the store on your way to the office and getting the money back?"

Following a period of warm discussion, Henry agreed. And the next morning he appeared at the exchange bureau and thrust the parcel timidly through the wicket. The exchange girl flung open the parcel and disclosed a pink and a blue bathrobe. She gave Henry a long, unreadable look. She gave the bathrobes an exhaustive scrutiny, within and without. Then, slowly, thoughtfully, and scornfully, she passed twice $2.49 through the wicket.

Next morning was the children's birthday. They came down to breakfast in their new bathrobes—the pink one with the blue rabbits, and the blue one with the pink rabbits. And it was while they were at breakfast that the children's grandmother deopped in to wish them many happy returns of the day, and to give them their birthday present. When she saw them she gave an exclamation of surprise and disappointment.

"Now, isn't that too bad," said the children's grandmother. "I noticed when the children were put to bed the other night that their bathrobes were simply disgraceful. So I bought them new ones for a birthday present, and now I see that you've gone and done the same thing.

"However, fortunately I kept the bill," she added, brightening. "Henry, could just drop in at the exchange office on his way to business in the morning and get the money, and you can buy them just whatever you think they need most."

It was a cowed and intimidated Henry that appeared at the exchange bureau the next morning. And when the exchange girl saw him with the familiar parcel under his arm, her features assumed a curious rigidity. She opened the parcel, not as though she had any curiosity about its contents, but rather as one who was confirming her worst suspicions. Then she leaned her elbows on the pink and blue bathrobes, regarded Henry with narrowed eyes, and said in a cold, edgy voice:

"I don't just know what you mean by this, though I suppose you're trying to be fresh. I presume you wouldn't care to have me call the floor detective."

The exchange girl's presumption proved to be entirely correct. Henry didn't want to have her call the floor detective. He didn't even wait, this time, for his twice $2.49. He simply faded from view.

The exchange girl flung the blue and pink bathrobes superciliously aside. Her friends always said of her that she would be a lovely looking girl if it weren't for her expression.

"I suppose he thought I'd actually fall for him," she said to the cash girl.

"—But he looked old," said the littl fifteen-year-old cashgirl. "He must have been pretty near forty."

"The older they are, the fresher," said the exchange girl cynically. "You'll see he'll be back in a few minutes for his change. And then he'll go over to the children's and infants' wear and buy a couple more bathrobes and come in with them again to-morrow morning."

"A girl in business certainly gets to know a lot about men," said the exchange girl.

LABOR NEUTRAL IN NEAR EAST CRISIS

And Condemns Appeal to the Dominions.

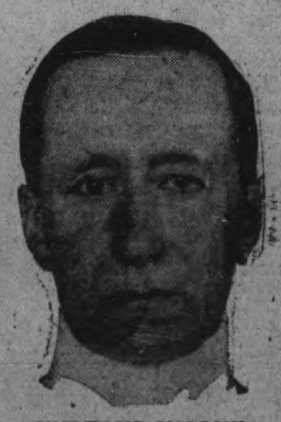
LONDON, Sept. 25. — (Canadian Press.)— Right Hon. J. H. Thomas, M.P., Labor leader, speaking at Brighton to-day, said he had no hesitation in stating that in the long history of British statesmanship there never had been an appeal made with less justification than that made to the Dominions with regard to the Near East situation.

The Labor deputation, he said, that waited on the Premier last Thursday had made it perfectly clear that Labor in Britain was neither pro-Turk nor pro-Greek ,and that workers did not think it wise to sacrifice a copper or British life for either.

These Tell You Radio Is Not a Fad

ALFRED N. GOLDSMITH
Leading Radio Engineer

"The radio telephone will bring a new joy into man's life. It will disseminate culture not to thousands but to hundreds of thousands and to millions. The people's University of the Air will have a greater student body than all of our universities put together. The educational application of radio is an immense field so far untouched."



GUGLIELMO MARCONI
Inventor of Wireless Telegraphy

"I think I am safe in saying that since radio has already done so much for the safety of life at sea, for commerce and for commercial and military communications, it is also destined to bring new and unforseen opportunities in health and recreation into the lives of millions of homes. Broadcasting has come to stay."

HERBERT HOOVER
Secretary of Commerce

"We are to-day upon the threshold of a new means of widespread communication of intelligence that has the most profound importance from the point of view of public education and public welfare. The comparative cheapness with which receiving stations can be installed bids fair to make their possession almost universal in the American home."

PAUL F. GODLEY
Leading Radio Authority

"Before many years radio will be utilized in as many as 5,000,000 American homes, for it may very well come to play a part in our lives equalled only by that of the daily, weekly and monthly periodical. Its application may even surpass in their scope the wonders of the motion picture as we know it to-day."

EDWIN H. ARMSTRONG
Famous Radio Inventor

"The time is not far off when the radiophone receiver will be as common as the phonograph now is. Not every home will have the radio phone, of course, but I can predict that every home now having a phonograph will be equipped with wireless. The whole radiophine receiver will be no longer than the now ordinary music box."

FORMER EMPEROR WILLIAM MERGING FROM SECULSION

DOORN, Holland, Sept. 25—(Associated Press).—Since the dismissal of the Prussian Count Von Gonthard, former Emperor William's Court Marshal, from the royal house hold here, William has begun to lead a freer existence, and he no longer appears to fear the gaze of the public Count Von Gonthard was a strong advocate of the strictest seclusion, but now that he is no longer in office the former Emperor does not hesitate to work in his garden in full view of passers-by.

He clips and trims fir-trees within a few feet of the footpath, which encircles the grounds, and with only a wire fence between him and the public. He talks incessantly of forestry and the care of trees. The former warlord is having the dense woods which surrounded the park thinned out, and he is himself taking an active part in the work. He looks cheerful and healthy.

After a friendly chat the civilians whipped out revolvers, killing Sherlock and wounding his comrade. They then escaped.

NEW WRINKLES FROM RADIO.

Radio wrinkles are coming!

Two wrinkles have already appeared in the show windows of New York department stores. Peterborough may soon see them.

One radio wrinkle is the radio dress. It is made up of radio cloth —short, with a series of "radio waves" running around it!

Another is the radio vanity case. Radio dials form the back of the powder and rouge puffs. And the whole case is in the form of a radio receiver.

Before Christmas, it is predicted, more wrinkles will arrive. Then, for the holidays, there will be the greatest display of radio gifts ever brought out. That is the prediction of New York radio leaders. In fact, one of them foresees the sale of more than $30,000,000 worth of radio goods and radio wrinkles during the holiday season.

FRAIL SAIL BOATS TO CROSS ATLANTIC.

Experimental Trans-Oceanic Voyages the Coming Year.

HAMBURG, September 25 (Associated Press). — Two German sailboats of small dimensions are due to brave the furies of th Atlantic on experimental trans-oceanic voyages within the coming year.

On one of them a party of 13 German artists and professional men plan to circumnavigate the globe. They have recently tested their craft in a trip to Copenhagen, and are now trying to complete arrangements for leaving before the end of the year.

The vessel is 58 feet long, and will carry three writers, three artists, and a number of movie actors from Berlin, accompanied by a Munich doctor. This tour is to be made by way of Holland, Spain, the Canary Islands, Cuba, Mexico, both coasts of South America, the South Sea Islands, China, Japan, India, and the Suez Canal.

It is expected that three weeks will be required in crossing the Atlantic, and the party plans to return home in about two years.

The other enterprise is to be conducted by three German sailors in a 43-foot sailboat of 12 tons, which they themselves intend to build. They will attempt to make the trip from Hamburg to New York, and are planning to sail under the auspices of the Imperial Yacht Club of Wuerttemberg.

It has been reported that American interests agreed to bear the costs of the experiment if the boat carried the American flag, but that the offer was rejected. These seamen do not expect to take to the water before next spring.

FRAIL SAIL BOATS TO CROSS ATLANTIC.

Experimental Trans-Oceanic Voyages. the Coming Year.

HAMBURG, September 25 (Associated Press). — Two German sailboats of small dimensions are due to brave the furies of th Atlantic on experimental trans-oceanic voyages within the coming year.

On one of them a party of 13 German artists and professional men plan to circumnavigate the globe. They have recently tested their craft in a trip to Copenhagen, and are now trying to complete arrangements for leaving before the end of the year.

The vessel is 58 feet long, and will carry three writers, three artists, and a number of movie actors from Berlin, accompanied by a Munich doctor. This tour is to be made by way of Holland, Spain, the Canary Islands, Cuba, Mexico, both coasts of South America, the South Sea Islands, China, Japan, India, and the Suez Canal.

It is expected that three weeks will be required in crossing the Atlantic, and the party plans to return home in about two years.

The other enterprise is to be conducted by three German sailors in a 43-foot sailboat of 12 tons, which they themselves intend to build. They will attempt to make the trip from Hamburg to New York, and are planning to sail under the auspices of the Imperial Yacht Club of Wuerttemberg.

It has been reported that American interests agreed to bear the costs of the experiment if the boat carried the American flag, but that the offer was rejected. These seamen do not expect to take to the water before next spring.

WON $2,500 PRIZE.

TORONTO, Sept. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Gordon Hill Graham, of Peterborough, an author, still in his twenties, is the winner of $2,500, the prize awarded by the publishing firm of Hodder and Stoughton and Musson Book Company for competition among Canadian novelists. There were 250 contestants.

The winner served with distinction overseas, and is said to have been the first Canadian private to win his commission on the field.

The title of the prize-winning novel is "The Bond Triumphant," and the setting of the story is laid in Quebec.

CAR TURNED TURTLE, ONE KILLED INSTANTLY.

OTTAWA, Sept. 25.—(Canadian Press).—George Krause, Dupont, N.J., was instantly killed Saturday night, when the car he was driving turned turtle into a ditch on the Prescott Highway, near Manotick. Lawrence Stagg and Carmen Howe, Brockville, also in the car, escaped injury.

New and Interesting Facts from Science and Life

How Science Now Detects LIARS

HOW science is coming to the aid of justice in learning "the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth" is shown in a highly-interesting experiment recently conducted at the American University in Washington, D. C., by Dr. William Marston, with the aid of a marvelous device called "the lie detector."

The subject of Dr. Marston's experiment was Earl E. Dudding, who served five years for murder committed 12 years ago. Dudding's submission to the "lie detector" is one of his many efforts to establish his innocence and this is said to have resulted in his exoneration by Dr. Marston's "sphygmomanometer," as this instrument also is called.

Dudding shot an uncle in West Virginia durin a quarrel. He contended he shot in self-defence and should not have been punished. A jury convicted him of voluntary manslaughter. Since the verdict, Dudding has asserted he would be vindicated. Dr. Marston explained after the test that Dudding was justified in carrying a gun and killing his uncle.

The first step of Dr. Marston was to take Dudding's blood pressure, and that was 132 millimetres, but dropped first to 118 during the test and later to 116. The high mark was charged to excitement incident to the experience, and the gauge fell as the patient calmed.

While the test was under way Dr. Marston asked Dudding all about the killing. Dudding held to his story of self-defence throughout the grilling. The instrument made a zigzag line.

The "veracity tester" consists of a long silken bag, an indicator, and a bulb to pump air into the tube, and is placed on the brachial or arm artery to test the blood pressure. The bag is wrapped around the arm just above the elbow. Fear, pain and anger cause the indicator to jump around. If the patient tells a lie, Dr. Marston asserts, the needle would jump from 50 to 60 points.

This scientific tell-tale was invented by John A. Larson, Ph.D., A. B., and M. A., a graduate of the University of California and of the Boston University in psychology.

Larson came to Berkeley from the University of Boston to teach at the University of California. While here he became interested in the so-called Marston Deception Test and was prevailed upon by Chief Vollmer of the Berkeley police department to see if he could not modify the same and adapt it to police uses.

The following description of the Marston test is given by P. E. Schreiner, writing in Science and Invention:

The changes in the systolic blood pressure which are produced by emotional disturbances are recorded. The first and very common psychology test is the so-called "Association Test." The second is the galvanometric test and the third is the physiological. In his work Marston considered all methods, but later dispensed with all except that of the blood pressure. The Association test is often cumbersome and difficult to interpret and not very satisfactory for presentation before courts. The second method, that in which the galvanometer is used, is also not utilized easily. The primary difficulty experienced is in the instrument. If proper use of the galvanometer is made, the results are highly satisfactory and important.

In Larson's work, the aim is to eliminate all the variables possible. Thus, if for no other reason than to determine the effect of respiration upon the heart rate, a pneumographic record is taken simultaneously with the blood pressure. In addition to the rhythmitic rise and fall in the blood pressure produced by respiratory changes, there are certain irregular changes in the pressure curve which appear in certain persons, but these are best detected with the pressure slightly below systolic.

The blood pressure is taken with an Erlanger sphygmomanometer, which has the advantage that a continuous record may be taken. It is a modification of this apparatus which Larson expects to make.

Also in his apparatus the time and the exact moment of asking the questions are recorded separately on two drums working together, which are shown directly behind the girl's head. By the use of ordinates crossing all the lines, which shows directly at the subject's right hand, the heart beats and respirations can be recorded as well at the exact instant that the stimulus question or association word is applied.

In Private and Court Investigations Hereafter, Thanks to This New "Lie Detector," Any Hesitancy on the Part of the Witness May Be Instantly Detected by a Change in the Blood Pressure of the Witness as Well as in the Breathing and Rate of Heart Beat.

One problem submitted for solution was to find out who, out of 100 girls living together in a large hall, was responsible for a series of thefts aggregating about $600. Suspicion had centred around three or four girls as the result of the thefts occurring near their rooms. All the evidence which the officer investigating the case had accumulated seemed to point to these girls, yet it was nothing but hearsay evidence. The blood-pressure test was given to which none of the girls refused to submit. Twenty-five of the girls were chosen from the 100, and the test was purposely made without first ascertaining who might be responsible, so that the interpretation of the record might not be biased.

The test was divided into two series, in the first of which 12 girls were taken, including the three thought by the officer to be responsible. Of the girls examined, three were set aside for further investigation, as this first test was very short and was what might be termed a spotting examination. These three girls included the one who eventually admitted being responsible.

The irregularities in the tracings of the other two were but slight.

After the test was over, each girl was asked carefully to tell her real feelings and to analyze her emotions as far as possible during the test. The chief feelings were those of extreme interest, anger at the thought of possible suspicion, and worry or fear, and it is noteworthy that none of these emotions was intense enough to show upon the records.

(1) This test is to determine whether you are in any way responsible for the thefts committed at X. This test will prove whether or not you are telling the truth. The questions are framed with a view to obtain your emotional reaction to them. And in so far as it is possible we would like to have you analyze your feelings at the end of each question and explain to us later just what your feelings were following each question.

(2) Do you like college?
(3) Are you interested in this test?
(4) How much is 30x40?
(5) Are you frightened?
(6) Will you graduate this year?
(7) Do you dance?
(8) Are you interested in mathematics?
(9) Did you steal the money?
(10) The test shows that you stole it. Did you spend it?
(11) Do you know where the money is?
(12) Did you take the money while the rest were at dinner?
(13) Did you take Miss T's ring?
(14) Did you know who took Miss C's money?
(15) Do you know who took it?
(16) Are you accustomed to talk in your sleep when worried?
(17) During the past few nights do you remember having dreamed when you might have been talking in your sleep?
(18) Do you wish at this point to change any of your statements regarding the thefts?

All of these questions were asked each girl. With one exception the records of all the girls investigated showed a marked uniformity and except for rhythmic changes due to respiratory effects and one or two involuntary movements which were noted and indicated on the drum, no differences could be perceived between the effects of the indifferent questions and those appertaining to the thefts.

The record of the guilty subject showed on the drum by increased rate of blood pressure, increased rate of heart beat and many irregularities.

By the use of this apparatus upon most, if not all of the criminals, it is claimed that emotional changes can be found and a close clue can be obtained as to the guilty party.

According to the explanation given by another authority, soft and flexible arteries, with normal blood, generally show relatively low blood pressure. Tough or brittle arteries and abnormally thickened blood tend to increase the blood pressure. The blood pressure of any given individual may be changed momentarily by modified action of the heart. Under stress of excitement the heart acts more or less tumultuously and the blood pressure tends to rise.

NOISES That Are SO LOUD They CANNOT Be HEARD

DURING one of the big battles of the war the sounds of the terrific cannonading in progress were seen moving across the sky. Great parallel arcs of light and shade were viewed passing swiftly across the clouds, not by one person only, but by all the members of a battery of artillery. These bands moved with the exact speed of sound waves—at the rate of a mile in five seconds—and the space between the bands was larger for the big guns than for the small.

This strange sight lasted for about ten minutes, and appears to have depended upon the relative positions of the observers, the guns, and the sun.

It is common knowledge that sound is caused by waves in gases, liquids or solids. In a vacuum—an empty space—sound does not exist. If you could fire a twelve-inch gun from the top of Mount Everest, the sound would be but feeble. Could you carry it much higher, its discharge would be inaudible.

There are rays of light which the eye cannot see, and there are sound waves which the human ear cannot catch.

Ask yourself if you can hear the cry of a bat. Any person who, at the age of forty, is able to hear the thin squeak of the bat, has reason to congratulate himself on being possessed of exceptionally good hearing. The squeak is too high—it has too many vibrations per second to be heard by any ear that is not very delicate.

Some years ago Prof. Galton, the famous anthropologist, invented and constructed a whistle which, by means of an adjustable plug, could be rendered so shrill that presently it ceased to be heard by human ears.

But—here is the curious part of it—after the sound of the whistle had ceased to be audible to any human ear, a dog was still able to hear it, and came readily when it was blown.

Animals and birds hear far better than man. It was noticed during the war that pheasants in coverts were disturbed by the noise of guns at sea, when even children (whose hearing is quicker than that of older folk) could hear nothing at all.

Sound travels better across water than across land. By actual experiment it has been found that across water a person could be distinctly heard, reading aloud, at a distance of 140 feet, whereas on land the same voice only traveled 76 feet.

Across ice, too, and particularly in hard frost, sound travels amazingly. Lt. Foster, on an Arctic expedition, found that he could converse with another man quite easily across the mouth of a bay which was a mile and a quarter wide.

Perfect silence is far rarer than most persons imagine. Even in the quietest room in the depth of the country, on the calmest night, there are always sounds. Absolute silence is only found in deep caves and abandoned mines, and is a really terrifying phenomenon.

It makes the ear ache in a desperate effort to catch some sound, however tiny. In such a place the beating of one's own heart and the rush of blood through the arteries will become perceptible.

Nervous MOTHERS and Sickly BABIES

IT is old knowledge that the nervous and mental condition of a mother affects the growth and development of the new-born child. The most recent workings of the science of physiology confirm this. The matter is an extremely important one, since the progress of the race rests with it largely. It has also been known that the mental and nervous condition affects the well being of the nursing child.

Drs. Sisson and Dennis report in the Journal of the American Medical Association certain interesting data on the relation to the material psychology and the amount of salt contained in the milk. The doctors embarked on a study of the mineral constituents of mother's milk to obtain evidence as to whether some of the more obscure nutritional disorders of infants might be due to abnormalities in the mineral content of the food, as is it perfectly conceivable that an excess of inorganic salts may be as deleterious to nutrition as a deficiency. In this report only the chlorids of human milk will be considered.

"From our observations," these two physicians say, "we feel that diet is not the essential cause in the variation in the chlorin content, and that some other factor must play an important part.

"As it is well established that the percentage of chlorin in the blood is constant, it seemed possible that the threshold for chlorin secretion may vary in different subjects and also may be very unstable in certain mothers, and thus explain the variation found in different specimens. As many of these mothers were well known to us it was possible to study their history, and it was found that in most instances the stable, phlegmatic type of mother gave a milk that showed essentially no variation in the chlorin concentration in specimens collected every three hours during the day.

"The mothers, on the other hand, whose milk showed marked variation in almost all instances were very unstable types. There was no constant relation between the amount of milk obtained from these mothers and the chlorin content of their milk.

"It was interesting to note that the babies of the stable, phlegmatic mothers giving an adequate amount of milk always gained satisfactorily, while in many instances the babies of the "nervous" mothers often develop diarrhoea and failed to gain normally."

ANALYZING STEEL by Its SPARKS

A SIMPLE method of analyzing special kinds of steel, now used in France, is based upon the character of the sparks emitted when the steel is pressed upon a grindstone. Each kind of steel gives its own characteristic shower of sparks, from which a practiced eye can judge of its hardness and quality.

Forms That the Sparks of Various Steels Take on Grinding—(A) Magnetic Steel (orange); (B) Rapid Tool Steel (dark red); (C) Manganese Steel (white); (D) Steel with High Carbon Content (white).

There are three principal forms of sparks. In the first, the incandescent particle makes very fine luminous threads. In the second, the shower is decorated with a few explosions of tiny "shells." In the third, the shower is made up of these little explosions. In addition to these forms the expert classifies the sparks by their color, red, yellow or white in a great variety of shades. The grinding is of course done in a dark room.

A piece of steel containing little carbon makes straight yellow lines; as the content of carbon increases explosive sparks appear and become more numerous the more carbon there is, and the straight rays diminish in size and number. Steels with a high carbon content give a short shower of sparks, explosions taking place near the extremity and all dazzlingly white.

Steels containing 18 per cent. tungsten give only a few dark red rays. Chrome-tungsten steel gives bright red and dark red rays alternating with the white. Manganese steels give white sparks with explosions at the end and sometimes in the middle.

How MATCHES Are Made MOIST-PROOF

THERE has just been put on the French market a moisture-proof match, the invention of M. Dubrisay, an official of the French government. According to a governmental report, satisfactory tests have been made with these new matches, which ignite without difficulty after remaining for almost a year under a bell-jar side by side with an evaporating dish filled with water. They will even ignite after having been placed for several moments in either fresh or salt water, provided the sticks are dried either in the air or by wiping.

The striking surface of the boxes in which these matches are packed is likewise unaffected by humidity. Its composition has a base of amorphous phosphorus identical wih that on ordinary boxes, but the agglutinating substance consists of a solution of silicate of soda.

The paste from which the heads of matches are made generally consists of substances of three sorts thoroughly mixed together, such as: (1) Active substances (chlorate of potash, bichromate, sesquisulphide of phosphorus, etc.); (2) Inert substances (powdered glass, zinc oxid, ochers, etc.); (3) Agglutinating substances (solutions of gum or glue).

The last named substances are indispensable, not only to make the paste adhere to the stick, but also to give it the desired consistency and lessen the violence of the ignition. Unfortunately, gums and glues undergo alteration when damp. In moist air they swell and soften so that friction fails to ignite the match. This is the principal cause for the deterioration of matches in the course of time.

Because of this fact the idea at once suggests itself that it would be desirable to substitute for the third ingredient substances not altered by moisture. This, however, is easier said than done. M. Dubrisay solved the problem by employing as agglutinants the artificial resins called bakelites, from the name of their inventor, the American chemist, Bakeland. These substances are capable of being heated to 300 deg. centigrade without undergoing decomposition. But ordinary bakelite is manufactured at a very high temperature, and does not harden except when heated under pressure to 160 deg. centigrade—a prohibitive temperature for the manufacture of match paste. Dubrisay got around this difficulty by devising a modified form of bakelite which is made rapidly and at a comparatively low temperature.

There are two stages of manufacture. The first step is to mix together chlorate of potash, resorcin, and soda lye. A second mixture is made of manganese dioxid, phosphorus and formol. These are then thoroughly mixed together by means of a spatula. The paste thus formed will solidify at the ordinary temperature of the workroom if sufficient time is allowed, but hardening can be accomplished in half an hour by using dryers at a temperature of 40 to 50 deg. centigrade.

NOSE DRILL to CURE ADENOIDS

IN case of adenoids, when for any reason an operation is not advisable, Dr. G. H. Hickling puts children through a nasal drill once a week for six months and encourages them to go through the drill at home. The British Medical Journal describes the drill as follows:

In a room with the windows wide open the children are placed as far apart as possible, standing, and a piece of soft paper is given to each as a handkerchief. Then at the command: One, all stand erect—chest out, shoulders erect, etc.; two, hold paper ready spread out in the left hand beneath the nostrils; three, grasp the nose between the eyes, leaving the nostrils open, with the elbow at the level of the shoulder; four, blow down the nose, bowing the head forward and down and at the same time depressing the elbow to the waist line, the top of the nose still being held; five, breathe in. Repeat three, four and five, rhythmically, about ten times and then burn and replace the soiled paper.

Next the nose is irrigated by inducing sneezing with a mild non-irritating snuff of menthol and soap, which is flicked on the septum just within the nostril. After sneezing, the nose pumping is resumed, and then the sneezing and pumping are repeated, until there is little or no discharge. Lastly, breathing exercises are performed through first one and then the other nostril, and finally through both. The importance of breathing through the nose is emphasized and also the necessity of the daily nose toilet.

The local results are chiefly diminution in the discharge, and in some instances a decrease in the adenoid growth, though this result is by no means marked. There is, however, a marked improvement in the general condition of the child. The carriage is better, there is less mouth breathing and snoring, the child is less subject to colds, the sleep and appetite improve markedly so that there is an increase in weight, and the speech and hearing are much improved. It is concluded that in cases where operation is inadvisable or where the actual hypertrophy of tissue is small this procedure is of advantage.

Why Boiling Makes Eggs Hard

AN egg contains a large proportion of albumen, intended by nature for the nourishment of the growing chick.

This albumen belongs to a class of substances which have the peculiarity of "coagulating" or turning solid when exposed to a certain degree of heat. The action is a permanent chemical change, and these substances will not again soften with a drop in temperature. For this reason, scientists explain, the boiled egg hardens.

It is, too, for this reason that it is impossible to cook an egg on the top of a high mountain, for there, owing to a lesser atmospheric pressure, the water boils at a lower temperature, and this temperature being under the "coagulation point" makes it impossible to "cook" an egg.

Why Your WEIGHT Is INCREASED by Walking WESTWARD

WHEN one is walking due east one weighs less than when standing still; when walking due west one weighs more than when standing still.

The difference is only a few hundredths of an ounce, so that one would need very delicate scales to measure it. A loaded car weighing a hundred tons, when standing still, loses about forty pounds when moving toward the east at twenty-five miles an hour, and gains about forty pounds when moving toward the west at a similar speed.

When your body is standing still on the earth, scientists explain, it is the object of two forces, the first of which, your own weight, is directed vertically, and tends to keep you pressed to the ground; the second is the centrifugal force caused by the rotation of the earth on its axis. This is directed at a tangent to the circumference of the earth.

The earth turns from west to east, so if your weight suddenly became nothing, thus leaving no force holding you to the ground, you would fly off the earth in an eastward direction. You would go on at a speed of about a thousand miles an hour until you were lost in space or came into collision with the moon or another planet or some star, or until you recovered your weight and were drawn by gravitation back to the earth, on which you would land, of course, if you had been going only a few minutes, at the same spot from which you started, but if you had been going several hours, at a spot farther west.

Gravitation and centrifugal are the two forces which are blended in acting on your body, whether you stand still or move, and the resultant is the weight you feel.

If you move in the direction of the earth's rotation, from west to east, the centrifugal force increases, and the weight of your body diminishes; if you move contrariwise to the earth's rotation, from east to west, the centrifugal force decreases and the weight of your body increases.

A man weighing two hundred and twenty pounds walking at two and a half miles an hour toward the east loses 0.0643014 ounce, and gains a like amount when walking westward at the same speed.

An apparatus has been invented by a mathematician, which demonstrates these variations visibly.

What Makes You Sneeze?

SNEEZING, like breathing, or the action of the heart, is involuntary and for the most part beyond conscious control. The nose, as the natural breathing apparatus, is furnished with a very delicate "filter" against dust and germs. From this membrane to the brain stretches a "telephone" nerve. When the membrane is irritated by dust, or inflammation, or in any way, a danger signal is automatically flashed to the brain, which then orders a sneez to clear away the foreign intruder.

A sharp intake of breath is caused, the wind pipe is momentarily closed, and the sneeze has to find an exit from the nose, thus cleaning the membrane filter in the process.

PETES EVEN UP SERIES BEAT BELLEVILLE 2-0

WON IN THE EIGHTH.

In the best game of the year and before the biggest crowd that ever saw an amateur fixture in Peterborough, the Petes evened up the Central Ontario League play-off series with Belleville at Riverside Park on Saturday, triumphing over the Easterners 2 to 0, and thus returning the dose of whitewash administered to them by Belleville on Wednesday. As a result the championship will depend upon the third game of the series, which will be played at Oshawa Wednesday. The winners of that crucial battle will meet Hillcrests in Toronto on Saturday in the O.B.A.A. senior semi-finals.

Saturday's game was not won until the eighth innings, seven frames of sparking baseball preceding the scoring of the two runs that put the fixture in the Petes' bat bag. It was a battle worthy of the occasion and of the huge crowd, great pitching and spectacular fielding keeping the fans on their toes from the time Al. Heckman shot the first ball down the alley to Ross until Max Swanston smothered Casey's high foul for the third out in the ninth. There hasn't been a more colourful ball game staged in the Central League this season, and enthusiasts who came a long distance to see the battle felt amply rewarded.

It was a pitcher's duel between Heckman, Peterborough's right-handed ace, and Jack Williams, Belleville's sensational Indian southpaw, and although Heckman allowed seven hits, as opposed to three off his opponent, he outpitched the lefthander inasmuch as he kept the blows well scattered and allowed but one walk, while Williams showed lack of control, passing no fewer than seven men. Williams, although stingy in the matter of hits, was not the Williams of Wednesday. His strike-out record shrank from eighteen to six, and whereas the Petes went out in order in five of the nine innings at Belleville they had men on bases in every innings of Saturday's fixture, and the Indian had to be a bit lucky as well as clever to prevent scores earlier in the game.

Fine Fielding.

The great defensive work of the Petes was a feature. Central League critics have been sizing up the Peterborough crew all season as having nothing but a battery, but the outfit rose to the occasion Saturday and turned in as smooth a fielding game as any fan would ask to see.

The gem of the day, of course, was the spectacular double play made possible by the steel-springed arm of Herb Wolfe in the sixth that cut Belleville out of a run that would have looked as big as the national debt at that stage of the game.

With ont out Peeme Mills was on first when Harry Mills got hold of a fast one and drove the ball to the edge of the field in deep right. It looked like a sure run as the burly catcher sped over second, turned third and pounded in towards the plate. Wolfe, however, picked up the ball and cut loose with a wonderful throw that sent the Spalding straight as an arrow into Heckman's hands. The pitcher shot the ball to Swanston, and the surprised "Peenie" was out at the plate, while Swanston's quick wit turned the play into a double killing, his bullet-like throw to Holyman nailing Harry Mills, who had overrun second. The crowd went wild over this play and their joy was excusable.

Tommy Holyman, at shortstop, was in the limelight with two or three plays that fairly sparkled. His grab of Ross' sizzler and quick toss to Johnston in the fifth for a forceout of Williams killed a great Belleville chance for a counter, and his play on Weir in the fifth when he threw the speedy Belleville shortstop out on a toss from deep short was of big league calibre. Johnston showed how second base should be covered by accepting seven chances without a skip, and Collins and Long did all that was asked of them nicely. In the outfield everything was taken care of in fine style. Swanston's neat throw in the eighth was another play that relieved a delicate situation. With Ross on third and Weir at first, two out and the dangerous Peenie Mills at bat, Swanston nailed Weir with a perfect throw to Johnston when he tried to steal second.

Belleville also did some fine fielding, notably Weir, who covered a vast amount of territory and made a fine catch of Swanston's fly back of second.

The crowd numbered very close to 3,000 people and incluued ians from all sections of Eastern Ontario, from Napanee on the east to Oshawa. Belleville had several hundred rooters, many of whom arrived on a special train, and every Central League town had a big quota here. The Central Ontario League officials occupied seats in the grandstand.

The Petes were without the services of their famous pilot, Manager Solomon, who by reason of Saturday being the Jewish New Year could take no part in the game. The team was nicely handled by Max Swanston, however, and came through with a fine win.

A queer feature was that the only three hits made by the Petes were all registered by one player, Shaughnessy, who singled in the second and sixth and came through with a most timely double in the eighth.

How It All Happened.

Belleville went out in order in the first. Ross lifted a high one to Johnston and Weir and W. Mills fanned.

For Peterborough, Holyman was called out on strikes. Johnston got a life on Meagher's fumble, and was sacrificed to second by Swanston, but Heckman grounded to third.

Harry Mills led off for Belleville with a single between short and third. J. K. Williams fanned. Meagher sacrificed Mills to second, but Casey was easy on a fly to Holyman.

In the Petes' half Wolfe bunted a foul to W. Mills. Shaughnessy singled past the box, but Bergoine and Long missed three.

Belleville wasted a hit in the third. Hagerman and Williams were easy by the strike-out route, and after Ross had singled to centre Wolfe grabbed Weir's fly to the same field.

Collins fanned to open the Petes' end of the frame. Holyman drew a pass and Johnston sacrificed. Swanston's good bid for a hit gave Weir a chance for a pretty catch back of second.

In Belleville's fourth Bergoine made a nice catch of W. Mills' fly to right. Harry Mills fanned and J. K. Williams flied to Johnston.

Three walks and some good base running went for nothing in the Petes' half. Heckman, first up, gave Ross a fly in centre, but Wolfe drew a pass. Shaughnessy flied to Hagerman, after which Wolfe stole second. Bergoine walked. Wolfe purloined third neatly, and on next ball, Bergoine stole second. A pass to Long filled the bases, but Collins' foul fly to Peeney Mills ended the innings.

Meagher lined into Collins' hands in Belleville's fifth innings. Casey was safe when his awkward bounder got away from Long. Hagerman missed three, but J. H. Williams singled cleanly to right. A beautiful play by Holyman averted trouble at this stage. Ross, next up, burned a grounder to short that looked like a sure hit, but Holyman went over fast, scooped up the roller and shot the ball to Johnston in time to force Williams at second.

Holyman, first up for the Petes in the fifth, was out on a tap in front of the plate, and Johnston popped to Weir. Swanston worked Williams for a pass, but was forced at second on Heckman's roller to Weir.

A fine play by Holyman and a remarkable throw by Wolfe that resulted in a double play featured the sixth. Weir opened with a rap to short and Holyman, who was playing deep, got him by a step on a long and accurate peg. Billy Mills singled to right and brother Harry followed with a long double to right centre. Wolfe recovered the ball, and when W. Mills tried to score Wolfe's toss from deep right to Heckman gave the pitcher a chance to nip the Belleville backstop at the plate by a toss to Swanston. Harry Mills overran second on the play, and Swanston's quick peg to Holyman nailed him before he could get back. The great double killing sent the crowd into a frenzy of delight.

Shaughnessy got his second hit in the Petes' half. Wolfe was thrown out by Williams to start with, and then Shaughnessy singled past third. Bergoine was tossed out by Williams and Long rolled to Weir.

In the seventh Shaughnessy disposed of J. K. Williams and Meagher by two nice catches, and Long grabbed Casey's roller and beat the runner to first.

The Petes got a man to third with only one out, but could not score. After Collins had flied to H. Mills Holyman walked, and went to second when H. Mills let the pitcher's throw get away. A passed ball sent him to third, but Johnston and Swanston struck out.

Hagerman started Belleville's eighth with a walk, but was forced at second by Williams' rap to Collins. Williams in turn was forced by Ross, Holyman making a fast play to get the runner. Ross stole second. Weir hit to Holyman, who fumbled, but nearly got Ross off third. With Ross at the difficult corner, Weir tried to steal second and was nailed on Swanston's accurate peg to Johnston, a play that averted possible trouble.

The Petes won out in their half. Heckman was passed to start with, but was forced at second on Wolfe's rap to J. K. Williams. Shaughnessy doubled to left, and Wolfe came home on the drive, but was sent back to third because of the ground rule that allowed only two bases on a hit into the left field crowd. Mills tried to catch Wolfe off third and threw into left field, Wolfe scoring the first run of the game, while Shaughnessy went to third. Bergoine's sacrifice fly sent "Shag" in with run No. 2. Long's good bid for a hit was nicely fielded by Meagher.

Peenie Mills was first up for Belleville in the ninth and popped to Long. Harry Mills started a flurry by singling to left, and J. K. Williams got a single past Collins. Another hit at this stage would have been dangerous, but Meagher's best was a high fly back of second that Holyman grabbed, and Swanston ended the game when he ran over to the Petes' bench and made a fine catch of Casey's foul.

Decision in the American League Deferred By Cleveland's Win From New York.

AMERICAN.

Cleveland 3, New York 0.

CLEVELAND, O., September 25 (Canadian Press). — New York failed to cinch the American League pennant yesterday for the reason that Cleveland unexpectedly inflicted a 3 to 0 defeat. The contest was a pitchers' battle between Uhle and Shawkey. The former allowed but six hits, scattered in as many innings, and only one of them was a clean drive. Double plays aided Uhle in two innings, while in the seventh when the first two Yankees reached first Uhle caused Ward and Scott to pop out, and then fanned Shawkey.

Ruth tripled in the sixth, but there were two out, and he failed to score.

CARPENTIER KNOCKED OUT BY S. SIKI, THE SENEGALESE

CROWD UPROARIOUS.

PARIS, Sept. 24. — (Canadian Press).—Georges Carpentier, the heavyweight champion boxer of Europe, was defeated today by Battling Siki, the Senegalese fighter, in the sixth round of what was to have been a twenty-round bout.

Carpentier never had a chance after the third round. He was barely able to respond to the bell at the beginning of the sixth. With his right eye completely closed and his nose broken, he was unable to put up a guard.

In the sixth the negro fighter planted a series of terrific rights to Carpentier's head, and the French idol crumpled to the floor. One of his legs caught between the legs of the Senegalese while he was falling.

The crowd, the largest that ever witnessed a boxing contest in France, sensed the end. All was uproar. Many persons jumped into the ring and carried the Senegalese on their shoulders to his corner.

Crowd Threatened Officials.

The referee, Harry Bernstein, at first ruled that Siki had been disqualified for "tripping," but the throng, which considered that Carpentier had been beaten squarely by a better man, received the decision with a great chorus of hoots and jeers, even threatening the referee with bodily harm. The three judges of the fight, Victor Breyer, Jean Pujol, Frenchmen, and Mr. Bennison of London, went into consultation. An hour later they declared the negro the winner. Their verdict was received with terrific cheers from the spectators who had remained in the arena for it, many of them in an ugly mood. Carpentier had been hooted by large numbers of the crowd as he was taken from the ring to his dressing room.

The defeat of Carpentier was entirely unexpected. Carpentier was the freshest when the men entered the ring, and the crowd was dumbfounded when they saw their idol pummelled all over the ring.

Carpentier tried every trick of his ring knowledge to stave off his defeat. Twice he was warned for butting during the fifth round. It seemed evident that he was anxious to be disqualified by the referee rather than to suffer the ignominy of a knockout.

In the first round, Siki rushed out of his corner and met the Frenchman before he was fairly off his chair. Carpentier, however, caught the black man with two straight rights. Siki covered up and then went down to one knee from a light left. The referee ordered him up.

Carpentier then swung two hard rights to the jaw. Siki took them, merely shaking his head and bored in. Carpentier's face wore a puzzled expression, although plainly he was holding back. Siki did not land a clean blow.

Siki's Iron Jaw.

In the second round Carpentier, with a look of disdain in his face, repeatedly jabbed Siki with his left without return. Then, as Siki was rushing in, he caught the negro flush on the jaw with a terrific right swing. Carpentier drew back, expecting Siki to drop under the blow. Siki, however, instead rushed in and shot two short hooks to the body. This surprised Carpentier.

Just before the bell Carpentier again caught Siki flush on the chin, but the negro merely grinned at him and said: "You don't hit very hard, Mr. Georges." The round was Carpentier's by a wide margin, but the Frenchman was puffing hard as he wandered to his corner. Also, he had lost his confident smile.

In the third round Siki rushed from his corner toward Carpentier. Carpentier backed away and sparred cautiously. Then he feinted with his left and, obtaining an opening, drove a hard right to Siki's jaw. The negro dropped to one knee and took a count of seven. Then he jumped up and caught Carpentier with left and right swings to the stomach. Carpentier went down and took a count of four. When the Frenchman arose he plainly was groggy. Siki, seeing his advantage, showered rights and lefts on him, always playing for the stomach. He had Carpentier gasping for breath and staggering at the end of the round.

A Battered Idol.

In the fourth round Siki pummelled Carpentier all over the ring. The Frenchman was barely able to withstand the punishment. He was bleeding, his right eye was closed, his nose was flattened and his mouth was wide open. Carpentier resorted to all the known tricks of his long experience. He endeavored to hold the arms of the negro under his own armpits. Siki, overanxious to finish his man, missed many blows that would have ended the bout had they landed. Meanwhile, Georges occasionally shot wicked rights against his opponent, which, however, failed to slow him up. Up to this time the negro showed no marks of punishment.

In the fifth round, Siki again sprang to the offensive from his corner, intending quickly to polish off the Frenchman. Carpentier met the attack with a low blow and was warned by Referee Bernstein. The low blow seemed to enrage Siki, who went furiously at Carpentier, missing numerous swings. Finally, however, he caught Carpentier with a short hook to the jaw and the Frenchman went down. Carpentier, who was near the ropes, gripped them in rising and butted Siki in the stomach. The Frenchman was helpless. Again he was warned by the referee for butting.

Meanwhile the crowd was yelling to the referee to stop the encounter. When the bell rang, Carpentier groggily staggered to his corner.

The Knockout.

When the gong rang for the sixth round Carpentier came out, hardly able to stand. A majority of the spectators expected his second, Descamps, to throw up the sponge, as the Frenchman was unable to put up his hands. A short uppercut from Siki sent Carpentier reeling backwards, and then the negro drove hard rights and lefts to the body. Carpentier crumpled to the floor, half way through the ropes, completely out, after one minute and ten seconds of fighting.

At the end of the bout Siki was remarkably fresh and bore no signs of the encounter.

"You had better cable Mr. Rickard tonight that I am willing to fight Dempsey right away," said the Senegalese to the Associated Press correspondent.

Siki fought a clean and fair battle. He had the crowd with him in the last two rounds, especially after he had lifted Carpentier from the floor when the Frenchman was virtually helpless in the fifth round. As he placed Carpentier on his feet the Frenchman swung blindly a wicked left to Siki's jaw. This caused the crowd to hoot and jeer Carpentier.

The reversal of the first decision of the referee in giving the bout to Carpentier on an alleged foul probably saved the boxing game in France from a black eye, as the crowd apparently was unwilling to countenance a fairly defeated man, completely out and helpless, being called the winner.

WILLS CHALLENGES THE NEW CHAMPION.

Purse of $150,000 Offered For Fight With Carpentier's Victor.

NEW YORK, September 25. Canadian Press.—An offer of $150,000 for a 15-round decision contest with Harry Wills, the negro heavyweight, was cabled to-night to Battling Siki, the Senegalese boxer, who defeated Georges Carpentier in Paris, to-day, by the match maker for the Ebbets-McKeever Exhibition Company, operators of Ebbets' Field, Brooklyn.

The offer suggested October 12th as the date for the bout with the idea that Siki is now in good physical condition and could reach this country in a week's time. Should this be unacceptable, however, Siki was advised that the offer holds good for a contest next year oo May 30 (Memorial day.)

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Sept. 25. — Canadian Press. — Terry Martin, the Providence bantam weight, in a ten-round bout here yesterday afternoon easily won the decision over Terry McHugh, of Allentown, Pa, bantamweight champion of his state.

The teams:

De Laval—Frick, Ashmore, Ward, Feeley, Cooper, Marchin, Bell, Nash, Evans, Smith and Elliot.

NEW YORK VISIONS THE WORLD'S SERIES.

Both Teams Have Advantage Over League Rivals.

NEW YORK, September 25. Canadian Press. — One more victory for either the Yankees or the Giants, or a defeat for their pennant rivals, the St. Louis Browns and the Pittsburg Pirates, will clinch the 1922 major league championship for the New York clubs.

Both Gotham clubs were defeated to-day while the Browns were winning and the Pirates dividing a doubleheader. Neither New York team, however, can finish in worse than a tie for the first place, even if they lose all of their remaining games while their rivals make a clean sweep of the rest of the schedule.

The Giants have eight more games and the Pirates three while the Yankees have four and the Browns three to play.

WOOLLENS LOST GAME SATURDAY

The Score Was 4-0 — Best Team Won.

Comrades were the winners in their league game with the Woollens at King Edward Park on Saturday, the score 4 goals to 0 being a fair index of the play.

Comrades started off facing the sun and the breeze, and in three minutes were a goal up, Shaw beating Williams with a low shot. Play changed round in favor of Woollens, but any shots that came Fenner's way were dealt with in able fashion. Gaskell got past the defence, but Fenner came out and saved. The goalkeeper had another clever save from a shot by Downes with Shuttle following up.

The Comrades' attack was dangerous on every raid, but the one-back defence adopted by the Woollens spoiled many a nice run. Comrades had a slice of luck following a corner nicely placed by Downes, the ball being passed back and forward in the goal mouth, with no one able to finish the play. The defence came out on top and Rae transferred the play with a nice kick. Jackson was hurt in a tackle with Downes and had to retire.

Craig got Comrades' second goal ten minutes from half time. Taking a pass from Hoggarth in mid-field, he beat the backs and went right through and scored.

In the second half Comrades were well ahead of the Woollens on play. Jackson resumed at outside right, Brown dropping back. The third goal came from a pass by Shaw to Craig, whose shot was deflected through the goal by Read. Shaw finished the scoring with a surprise shot which beat Williams.

Score—Woollens 0, Comrades 4.

The players were:

Woollens—Williams, Read, Cridland, Monkman, Chambers, Hillman, Hopkins, Gaskell, Shuttle, Griffin and Downes.

Comrades — Fenner, Anderson, Rae, Jackson, Hoggarth, Sayers, Brown, Shaw, Craig, Hill and Hanson.

Referee—A. McKinley.

CITY RUGBY LEAGUE OPENED SATURDAY WITH TWO GAMES

Collegiates Defeated the Crescents By 10-0 and Excelsiors Won From Belmonts By 12-7 — Plenty of Promising Material in the Four Teams.

ARE WELL BALANCED.

Rugby crowded close upon baseball for the athletic spotlight on Saturday afternoon with two games in the newly organized City League. At the Nicholls Oval, from one to two o'clock, the Crescents and Collegiates opened the schedule, under the direction of Dr. Wood, the students winning by 10-0, and after the ball game at Riverside the Excelsiors and Belmonts battled until dark, Dr. Dick Sheehy's Excelsiors defeating Dr. Frank's clubmen by the score of 12 to 7.

Both games were played under difficulties, but Dr. Wood wisely decided to go through with the programme in spite of the handicap of a certain unpreparedness, rather than upset the plans with postponements. No one expected the teams to show anything in the shape of condition or rugby form, but the little knots of spectators who witnessed both games must have been favorably impressed by the promising material that was disclosed.

Collegiates looked like the best of the quartette, but the league seems to be well balanced, and with hard work anything may happen from now on. Apparently the four teams are giving most attention to the development of trick plays, but all of them should be first well grounded in the rules of the game.

Fanning, for Collegiates, did a lot of hard work and went over for the only touch at the Oval. Mike Sheehy's tackling was a feature. Both teams attempted running plays with some success, but their assortment was limited and unfinished. Two bucks and kick was the chief method of attack in both games.

Dr. Wood and Ross Dobbin were the officials.

The teams were:

Collegiates—Flying wing, Mulholland; halves, Fanning, Maniece and Browne; quarter, H. Young; snap, Parrington; outside wings, Stevens and Johnston; middle wings, Bookhout and Stacey; inside wings, Cowan and D. Hay.

Crescents—Flying wing, T. Rutherford; halves, L. Picard, M. Sheehy and W. Hatrick; quarter, Bill Jackson; snap, C. Carson; outside wings, George Rutherford and B. Hay; middle wings, Ted Jackson and S. McPherson; inside wings, B. Hickey and G. Evans. Spares—Griffin, Simms and Ashmore.

The Riverside Game.

The Riverside match provided the better brand of rugby, especially in the early periods before the darkness blotted out the players from the side lines. Excelsiors scored two touches, one on an intercepted pass and the other when Rishor gathered up the ball after Northey muffed Pogue's punt in the dark. These ten points looked rather lucky. Excelsiors had the score 7-1 at half time, but in the third quarter "Doc" Frank, who was the driving power behind the Belmont bucks, carried the ball over and a rouge made it a tie. Excelsiors in the last period were driven almost to their line, but the Belmonts failed to make the full distance, and Rishor's neat play shortly after gave Excelsiors a lead, which they held safely.

Dr. Frank did the bulk of the work for Belmonts. Northey handled Pogue's kicks cleanly except for the unfortunate break in the last session. Frank Jobbitt ran the ball and tackled in fine style. For Excelsiors Max Sloan and Huff did most of the plunging, and did it effectively, and McLeod and Pogue on the half line handled themselves well. C. S. Browne was referee and occasionally instructor, and in both respects was most satisfactory.

The line-up was as follows:

Belmonts—Flying wing, Willoughby; halves, Frank Jobbitt, Lorne Northey and Alex. Thompson; quarter, Alex. Darling; snap, Batten; outside wings, Fanning and Barber; middle wings, Turnbull and Crowe; inside wings, Dr. Frank and C. Stuart. Spares—Wilgar, Welsh and Anderson.

Excelsiors—Flying wing, J. Ward; halves, A. McLeod, R. Pogue and A. Tingley; quarter, Brooks; snap, Mason; outside wings, Rishor and Richardson; middle wings, Huff and E. Sheehy; inside wings, Perry and Sloan. Spare—Sturgeon.

Diamond Dust

When Wolfe scored in the eighth Saturday it was the first run registered by the Petes in twenty-two innings, since the fourth innings of the game with Leaside.

* * *

Wednesday's play-off game will be umpired by Boundy behind the bat and Wilson of Oshawa and Large of Bowmanville on the bases.

* * *

Most of the fans expected Belleville to use Mallen on the rubber Saturday, saving Williams for the play-off. Belleville, however, staked everything on Williams coming through with a win.

* * *

Saturday's game was the eighteenth straight win for the Petes at Riverside Park. They have not been beaten before a home crowd this season.

COLLINS "SIZES UP" N. Y. GIANTS

This is the first of seven articles written for the Examiner by Eddie Collins of the Chicago White Sox. Collins has played in more world series games than any other major league player.

By Eddie Collins
World's Greatest Second Baseman

FOLLOWING a series of 14 games this past spring between the Giants and White Sox, which was bitterly fought and closely contested, I remarked to McGraw, "You have got the best National League team I ever saw."

With the possible exception of one position, centre field, which I hear Cunningham and the veteran Stengle have filled most acceptably, I didn't see how a single man could have been replaced with any advantage gained by the Giants.

With any pitching at all it looked a cinch for them to walk home, and apparently with very little good twirling they have simply slugged their way to another pennant.

As this story is being written, it looks as though the Pirates at present were playing the best ball of any National League team, but I am of the opinion their rush is too late, and for this reason I will confine my discussion to the Giants alone as the most probable National League world series contestant.

The infields of the old Chicago Clubs and the Athletics of former days, it is admitted, were pretty good, but if either of those two had anything on the present Giant inner works, time along will tell. It's a cinch none could have begun better.

Ideal First Baseman

Taken individually: Kelly is an ideal first baseman, possessed with the best arm I've seen in baseball. A sure fielder, he is as consistent a performer as a manager could desire. Over a .300 hitter, a slugger distinctly, not fast, but he is dangerous at all times.

At second base, in Frankie Frisch I think the Giants have the best ball player in the National League. As I make this statement I can hear the name of Hornsby mentioned. In justice to the latter, let me say it's never been my pleasure to see him perform in a league game, but if he can better the work of my Fordham friend, in all departments of play, he's got to go some.

As a fielder, base runner, hitter (either right or left handed), slugger or bunter, the best compliment I can think of to pay Frankie is, he is the Sisler of the National League.

In Bancroft at short, I think you see a typical McGraw man—at his best when the going is the toughtest. Not as consistent or steady as some shortstops, but one who can rise to dizzy heights and save many a ball game. There may have been better National League shortstops, but never on a Giant team.

Groh rounds out the infield at third to perfection. Handicapped this year by injury, but when himself a wonderful fielder, especially of hard-hit balls. Groh is a most dangerous man at bat and best hit-and-run man on the club.

Best Utility Man

In Johnny Rawlings, McGraw has undoubtedly the best utility man in baseball.

With Young, next to Frisch, the best ball player on the club, Irish Meusel and either Cunningham or Stengel to take care of the outfield, and either Smith or Snyder behind the bat. McGraw can put a team on the field that looks hard to beat.

However, the one apparent weakness in the Giants' style of play is its lack of versatility. There is too much sameness about every game with the Giants.

Rarely is the "unexpected" pulled by any of its members. I am told McGraw does not encourage initiative on the part of any of even his more experienced men.

From my observation I have always found McGraw's teams playing slambang baseball, rarely resorting to the sacrificing game, unless in the very late stages and the score tied.

On the contrary, if only one behind, it appears as though he says to his men "win or lose" it in this inning; don't play to tie.

With a pitching staff, or even two men—all that are really needed in a world series—that measured any way close to the calibre of the rest of the team, McGraw's opponent would be the one who would have to do all the worrying.

Nehf I admired, and liked his work and actions immensely. He reminded me greatly of Eddie Plank. Why he hasn't done better this year, 'I cant imagine.

Scott I've never seen work, but the rest don't look formidable enough to me to stop the American League entry.

Maple Leafs have completed their work-outs in preparation for their hard game with St. Mary's of Lindsay, at Riverside Park, to-morrow afternoon. The teams will be ready to start the contest promptly at 4.30. Bradley and Delahaye will do the battery work for the Leafs.

Canadian Generals go to Picton tomorrow for their tussle with Croft & Company. This is the series the Generals have been awaiting since last fall, when Picton put them out. The second game may be played at Tweed.

McCormicks of Toronto, come here next Saturday afternoon for the first of the home-and-home series with Adanacs.

A win for the Leafs to-morrow against Lindsay will move the locals into the finals for the Ontario midget championship. The Leafs deserve a big turnout of fans at the game.

The clubs of the City Baseball League will hold a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday evening at 7.30 o'clock to wind up the business of the season. All four junior clubs should be represented.

QUAKERS DEFEATED THE C. G. E. TEAM

Quaker Oats avenged the defeat given them in the Peck Cup game by the C.G.E. by putting the electricians out of the running for the Gordon Lup. The game was very ragged throughout, with the winners displaying the best play. C.G.E. were short a few of their regulars.

There was no scoring in the first half, the play being mostly in midfield, any attack on either side being broken up by the defences. In the second half C. Griffin was kept busy saving from a forward line which was playing with confidence. Foster forced a corner, and placing the ball well G. Logan scored the only goal of the game with a lightning shot. Monk got through at the other end, but hesitated before shooting and J. Willshaw nipped in and cleared. Mander was injured and had to leave the field for repairs. Nearing the finish G. Logan got well away, only a smart save by Griffin keeping the goal from materializing.

Teams were:

Quaker Oats—G. Griffin, J. Willshaw, Honour, W. Logan, Clark, Hepburn, R. Willshaw, Russell, G. Logan, Croft and Foster.

C.G.E.—C. Griffin, Lupton, Bestard, Williams, McMillan, Mann, Mander, Young, Dyer, Monk and Bartley.

Referee—J. Clark.

Little Lessons For the Golfer

(By George O'Neill.)

I have watched many players who made a sort of desperate effort to get the clubhead up over the left shoulder after the stroke, some of them even going through a series of motions that amounted almost to forcing the club around and back over the left shoulder, though the club had no tendency to go there by itself. The player who reads this and finds something personal in it, or the player who finishes his stroke with the club anywhere except well around and back over the left shoulder, may know that something is wrong. His swing is off, or it never has been right.

One fundamental the player must learn is that the mistake in the drive is not due so much to an improper swing in bringing the club down as it is to doing something improperly in taking the club up. If you get the club up properly it is apt to come down well enough. Take great care with your stance and the address. Look at this picture of George Duncan, the great British player now touring America. You can see the care he takes with his preparation for his drive.

(Copyright John F. Dille Co.)

When the down stroke of the golf stroke is properly executed the player has no concern whatever about the club going back over his left shoulder and around. The club will do it automatically. Moreover, it will get up there so quickly that the player, after making his shot, will simply find it there, with no great consciousness of its having gone there. When the shot is made exactly right, the clubhead will snap through, whip up and back and finish, and the player, stooped, will still be gazing at the spot where his ball was teed or where it lay in the grass before he hit it with brassie or midiron. Players who are striving to attain a good golf stroke should ponder that fact well; it has something in it that should be very helpful to the average player.

There are few better drivers than our own Jock Hutchinson, who always goes straight and far. This picture of Jock shows how the club will finish, without any attention from you, if you send the clubhead through the ball properly and are not in too much of a hurry to look up and see the ball. Take your time—Jock always does, and he knows how.

BABE RUTH A DADDY FOR LAST 16 MONTHS.

Secret kept because Infant is Constantly Ill.

NEW YORK, September 25. — Babe Ruth is not the only babe in the Ruth family, it was divulged on Friday night.

For 16 months the Bambino and Mrs. Ruth have been the parents of a little bambino named Dorothy — whose existence they have kept secret because of the infant's constant illness.

Reporters seeing Mrs. Ruth wheeling a baby carriage about the hotel where the Ruths are living, asked if they had adopted a child.

"Indeed I have not," she replied; "it's our own baby."

PAINTED LEGS, NEW FAD, ALL THE RAGE

It Was Started by Gloria Swanson's Portrayal of Dancing Girl in "Her Gilded Cage" at the Capitol To-Night

A new and striking fad—painted legs—has taken the country by storm!

And all because Gloria Swanson, Paramount star, had to leave the dainty design painted upon her lower limbs for scenes in her new picture, "Her Gilded Cage", intact, when she appeared in society one evening, because more scenes were to be filmed next day requiring the same make-up.

Miss Swanson plays the role of Fleur d'Armour" a bizarre actress and cabaret dancer, in this new picture, and thus the reason for the painted limbs, which are adorned for the negligee scenes in a boudoir episode.

The day on which this episode was filmed, director Sam Wood worked the company unusually late. When Miss Swanson finally reached her dressing room she saw she has exactly eighteen minutes in which to change from her costume of the day to her evening gown, if she was to keep her engagement for a dinner party at the Hotel Ambassador in Los Angeles. Removing the paint for her ankles entailed a half hour's work, and besides it would have been practically impossible to exactly reproduce the design on the following day. Gloria quickly decided to let the painted designs stay as they were Showing through her silk stockings, they made a most striking effect.

Her appearance in the Hotel Ambassador dining room created a sensation. Since then the innovation is being widely copied and indications are that it will be one of the smart modes for women of America.

AT THE ROYAL.

"The Men of Zanzibar", based on Richard Harding Davis' story of the same name, is a Fox production staging William Russell. This is a film far above the ordinary in entertainment value, and should play to a large patronage. The story is gripping, the direction of high calibre, the whole cast excellent, and the settings reflect accurately the atmosphere of the Afrian East Coast, where the action takes place. Zanzibar, chief seaport of East Africa, peopled by men of every color and race, is the background for a dramatic film creation that carries with it a mystery to be solved, and ends with a strong climax to a romance of distinct appeal.

Those who have read Davis' story will not be disappointed; for those who have not read the tale it would be unfair to detract from their surprise and entertainment by setting forth its details here. But these people may be certain of rousing action and an unexpected, although very satisfactory, ending.

The scenes are of Africa, and "The Men of Zanzibar" was made with more regard for realism than for its producing cost. That is the secret of good pictures—care in giving correct details.

All new costumes and scenery are carried for this production which Mr. Evans promises to be one of his best offerings in Peterboro.' There is no question that this splendid novelty in entertainment, is one of the very best we have had in this city in many a long day especially at the popular prices of admission, and the cleanness of the offerings are worthy of comment, to say nothing of the freshness of all the costumes and scenery of each production. The members of the company have proven themselves clever artists in every detail, and are all ladies and gentlemen both on and off the stage, and it is indeed a pleasing thought to know we have in Peterboro' one of the most refined companies it has been our pleasure to witness during the past three weeks at the Grand.

RECORD ATTENDANCE AT LINDSAY FAIR, SATURDAY

Four Thousand Paid Admissions on Grand Stand

LINDSAY, Sept. 25.—Lindsay Central Fair came to a close on Saturday being favored with ideal weather. The second day's attendance reached a record according to directors but the attendance was made up largely of school children from all over the district, who were admitted free. Friday's attendance was a disappointment to the director ate as it was not nearly as large as the attendance on the same day last year. The difference was more than made up, directors claim by the night attendance.

Saturday's programme attracted the biggest last day attendance in the history of the Fair. The directors claim there were 4100 paid admissions on the grand stand. Turnstiles wer installed this year to correctly tabulate the attendance this year, but the directorate failed to give out any figures for publication.

Mr. Chapman is so confident that the embargo will be lifted that he is in the West endeavoring to get an understanding with cattle exporters regarding trade possibilities.

By Stuart P. West.

NEW YORK, September 25.—(Special.)—The uncertainty over European politics was a factor in to-day's markets which were marked by less eventful actions than any day during the current month. However this uncertainty was by no means the whole reason for the general suspension of investment and speculative activities.

The over Saturday news was interpreted in the main as hopeful, yet not at all conclusive. Consequently while the foreign exchanges went higher the rise was small and the same was true of foreign government bonds. The investment market was more concerned over Turkish affairs than the speculative market, but there were other influences at work inducing caution and a disposition to delay intended purchases. One of these was the desire to get a better line up on the volume of new security issues expected within the next week or so. The other was the wish to know more about the project of the new government loan, its term. and the amount of competition which it would involve for other investments.

The outstanding feature about this stock market was that speculative operations had lost the energy which characterized them all through August and the first week of September. The market after all was merely having the same sort of lull and partial let down which it had after the culmination of the spring campaign, and before the resumption of the main forward movement in the midsummer. The chances are that what has happened in the speculation of the last week would have happened any way regardless of the news from the Dardanelles.

The two matters of particular interest in the stock trading of the day were the action to be taken by a number of the Standard Oil Companies in capitalizing their surplus earnings, and the question of the August railway statements which will begin to come out in a few days, which it is understood will make an unfavorable showing.

The market demonstrated its opinion on these two subjects in another rise of the Standard Oil stocks, both in and out of the Stock Exchange, and by more or less pressure brought to bear against the railway list. Non-dividend paying rails like Rock Island and Baltimore and Ohio were more sensitive than the dividend-payers to the suggestion of unfavorable profit reports. Of course the August returns will take account of the strike losses and will be of only temporary significance. The September figures will tell a different story, and October and November, when the huge coal movement will be coupled with the season grain to market, are likely to prove as big months as any on records.

BARING'S I TOLD YOU SO!

NEW YORK September 25. — Grain—May wheat reacted three points but I expect at least 115.

Stocks.—The stock market was very inactive with a rallying tendency. There was a particularly sharp advance in Gulf State Steel, for which I predicted par some time ago when it was around or below 70. It will probably go to 110.

N. E. Fuel Oil advanced another point, and last night's bullish advices still hold good.

CPU gave you no chance to buy it around 61 as advised, and you better buy a little at present prices, so as not to miss the move, although it should not react any further, but if it does react to 61, buy more.

I am very bullish on the rails and on any dip I would buy NP, ATCH, LV, UP, SP. Former bullish advices on Texas Pacific also hold good.

I continue to advise the purchase on any dip of the Mexican fours and sixes on curb and the fives on the stock exchange, also of AR, DSV, RU, KP ,and others recently recommended.

In all probability there will be another setback next week, which should be utilised to buy stocks.

MARKET NEWS.

NEW YORK, September 25. — Shopmen to appeal temporary injunction order granted by Judge Wilkerson in Chicago, holding the Court exceeded its powers.

Reports again current in Youngstown, Ohio, that Brierhill Steel Co. and Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. will merge.

Department of Commerce says there was no significant business recession during August, in spite of coal and rail strikes, and many lines showed gains over July.

More stable labour conditions are being reflected in better sentiment in general business in West, with improvement in many lines, especially seasonal commodities.

Idle cars on 8th September were 43,168, or 27,287 less than on 31st August. Crop and fuel movement accounts for heavier demand

Department of Labour announces employment in industry throughout U. S. shows substantial increases in August over July, despite rail and coal strikes.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Southern Pacific statement: August net operating income $4,566,641, decrease $756,315. Eight months net operating income $25,498,493, decrease $3,382,665.

RE-ACTION OVER.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Although general list was quiet, liquidation was noticeably absent and many commission houses were recommending purchases of stocks in the belief that the re-action had pretty well run its course. At Saturday's close J. S. Bache and Co. point out "general list of industrials and rails was no lower than last Monday noon," in other words, the resistance level has held for five days, and headway beyond this level has been negligible. Irrespective of any further attempts to raid the market, we believe stocks will be considerably higher towards the end of the week. Further selling of Rock Island again broke the stock to the low of 44 for move. For seven months to July 31 Rock Island reports net after charges of $1,532,080, or nearly 50 per cent. of its full year's preferred dividend requirements. Based on normal seasonal variation the company should earn 52 per cent. of its year's income in the final five months, and, accordingly, should this year cover the preferred dividend and a small balance for the common.

WHEAT MARKET..

CHICAGO, Sept. 25. — Wheat weak, off 1¼ to 1½ cents on general selling, due to more favorable political advices from abroad, a continued poor foreign demand and lower Liverpool cables. Corn and oats lower.

STANDARD STOCKS ACTIVE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Buying of standard issues is based on a programme of readjustments which are expected to involve generous distributions through capitalization of surplus steel. Production continues to grow in volume; generally speaking, industry is operating at close to 70 per cent. capacity, and the opinion is that operations will reach as high as 85 per cent. the latter part of the third quarter. With higher prices this will mean good earnings for all steel companies. Railroad buying in the last quarter will give further impetus to the industry. Orders for steel rails, freight cars and locomotives in the last three months of the year are expected to show substantial increases.

BARN AND CROPS ARE TOTAL LOSS

Two Men Narrowly Escaped Being Trapped in Silo.

LINDSAY, Sept. 25.— (Canadian Press.)—The fine barn of Mr. Ernest Webber, near Oakwood, was burned to the ground this morning, along with the season's crop.

Neighbors were engaged filling the silo at the time ,and Herb. Perrin and Thomas Curtis had a narrow escape from being trapped to death in the silo when they were forced to stand on tip toes in order to draw themselves up and through a sixteen nich aperture in the silo wall.

Four horses, three of which belonged to the neighbors filling the silo, were burned to death. Three hundred farmers responded to the alarm of fire, but were helpless to save the barn and contents.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—(Canadian Press).—The drastic temporary injunction order asked by attorney General Harry M. Daugherty against shop crafts strike leaders was put in force to-day by Judge James H. Wilkerson without any of its effectiveness being modified.

Several slight changes in the wording of the order submitted Saturday were made by Judge Wilkerson to clarify its meaning.

GENEVA, Sept. 25.— (Canadian Press.) — The Earl of Balfour brought before the Assembly of the League of Nations to-day information from his government which he said showed a great calamity was threatening the Greek and Armenian refugees in Smyrna. He said Great Britain was ready to give £50,000 to a relief fund and he appealed to the other countries to contribute.

FIFTEEN DEATHS FROM DRUGS IN MONTREAL

MONTREAL SEPT. 25.— (Canadian Press.)—Wholesale deportation of all Chinese and others convicted of peddling drugs will be formally recommended by the police in the courts in the hope that this drastic action will repress the epidemic of fatal narcotic cases here. In virtually every criminal court in Montreal to-day, dope cases figured prominently. During the past two months there have been fifteen deaths in the Montreal General Hospital.

Nationalists, however, insist upon their rights to conduct military movements during progress of conference and also demand admission to meeting of all Allies of Angora Government, including Russia, Persia and Bulgaria.

Sultan is reported here to be in a state of collapse, and his retirement from the throne is expected soon. In Nationalist circles the name of Prince Selim, nephew of the Sultan, is freely discussed as his successor and as being acceptable to Kemal.

It was estimated at the time that the maintenance of the Alexandra was costing the nation about the nation about $130,000 a year and the king approved her retirement in the cause of national economy.

LINDSAY BANKS AND A CITIZEN DEFRAUDED

L. W. Cloutier of Same Town, Alleged to Have Collected $1,400 on Forged Document.

HAS CLEARED OUT

LINDSAY, Sept. 26. — Crown-Attorney J. E. Anderson this morning notified the Provincial detectives at Toronto and elsewhere of the details concerning a forged document with which L. W. Cloutier, a commercial traveller of this town, is said to have received a total of over $1,400 from four local banks and a private citizen.

It appears that Cloutier, who formerly clerked in the J. Sutcliffe & Sons' store here, has been engaged more recently with the John McDonald Co., of Toronto, and the Phoenix Novelty Co. of the same city. The money was procured on a forged document, and apparently Cloutier worked fast while home visiting his family last week. Cloutier has cleared out, and at present his whereabouts are unknown. The family has also moved out of town.

PAID RESPECTS TO THE BISHOP

Public Reception to Rt. Rev. M. J. O'Brien, D. D., on Occasion of Silver Jubilee.

Despite the somewhat chilly weather, a large number of Peterborough's citizens availed themselves of the opportunity last evening of paying their respects to Peterborough's Bishop, Rt. Rev. M. J. O'Brien, D. D., on the occasion of the public reception held by him in connection with the celebration of his silver jubilee. The grounds of St. Peter's Cathedral were filled all evening with throngs of people, young and old, who were welcomed by His Lordship in a brightly-lighted marquee, gay with flowers and ferns and cheerful red, white and blue bunting.

Members of every congregation in the city, with civic officials and men and women in every walk of life, gathered to testify to the general feeling of respect and affection in which Bishop O'Brien is generally held in the city of his birth, and His Lorship had a cheerful word and hearty hand-shake for all who passed in the long, variegated procession.

The Band of the Peterborough Rangers, conducted by Bandmaster Gliddon, gave a very enjoyable and well-selected programme of music throughout the evening.

This morning, at 10 o'clock, the Bishop, surrounded by priests from all over his diocese, celebrated Pontifical High Mass at St. Peter's Cathedral, assisted by Rev. P. Father Garvey, Rev. M. S. O'Brien, Rev. Father Meagher of Lakefield, Rev. Father Cote, of Lindsay.

Very Rev. Dean Kelly, of Trout Creek, preached the sermon, referring to the career of His Lordship as curate at the Cathedral, parish priest at the Church of the Sacred Heart, and his work during his occupancy of the bishop's chair, speaking particularly of his splendid enthusiasm manifested in the building of the addition to the hospital, and his qualities of good citizenship in his zeal for the cause of education.

An address from the priests of the diocese was read by Rt. Rev. Monsignor Murray of Cobourg, and presented to His Lordship by Rt. Rev. Mons. McColl. The Mass was effectively sung by the children of the Separate schools of the city.

John Buys a Tottle-Tux; Crowd Musses Him Up

DETROIT, September 26. — No mercy, it probably will be agreed, is due the man who sold John B. Ackmore, a tottle-tux. If that clothing salesman reads this tragic narrative and disappears, perhaps it will be just as well. The mills of the gods eventually will grind him to powder —if John Ackmore doesn't.

John B. Ackmore is a farmer-progressive, speaking sartorially. He may and does live on the soil near Romeo, Mich., but his collar is not rubber and he abandoned the peg-top trouser some time ago. Clothes don't make the man, argues John — but shucks! what's the use of being 26 and handsome if you don't look nifty. John keeps right up to the minute by coming to Detroit every year or so and laying in a stock of eye-catching creations.

He drove in Saturday in his light four on one of these buying trips. He knew what he wanted; the very latest thing; and he unhesitatingly demanded it of the clerk who waited on him.

"It Dazzled Him."

"Yessir," said the clerk. And he spread before John's eyes a pair of trousers that belled at the bottom, and were split, with bright colored pieces of silk at the splits. With them came a suit on the order of a tuxedo, a dazzling vest, and a wide, red silk sash.

"I know you want something good," said the clerk, "so I am showing you this. It's called the tottle-tux. Rodolph Valentino wore one in "The Four Horsemen of the Apoplexy." It's on the order of the matador's costume, and it's going to be popular. What's that? Oh, yes, it's the latest thing. You will be a leader of style in this garment. People will comment about it on the street. This hat—sort of clerical looking—isn't it?—is really part of the outfit."

John carried away the tottle-tux. He decided to stay in Detroit over night and give the Woodward ave. crowds a treat Sunday morning before going back to rouse the envy of Romeo's chivalry.

Ah! Making a Hit!

When John apeared on Woodward avenue it was plain that the clerk had not lied. Every eye turned on him and many voices said "Look at that!" John sauntered on nonchalantly. If Detroit liked it so well, what would Romeo say?

Presently John looked around to find himself leading a parade. Everyone he passed seemed to fall in behind him. A vague doubt assailed him, and grew steadily. It burst into flower when one young man trod on his heels and exclaimed in a girlish treble, "Oh, deah! I'm that mortified! I left my powder puff at home. Good gracious!"

Them's fighting words. John smote his tormentor on the nose. With a great cry of glee, the whole parade—40 or 50 thousand of them, it seemed to John—swept on to him. He went down under their blows but they were not satisfied. Each must pick a souvenir from his clothing. The silk insets in the trousers went first, then the pearl grey buttons and the sash, then just anything.

A few minutes later John stood before Inspector Amos Kunkekl in police headquarters. Both eyes and his mind were blackened. Detectives were despatched but could not find John's persecutors.

As John hurried to leave Inspector Kunkekl inquired "Well, I suppose you will be going back to Romeo now?"

"Not until to-morrow," replied John darkly. "There's a fellow here in town I want to see."

TURKS PLACE BAN ON SHORT SKIRTS

Style Commission Disapproves Modern Tendency Among Islam Women-No Embroidery.

LONDON, September 26. — London ladies of fashion have been much interested this week in the findings of a Turkish Style Commission, which was created after the Government had reached the conclusion that the tendency of Stamboul ladies to become "new women" in dress deportment and ideas had gone too far.

Judging from the report, European fashions are not going to be the proper thing in Constantinople, and English husbands are wishing secretly that Lloyd-George's Government would take a leaf from the Turkish book and limit the sartorial activities of their wives.

In most countries at some period or other Governments have attempted to prescribe, in the interests of morality, economy or some equally laudable object, what people should or should not wear.

During the later Roman republic the censors strove in vain to arrest the flood of Oriental luxury which was undermining the primitive simplicity of the Roman matron. Peter the Great, judging the flowing beards and long skirts of the Russian boyars incompatible with modern progress, compelled them to adopt moustaches, wigs, and knee breeches.

Demanded Frock Coats.

Sultan Mahmoud the Reformer, as a first step toward modernising Turkey, one fine day presented all his ministers with a frock coat, a pair of trousers, and a fez, and intimated that anybody who turned up at next day's Cabinet Council in turban and caftan would lose his head.

The Turkish Goverument of to-day, however, thinks that its women have been learning too rapidly from their sisters of the Rue de la Paix. Slowly, insidiously, ever since the Young Turkish revolution of 1908, the influence of European fashions has been gradually modifying the traditional costume of the Turkish harem.

The impenetrable black veil (yashmak) which used to conceal her features as effectively as any Venetion masque has evolved into a piece of thin transparent gauze serving to enhance rather than conceal the flash of Oriental eye beneath it. The ungainly tcharshaf, or head scarf, which used to cover the whole of the upper part of the body and left one in doubt whether Turkish women possessed waists has grown shorter and shorter. The more advanced section, in their desire to prove that they possess not only waists, but necks, have bisected the tcharshaf, restricting the part which covers the head to a sort of Russian togue. Skirts have become shorter and shorter, and in some cases covered with variegated coloured embroidery, thus showing the direct influence of Parisian or Viennese models.

Completes Labour.

With such a frightful state of affairs the commission went to work and after several months has completed its labours.

The fundamentals of the finds are that all daughters of Islam must dress with simplicity and soberness of hue.

The head-scarf must be maintained, the decent covering of the head and neck, being strictly prescribed by the Koran. On the other hand the covering of the face is not, as is commonly supposed, obligatory. Therefore the commission feels that women should be free to wear the veil or not, as they like, although expressing a preference in its favour, the grounds of elegance and convention.

The commission disapproves of Turkish women showing their waists. Not only must all cloaks descend below the waist, but the end of the tcharshaf, which is a combination of head-scarf, cloak and bodice must measure at least 20 per cent. more at the waist than the wearer's waist.

Short skirts fall under the ban of the commission. Skirts must not be more than seven inches off the ground. The commission does not like embroideries on skirts, but is prepared to make a concession in this respect to modern fashion, provided the embroidery is of the same, or similar colour as the skirt.

The mashlak, or flowing outer cloak, is to be maintained as it is.

FORECAST PACT OF DOMINION PARTIES

Progressive Accord on Near East May Mean Alliance With Liberals.

OTTAWA, Sept. 26— Advocates of a close working alliance between the Liberal and Progressive parties in the new session of Parliament claim that the Near East crisis and the agreement between Messrs. King and Crerar as to the Government's attitude, is a cementing influence. Hon. A. B. Hudson, who is known as a liaison officer between the Liberals and Western Progressives, came to Ottawa with Mr. Crerar Friday and while his business was on the Lake of the Woods power question, the political situation was also discussed. Mr. Hudson's attitude in regard to the Near Eastern crisis is in accord with that of both Mr. Crerar and the Government.

His entry to the Cabinet this fall has been forecast frequently and his visit to Ottawa naturally revived the rumor. It is rumored that Liberal caucuses next session on the railway tariff and outstanding questions will contain a representative from the Progressive party. Supposedly it would maintain its identity while working in close "alliance." In that respect agreement on the war question is hailed as significant evidence

HARVEST SOCIAL ENJOYABLE EVENT

Pretty Decorations at Park St. Church Hall a Feature.

The harvest social, held in connection with their annual harvest rally, which was conducted last evening under the auspices of the Park Street Baptist Church, proved a very enjoyable and well-attended event. The hall was prettily decorated with grain and fruit in the autumnal fashion. An informal programme was rendered, with vocal duets by Messrs. M. Dunkley and W. H. Moore, by Mrs. Batley and Mr. Moore; an instrumental selection by Miss Norma Moore; and readings by Mrs. G. Johnston, H. Goodwin, and E. Pemberton. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

KIWANIS CLUB HEAR ADDRESS POWER ISSUES

Mr. R. R. Hall Tells the Kiwanians How Peterboro Can be Put on the Map Through its Power Resources.

A GOOD MEETING.

To-day the Kiwanis Club furnished a double-barrelled programme that was a real eye-opener for some of the visitors. After the preliminaries had been disposed of, Jimmie Evans and a coterie of entertainers from the Grand Opera House contributed a number of musical selections and responded to several encores. It was one of the best musical programmes that has been provided for some time. As usual, Billy Philips led the song service, with George Henderson at the piano. Jack Marshall, of the Nashau Paper Company, was booster for the day, and supplied everyone present with a couple of rolls of wall paper, the product of the company which he represents.

Alex. Dick reported that Martin Chenall, organist of St. Paul's Church, would coach the minstrels in the show that the Kiwanis Club is producing, and a meeting will be called to complete the arrangements. Walter Stocker and Joseph Wearing solicited the support of the Kiwanians on behalf of the tag day which is being held next Saturday in the interests of the Children's Aid Society. This support was pledged by the members present.

Power Development.

Mr. R. R. Hall was introduced by President Frank Whitehouse as the speaker of the day. Mr. Hall dealt with the power question as it applies to Peterborough, and gave an interesting exposition of Peterborough's relation with the Hydro-Electric Commission. Commenting on the claim that has been frequently made in the past that Peterborough possesses inexhaustible supplies of power, Mr. Hall surprised his auditors with the statement that all the power developed in this district would not be sufficient to propel a modern ocean liner. The development of dams four and five under one head, and with one lock, could be carried out at an estimated cost of $250,000. This, with a similar development at Burleigh Falls, would provide a total of 5,200 horse-power, or more than sufficient to supply the present requirements of the city. "We have the power right in our midst," pointed out Mr. Hall. Out of this proposed development power could be produced at ten or eleven dollars a horse-power, whereas now the city is paying twenty-two dollars and fifty cents a horse-power for power supplied by the Hydro Commission. This power could be developed at a capital cost of not more than one hundred dollars a horse-power.

The Capital Cost.

The bulk of the power now supplied the city by the Hydro Commission comes from down the river. The development of dams four and five would give us a power supply almost at our door and at much cheaper cost. The capital cost of power supplied by the Hydro-Electric Commission in a number of places is as follows:

Peterborough	$204.60
Lakefield	$416.40
Picton	$546.40
Norwood	$731.90
Bloomfield	$753.00
Havelock	$1,525.00

"Havelock, which is down in the woods where we are approaching," said Mr. Hall, "is subject to a capital cost of $1,525. In view of these figures and our experience of the last few years, it is about time we cut ourselves loose and appeal to the Dominion Government at the next session for the necessary assistance and legislation to enable us to put Peterborough on the map as a city capable of transacting its own business and developing its own resources."

THE WEATHER

A little ice was to be seen this morning for the first time, the temperature going down to 28 degrees. This is the first occasion it has been below the freezing point. Pumpkins and other vines showed by their leaves yesterday that they had been touched by the frost of the early morning, although the thermometer showed one degree above freezing. It must be remembered, however, that the surface of the ground is usually several degrees lower than it is a few feet above. It is also a curious fact that more rain falls in a valley than on top of a hill in the same neighborhood, and it has also been proved that a rain gauge placed on the surface of the ground will show a greater rainfall than one on the roof of a building close by. The first ice was seen on the morning of September 20th last year, and on the morning of September 19th in the preceding year. Strange, too, September 26th, of that year (1920) was the warmest day of that year, namely 90 degrees.—W. P.

CLAIMS THAT MONIES WERE LEGALLY SPENT

Peterborough County is Suing Ex-Warden Griffith to Give Account of Certain Funds.

CASE POSTPONED

The hearing of the case of W. E. Griffith vs. the County of Peterborough, called for the special sitting of the County Division Court this morning, was postponed on account of the illness of Mr. Griffith's counsel, G. E. Porter, K.C., of Belleville, who is suffering from an acute attack of rheumatism. Adjournment was made to a date to be decided by the Judge.

The County of Peterborough is suing its ex-warden for monies received by him for expenditures for which, it claims, no satisfactory account has been given. Mr. Griffith claims that the money was duty and satisfactorily expended for the purposes designated, but has neglected to furnish the County with satisfactory information or vouchers in connection with its disposal. Besides holding the position of Warden of Peterborough County, Mr. Griffith was for some time Reeve of Belmont Township.

CASES IN THE POLICE COURT

Drunk Fined $10 and Costs—Minimum Penalty Imposed For Infraction of Traffic Act.

Tom Cleary, whom Chief Newhall says has been a faithful attendant at the police court the past 20 years, was fined $10 and costs, $11.50, by Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning on a charge of being intoxicated.

Cut the Corner.

For infraction of the Motor Vehicle Traffic Ordinance, W. J. Hamilton paid into police court this morning a fine of $5 and costs, amounting to $7.50 a minimum penalty, Magistrate Langley pointed out on account of defendant not being a driver who habitually violates the Traffic Act.

The offence occurred on the evening of Thursday, Sept. 21, when, Traffic Policeman H. Young charged, Hamilton cut the corner at George and Charlotte Streets by fifteen feet.

Accused, in rebuttal, declared he was not guilty, having simply swerved slightly to avoid impact with a bicycle rider off his rear wheel. But the cyclist in question, Russell Lockie, remembering the occasion, gave evidence substantiating Constable Young's information, and declaring that so far as his safety was concerned there was no need for defendant cutting the corner or swerving whatever.

THE PEACE NEWS PLEASES HUGHES

WASHINGTON, September 26.—The American government is gratified to observe that the proposal of the three allied governments seeks to insure liberty of the Dardanelles, the Sea of Marmora, and the Bosphorus, as well as protection of religious and racial minorities, Secretary Hughes declared after the cabinet meeting. The points of proposal are clearly in accord with the American sentiment. The government also trusts that suitable arrangements may be agreed upon in the interests of peace to preserve freedom of the Straits pending conference to conclude final treaty of peace between Turkey, Greece and the Allies. Secretary Hughes declined to comment upon the territorial questions involved in the allies' proposal to restore Thrace and Constantinople to Turkey.

TRIAL OF THIRD MAN SUSPECTED OF ROBBERY.

SARNIA, Sept. 26. — (Canadian Press).—The trial of George Anderson, third member of the quartette held here on the charge of robbing the bank at Wyoming, was opened at to-day's session of the fall assizes, following a startling change in the plea by Edward McMullen yesterday.

Progress made up to noon indicated that the trial would continue all day. Anderson pleaded not guilty.

DESPONDENT, SHOT HIMSELF IN THE MOUTH

Death Was Almost Instantaneous When Fred G. Smith Ended His Life With Gun.

TRAGEDY TO-DAY

Despondent over the death of his wife, whose loss preyed on his mind since her burial on July 1st of this year, Fred G. Smith shot himself in the mouth and died almost instantly early this morning at the home of his brother-in-law, R. J. Wolstenhome, 535 Bolivar street. The coroner and undertaker were immediately summoned, the latter notifying the police station, when P. C. Wigg was sent to view the remains.

Mr. Smith, whose wife died on the 28th of June, has been a victim of extreme melancholia ever since. Yesterday he came home from Nicholls Hospital, where he was recovering from a serious wound in the left side. While spending the Sunday, the 17th of this month ,at his cottage at Hatrick's Point, Rice Lake, Mr. Smith went out for a ramble, taking his shot gun ,and was later discovered by several boys beside a fence, the gun, which was supposed to have exploded while its owner crawled through the fence, beside him. It was at first thought that the wound resulting from this would be fatal, but Mr. Smith was sufficiently recovered yesterday to return home.

The funeral, which will be private, will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Mr. Bousfield officiating.

WEDDING BELLS

GRAHAM—ARMSTRONG.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on September 20th at Peterborough at the Knox church Presbyterian manse by the Rev. James Mackenzie, at seven thirty o'clock, when Evelyn, youngest daughter of Mr. John Armstrong ,of Cavan, became the bride of Alfred H. Graham, second eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Graham, Lakefield. The bride was attired in a navy blue suit and small hat and carried a bouquet of sweet heart roses. Miss Gladys McCall of Peterborough, acted as bridesmaid, while the groom was supported by his brother, Mr. James Graham. After the wedding ceremony the bridal party motored to Lakefield to the home of the groom's parents, where about forty-five guests sat down to a sumptuous wedding supper. The bride received many beautiful presents, amongst them being a beautiful set of silverware from the employees of the blue-print office of the C.G.E., wheer the bride was employed. Mr. and Mrs. Graham after a brief honeymoon, will be at home to their many friends at 252 Smith street, and have the best wishes of a large circle of friends for their future happiness and prosperity.

TURKS IN ECSTACIES OVER RECOVERY OF THRACE, AND WAR CLOUDS ARE LIFTING

Constantinople Is Ablaze With Red Flags of the Crescent, and Victors Give Thanks to Allah—Kemal Expected to Approve Peace Terms.

GREEK MIND DIVIDED

FIRE IN CONSTANTINOPLE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, September 26 (Canadian Press). — A fire is raging in Upper Pera Street, a main thoroughfare of the capital.

The population is in a state of panic.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 26. — (Canadian Press.)— This city is in full cry of exultation over the announcement that the Allies were prepared to return Thrace to Turkey. The Turkish newspapers Sunday night published special editions with the momentous news, some of them printing photographs of the ancient capital of Adrianople, which is quite as sacred to the Turks as Constantinople. Others published full page photgraphs of Kemal with a halo around his head, as well as glowing accounts of the achievements of the Turkish army.

The city is a riot of red flags which street vendors have sold by the thousands. In the evening prayers from the minarets thanks were rendered to Allah that Thrace had been restored. The Greeks, while distressed and disappointed over the loss of territory which had cost them so dearly, were in large measure frankly relieved at the prospect of peace. The more bellicose among them, however, declared their nation would fight to the last to retain Thrace.

General opinion among the Allied officials who understood the psychology of the Turk and the political and military necessities of the Nationalists, is that Kemal Pasha will accept the Allied conditions, but not before trying to obtain recognition of further conditions laid down in the National pact, including the abolition of the capitulations.

Major General Frederick B. Maurice, who for a long period during the war was chief director of military operations at the War Office in London and now is the military expert of a London newspaper, said to the correspondent to-day:

"The war is over. Kemal will accept the Allied proposals, with reservations. He is just as anxious for peace as the Allies, but one mustn't take him too lightly.

"Kemal has an army of 180,000 that may be regarded as fighting troops. As a result of the war material captured from the Greeks he can reinforce this number by 30,000 drawn from the districts which have fallen to the Turks. He has splendid artillery ranging up to 5 1-2 inches, including modern French and Italian guns, and also sixty airplanes and abundance of machine guns. His army is in high spirits and of firm morale.

"It would take a good deal to defeat the Kemalists, but I am so confident of peace that I am leaving for England in a few days."

TURK STEAMER SANK BRITISH DESTROYER

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 25.—(Canadan Press.)—It was the Turkish steamer Kara Biga which early on Sunday ran down in the Sea of Marmora and sank the British torpedo boat Speedy, with a loss of ten lives. The Kara Biga was proceeding at full speed in the dark. The destroyer was cut almost in two and sank within three minutes.

It is asserted that the Kara Biga was transporting Turkish troops.

TURKS RETURN.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The Reuter correspondent at Constantinople says that a force of Turkish cavalry which withdrew Sunday from the Chanak zone, returned yesterday, the number being estimated at 2,000 sabres.

A British mobile column has taken up a position towards Eren Keui, ready for eventualities.

Hamid Bey ,the representative of the Angora Government at Constantinople, explains that inasmuch as Eren Keui was occupied by the joint note of the Allies was received, the Turkish commander has asked for a longer delay than forty-eight hours in order to communicate with his superiors.

BOY KILLED IN FRONT OF HOME.

Run Over By Street Car While Crossing Street.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press). — Charles Hiram Shaver, aged 4, of Gladstone Ave., was instantly killed by a street car in front of his home to-night at 6.30 The little boy was running across the street right into the advancing street car. S. W. Rombough, who was passing, saw the danger and yelled at the child and also attempted to drag him to safety. He was too late however. The motorman, Alex. Stewart, who was driving the car, applied the brakes and the car stopped in its own length but not before the boy was knocked down and the front left wheels passed over his neck.

EXPECT TURK TO ANGLE FOR CONCESSIONS

London Breathes Easier But Negotiations With Kemal Will Likely Be Protracted.

BRITISH VIGILANT.

LONDON, Sept. 26. — (Canadian Press.)— Smiles, which wreathed Lord Curzon's face as he departed from the Prime Minister's official residence in Downing Street yesterday afternoon after making a detailed report to the Cabinet of his Paris mission, typified the general easing up of the tenseness of the Near East situation as viewed from the British Capital.

Everywhere in official circles there are expressions of relief that the war cries of last week have been replaced by old school diplomacy, with such an old hand as Curzon directing the British policy, and although there is no word that the Allied note has yet been delivered to Mustapha Kemal Pasha ,the Nationalist leader, it is intimated that his refusal to come to terms is extremely unlikely.

The view is held in Allied circles that immediate acceptance would be against Turkish propensities. It is said that the Turk in bargaining, diplomatically or otherwise, always wants a first offer made to him. Then he holds the other to it and angles for further concessions.

May Demand More.

The Allies have made Kemal Pasha a definite offer of Constantinople, Thrace to the Maritsa River, and membership in the League of Nations, but it is believed that Kemal will probably reply with a demand for all of eastern Thrace and complete retirement of the British from the neutral zones before the Turks enter into a peace conference.

It is taken for granted, however, both in Paris and London, that no reply will be forthcoming from the Nationalist leader until he sees M. Franklin Bouillon, the French envoy, who is expected to reach Smyrna on Thursday.

Danger Not Past.

That all danger is not past is evident from yesterday's despatches reporting a new Kemalist incursion in the Chanak zone, necessitating a further warning from the British commander though details are meagre, and it may not be serious as, according to the Times' Chanak correspondent, small Turkish cavalry patrols were still in the zone Sunday, but he anticipated no difficulties, as the Turks were showing a genuine desire to be reasonable.

Even when Kemal's reply is received there are likely to be prolonged negotiations, for it is believed that Kemal will demand the admission of Russia and Bulgaria to the conference ,which, in itself will provide ample opportunity for protracted discussions. In the meantime the British Government is not relaxing its naval and military preparations. More battalions of guards are making ready at Aldershot for early embarkation.

CONFERENCE IN FAR EAST FAILS.

Japan Refused to Set Date For Quitting Sakhalien.

CHANG CHUN, Manchuria, Sept 25.—The conference between Japan, the Chita Government of the Far Eastern Republic of Siberia, and representatives of the Moscow Soviet, ended in failure to-day with Japan's refusal to fix a date for the evacuation of northern Sakhalien.

SEEK PEACE IN CHINA

SHANGHAI, Sept. 25.—(Canadian Peace).—Sun Yat-Sen, deposed president of South China, is sending a number of personal representatives to confer with leaders of the various factions in North China. Readjustment of China's finances, it is reported will be the principal subject to be discussed.

A THOUGHT

Pride goeth before destruction; and a haughty spirit before a fall.—Proverbs 16,18

HE that is proud eats up himself: pride in his own glass, his own trumpet; his own chronicle; and whatever praises itself but in the deed devours the deed in its praise.—Shakespeare.

Henry Ford's Immense Wealth Not Yet Equal to John D. Rockefeller's

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—John D. Rockefeller is still the richest man in the world and Henry Ford has yet to take that distinction away from him, according to James A. Davis, one of the best known financial authorities in the Middle West.

Ford, Davis said, is the second richest man beyond a doubt.

Davis took issue with statements of the Wall Street Journal in regard to Ford's wealth. Davis, besides being nationally known as a financial expert, can speak from the viewpoint of an automobile man, as he is now directing the finances of a large motor car manufacturing concern.

Dukes Out of Running.

The war put all European contenders of the "world's richest man" title out of the running, Davis declared. The Rothschilds were hard hit by the running of many mines in the war zones and by bad loans to European governments, he said, while the Dukes of Westminster and Devonshire, in England, have been almost impoverished by heavy taxation.

"In the first place," Davis asserted, "the Wall Street Journal erred in assuming a man's wealth may be capitalized on the basis of his earnings, and I don't think the paper was entirely serious when it did so. A contract of business may be capitalized, but not earning power.

"There is no question but that Henry Ford has been making an enormous amount of money and has a wonderful organization, but it's pure speculation to guess as to a man's worth in dollars.

"Rockefeller Shrewder."

"If this course were followed in the computation of wealth, it would be necessary to take into consideration the man's past record, his reliability and his experience as a trained thoughtful financier and shrewd business man. Rockefeller far surpasses Ford in all these things."

"Rockefeller, in the estimated value of his holdings in various concerns, has an infinitely greater wealth than Ford is known to have," he continued. "The difference in the earning capacity and dependability of a man whose business began and grew through sheer ability, shrewdness and foresight might be 10 times as great as that of one whose whole career has been erratic.

"I don't think, however, that there is any other person whose wealth can be compared with that of either Rockefeller or Ford. Morgan's personal wealth is comparatively small; although, of course, the various syndicates, which he controls, command great sums."

Referring to other great fortunes, Davis placed in "the Second Class" of American families in point of their estimated wealth the Astors, Vanderbilts, Fields and Kennedys.

CANADIAN DOLLAR MAY SOON BE AT A PREMIUM IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.— (Canadian Press.) — Canadian exchange will, before long, be at a premium in New York, the Wall Street Journal yesterday says, "one exchange expert" has declared. This, the paper remarks, is a reflection of Canada's improving trade condition, adding:

"New York has for several years been the best market for the larger part of high grade Canadian issues. Since the war it has been profitable for the Dominion and its provinces to sell securities here for American Dollars, owing to prevailing discount on Canadian money. With a premium on Canadian exchange, the opposite would be true, but conditions seem to point to the necessity of continuing to seek funds in New York payable in New York.

"Investment bankers in close touch with the market for Canadian loans say there was little response from investors when asked their attitude toward the recently proposed Ontario issue payable in Canada. All bids offered were rejected and sale of issue postponed. Canadian investment market does not seem to be in a position to absorb these provincial issues and at the same time stand ready for the new Dominion financing expected later in the year. Further financing here will tend to raise exchange higher, lowering net receipts."

HOLD WHEAT FOR BETTER PRICES.

Farmers Are Not Rushing Grain to Market As In 1921.

SASKATOON, Sask., Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Not nearly so much wheat on being thrown on the market this year as in 1921, according to the report of the Dominion Statistician for the Saskatoon District. The farmers appear to be find ing some means of holding their crop for better prices.

Eighty five per cent of the wheat is threshed in this district and 75 per cent of oats. Weather conditions are ideal, labor supply normal and there are plenty of machines for the work. The total yield harvested seems to be much greater than last year.

PETERBOROUGH MAN DIES IN THE WEST

Passing of William John Reid at Wainwright, Alta.

WAINWRIGHT, Alta. — (By Mail).—One of Wainwright's old-timers in the person of William John Reid has passed to his reward.

Coming here about twenty years ago from Peterborough, Ont., he took up a farm in the Dolcy district. But owing to continued ill-health for the past eight months, the family moved into town for the winter, where he passed away shortly afterwards.

He was one to whom continued hard work seemed a pleasure, and no doubt this told on his constitution, heart failure and valvular trouble being the ultimate cause of his demise on Friday, September 8, at the age of 58 years, the day of his death being also the anniversary of his birthday.

The funeral was conducted at his late home on Sixth avenue on Sunday afternoon, the service being in charge of Rev. Bosomoorth and Capt. Gardner of the Salvation Army, and where a large number of friends assembled to pay their last respects. During the service they sang one of the deceased's favorite hymns, "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder I'll Be There," and "Oh, Love, That Will Not Let Me Go."

The following old-timers served as pallbearers: C. Isteed, S. Bowerman, Geo. Davey, Ejah Mills, E. A. Deyell and Albert Mills of Peterborough, Ont., who came West to visit the deceased two weeks before.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the sorrowing widow and two daughters—Mrs. T. A. Carbert of Edmonton, Alta., and Miss Josephine at home—as well as to four brothers—Robert, Charles, Richard and Edward, all of New York State.

Interment was made in the Wainwright Cemetery.

TWO WOMEN DIE IN PETTY QUARREL.

Disagree Over Price of Flannel — Murder and Suicide.

SUNCOCK, N.H., Sept. 26—Mrs. Harry G. Carpenter of this town was shot and killed to-day by her next door neighbor, Mrs. Berton Goward, who then went into her own house and committed suicide.

A quarrel between the two women over the price of a piece of flannel led to the shooting, according to information given to the police to-night.

MEIGHEN SAYS APPROVAL WAS GIVEN TREATY

Quotes Hansard in Rejoinder to Premier King's Statement That Sevres Treaty Not Ratified.

OTTAWA, Ont. Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press).—In a statement issued to-night, Right. Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Opposition in the Federal House, declares that the Parliament of Canada not only ratified the Treaty of Sevres but gave it "Definite approval." He quotes in full the statute introduced at the last session of Parliament by the Prime Minister and entitled "an act for carrying into effect the treaties of peace between His Majesty and Hungary and Turkey," which was passed by both Houses. He also quotes from Hansard to show that Hon. R. Dandurand, leader of the Government in the Senate, answering Senator Belcourt, stated that the bill before the House ratified the treaty."

"From the above recital of the statute, it would easily be seen how absurd it is to refer to a treaty actually executed by the plenipotentiaries of Turkey and of all the allied powers as merely 'proposals', " he says.

"We shared with Britain in enduring the sacrifice; we shared with her in bringing about the armistice by which this weapon "enemy control of the Dardanelles" was wrested from the Turk we shared with her in insisting upon the neutralization of the straits and in formulating in express terms this the most precious of all the guarantees that such sacrifice shall not be endured again. The sig nature of our representative stands next to the signature of the British representative in the instrument that expresses the common judgment of all; our Parliament has by legislation placed the seal of its approval on that instrument; how then can we abandon Great Britain as she seeks to hold fast to the most vital of the guarantees for peace which our common sacrifice made possible, which the armistice executed and for which the treaty provides?"

Mr. Meighen's statement was issued in reply to one given out by the Prime Minister last Saturday in which it was stated that "there is, in reality, no treaty of Sevres", and that the treaty in question had never been accepted by Turkey or ratified by Great Britain or Canada. The act of last session, the Prime Minister said, "was merely an enabling act, dependent for its effect upon the so-called treaty becoming such in reality through its acceptance by Turkey and its ratification by Great Britain and Canada."

IRISH ADOPT MAIN CLAUSE

Accepts Status As Member of British Commonwealth of Nations.

DUBLIN, Sept. 26.—The Parliament in committee today adopted Article 1 of the new Irish Constitution.

Kevin O'Higgins, Minister of Home Affairs, in moving the adoption of the article, said the Anglo-Irish Treaty had been signed under duress, inasmuch as the alternative was war, but that the people had exercised their choice and accepted the treaty as the best thing obtainable. The people could, however, at any future time, repudiate the treaty if they were willing to take the consequences, added the Minister.

In the opinion of the Government, the majority will of the nation was at all times sovereign.

There are in all, 78 articles in the Irish Constitution now pending in the parliament, many of them of considerable length. Article 1. contains but a single sentence, reading:

"The Irish Free State, (Sacrstat Eireann) is a co-equal member of the community of nations forming the British Commonwealth of Nations."

WEST HUMMING WITH HARVEST AS SUN SHINES

Week of Ideal Weather Has Accounted For Prodigious Work in Prairie Provinces.

YIELD IS GOOD.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 26. — (Canadian Press.)—During the past week ideal harvesting weather has prevailed throughout the three prairie provinces, according to the crop report issued yesterday by the Agricultural Department, Canadian Pacific Company. Yields are proving better than was anticipated and grades are uniformly good. Taking into consideration the recent prolonged wet spell, surprisingly little sprouting occurred and inspections show small percentage of rejected grain. Large areas in each Province have already been plowed and this work is being rapidly increased as threshing becomes completed in various districts. Already considerable fall rye has been sown.

Manitoba has experienced ideal weather during the past seven days, according to the report. Every district got in three or four threshing days with satisfactory results. It is anticipated that ten days of present weather will see all grains through machines. Throughout Saskatchewan threshing operations are in full swing with grade mostly number one northern. Under present weather conditions an early completion of harvesting is assured.

Threshing is in full progress in Alberta, with splendid yields. Forty to fifty per cent. grain is threshed with prospects of an earlier than average completion. A few degrees of frost in some localities occasioned little damage to garden produce.

Showers occasioned little delay to threshing in the Grande Prairie district, Spirit River, and high prairie districts on the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway. Weather conditions are again favorable and threshing is nearing completion. Generally speaking, grade has been excellent but yields, as the result of prolonged drought conditions, is far short of last year. Wheat averages around ten bushels and less.

The fruit crop in British Columbia is being gathered in rapidly according to the report. General reports indicate the apple yield exceeding estimates, but much will depend on production of later varieties.

PROBABILITIES.

Light winds; fine, and a little warmer.

DR. Andrew Wilson, the eminent British authority, once said of the cocoa bean—"It is a kind of vegetable egg which contains all that is needed to build up a living body." Tea and coffee are mere infusions—but cocoa is an actual food in itself. Business men should remember that.

Cocoa, made the FRY way, from the world's choicest beans, is pure, extremely soluble and of most delicious flavour. Nearly two hundred years' knowledge of the cocoa business stands back of FRY'S. Of course, remember ——.

A SLENDER REED.

The first chill of frost in the air and the announcement that the City's Fuel Commission has not a pound of hard coal in sight come simultaneously.

The reserve that the Examiner has been suggesting should be maintained for emergency cases has not yet begun to materialize.

True there are fifty-seven cords of hardwood coming but the situation will not be materially improved by its arrival.

Repetition is wearisome, but nevertheless it seems a duty to point out that the people the City's Fuel Commission should be concerned about are the families of limited means who have not the funds to lay in any large quantity of fuel, and who are liable to find themselves up against an impossible situation later on unless the city authorities can come to their aid.

So far at least the operations of the Fuel Commission would go to indicate that such families will have in that body a very slender reed upon which to lean when the emergency comes.

STANDARD LOADS.

Owing to the coal shortage an unusually large quantity of wood is being sold in Peterborough at the present time, and more than the usual number of people are engaged in selling.

Under the present methods there is a good deal of speculation involved in the purchase of wood. The customer, when he orders a load, does not know what he is going to get. There are all sizes of loads. One man asks $9.00 a load, another $11.00, and still another dealer wants $13.00 a cord. In the latter case the purchaser knows what to expect, but in ordering by the load the transaction is nothing more nor less than a gamble, and in some cases the customer has reason to complain that he has not received value for his money.

If the Fuel Controller could make it obligatory for all wood dealers to sell wood by the cubic foot, so that customers could be told, for instance, that a load containing 80 cubic feet would be sold for $9.00, the speculation of the present hap-hazard method would be removed. There is no standard at all at present, and the public is suffering as a result.

SATURDAY'S TAG DAY.

The tag day method of raising funds was inaugurated in Peterborough by the Children's Aid Society, and the citizens generally realize that this splendid institution which is doing such great work on behalf of neglected children in appealing in this way for support, make it possible for a large number of people to contribute to the funds of the Society, thus distributing the call generally over the community.

The Children's Aid Society has been in operation here for many years, and its work has never been criticized or attacked from any angle—sure proof that it has been of most valuable service. Hundreds of children have been taken from homes where there was no chance for them to develop, and have been converted into useful citizens. It has been said that a city's best asset is its children. That being so, the Children's Aid Society is seeking to foster and develop that asset deserves the support and assistance of every citizen who is worthy of the name.

The tag day effort is the principal source of revenue by which the operations of the Society must be financed. The budget has naturally grown larger year by year, and as next year's appropriation will necessarily be a large one, it is essential that the sum raised on Saturday shall not fall below previous records.

All friends of the children are asked to keep the collection in mind.

BISHOP O'BRIEN'S CELEBRATION.

In his reply to the address presented to him from the people of the Diocese of Peterborough on Sunday, His Lordship Bishop O'Brien remarked that he was glad to live in a community where people dwelt at peace with one another, and expressed his kindly feelings towards those of other creeds who had grown up with him in the city.

In justice to Bishop O'Brien, it is a simple statement of fact to say that he has contributed very largely to the existence of that harmony and peace and goodwill to which he referred on Sunday.

As the head of the Roman Catholic Church in this Diocese, His Lordship has been an important factor in bringing about the conditions that makes Peterborough a city of concord and amity.

The presence of so many citizens of other creeds at the services on Sunday and the congratulations of the people generally on the important anniversary that is being celebrated by Bishop O'Brien are proof that His Lordship's success in this regard has been widely recognized.

Peterborough people as a whole rejoice with him on this occasion because they look upon him as one of themselves, born and educated in Peterborough, and having lived in this city all his life, save for the time he was preparing himself for the work to which he had devoted is life.

THE LINEUP IN THE NEAR EAST.

Great Britain, it now appears, must stand alone against the Turks. The French Cabinet unanimously approves of Premier Poincare's pacific policy, which, divested of diplomatic persiuage, is let Kemal and his army into Europe. One step toward the carrying out of this policy is the withdrawal of French troops from the neutral zone, especially from Tchanak, the narrowest part of the Dardanelles, the point to which the Turkish commander is directing his advance and from which he could most easily cross into Thrace and to the outer defences of Constantinople.

In this situation there is a grim reminder of the centuries old rivalries between France and England. France has as her supporters Italy and her Balkan allies, Jugo-Slavia and Roumania. She is, too, in alignment with the Moscow Soviet as a defender of Kemal and of his re-establishment of Constantinople. She has taken over the part of the pacifist and the advocate of moderation and caution—the part which Great Britain had when France called for bayonets to enforce her demands against Germany. There is the situation reversed when Great Britain finds the fruits of her own victories in the Near East threatened.

But back of this refusal to join Great Britain in stopping Kemal at the Turkish Straits lies more than a spirit of retaliation for British opposition in Western Europe. There is the whole question of France's own interests in the Near East and the danger of a loss of all the decided advantages which she has gained there since the war. When Great Britain weakly backed Greece France turned to Kemal as the winner. Scarcely had he established himself at the Nationalist capital than France sent to Angora Bouillion, her ablest student of the Near East and most skillful handler of her Moslem affairs.

Bouillion was successful beyond France's expectation. He negotiated a treaty with Kemal, ostensibly for strengthening the northern border of Syria, by which France obtained a part of Cilicia and of a controverted part of Syria. She got control of the Bagdad railway from the Taurus Mountains east to the Tigris, with access to the Mediterranean at Alexandretta, the former German port, and the right to connect the Bagdad railway at Aleppo, or some other point in that region, with a French port on the Syrian coast.

At about the same time Italy obtained from the Angora Government a recognition of her rights to the Isle of Rhodes and concessions in the Asia Minor littoral which gave her the control of rich mines in ancient Cilicia and a port on the coast. In this way France and Italy plucked the prizes of eastern Asia Minor beyond those which fell by the Sevres treaty to Greece. France got absolute control of the eastern part of the Bagdad railway. Italy got the richest mineral wealth of eastern Asia Minor and the most accessible. It is the Greeks' contention that these two treaties were the cause of their defeat in the Salt desert on their second invasion of Anatolia. The immediate withdrawal of French and Italian troops which had been opposing the Turks gave Kemal the desired opportunity to throw his entire forces against the Greeks.

Kemal defeated, a Nationalist Government overthrown and the Sultan returned as the real power of Turkey would make a treaty signed at Angora a piece of paper. But Kemal as the head of Turkey makes his treaties fully operative and in force. The reason for espousal of his cause by France and Italy becomes fully apparent.

But what France and Italy professed to see in Great Britain's aid to Greece was the creation of a strong and friendly Power in southern Europe which would form a bulwark for the Suez in the eastern Mediterranean. The Greek predominance in the Near East, her control of the Straits and perhaps her eventual occupation of Constantinople would be the erection by Great Britain of another Gibraltar. The Mediterranean would thus pass from French and Italian control and it would become in diplomatic parlance a "British lake." Thus we are informed from Paris that Lord Curzon's task in France is to convince Premier Poincare that the British do not "intend to make another Gibraltar of the Straits but that bigger issues are at stake, and that the future of the Baikans and the relations of Soviet Russia with the Near East depend upon safeguarding Constantinople from Turkish occupation."

The American interest is not in the preponderance of power in the Mediterranean, the concession in mines or the control of railways. What the people of America remember are the Armenian massacres, the horrors of the burning of Smyrna and the murder of thousands of defenceless Christians. They know the Turk. They know his history of atrocities and barbarities. They know that he is out of Europe. They believe he should stay out. They understand and appreciate Great Britain's position. They cannot understand that of Italy and France.—New York Herald.

WASHINGTON AND LONDON SHOULD CONFER

There is in the latest incident connected with the chasing of alleged rum-runners off the American coast every ingredient essential to the creation of an unpleasant international "incident," says the Montreal Star. The captain of a yacht flying the British flag, lying anchored, so her captain asserts, outside the twelve-mile limit arbitrarily fixed by the U.S. Customs officials as the boundary of their jurisdiction, turned the searchlights of his vessel on the Union Jack when officials from the American rum-chaser Hahn proposed to board him and declared he would shoot the first man who made the attempt. Thereupon the officials in question decided to return to their own vessel and leave the yacht alone "for the time being."

The issue involved is more important than may appear at first sight. A New England Judge the other day ruled that for the purposes of pursuing and arresting rum-chasers, and confiscating their boats and cargoes, American officials are within their rights up to the twelve-mile limit from shore. This judgment nonchalantly sets aside the international law to which all civilized nations, including the United States, have hitherto subscribed, and which establishes three miles from shore as the territorial limit within which the law can be enforced by the Government administering the territory concerned.

Neither Canada no Great Britain is concerned with the American administrateion of American law in so far as it affects American territory. Whatever views may be held as to the propriety or otherwise of the Volstead Act and the methods adopted in the enforcement of that Act, we in Canada and the British authorities recognize that it is a purely a matter of local concern within American territory. Nor will any sensible British subject desire to assist in breaking that American law. But when the American authorities go beyond what is internationally recognized as American territory, then it becomes a matter of international concern. All ships flying the British flag are British territory on the high seas—that is, beyond the three-mile limit; and as such are inviolate from invasion by any foreign power. It is upon this univeralsly recognized international law that the captain of the Onward took his stand.

Before any further action is taken in this connection, it would be in the highest degree advisable for the British and American Governments to confer upon the matter and come to a ddfinite uneerstanding as to what constitutes the territorial limit off the American coast in connection with the enforcement of American law. An amicable conference between Washington and London would not occupy any length of time and would enable the respective Governments to arrive at a clearly defined agreement upon this vexed question. This seems to be absolutely essetnial, if bloodshed is to be avoided in the near future.

Such a disaster as an armed clash ought never to be permitted, and will not take place if the two Governments get together at once and settle the matter by dip.omatic means upon the basis of a ruling to which both subscribe and which will not be susceptible of any elastic interpretation to suit special circumstances in the future. Trouble with the United States is the one thing we want least of all. The way to avoid it is clear.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

If Kemal Pasha cannot hold his troops in check it is likely that somebody else will.

Congratulations to the Kingston Standard, which yesterday celebrated its 112th birthday. 112 years represent a long time—especially in Kingston.

Fifteen deaths in one Montreal hospital in two months from the use of narcotics offer sufficient reason for drastic action against the dope peddlers.

Now they are talking of Ottawa as an ocean port. They must be counting on the wetness of Hull as a justification.

THE MYSTERY MIND

Arthur B. Reeve and John W. Grey

Violet jumped up, wrapping the blanket about her. Making suree tha the door was locked, pushing the bed against it, she scrambled into her clothes with feverish haste. The slippers, a little large, were fairly new and were very serviceable, almost exactly matching her stockings in their tint of gray. Her own clothes were amazingly fresh and bright. When nothing happened she put on the hat, a little enamelled straw with a wisp of gray feather, and nearly clapped her hands in delight as she saw herself, in a bit of broken glass tacked to the wall. Her hair, alone given no attention, a sticky mass still damp and heavy on her head, was effectually concealed except at its edges. Violet was ready to leave.

Could it be true? She remembered every word now. Lydia had said, very plainly, that she would be allowed to go, unmolested. The hunchback had made it very clear that such were the orders or wishes of Evil Eye. She pulled the bed back in place, away from the door. She waited impatiently.

After some time there was a knock. Lydia entered with a tiny tray, setting it down, and leaving immediately. Violet, waiting until she was out, rushed to the door. It was locked again. In her disappointment she dropped to the bed, covering her face.

Finally she remembered the tray. She was not so hungry as she was thirsty, a natural result of her experiences. As she realized the fact her thirst became insupportable. Lydia had brought her a tall glass of water, containing a single piece of ice, and a box half full of crackers. While she nibbled at the latter she drank all the water. Though she noticed a strange, sweet insipidity, she gave it no thought at the time. Refreshed, she turned again toward the door.

As if the drinking of the water had been required of her, she now heard the bolt shoot back into its socket. Somewhat apprehensively she tried the door and found it open. She ventured out into the hall, then saw beyond its bend the dock and the water of the bay and the brilliant sunlight of mid-morning. Nothing hindered her as she left the shack. A narrow walk of wood led her to the mainland. A road beyond stretched straight into the distance. Not so far away were the trolley wires of civilization.

A street car took her through Brooklyn across the river, into Delancey Street. Not yet entirely willing to credit the actuality of her freedom, she walked to Washington Square.

At the house, the slouching, alert figure of a man caught her eye. She presumed him to be a detective. A moment later, Thelma admitted her. In the parlor she heard the voice of Aunt Julia protesting, the tones of her own Robert in patient explanation. With arms wide, she rushed through the curtains, rushing to them.

"I'm safe," she exclaimed. "They let me go of their own accord."

TO STOP RUM-RUNNING AT WINDSOR BORDER

Dominion Gov't to Strike Staggering Blow at Illicit Traffic.

TORONTO, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press).—The Ontario License Department was notified yesterday of important steps that have been taken by the Dominion Government in the matter of ensuring the enforcement at the Windsor border of the Ontario Temperance Act. The measures specified were peremptory instructions to the Customs officials that they should not clear liquor in other than their official hours, and that they should handle it only when it was being regularly shipped in bond and upon condition that proof must be furnished of its arrival at the port it was being consigned. These provisions are held by the Ontario Department to strike an important blow at the illicit traffic which has been rampant along the border district.

FARM YOUNG PEOPLE PLAN CONVENTION IN PETERBORO

Date Is Saturday, Nov. 11, When An Oratorical Contest Will Be Featured and a Debating Competition Scheduled.

A meeting of East Peterborough County U.F.Y.P.O. Executive was held in Peterborough recently to arrange the fall convention of the county U.F.Y.P.O.

Miss Reta Brethen, who leaves shortly to attend college, tendered her resignation as Secretary. It was accepted with keen regret, as Miss Brethen has been a faithful worker amongst the farm young people, who wish her every success in her college course.

Mr. W. R. Shield of Peterborough, Provincial Vice-President of the U. F. Y. P. O., addressed the meeting, ably outlining the work and plans of the Provincial Executive during the year. In closing, he urged the club leaders to give every encouragement to the young people in their various programmes, especially the debating competition, and suggested that the older people would find both pleasure and profit in attending some of the young people's meetings.

In order that the young people may get started early in their debating competition for the cup, so kindly donated by the county U.F.O., the Executive has arranged for the county U.F.Y.P.O. convention to be held in Peterborough on Saturday, November 11. It will be an all-day convention, beginning at 9.30 in the morning.

It is expected that the debating schedule will be arranged on that day. and it is hoped that even more than the six clubs who competed last year will recognize the debating competition as an important means of getting the young people interested in vital public questions of the day, studying them with understanding minds and acquiring the ability of forming unbiased personal opinions.

Another special feature of the U. F. Y. P. O. convention this year will be a senior and a junior oratorical competition, for each of which a 10k gold medal has been donated, and will be presented immediately following the judges' decision.

The senior competition is open to one member from each U.F.Y.P.O. club in the county. Speeches are limited to ten minutes. Choice of topic must be made from the following list:

1. —Farm young people's needs.
2.—How to make U.F.Y.P.O. meetings interesting and entertaining.
3.—How to keep young people's hearts in the farm home.
4.—The possibilities of U.F.Y.P.O. work.
5.—The benefits derived from U. F. Y. P. O. meetings.
6.—The value of the debating competition to our young people's clubs.
7.—The individual responsibility of our young people in relation to politics.

The junior competition is open to U.F.Y.P.O. members between 13 and 20 years of age, not entering the senior competition and not having more than two years' High School training. Speeches are limited to five minutes, and two from each U. F. Y. P. O. club in the county may enter the junior competition. Contestants may either take the topic suggested—Why I am a member of the U.F.Y.P.O.—or choose for themselves a topic from the senior competition list.

Further plans for the convention include a "speaker," a question drawer, the report of the Resolution Committee and either a musical selection or a recitation from each club.

Besides the hymns and responsive readings, Mrs. W. R. Dawkins sang "There's a Beautiful Land on High" and five small boys saluted the Christian flag, but the most interesting number was a pageant entitled 'The call of girls' voices from other lands,' given by eight girls. These girls, who were dressed to represent Canada, Mexico, China, India, Africa, Hindoo widow and Japan, told how badly Christianity was needed in other lands.

This Laxative Works Fine on Old People

Thousands have kept themselves healthy with Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin

ADVANCING age with its subdued ambitions and strivings could be made very happy if only good health accompanied it, and the basis of good health, as everyone learns upon reaching the age of 60, is the regular daily movement of the bowels. If it can be effected through the food you eat, the water you drink and the exercise you take, so much the better. But if nature will not operate it must be assisted or sickness will follow. Neglected constipation causes the blood pressure to go up 28 per cent, and that is the forerunner of hardening of the arteries. It makes rheumatism and gout worse, too.

The ideal constipation remedy for people of advancing years is Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics. It is gentle and mild, and does not cramp or gripe. It is a mistake to think you need a violent salt or powder or pill, calomel, coal-tar drugs and such things. They purge and weaken you, and their reaction tends to make you more constipated than before.

Now try the milder method. Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin does not lose its good effect with repeated use, and increased doses are unnecessary. Mrs. Ellen Laira of Pictou, N. S. who is 87, keeps herself in good health with it, and Mr. Chas. N. Nicholas of Winnipeg, Man., finds it both helpful and beneficial, and everything that can be desired from a laxative standpoint.

Use Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin yourself the next time you suffer from constipation, biliousness, headache, sleeplessness, indigestion, piles or night cramps.

Many thousands of elderly people use nothing else, and it costs them less than a cent a dose. Druggists have sold it successfully for 30 years, and it is the most widely bought family laxative in the world.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try my Laxative Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 32 Caldwell Building, Toronto, Ont. Do it now!

60,000 YOUNG AMERICANS DIE

Each Year—From Old Age Diseases —Due Largely to Faulty Food

PROFESSOR McCOLLUM, of Johns Hopkins University, says these old age deaths, from diseases of the heart, blood vessels, kidneys, brain, digestive organs etc., have doubled in thirty years, and that younger persons are every year being attacked. McCollum also says 10% of all deaths are due to tuberculosis, and "this condition is largely due to faulty food."

Conditions are identical in Canada and all civilized countries where the same foolish food habits prevail.

The food mistakes of civilization and therefore of us Canadians—of me and mine—of you and yours—are too much "denatured," "deficiency," "excess acid," white flour, refined cereals, meats, and sweets; too little whole grain cereals, milk, eggs, leafy vegetables and fruits, the immemorial natural food of the human race.

McCollum has demonstrated that a combination of whole grains is even superior to one whole grain—because better balanced. Roman Meal is the only combination of whole grains cereal known. It supplies the deficiencies of white flour, other cereals, meats and sweets. It was designed by a food scientist for that purpose. For this reason it nourishes better than meat, relieves most forms of indigestion and positively relieves all forms of constipation.

Because of its Flaxin, Roman Meal contains more bone making salts and protein than even milk, thus it is the best possible food for your child and for the nursing and expectant mother.

Buy Roman Meal at Grocers and try this Delightful Recipe to-day

ROMAN MEAL BROSE-O

Icy-Cold! Steaming Hot

Stir 1 rounded cup Roman Meal into 4 cups boiling, salted water. Boil slowly for 10 minutes. Set in a cool place to jell, or in ice chest. Serve cold with milk or cream and sugar, honey, preserves or jelly or bananas or berries, etc. (If hot foods are preferred, reheat in double boiler after it has jellied by standing over night.)

Add ROMAN MEAL to Your Daily Diet.

ROMAN MEAL is the only balanced combination of whole grains—wheat, rye, Flaxin, and comminuted bran. It is a delicious family food, to be used as porridge, or baked into anything half and half with flour. By using Roman Meal in some way every day, with plenty of milk and some leafy vegetables (preferably uncooked) you provide your body—and the bodies of your children—with every element necessary to sturdy health and long life, and correct the "deficiencies" of modern "excess acid" and "deficiency" foods. Roman Meal aids digestion, positively relieves constipation.

With one exception the most economical cereal sold.

Wine, Women and Song

"A Bacchanalian Feast and What Came of It, or Wine, Women and Music," was the subject of a sermon by the Rev. R. Pogue on Sabbath evening in St. Paul's church. The sermon was based on the story of the death of John the Baptist and the events surrounding it as recorded in the sixth chapter of the Gospel by Mark. He first gave a graphic account of John's last ministry and imprisonment and the feast which led to his death The sermon was one in a series on the "Mind and Ministry of Jesus," which are to occupy the winter months. Speaking of John he said in part: John was a revivalist. We expect revivalists to say plain things to us. Plainness and directness were outstanding characteristics in John's preaching. And this was true of him whether he preached to the common people or to kings. When he preached to Herod it was in no general terms. Herod was living in adultery. John did not hesitate to tell him so. But it is a dangerous thing to be a court preacher. "Faithful rebukes," says an old preacher, "if they do nto profit, usually provoke." John paid the penalty of his faithfulness by being cast into prison, where he languished for over a year. At the end of that time Herod made a feast—a kind of Belshazzar's feast, on a smaller scale. It was a feast of wine, women and music. The wine flowed like water, the laughter rang out and the licentuous conversation continued until Herod, under the influence of the flowing bowl, lost all sense of decency and requested the daughter of Herodeas to dance for the entertainment of the company. In ancient Rome it was considered a disgrace for a freeman to dance. In all eastern countries it was considered exceedingly improper for a woman to dance in public. The dance which Salome danced was that usually relegated to slave girls of a low class. Salome performed well her part in the unholy plot to slay John. After the food and the wine, the king and his guests lounged around the hall while Salome danced her lecherous dance before them all. There are dances which are music in motion. But these are dances which raise in bad men all the fires of hell. Salome's was such a dance. Before she had time to stretch herself on a divan Herod was at her feet: "Ask of me what you will," he said passionately, "and I will give it thee, even to the half of my kingdom." Prompted by her mother, with whom Herod was whom Herod was living in adultery, she replied, "Give me forthwith in a charger the head of John the Baptist." A soldier was summoned and John was beheaded in his cell, and thus was added the finishing touch to a "bacchanalia, the infamy of which will resound throughout the world, wherever right is contrasted with wrong, tyranny with liberty, and the canker of lust with the purity of the human heart."

The speaker here proceeded to draw lessons from the events connected with John's death. He mentioned three.

1. As we note the benumbing, damning, brutalising influence of strong drink upon Herod's moral nature, let us thank God so much has been done to banish it altogether from our midst and let us dedicate ourselves to the task of waging a war of extermination upon the traffic in the use of alcohol as a beverage in this and all other lands. There can be but one attitude to such an evil on the part of the Christian church and of all right thinking men who have at heart the highest welfare of the race and that is an attitude of opposition of war to the death.

2. Another thing suggested by the story is the awful power for evil of a woman of bad character. Mr. Pogue here offered some good advice to young men as to the qualities they should seek, above all others, in the girls they should choose as their wives. No girl will make the best life partner who is without a religious basis to her character.

3. The third thing suggested by the story is the awful consequences which flow from the prostitution of music to immoral ends. The speaker here referred to jazz and the modern dances. Music is one of the greatest gifts of God. Luther says: "Next to theology I give to music the highest place and honor." But jazz isn't music. Dr. Henry Van Dyke has this to say of jazz: "As I understand it, is not music at all. It is merely an irritation of the nerves, of hearing a sensual teasing of the strings of physical passion. It is a combination of disagreeable sounds in complicated discords, a wilful ugliness and a deliberate vulgarity." Of its influence on the youth of the country there is abundant proof. There is scarcely anything which the devil ever invented for the destruction of the morals of the youth of the land compared to jazz in combination with the dance of modern society. A writer has said: "Jazz is going back to the jungle for air music." Another writes: "Jazz originally was the accompaniment of the voodoo dancer stimulating the half crazed barbarian to the wildest deeds. It has been employed by barbaric people to stimulate brutality and sensuality." Jazz and the modern dance lead to exactly the same thing as Salome's dancing. They murder innocence. They slay purity. They destroy the sweetest of all a maiden's graces, the grace of modesty, which, as Addison says, is the guard to virtue. So awful is the evil resulting from jazz and the modern dance and the multiplication of dance halls throughout the country that it is receiving the attention of legislatures. God knows the position which couples assume in the modern dance, body against body, cheek against cheek, the naked arm of the woman resting on the shoulder of the man, the arm of the man encircling the waist of the woman, the exposed shoulders and bosoms, the overheated room, the atmosphere heavy with the perfume of flowers, all that is demoralizing enough; but when added to that this couple, thus united, begin to move about with other couples to the sound of a primitive music and when they assume postures and perform gestures suggestive of the jungle—then it is no wonder that in so many cases there follows a breakdown of morals altogether. John R. McMahon in an article which he contributed to the Ladies' Home Journal, after investigating the effect of jazz and the modern dance on communities where dancing halls and pavilions are to be found, points out that in almost every such community there is a local epidemic of immorality and a vast increase in illegitimacy.

Well, what is going to save the situation? The substitution of religion and places of worship for dancing pavilions. The only cure of this condition of things, the only hope of our country for salvation from any evil that threatens its moral life, is the religion of Jesus Christ.

THE NORTH HOPE RURAL SCHOOL FAIR

MILLBROOK, September 26. — The North Hope Rural School Fair, held at Garden Hill on Monday, 25th September, was favoured with fine weather, a large number of exhibits in the various classes, all of excellent quality, and an attendance of between three and four hundred people.

For physical training the results were: 1, Perrytown; 2, Osaka; 3, Pine Grove.

The judges made brief addresses, complimenting teachers and pupils on the attractiveness of their uniforms, efficiency in marching, singing, etc., and pointing out some details where further improvements might be made for another year.

THE ANNUAL RALLY OF YOUNG PEOPLE AT CAMPBELLFORD

Interest-Holding Event Largely Attended and Attracting Visitors From Outside Points—Campbellford News of Interest.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 26. — The Young People's Union of the Baptist church held their annual rally last evening in the auditorium of the church and was largely attended, many young people from Norwood and Morganston being present, with their pastors, Rev. Mr. Rich and Rev. Mr. Butcher. Miss Verna Shore, president of the Young People's Union, presided. Rev. Mr. Rich leading in the opening prayer and Rev. Mr. Butcher conducting the scripture lesson, which was the 111th Psalm. The pastor, Rev. H. S. Bennett, briefly extended a most cordial welcome to the visitors, after which Miss Belle Raddon of Norwood, rendered a solo which was much appreciated. Rev. R. McGregor Fraser ,B.A. ,B.D., of Gilmour Memorial church, Peterborough, then addressed the young people, basing his remarks on the words in St. John, chap. 17, verse 19, "And for their sakes I sanctify myself, that they also may be sanctified through the truth." The speaker referred to the motto of the Young People's Society for this year, which is "Others." In the smallest act of our lives we may ask ourselves two questions, (1) Why are we doing it, (2) What result will it have. If the motive is low the effect will be low.

The Christian must have an inward and an outward view of his action. The first essential to Christian life is purity of motive. All the issues of life lie imbedded in our hearts and thoughts. "Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." Our motives asserted Mr. Fraser, are often selfish. Something more than a good motive, however, is required. The greatest legacy Jesus left to his disciples and future generations was a stainless character, a life perfected through suffering. The work of every Young People's Society will depend upon the downright sincerity of each member. Much can be done with our money, our time, but behind all is needed most a consecrated life.

Following Mr. Fraser's excellent address, which was full of inspiration and practical thoughts, Miss Helen Cairns rendered a guitar solo very sweetly. After the benediction, which was pronounced by the pastor, all repaired to the basement, where the young people had provided a very dainty lunch and where a very pleasant social hour was spent.

If the attendance and enthusiasm shown last evening may be taken as a criterion, the young people of the Baptist church will be assured of a most successful year.

Campbellford Fair.

The Seymour Agricultural Society have fixed the dates of Sept. 28-29, for their annual fall fair which promises to surpass all previous efforts, with the addition of the new poultry building, a real merry-go-round, bicycle performances, side shows by the Allied Show Company. You will meet all your friends, and if everybody does not have a good time it will not be the fault of the committees in charge of various departments.

The deceased, although in failing health for some little time, was confined to bed only a week. MONTREAL MARKETS.

MONTREAL, September 26. Canadian Press. — There was no further change in the situation of the local cash grain market to-day, business being quiet on account of the limited supplies available. There was nothing new in the flour market. Demand for millfeed continues steady and the prices are unchanged. A moderate amount of business is passing through the rolled oats market. The tone of the baled hay market is steady. The egg market has a firm tone with fair business passing. Total shipments from May first to date show a decrease of 21.000 cases as compared with the same period last year. A slight improvement in demand is noted in potatoes. The prices for butter weer fractionally higher. The total shipments to date have been 195,478 packages greater than the same period of 1921. The cheese market is firmer to strong. Total shipments are 298,675 boxes fewer than in the same period of 1921.

CHICAGO WHEAT.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.— (Canadian Press.)— Material downturns in the price of wheat resulted yesterday from the apparent likelihood of a peaceful settlement with Turkey. The market closed unsettled 1 3-4 to 2 1-4c. net lower. with December $1.04 1-8 and May $1.08 to $1.08 1-8. Corn finished 3-4c. off to 1-8 and 1-4c. gain; oats at 1-4c. decline to a shade advance, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a rise of 32c.

Hedging sales from the Northwest and slowness of export demand, together with weakness of Winnipeg prices, counted as a weight on the market here, the movement of the Canadian crop remaining heavy and December delivery at Winnipeg having gone to 10c. under Chicago, the widest difference so far since the Turkish situation became a market factor.

Decrease of 6,600,000 bushels in the amount of wheat on ocean passage leaving en route about enough for only two weeks' actual needs, tended somewhat to rally the market during the late dealings. The falling off in the aggregate of wheat afloat was partly offset by an increase of the United States' visible supply total but the increase was less than had been looked for by many traders.

Corn and oats showed stubborn resistance to selling pressure, although averaging lower with wheat. Some European buying both of corn and oats was noted.

Provisions had an upward slant in response to higher quotations on hogs and because of better shipping call for lard and meats.

FELL 15 FEET FROM SCAFFOLD AT LAKEFIELD

William Hawkins Escapes With Cuts and Shaking Up — Farmers Rejoice Over Good Crops.

PERSONAL MENTION.

LAKEFIELD, Sept 26—Wm Hawkins was unfortunate enough to meet with a severe accident Friday last. He is an employee of the Canada Cement Company in their construction work and fell about fifteen feet from a scaffold. He was badly shaken up and cut about the head and arms but not seriously injured.

Good For Farmer.

The season of 1922 which is nearly over has been exceedingly good for the farmer. He is now relieved of the anxiety of whether or not he will have food enough for his stock. Last year the shortage was acute, but this season the crops have been above normal. Grain and root crops are both abundant and of good quality. Apples are plentiful and other fruits are fully up to the average, if not a little ahead. Potatoes are far ahead of last season in quantity and quality and other garden produce is up to standard.

Soft Ball Challenge.

Lakefield is out of the soft ball league for the season, but apparently the ball season is not over in the village as the Masonic Soft Ball Team have advertised their challenge to any team to play them. Games will be played in the Lakefield rink. It will be indeed a courageous team, which, after reading the list of players in the Masonic list, that will accept the challenge, but in the interests of true sport one cannot help hoping for a game or two.

On Saturday next a Tag Day will be held under the auspices of the Childrens Aid Society, which will be supported by the people of the village.

NEW HEAD OF MILLERS

President George A. Macdonald Prominently Identified With Many Branches of the Industry in Canada.

To many people the word miller is associated only with the manufacture of flour. When it became known that Mr. George A. Macdonald, manager of the Quaker Oats Company at Peterborough, has been elected President of the Canadian National Millers' Association at the annual meeting in Montreal the other day, the scope of the membership and functions of the Association became more apparent.

But the Quaker Oats while known best as manufacturers of cereal products, are also among the largest flour millers in Canada. Their mills have a capacity of 4,000 barrels a day and the new President of the Millers' Association has been a vital and forceful asset in building up this business.

Born in Edinburgh ,Scotland, just so many years ago, Mr. Macdonald comes naturally by his excellent taste for cereals and skill in manufacture. As manager of the Quaker Oats Company, he is responsible for the manufacture as well as the sale of the Quaker products, which besides Quaker Flour and the better known Quaker Oats, include Tillson's Oats, Tillson's Scotch Health Bran, Puffed Rice, Puffed Wheat and a number of other cereal specialties.

With Mr. Macdonald as the head of the Canadian National Millers' Association, it is safe to believe that this important body will maintain and increase in prestige and usefulness in the industrial and commercial life of the country.

TWO MEN SHOT IN STREET FIGHT

HOBOKEN, N.J., Sept. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Two men were shot and two stabbed early to-day during a class between members of the International long Shoremen's Association and alleged agents of the Industrial workers of the world near the pier of the Holland-American line. Police reserves were called to quell the disturbance and five men were arrested.

The Police were told the trouble started when a crowd of alleged I.W.W. workers threatened John Nolan, labor organizer, and member of the Longshoremen's organization. During the row that followed fire arms, bricks and bale hooks were used freely.

Leeches are claimed by many oculists as very useful in certain diseases of the eye.

King Of Siam A Thrifty Monarch

LONDON, Sept. 25.—(Associated Press).—The King of Siam is thrifty Hence, when it came to the question of taking a wife and he contemplated the great cost of the elaborate ceremonies the people would expect, he married his wife by royal proclamation, says the Daily Mail, thus saving a lot of money. There is an old Siamese custom which makes such action proper and binding. He is just as much married by this method, according to Siamese law, as by any other.

Last year the King was engaged to his new Queen's half sister, Princess Vallatha, but that betrothal was declarfed annulled by a royal decree. That was a queer document.

"His Majesty's noble desire," it stated, 'firmly and definitely to ensure the succession to the throne can not satisfactorily be met owing to the incompatibility of temperament between His Majesty and Princess Vallatha, which may be accounted for by chronic disposition of Princess whose, nervous system leaves much to be desired." Shortly afterward the King became engaged to Princess Lakshmi

His Majesty is 42 years old and an honorary general of the British army He came to England when he was 13 and was educated at Oxford and Sandhurst. Afterwards he was attached to the Durham Light Infantry. He speaks English well and is conversant with Western manners and customs, including its various methods of tying and untying the nuptial knot.

ENDORSES WORK OF THE SOCIAL WORKERS.

TORONTO, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press).—In the general scheme of crime correction, probation officers and social service workers are of more importance than judges, according to the opinion of Judge Jean Norris, of New York, who addressed the conference of the Canadian National Council of Child Welfare here last night, and gave a detailed outline of the system employed in her home city, both for paroled cases and offenders allowed out on probation. While she reported that the war of the social workers against crime is making headway, she had to admit that there is a tremendous increase in the use of drugs, and that this has gone up three times since the operation of the Volstead Act. She held that the increase in the traffic is directly due to the underground business in "hooch."

MANSION DESTROYED BY THE IRISH REBELS.

LONDON, Sept. 25. — (Canadian Press).—The Marquis of Lansdowne informs the Times that his mansion at Deerreen, County Kerry, Ireland, has been looted and burned, and valuable plantations on his estate destroyed. He does not know who committed the outrage.

DE VALERA'S CONFESSIONS.

LONDON, September 26 (Canadian Press). — Extraordinary disclosures concerning DeValera will be published by the Irish Provisional Government this week, according to a Dublin correspondent of the Daily Express.

A series of confidential communications from DeValera to William Mellowes, who was taken prisoner when the Four Courts building was surrendered, and is now in Mount Joy, was being conveyed to the prison by a young [illegible] was arrested, and the despatches confiscated.

The documents, say the correspondent, reveal a hopelessly chaotic state of the Republicans, and contain confessions by DeValera that his errors brought about civil war.

A STILL LOCATED NEAR COBOCONK

Mash, Grain and Sugar Also seized by Inspector.

LINDSAY, Sept. 26.—License Inspector Wm. Tronbury was successful in locating and seizing a large illicit still in the township of Bexley yesterday. For three weeks past the Inspector has been working on the case and the discovery warrants his tireless efforts.

Two stills have been apparently in operation in a dense swamp, about two miles from Coboconk. Both were seized, as well as 125 gallons of mash, and a quantity of grain and sugar.

Prosecutions will follow later.

SMOKED AT FIVE AND STILL AT IT.

BEAUVOIR, Miss., Sept. 26.—"Should women smoke? Certainly," says James Henry Turner, sitting up in his chairs on the porch of the Confederate Veterans' Home here, in evident interest at the question. "I've smoked since I was five years old and that's 89 years now. If I like it, why shouldn't the women like it too and if they like it, why shouldn't they smoke?"

Turner has been married twice, the first time at the age of 74, to a woman 29 years his junior, and the second time, four years later, to a girl of 25.

He outlived both wives and is the father of nine children.

He would be physically active but for the effect, which he feels sometimes, of old wounds suffered while fighting, during the War of Secession, as a soldier in the confererate army.

WEEKLY PASS ON CHICAGO "L."

CHICAGO, September 26. — A voluntary experiment in furnishing the people of Chicago with unlimited elevated transportation on a weekly pass is being tried out by the Chicago elevated railroads.

The plan was announced after the roads had filed a voluntary petition with the Illinois Commerce Commission for a downward revision of rates.

It provides for the sale of a weekly unlimited ride transferable pass for $1.25 good on all points south of Howard Street. Another which sells for 2.00 is good for any points between Chicago and Evanston.

Britton I. Budd, president of the elevated, says, "I have long wished to see the quantity user given the benefit of a lower rate."

MEET THE MAYFLOWER.

HALIFAX, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Captain Angus Walters, of the Bluenose, which last year won the fishermen's race, to-day said he was willing to meet the Gloucester schooner Mayflower, barred from the contest by the trustees of the Herald Cup, if a match race is sailed over a "sea" course—and not a harbor course—of forty miles with a time limit of five hours. It is understood in Halifax that the owners of the Mayflower are anxious for such a race, and will put up a handsome cash prize.

The business part of the meeting was held first, as the committees had to be formed When this was finished the remainder of the evening was spent in games, etc.

The lights were then put out and the merry group sat around the fireplace and told ghost stories, and also other stories, much to the amusement of all those present.

Lunch was served then by the hostess and a very enjoyable time was spent by all.

A hearty vote of thanks was moved by Miss L. Barnard and seconded by Miss C. McConnachie, to Miss Russell and her mother for the pleasant evening spent in their home.

IS PLANNING FOR TOUR OF CANADA.

Sir Thomas Lipton Will Visit Toronto and Other Cities.

NEW YORK, September 26 (Canadian Press). — Sir Thomas Lipton, who is planning a tour of considerable length over a number of cities in Canada as well as the United States, sat in his hotel last night, leisurely reading letters and telegrams while his valet prepared his bath.

His secretary, rustling papers, reminded him that he was dining with Sir Harry Lauder at seven o'clock. It lacked five minutes of seven.

"Sure, and don't bother me," said Sir Thomas. "A few minutes won't make any difference to Harry."

"Now, here's a letter from a little Canadian nurse I knew in London, and she asks me to have tea with her at the Presbyterian Hospital one day this week. Remind me of that, Westwood," he said, addressing his secretary. "Those Canadian nurses were fine girls," he went on. "I knew a lot of them in Serbia and France. And in England, too."

Asked if he would go to Canada during this visit, Sir Thomas said: "Most assuredly. I must see my good friend, Commodore Aemilius Jarvis in Toronto. And I may run out to Vancouver. The last time I was there I had just come back from China. They had a fine little sailing vessel out there called the Sir Thomas," he added, with a twinkle in his eye. "I'm fond of Canadians, they are good sailors."

"You may think I travel around in style, now, just like a prince," said Sir Thomas, paying not the slightest attention to his valet, who had just coughed discreetly in the doorway. "But it was not always thus."

His eyes dwelt a trifle wistfully on the pretty, lamp-lit room, the roses that filled silver baskets and vases, then he pulled back the curtains and looked down upon New York—a city of light, strung with electricity.

"It looks fine, to-night," he said. "But when I saw it first I was a steerage passenger. A little immigrant boy, who had come over to America, who had come to make some money for the old folks.

"And I did it, thanks to the wonderful mother I had, and to her teachings of thrift," he said.

"And I used my head, and I've saved my pennies. That's why I travel in style now."

"I've carried my mother's picture with me all over the world, wherever I went, all my life," said Sir Thomas.

And, going into his bedroom, he brought back a picture framed in silver which he held under the lamp. A woman dressed in old-fashioned silk ruffles, of the hoop period, smiled back at him from the frame. A woman with a wonderful smile, like his own.

"That," he said ,"is my mother. Any success I've had, I owe it to her."

And the baronet, who was once a little immigrant boy, put the picture gently down beside the roses on his table, and wiped his glasses carefully.

ACIDS IN STOMACH MAKE FOOD SOUR

CAUSE INDIGESTION

Experience has taught me that most people who complain of stomach trouble and indigestion possess stomachs that are perfectly healthy and normal," says a well known authority. The real trouble, which causes all the sourness, gas and pain, is excessive acid in the stomach. This acid irritates the delicate stomach lining, sours and ferments the food before the point of digestion is reached.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases. They give only temporary relief, do not correct the cause and often do great harm. A better plan, if you suffer after eating, is to drink a glass of hot Magnesia water made from a teaspoonful of four tablets of pure Bisurated Magnesia which can be obtained from any reliable druggist. This instantly neutralizes the acid, sweetens the stomach and your meal digests naturally without pain. Try this for a few weeks and see if your stomach does not feel one hundred per cent better.

NO WELCOME IN WAIT FOR IGNACE PADERWISKI

TORONTO, September 26. Canadian Press. — Animosity against Ignace Paderwiski, the famous pianist, because of pogroms alleged to have been committed against the Jews in Poland while Paderwiski was the Premier of that country, is warming up in this city in anticipation of the pianist's visit to Toronto, November 27th. A disturbance is threatened at the concert for which Paderwiski is billed.

"There must be no Paderwiski concert in our fraternal city of equality between Jew and Gentile," says a letter to a local paper. "We do not seek revenge, but we cannot receive an anti-Semite and an instigator to murder."

GIANTS QUALIFY FOR THE WORLD'S SERIES

Won the National League Championship in Ten-Innings Game With St. Louis — Eighth Time Under McGraw.

AMERICAN CIRCUIT QUIET.

NATIONAL.

New York 5, St. Louis 4.

NEW YORK, September 26 (Canadian Press). — New York clinched its tenth National League championship here to-day when the Giants defeated St. Louis in a ten-inning game by a score of 5 to 4. It was the eighth championship won in New York under McGraw's leadership since 1904, and marks the first time since 1913 that a National League champion has repeated.

George Kelly's hitting was largely responsible for New York's victory. He tied the score in the sixth inning with a home run with Young on base, while his single in the tenth, after Young had been intentionally passed, drove in Frisch with the winning run.

St. Louis made a brilliant stand in the ninth inning, when New York had one run in, the bases full, and none out, but failed to get over the necessary to clinch the pennant.

Stengel, the veteran New York centre fielder, strained a leg muscle coming in for a short fly, and was relieved by Cunningham. Score:

St. Louis	3000000010—4	8	0
New York	0001020011—5	11	1

TIGERS TRIM PITTSBURGH.

Detroit 5, Pittsburgh 1.

PITTSBURGH, September 26 (Canadian Press). — The Detroit Americans, outplaying the Pittsburgh Nationals on the mound, at the bat and in the field, won an exhibition game here yesterday, 5 to 1. The visitors used their regular line-up, with the exception of Manager Cobb, who appeared only as a successful pinch hitter. Pittsburgh used a rookie outfield. Oldham held the locals to two hits in the first five innings and not a safety was made off Holloway, who replaced him. Veach, of the Tigers, got a single, triple and a homer, and was robbed of another home run by a spectacular catch by Centre Fielder Cuyler.

The same teams will play an exhibition game in Detroit to-day.

Score:

Detroit	001030001—5	14	0
Pittsburgh	001000000—1	2	3

Oldham, Holloway and Woodall, Manion; Brown, Glazner and Jonnard, Mattox.

HAMMERED PETER BEHAN.

Cincinnati 10, Philadelphia 3.

PHILADELPHIA, September 26 (Canadian Press). — Cincinnati pounded two Philadelphia hurlers for an easy 10 to 3 victory in the second game of the series yesterday.

Eppa Rixey turned his twenty-third victory of the season for the Reds. Although nine safeties were made off his southpaw slants, he always held the upper hand. Score:

Cincinnati	200400103—10	16	3
Philadelphia	111000000—3	9	1

McGRAW'S MEN SAFE

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press).—The New York Giants clinched the 1922 National League championship today by defeating St. Louis, 5 to 4, in ten innings. The Giants can now lose all of the remaining seven games and still finish in the lead, even if Pittsburgh wins its three remaining games. In that event the final standing would be as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
New York	89	65	.578
Pittsburgh	88	66	.571

Needing one more victory to clinch the American League championship, the New York Yankees cannot settle the issue with the St. Louis Browns before Thursday, when they play the Red Sox at Boston.

The Yankees have four more games on their schedule, three with Boston and one with Washington. The Browns have three games to play with the Chicago White Sox, beginning Friday, and defeat in any one of them would eliminate the St. Louis club from the race, even if the Yankees lost all of their remaining games.

MEN'S SOFT BALL LEAGUE OPENED.

De Laval Won From Brinton Carpet by 17-11 and Engineers Swamped the Kiwanis.

The Men's Softball League got off to a good start last night with a double-header at the Armouries. The Engineers took the first game from the Kiwanis, 30 to 5. The second game was more interesting, and after a close battle the De Laval won by 17 to 11 from the Brintons.

Colonel McPherson, Mr. G. N. Gordon and Mayor Taylor took part in the opening ceremonies. Mr. Gordon took the mound, Colonel McPherson the bat and Mayor Taylor caught. Colonel McPherson walloped out the first ball, and then the first game got under way.

The Engineers liked Webber's offerings, and aided by errors of Kiwanis soon piled up a big score.

The teams were:

Engineers—McCarney, rf; Munro, c; Carruthers, lf; Langley, p; Jackson, 1b; Burgess, ss; Metheral, 2b; Bourne, 3b; Davis, ss; subs., Roe, Jackson and Fields.

Kiwanis—Webber, p; Widdifield, c; A. Dick, 1b; Cummers, 2b; Hamilton, ss; Craig, 3b; McKone, lf; Henderson, rf; subs., Craig, Neil and Grant.

Score by innings:

Engineers	440421222—30
Kiwanis	00101003— 5

The Second Game.

The second game proved faster and more exciting. The De Laval started scoring from the start, getting two in the first and fourth. The De Laval had eight runs at the end of the fourth and the Brinton had two. In the Brinton's half of the fifth they forged ahead, chasing around eight runs. The De Laval got two in their half of the fifth, tieing things up. The carpet men failed to score in the sixth, and the De Laval practically put the game on ice by getting five more in that innings, making it 15 to 10. De Laval got two more in the final stages of the game and the Brintons got one.

Perks pitched well, striking out six. Frick, for the De Laval, turned in a good game, fielding and batting well. Bob Ross was the Brinton's star, with a double play unassisted.

The teams were:

Brinton Carpet—Taylor, c; O'Dette, ss; Rose, 1b; Ross, 2b; Bishop, p; Corbett, 3b; V. Rose, lf; Saughnessy, rf; Jenkins, ss.

De Laval—Bell, 2b; Perks, p; Fitzgerald, 3b; Frick, 1b; McGee, c; Doughty, lf; Neary, rf; Manhood, ss; Murray, ss.

JACK JOHNSON'S DESIGNS ON SIKI.

Sends Challenge From Court With Hope of Purse Paying Fine.

NEW YORK, September 26 (Canadian Press). — Jack Johnson, one-time heavyweight champion of the world, told that section of the world that happened to be gathered in New York County Courthouse yesterday that he was sending a challenge last night to Siki, the Senegalese conqueror of Georges Carpentier.

Summoned to Court over a debt of $3,500 he has owed Barney Gerard, theatrical producer, for seven years, Johnson was asked by Joseph Levine Gerard's counsel, why he didn't pay $1,000 on account.

"You fellows ought to wait until I tackle that man Siki," he said. "He looks just like the man I want to fight, and when I get through I'll have money enough to pay you."

Then he announced he was sending a challenge last night.

HERE'S CARPENTIER'S ALIBI; HE SPARED SIKI TOO LONG

PARIS, Sept. 26.—After refusing to see even his best friends this morning, Carpentier late this afternoon agreed to receive a few newspapermen. Propped up in bed, he said:

"I do not intend to let this defeat end my career in the ring. I am not going to retire after this failure, but I will not fight anyone before I get another chance at Siki. I spared him too long while I was trying to solve his style and waiting for the opportunity to get over a right-hand punch. His blow to my jaw in the third round hurt me seriously, and weakened me greatly for the remainder of the fight."

His manager, Francois Descamps, is already out, however, for a return match with the victorious African.

"It is all his fault; it is a good lesson for Georges," Descamps said this afternoon. "If Carpentier had not tried to play with Siki he would not have been hit in the third round by the lucky punch that dazed him."

Carpentier is blamed severely by all the sporting writers for taking the fight as a joke.

The Yanks and Browns as Eddie Collins Sees Them

This is the second of seven articles written for The Examiner by Eddie Collins of the Chicago White Sox. Collins has played in more world series games than any other major league player.

By EDDIE COLLINS,
World's Greatest Second Baseman.

HE Yanks or the Browns?

What a strange contrast they present.

When you go out to see the Yanks play, you expect to see them hit—that's their middle name, and if they don't hit, the result is invariably disappointing from a New York point of view.

No man in the history of baseball has done more to revolutionize the game and make it now a game of swat than Babe Ruth.

It's only natural that the style of play of the Yanks should be likewise. And furthermore, why shouldn't they hit with such individuals as Ruth, Meusel, Pipp, Schang and the rest in their line-up, rather than stick to the old conventional formula of sacrifice or steal?

I know any time any one of the above mentioned sacrificed against the White Sox we are tickled to death, and if we thought we could influence the Babe into dropping down a bunt occasionally we'd instruct our third baseman to play out in left field.

In about two times out of five their slam-bang type of baseball goes astray and it looks like runs thrown away, but on the other hand, three times it succeeds. That's 600 per cent., and that's just their present mark in games won and lost.

Taken individually it's a mystery to me why the Yanks are not out in front a mile.

Strong at Third.

Dugan at third, although acquired late in the season, is as good as the American League can sport. Scott at short, for steadiness, range, brains and nerve, can't be beaten. There are better hitters, but few more dangerous in a pinch. Ward is a most capable second baseman, whose true worth is appreciated more by his teammates than by fandom-at-large, which is also true of Wallie Pipp at first.

This fellow Pipp has played wonderful ball this year, both at bat and afield, and I think he's one of the most underrated ball players of today.

While Ruth and Meusel are not the best outfielders in baseball, their offensive ability more than atones for any discrepancies they may have on the defense.

In the battery department the Yanks are unquestionably better fortified than any team in baseball. Bush and Schang is a combination pretty hard to beat. Shawkey is enjoying one of his best years, and Sam Jones, I am confident, if given a crack at a world series game, would be an awful tough bird to beat.

The Browns, on the contrary, are an entirely different kind of a ball club. Force of necessity makes them so. Their one and only dependable pitcher, Shocker, has carried them about every third day for the past two months, and on the other days it has been a question of "get 'em out" the best way possible, usually two or three, sometimes four, assisting. But they are still up there and going strong.

For sheer offensive strength, I doubt if the Browns are eclipsed at all by the Yanks, and I am satisfied they apply their hits to better advantage than their New York rivals.

Like the Giants, the Yanks' style of play is less disconcerting to an opponent, and 19 times out of 20, you are pretty sure what they are going to do. The Browns, on the other hand, have you guessing half the time.

Hardest to Put Out.

For the Sox, Tobin is the hardest man to put out in the American League. He is the most versatile man at the plate I've ever seen. Bunt or "drag," slug or walk, he gets on some way more than his .350 (or better) average would seem to indicate. Foster, acquired by the Browns by the waiver route late in August, is still the best hit-and-run man in the American League and surely is in a sweet spot, hitting behind Tobin. Then with Sisler—who now stands alone above all in all departments of play—coming up third, I'll say the Browns are off to a "mean" start.

But the beauty of this batting order is that there isn't a weak spot in it. Williams, possibly the new home-run king, but who, outside of his slugging, needs only confidence in himself, is destined to be one of baseball's leading hitters. Jacobson, together with dependable Hank Severeid, seems to have the happy faculty of clouting the life out of pitchers who are able to stop Sisler and his fellow left-handers.

This leaves McManus and Gerber, about whom I am desirous of making special mention. The former, I believe, is the most improved player in a year's time of anyone in the American League. Gerber occupies a place alongside of Scott and Peck as a shortstop—and that's praise aplenty. The combined worth of these two around that middle bag has been no small part in the success the Browns have had this year.

In comparison with the Yanks the pitching of the Browns doesn't look so good. But they have Shocker—and he's a heap. I've a hunch Dixie Davis would not be found wanting if called upon, and I am sure Van Gilder would get by, too.

But the one thing I like and admire in the Browns is their spirit. The Yanks are not as colorful in this respect, though they are undoubtedly pulling for each other just as hard as the Browns, but with the latter there is an apparent air of good feeling, encouragement and co-operation. And that helps a lot.

A team that refuses to admit defeat is hard to down.

BALTIMORE WON FROM NEW HAVEN.

First Game For the Minor League Championship of the East.

Baltimore 5, New Haven 1.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., September 26 (Canadian Press). — Excellent pitching by Bentley gave the Baltimore Internationals the first of the three-game series with New Haven, Eastern League pennant winners, here yesterday afternoon, for the minor league championship of the East. The score was 5 to 1.

Jack Dunn's premium left-hander turned the locals back with five hits. Behind Bentley's brilliant work in the box the Orioles hit Woodward hard, bunching 10 hits, in the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh innings, and scoring all their runs. Bishop's triple came in the fourth with two men on base. Baltimore got three men on in the second inning, but a fast double play killed their chances of scoring.

Ogden and Cooney were announced last night as the pitchers for to-day's game. Score:

Baltimore	000310100—5	14	1
New Haven	000001000—1	5	1

Bentley and McAvoy; Woodward and Wilson.

"LOVE" A WEASEL WORD TO TENNIS.

Officials Decide to Banish Sissified Word.

By BILLY EVANS.

The word "love" has always been a knock to the tennis game.

That word gave the impression to the outsider, who knew nothing of the game, that tennis was a sport for "sissies."

There have been a number of movements started to eliminate the undesirable word from the game, but none of them got anywhere.

* * *

Apparently the officials of the game have finally decided to cut the word, without any fuss being made about it.

During the tennis championships at Philadelphia the umpires in the matches were instructed to announce "fifteen Tilden" instead of "love fifteen" or "fifteen love."

A similar change was noticed in announcements of the results of the games. "Games are two love" has become "games are two to nothing."

* * *

The elimination of the word "love" by the tennis officials will meet with the approval of tennis players the country over. It has been more or less of a joke on some big, husky player to have the word "love" constantly tacked onto his play.

* * *

Incidentally it will remove for all time the tendency on the part of outsiders, who are entirely ignorant of the demands of the game, to ridicule the sport simply because the word "love" has always been so prominently mentioned in connection with the play.

* * *

Tennis is a strenuous sport, a game for red-blooded Americans. It is high time that such an effeminate word was removed from a sport that calls for so much courage and stamina.

REPLIES TO LETTER OF MR. SUTCLIFFE.

Editor of Examiner:

Sir,—I was a little amused to read Mr. Sutcliffe's letter in the "Voice of the People" in Saturday's issue in regard to the P. & D. Football Association not entering a team for the Plenty Cup, and telling the management of the same they had failed in their official capacity.

Now, in regard to the Ontario Cup for which the C.G.E. played so creditably, that contest is open for individual teams, the C.G.E. being the only one to enter. The football executive done their best to make their game with Brantford a success by selling tickets, and even at that, with no other sports on that day, the C.G.E. could not raise a gate large enough to meet expenses, which seems a poor state of affairs in a city of this size with its many soccer fans.

I don't really see how Mr. Sutcliffe can voice the opinion of many soccer fans when, to my mind, there are only a few in the city, and I base my opinion from visiting a great majority of the games when I notice the same few spectators every time.

I may say the P. & D. F. A. would really like to have a team representing Peterborough for the Plenty Cup, but owing to lack of financial support and financial difficulties we cannot see our way clear.

When Mr. Sutcliffe resigned from the P. & D. F. A. directors there was a considerable debt to be paid off, which was created through lack of support in the Plenty Cup series last year, in which he took a prominent part, and having cleaned off that debt and having no reserve fund, explains the position of the P. & D. F. A. management in not entering a team for the Plenty Cup this season.

Respectfully yours,
FRANK MILLARD.

FIGHT FILM FAILS TO INDICATE FOUL

Newspapermen Unable to Decide Whether Siki Had Tripped Carpentier—The Victor Acclaimed By Sporting Crowds.

Regret For Carpentier.

PARIS, Sept. 25. — (Canadian Press).—The film of the Carpentier-Siki fight was shown to the press this afternoon. In it the left leg of Siki was distinctly seen to rise behind the left knee of Carpentier, who began then to fall, but observers found it impossible to decide whether it was a real trip-up or merely the leg of the colored fighter passing between the white man's legs.

The film, however, makes it evident that Siki had no need to trip Carpentier, who at the moment seemed to be seeking his opponent in order to support himself, being patently a finished man.

The film was run through ten times for the newspapermen's benefit. When the lights were turned on Manager Descamps jumped excitedly to his feet exclaiming that the referee's disqualification of Siki was justified. The great majority of the newspapermen present, however, expressed themselves as unconvinced of this.

Film Evidence Discounted.

The pictures were taken at the rate of 150 per second, but were thrown on the screen as if they had been taken at the ordinary rate. Therefore, their value as evidence was considerably discounted today, as it was impossible to show them at the proper speed.

The sixth round opens with Carpentier bending low and covering his face with both hands. He receives a right swing to the face, followed by a left swing. He is unable to make the least effort at a return against the Senegalese. Then is seen the leg movement of Siki and Carpentier falls.

During the third showing of the film Siki arrived. He seemed uncomfortable at sight of the screen and somewhat put out by the animated discussions going on around him, and left the projection room and went into the corridor. There, to a small group of friends, he protested his innocence of fouling Carpentier.

Descamps' Alibi.

Meanwhile Descamps was holding forth in the theatre and trying to prove an alibi for the defeat of Carpentier. The little manager claimed that even in the sixth round Georges was capable of winning.

"Gentlemen," he said, "let me remind you of Ghent. During three rounds my Georges was a beaten man, but in the fourth round he won."

Descamps was referring to the fight at Ghent, Belgium, in 1913, when Carpentier knocked out Bombardier Wells, the English heavyweight. Descamps was reminded by those present, however, that Carpentier at Ghent was not in so lamentable state as he was in the sixth round of Sunday's fight with Siki.

Haven't Told Carpentier.

Siki was accorded a tremendous ovation in the sporting centre of Paris this evening, when he arrived by automobile at the offices of Echo Des Sports, one of the foremost French sporting papers.

Meanwhile Georges Carpentier is lying ill and badly battered at his home. He is not yet aware that he lost his laurels to the man from Senegal.

This morning Georges asked to see the newspapers. Those at the bedside, however, told him the doctor's instructions were that he must have absolute rest and that he must not read, owing to the condition of his damaged eyes. He has not been told that the judges reversed the decision of the referee awarding him the fight on a foul and still believes himself the light heavyweight champion of the world.

Regret is expressed on all sides over the downfall of Carpentier, but no attempt is made by the sporting newspapers to hide their satisfaction over the discomfiture of Francois Descamps, Carpentier's manager.

RUGBY.

If the promoters of rugby in Peterborough have any serious intention of entering a team in the O.R.F.U. this season they might be well advised to take a leaf from the experience of the lacrosse club during the past summer. To develop players a city league of four teams was formed, and a series of scheduled games begun. It was found, however, that so much attention was given to the City League teams that the O.A.L.A. teams were being neglected, and when they went on the field they showed the effects of lack of practice together.

The rugby teams have rounded up a lot of promising, and in many cases experienced, players from whom it should not be difficult to select a team to represent Peterborough in the O.R.F.U. If this is the objective, the promoters should endeavour to maintain the friendly spirit that was shown particularly in the Belmont-Excelsior game. The desire to win even City League honours is natural enough, and knocks and bumps will be unavoidable. Some of the players on both fields last Saturday took the count in tackles and stopping bucks, and some of them were noticed limping after the games. However, if the four teams play as keenly and yet as fairly as in the opening contests the league should provide some interesting rugby before the snow flies, and it should also be easier to pick an O.R.F.U. that will work smoothly and harmoniously.

LACROSSE.

A casual review of the lacrosse season reveals this fact, that it is no longer a matter of getting Peterborough boys and young men to take up this fine game, but that the problem is to obtain public support. "Bill" Harcourt, Treasurer of the O.A.L.A., who knows most of the junior teams of the Province, said recently that Peterborough had good material, but that this year's team lacked system and a certain wisdom on the field that is essential. Dr. Sutton has been a faithful President and general adviser to the young fellows who broke in this summer, and under his direction the game has materially progressed. Those who were in touch with the game here will probably agree that young athletes cannot serve two masters; in other words, that they cannot play baseball and lacrosse, for instance, and do justice to both games and to themselves. True, some have done so, but, generally speaking, the average youth hasn't the time to become expert in both games.

TENNIS.

Dr. McPherson's tennis competition has incidentally indicated the lack of adequate accomodation for this game in Peterborough. No one realizes that more than the President of the P.A.A.A., and with a forethought for next season, he has a suggestion to start this fall the preparation of courts at Riverside Park which would provide sufficient room for the followers for tennis. Some movement of this kind should have an immediate effect next year of fostering the game and developing many players who have been handicapped in the past by the lack of ordinary facilities. There is no reason why tennis should not be one of the most popular of the summer games, with district tournaments played here and elsewhere with the Lakefield, Norwood, Campbellford and other clubs.

BIG CROWD TO GO TO OSHAWA

Many Peterboro Fans Will See the Central League Play Off.

With a special train arranged it is assured that a big crowd of Peterboro fans will journey to Oshawa to-morrow to see Belleville and the Petes clash in the decisive game for the chaimpionship of the Central League and the right to play Hillcrests in the O.B.A.A. semi-finals The Special will leave the G.T.R. station at 12.45 arriving in Oshawa in good time for the game and will leave Oshawa at 7.10 p.m. A return fare at $2.40 has been secured for the occasion and at this rate it is expected that a large number of fans will make the trip.

Oshawa enthusiasts of course will be out in hordes and Bowmanville, Port Hope and Cobourg will be largely represented while Belleville always has a big and noisy following The first two games in the play-off have been productive of so much good baseball that every fan in Eastern Ontario wants to see the rubber game.

Williams will likely be on the rubber for Belleville although they have Matten fresh and ready and may take a chance on the right hander to-morrow. Heckman will do the heaving for the Petes. The umpires will be Boundy of Cobourg, at the plate, Wilson of Oshawa at first and second and Large of Bowmanville at third.

The Peterboro team will motor to Oshawa, the cars leaving the Water street Bowling Alleys at nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

Little Lessons For the Golfer

(By George O'Neill.)

The commonest of all faults is lifting the gaze from the ball. Players do this in an effort to watch the ball and see it fly. That is a fault of over-anxiety, which the player must cure. When the stroke is properly executed you could not possibly lift your eyes quickly enough to see the ball until it was 200 feet or so away on its flight—and since that is so, and you have plenty of time to see it later, why hurry the gaze after it? When the eyes are lifted from the ball the actual removal of the gaze takes place BEFORE the clubhead meets the ball, not afterward, as the player thinks. When the gaze is removed the clubhead travels "wild." A bad shot of some kind is almost sure to result unless by accident the club face meets the ball squarely.

If you could see Harrison (Jimmy) Johnston, St. Paul golfer, complete this drive you would see his club go up, come down, go through the ball and the ball fly perhaps a fourth of the distance of its whole flight before Johnston moved his head from the position which you now see it. The head must be held still and the eye kept on the ball. Be careful not to jerk the club at the top when you start down—that moves the head.

(Copyright John F. Dille Co.)

(By George O'Neill.)

Aim is important. You cannot hit the ball squarely unless you aim at it. Lifting the gaze from the ball destroys your previous aim. A sure way to cultivate aim is this: In practice swings NEVER just swing the club—always AIM the clubhead at something, a blade of grass, a weed, dandelion—always at something. Then when you take up your club, in such practice swings, be conscious that you are going to hit something. That trains and disciplines your mind properly for the stroke at the golf ball. You form the habit of aiming at it and keeping the aim true until the mark is hit.

One does not have to be big and powerful, nor muscular, in order to hit a golf ball hard. This small man, John Duncan Dunn, of California, proves that men of tiny stature can make very long drives. Do not fear the ball as it rests on the tee in front of you and do not lunge at it. Take it easy and take your time, but make it snappy.

WHY BABE RUTH SLUMPED.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—"Sure, Babe's a father and a mighty proud one. Her name's Dorothy and she's sixteen months old. She's the finest baby you ever saw," Mrs. Babe Ruth, the attractive little wife of the great Swat King.

She expressed some surprise that the news was just leaking out. "I thought all the newspaper boys knew about it. We certainly did scoop you all, didn't we?" she said with great amusement.

The baby was such a wee, little thing when it came into the world that it had to be placed in an incubator and handled like a tiny little plant until it developed sufficiently.

"Babe, you know, has had a lot of worry that you boys didn't know anything about and the concern over little Dorothy was far from the slightest of them," Mrs. Ruth said.

"Wouldn't Babe have been more pleased with a boy?" she was asked.

"How absurd! Certainly he would not. He was just tickled to death," she answered.

Biliousness and Liver Diseases

May be the result of Constipation or may exist when the bowels are irregular. The liver is congested often giving rise to pain under the right shoulder, the complexion is yellow, headache, nausea, loss of appetite, slight fever, distress after eating, sometimes vomiting. Bile does not enter the bowels to digest the fats which decompose, forming gas, irritating the intestinal tract, often producing diarrhoea. A natural Liver Stimulant is required and DR. HENDERSON'S HERB TABLETS taken according to directions not only stimulates, but tones that organ.

JOFFRE'S NAME OPENS GATES OF LIFT CARRYING CURZON

PARIS, Sept. 26.— (By Mail.) — Lord Curzon, the British Foreign Secretary ,arrived in Paris the other day at the Quai d'Orsay station, and found the passenger elevator out of order. He complained to the station master, who, with much diffidence, proposed that the noble man could reach the street level by means of the freight elevator. Lord Curzon accepted without enthusiasm, and just as the elevator boy was slamming the gates shut, there came rushing toward the lift a thick-set, elderly man, breathing heavily. He made as if to enter the elevator, but the attendants waved him off.

"I am just as heavy and as old as your lone passenger," the man declared, "why should you refuse to take me up."

"Because this is Lord Curzon," responded the railroad man impressively.

He was given a lift.

At The Theatres

GRAND—Evans' Musical Revue, with Jimmie Evans himself and a brilliant cast of 20 artists.

CAPITOL—Gloria Swanson in 'Her Gilded Cage", and balance of Capitol First Class programme.

ROYAL—William Russell in "The Men of Zanzibar, a wonderful and startling picture. Also Irving Cummings in "Jules of the River", and Clyde Cook in the Fox comedy "The Eskimo".

Capitol Entertainment

Charlie Chaplin in "Pay Day" will be seen at the Capitol Theatre, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. His is a name second in drawing power to none—everywhere you go, in America, Europe or even in the Orient, the famous King of Slapstick is known and loved. One does not hesitate to use superlatives in connection with Chaplin, because he is literally at the top of his profession and likely to remain there. Audiences in Toronto, as well as in New York and other large cities where he has been seen in his latest and best picture pronounce him a greater favorite than ever. His European tour, the adulation which he received in England and France, only added to an already phenomenal popularity. He has not been spoiled—association with men like Sir J. M. Barrie, Sir Gilbert Parker, and men whose names are among the elect on the artistic and literary world, has merely broadened Mr. Chaplin, they appreciated the fact that he is a genius in his way just as they are at the top of their several professions. His dairy is a well written, natured funny account of his travels—personal, of ourse, as any journal must be but it is not the record of a man who had allowed himself to forget the fact that his newly acquired honors, were due to his great reputation more than to anything else. In "Pay Day", he is at his best—the old, familiar tricks—without which one feels that one is neglected, some new ones that are just as funny and beyond every thing else, lots of the star—plenty of Charlie— the inimitable— the only Charlie.

Those movie fans, who form a large following for the popular star, Gloria Swanson will see her at her best in her latest release, 'Her Gilded Cage". All the interpretative powers of this magnetic actress are called into play in a picture that portrays her in a double role; that of the convent-bred French girl, thinking only of her crippled sister, and the role of the notorious dancer, created for her by her indefatigable press agent, the fat gentleman who has become familiar to movie goers in this role. As Fleur d'Armour, the favorite of King Fernando, the beautiful French dancer becomes the sensation of Broadway. Garbed in exotic lingerie, with a Japanese girl engaged in painting floral designs on her legs, huge negroes in full tropical regalia guarding the collection of "fake crown jewels", she receives the "gentlemen of the press", and reaps a harvest of widespread publicity, with a salary that enables her to give the little sister the best of medical attention. The usual triangle intervenes. The scion of a wealthy New York family becomes enamored of the unsavory reputation of the dancer, while her brother, an artist, whom she has loved in her quiet days in Paris, regards her as a woman of the lowest type. Her engagement to the brother, after a wine supper served within an immense gilded cage, is followed by a satisfactory denouement that brings to a satisfactory close a gorgeous picture that will please the admirers of this versatile star, with its wonderful gowns and luxurious settings, and the opportunity it gives her for the display of special talent.

There is a particularly funny comedy included in the Capitol programme, depicting the adventure of Percy and Ferdie, in a pugilistic encounter that has a lot of comical situations.

AT THE ROYAL.

A colorful picture, with an intense human interest story, in the Fox feature, "The Men of Zanzibar," at the Royal theatre for the beginning of this week. Adapted from the novel by Richard Harding Davis, it contains all the elements of romance, adventure and thrills that this writer injects into his work. In the mysterious, passionate atmosphere of the African coast city, with its cobblestoned streets, its tropical gardens, its cloaked, silent figures; in Moorish mosques and palm-topped gardens, a story of love and romance unfolds itself, with a tingle of mystery deepening to a spectacular finale. The absconding cashier of a New England firm, with $75,000 of stolen money on his person, flees to Africa, followed by his sister, and there are three men who become entangled in the web of the resulting story. A crooked detective, a weak brother, and a hero who takes upon himself the burden of another's guilt for love of a woman, weave an interesting tale that leads to scenes in an underground labyrinth, where dim lights shadow the figures of pursuer and pursued.

"Jules of the River' 'is another, out-door production of excellent worth; the Fox News is interesting as ever, and Clyde Cook has a good comedy role in "The Eskimo."

AT THE GRAND.

THE EVANS' REVUE

In their fourth week and still going stronger Jimmie Evans' revue company presented their seventh new bill at the Grand last night and "Behind the Footlights" proved every bit as enjoyable as its predecessors New songs and dances, new scenes, new costumes, new comedy until Peterboro play-goers begin to wonder where it is all dug up from. There is a novel opening, a well acted tranesty on life behind the scenes that gets the latest offering away to a fine start and then a programme full of good things in which are the favorite members of this company score their unusual hits Joe Devine has a song about "The Boot-leggers' Ball" with "champagne and sham rye" that is a scream and he and Jimmy Evans per form on an invisible piano in a manner that brings down the house. Florence Pippin plays Brahms' Hungarian Dances as a violin solo in a manner that earned her a double encore last night. Grace Gould and Bert Ryan each have a pair of song successes that they put over in their usual happy fashion. Roy Ellis and Dolly Jollymore in their Jazzola dance contributed a series of acrobatic steps that make a big hit, and Jimmie Evans and Joe Devine have a laughing success in 'A Wild Night'. The Evans entertainers show no signs of wearing out their welcome nor their repertoire.

In New Jersey, a choir leader was murdered. Some people can't tell the difference between good and bad singing.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Sporting Editor, Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I happened to be in one of our city stores to-day, when two of Peterborough's true sporting gentlemen entered. I couldn't help overhearing the nature of their business, and I hope these same gentlemen won't think unkindly of my action in voicing my opinion. In the first place, I admired their enthusiasm and endeavor to show their appreciation of two of our Central League baseball team by soliciting a little money towards a presentation for these players. No doubt their services are worth a little recognition, but isn't there enough money furnished by the splendid backing afforded baseball in Peterborough, namely, the large gate receipts. If baseball players are to be encouraged with presentations for their services by public subscription, what about the other branches of sport in our city with practically no financial support. Take football for instance, there are over one hundred signed players for the various clubs, these said clubs having to support themselves the best they can, with the possible chance of an odd dollar or two added by voluntary collection at the games. If any subscribing has got to be done, wouldn't it be a good samaritan act to help this sport along where there are no gate receipts to keep it going. If we want to make Peterborough a real sporting town and not a one-horse affair, let some of the sporting gentlemen like the ones mentioned above take the matter in hand and the public also by encouraging more than baseball. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your space, I remain,

All-Round Sport.

By Stuart P. West.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Sept. 26.—(Special.)—The selling movement in to-day's stock market an expression of genuine concern over European politics, but rather an indication that the Turkish news was being exploited with some moderate degree of success by professional traders working to get prices down. The best reason for regarding the selling as of no great importance was that there was no evidences of a real war scare in any of the other markets.

Sterling exchange did come down to the low figure of ten days ago, but the drop was fully explained on commercial grounds — an incross in the supply of drafts drawn against English purchases of American grain and cotton, such as commonly occurs at this season.

The other exchanges, with the exception of German Marks, were steady throughout and slightly higher in the case of Francs and Lire. The exchange market, which is always the most accurate measure of banking opinion in a political crisis, gave not the least indication of uneasiness. The French Government bonds were off a bit, but English Government securities were stationary. Even upon the sensitive wheat market speculation the news of the Turkish advance into neutral territory had little effect. It was purely a negative factor in the cotton market.

The fact that the stock market proved vulnerable to speculative raiding simply meant that the Wall Street pools and syndicates which were back of the operations for the rise in July and August had temporarily at least set too fast a pace. The upward movement had got ahead of the trade recovery. It had amply discounted the influence of cheap money.

Moreover, the active investment demand which was such a sustaining force not only in the bond market, but in the stock market, had suddenly subsided. To some extent this was due to an inclination to await developments at the Dardanelles, more largely it reflected uncertainty in investment circles as to what effect the new government financing promised in the near future, would have upon the general bond list. For these reasons the immediate market position had been weakened and less resistance was shown to speculative selling than would have appeared up to a fortnight ago. In few cases were the day's losses large, the more volatile members of the industrial list were driven down a point to two points. The declines in the rails as a rule were less than a point. There was little in the way of news bearing upon the movement of specific stocks. Selling of the shipping shares was accompanied by rumors of an impending passenger rate war. Otherwise the decline was entirely due to general causes.

BARINGS LETTER.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. — Grain: May wheat re-acted 3 points, closing 2 points lower than Saturday. It ought not to go below to-day's low if it is any good.

The stock market, as our letters indicated, was again very irregular, and I think it will remain so for several days longer, after which the rise should be resumed.

B.L. re-acted over a point, and if it should go below 130 it may be bought again. Would also buy ALO. under 120.

ACS., which I kept urging you to buy under 16, sold above 22 and will sell near 30 as predicted since it was 12.

Market Street Prior Preferred sold at 69, and the Second Preferred at 28 3-8, up about 8 points since I advised their purchase recently. Both will sell much higher during the next five or six weeks.

Atchison opened up nearly 2 points and should be bought if it re-acts again to around 104. It may go to 125.

New Haven should be bought around 30. It will go to 40, perhaps 50. MSY. sold two points above its last sale and should reach 70.

American Haw Ship on the curb has not been out in a long time, and is a big purchase anywhere under 25. It has sold as high as 75 and and its lowest for all time was 19. If the subsidy bill goes through it will go to 100. It pays a dividend. CPU. rose to 65½ and is a purchase around 63. MNP., after re-acting 3 points, rose 4½ points, closing 1 point higher than Saturday. I feel confident the next 80 or 90 points will be up, but I don't know what the next 8 or 9 points will be. N.E. Fuel rose two points to 78 3-8; former advices hold good. Would buy FM. 96 to 95, SV. 50, CEN. 97, CHM 58, MV. 34, RU. 50, MF. 57, Common 14.

PENNSYLVANIA'S COAL LOADINGS.

Since the resumption of mining in the bituminous coal fields production at the mines served by the Pennsylvania Railroad system has been proceeding at a record-breaking pace. From September 1 to 19, excluding Labor Day, an average of 5,446 cars daily of bituminous coal were loaded along the company's lines. This was 1,575 above the corresponding period of 1921 and 630 ahead of the three months when consumers were stocking up in anticipation of the strike.

CENTRAL LEATHER.

Central Leather is one of the industrial concerns of the country that suffered severely from the deflation period. The company's surplus was entirely wiped out, and there was left a profit-and-loss deficit of $7,500,000, compared with a surplus of $7,800,000 in 1914. The company's financial position, however, is still good, as shown by its working capital of $51,000,000, against $53,000,000 in 1914. The ratio of current assets to liabilities is about 5 1-2 to 1, and if the $6,000,000 notes payable were funded the ratio would be practically the same as in 1914. The $15,000,000 change in surplus account is due to the marking down of the plant and property account. It is expected that earnings of many lines of industry.

BROKERAGE LOANS.

NEW YORK, September 26. — Calling of brokerage loans was again reported to the Street, and stocks had a further break around noon. Western industrials declined to around lows touched on last week's reaction, but pressure on the general market attained nothing like the propostions reached on two sharp breaks of previous weeks ,and every indication was given that important financial interests were taken advantage concessions to accumulate stocks. Studebakers support was reported to be particularly impressive. In financial quarters where it was forecasted in July that Studebaker would be placed on 10.00 dividend basis and also receive an extra disbursement is now predicted that when directors meet for action on 31st October another extra dividend will be declared probably $1.50 same as in July. Studebaker's earnings, which will approximate $8.50 a share on common in current quarten will bring the total for nine months to about $26.50 a share. If the October dividend is the same as July, the total distribution for the year will be $11.50 a share, an amount earned more than two over the first nine months.

A HEAVY DAY.

NEW YORK, September 26. — Stocks were dull and heavy the first hour. Baldwin and Studebaker, which had been used to start decline last week, were again subjected to considerable selling, but both stocks showed resistance just below previous closing levels. Sinclair continued to act well around 34 on buying which was attributed to several strong houses.

Sinclair Oil had advanced very little in face of sharp upward movement in Standard Oils. Stock is selling more than four points below year's high, conversion of 7½ per cent. gold notes into stock will still further strengthen company's position. Large banking interests look for resumption of upward movement in stocks as soon as current reaction has spent itself. A short interest has been built up in market as a result of threatening international situation, but this short interest is not unwieldy. Big things are looked for in the market movement in the last quarter. Efforts to advance certain issues will be based on the improved this year will witness the last of a series of deficits and that ni 1923 the company's earning power will gradually be restored.

KING CONSTANTINE ABDICATES--TROOPS REVOLT--CABINET RESIGNS

RELINQUISHES THRONE IN FAVOR OF HIS SON

Revolt in the Army Brings the Greek Monarchists to Their Knees — The Cabinet Resigns.

NEAR EAST ISSUES

ATHENS, September 27 (United Press).—King Constantine has abdicated in favour of Crown Prince George, it was officially announced to-day.

In a message to the Greek people, the King stated that for the national interest, peace, and unity, he had abdicated in favour of the Crown Prince.

The King, when faced by a revolt in the army, following defeat by Turkey, tried to save his tottering throne by the declaration of martial law, but this was of no avail, and he stepped out in favour of his son.

Constantine relinquished the throne when reports were received that transports loaded with mutinous Greek soldiers were speeding toward the capital. It was believed that bloodshed would have resulted if the King had held on to his fast diminishing power much longer.

In case Prince George refuses the throne—and it has been rumoured lately that he has an aversion to sitting on the Greek throne—the next in line is Prince Christopher, who is now in Paris with his wife, Princess Anastasia, who formerly was Mr. Wm. B. Leeds, widow of the deceased American tin plate king, who poured great wealth into the cause of promoting Greek national unity.

The revolution of the Greek armies had its inception in the islands of Mitylene and Chios, among the soldiers and thousands of refugees from Asia Minor.

The order for the disarmament of the troops was the immediate cause of the outbreak. The soldiers who expected to keep their guns for troops here refused to give them up on the command of their officers.

The movement spread like an epidemic in the navy. Seamen refused to obey the orders issued by the admirals, who soon found themselves powerless to maintain discipline.

A British naval captain, who arrived here from the Island of Mitylene stated that all the officers who refused to obey the commands of their men were locked up.

In case that none of the Greek Royal family is acceptable to the revolutionists — which is entirely within the realm of probability—Eleutheries Venizelos who governed the country as Prime Minister before King Constantine was recalled in the elections of November, 1920, looms as the probable ruler.

It is ascertained that Venizelos, who exiled himself from his native land after he was defeated at the polls, and who is now in Paris, will not return to Greece as a member of the Government unless the Royal family is banished.

Venizelos, in exile, recently gave out a statement that he would never return as long as the line of Constantine is on the throne.

THROES OF REVOLUTION.

LONDON, September 27 (Canadian Press). — Greece is in the throes of a revolution, which has already caused the downfall of the Government, and according to several reports from Athens, has forced the unhappy Constantine to abdicate in favour of the Crown Prince, thus leaving his throne for the second time in five years.

The revolutionary movement, which is said to be led by General Gonatas, is making headway in all directions, but thus far without reports of bloodshed.

CONSTANTINOPLE, September 27 (Canadian Press). — It is unofficially forecasted that the Kemalist reply to the Allied peace note contains conditions unacceptable to the Allies, in that the Nationalists insist upon the use of the Straits for the transportation of troops to Thrace before the beginning of the peace conferences.

INVOLVE RUSSIANS.

LONDON, September 27 (Canadian Press). — British official circles to-day considered Russian participation in the Near East conference as probable. It is now the opinion in official circles that the peace conference, with the Soviet Government participating and recognising the agreements reached, will be best for

Wheelmen Must Stop Riding on City's Sidewalks

That Magistrate O. A. Langley is determined to stop the practice by some cyclists of riding on the local sidewalks was foreshadowed in the police court this morning. His Worship issued warning that for such violation of a city ordinance he will impose fines grading up to the maximum limit, that this offence may be stamped out.

And Chief Newhall declares that his force shall keep a sharp look-out for sidewalk wheelmen, some of whom even have the audacity to ring their bell for pedestrians to clear the way. This practice carries a considerable element of menace to pedestrians, especially elderly folks, who are as apt to jump in the path of a cyclist as to step aside to safety on a none-too-wide walk.

Two offenders were fined this morning for riding on sidewalks. They are Harold Wheeler, aged 16, who escaped with a penalty of $2 without costs, leniency being extended him owing to his youth and circumstances. Also an adult named Samuel Whittaker, who suffered a fine of $2, with costs.

"I REPORT ONLY TO MAYOR" CHIEF TELLS ENFORCER

Verbal War on With Rev. John Henry Williamson --His Punctuation Mark

CHICAGO, September 27.— Chief of Police Fitzmorris delivered an ultimatum to his "superchief," Rev. John Henry Williamson, yesterday, and the ill-feeling which has existed between the two enforcers for weeks developed into verbal war.

The ultimatum, delivered over the telephone by the $8,000 police chief to the $10,000 "super enforcer," was this:

"I want you to know that a report to no one except Mayor Thompson. You'll get no reports from me, either in ten days or ten years. If you have anything to expose in connection with the police department, expose it now."

His Punctuation Mark.

There is a long preface to yesterday's declaration of war. For months the enforcer has been permitted to view copies of police reports in the chief's office and to take away copies of them if they had to do with complaints made by citizens to the enforcer, and turned over by him to the chief's office.

A week ago Rev. Williamson turned over a complaint concerning an allegedgambling house in the Second Ward. On Saturday he asked Martin Mullen, the chief's secretary, for a report on it. The secretary told the enforcer to "see the chief." Rev. Williamson thought over his ultimatum on Sunday, and yesterday he called on Secretary Mullen and told him to tell the chief to hand over the report.

Gives Chief Ten Days.

"I'll give him ten days to make good on this complaint," Rev Williamson told the secretary. "If he doesn't act publicity will follow."

Secretary Mullen carried this threat of exposure to the chief's desk in the form of a penciled memo. The chief read it and grabbed a telephone, pouring into the enforcer's ear the information that he would wait ten years for the reports so far as the present chief of police is concerned.

Rev. Williamson made a vain attempt to reach the chief again on the telephone. On the chief's orders the enforcer was not connected with the chief's private telephone. He was told to come to Fitzmorris' office if he had anything to say to the head of the police department.

"I'm not going to the chief's office and my ultimatum stands," Rev. Williamson declared, following his telephone battle with the chief.

"When I took office I was pledged by the mayor to clean up disorderly houses, illicit liquor sales, and gambling houses. I'm going to do it, Fitzmorris or no Fitzmorris. If I don't do it I'm going to tell the public why."

A Damage Claim.

The Chief Constable reported that Constable Bromley had an accident, by which the bicycle of a man named Johnston had been damaged and that Johnston asked for reimbursement for repairing the bicycle, amounting to $6.85. This matter was laid over.

C. R. WIDDIFIELD TO DEFEND MRS. EDWARDS

Case is Being Prepared for Presentation to the Assizes.

Mr. C. R. Widdifield, who is conducting the defence of Mrs. Emma Jane Edwards, charged with murder, and whose trial will take place on the 17th day of October next, has left to-day for Gore's Landing, in order to be in a position, for the next few days, to devote his whole time and attention to making a close study of the evidence which, he contends, points to her innocence.

When one considers the fact that the accused is a woman of no means and no financial backing, it is clearly seen that Mr. Widdifield is acting from a high sense of duty and that the question of remuneration is only a secondary consideration, where neglect of duty might mean a verdict of "guilty" instead of "not guilty."

Criticized Women's Clothes and Was Deported From United States

Marcelle Daillaire Returns to France Weeping as She Leaves American Shores—A Blighted Romance —Prospective Hubby Backed Up

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Aboard the liner France, sailing Wednesday, was a weeping French girl—weeping because she was being deported from the U.S.A.

The girl was Mlle. Marcelle Daillaire. She came to this country expecting to marry Prof. Darbin Rowland of De Pauw university, Greencastle, Ind. She did not change her mind after arriving, but the professor did. So Marcelle was sent to Ellis Island, tried, and ordered deported. As she went aboard the steamer she had this to say:

"So this is the denouement of my romance with an American gentleman. He has said that he discarded me, withdrew from our marriage because I hated America. I do not hate America, not even now in the climax of my chagrin.

"I learned the history of America when I was a little girl. I know it by heart. I adore America!

"All I have spoken in my disapproval of the styles I saw the women of New York wearing. In this I was candid, perhaps too frank. But my eye was unaccustomed to such bright colors and I said so.

"That was all, and, really, is that enough to make a woman ineligible to become the wife of a college professor?"

GLORIOUS REVIVAL TO GIVE BIRTH TO ENTIRELY NEW ERA

Such Is Prediction of Elected Leader of Canadian Methodist Church at General Conference in Toronto—Will Be Work of Biggest Men in the Community.

CHURCH UNION NEEDS INTENSIVE THOUGHT.

TORONTO, Sept 27.—(Canadian Press).—That the whole question of Church Union, with important ramifications regarding existing ministerial superannuation funds, the Presbyterian General Assembly proposals for the guarding of the rights of the minorities opposed to the union, and other features, will still require an immense amount of intensive and responsible thought to bring the movement to a successful and happy conclusion, was the pronouncement at the Methodist General Conference here to-day, by Rev. Dr. S. D. Chown, General Superintendent of the Methodist Church in Canada.

The elected leader of the Canadian Methodist Church predicted the coming of a "glorious revival which would give birth to a new age in history." Leadership in this evangelism would be the work not of a "few mystical enthusiasts" but of the biggest men in the community.

Dr. Chown vigorously condemned "an abundance of literature of to-day which is sapping the very foundations of society." He declared that most romantic writers escaped from truth and reality by throwing into the discard the fundamental moral convictions which gave direction to conduct and character during the nineteenth century. Under the heading of "New Thought" the General Superintendent warned that people should not use it as a substitute for the religion of Jesus Christ. He was persuaded that one great need of the Church, and one that would mightily add to its attractiveness, was a richer fellowship in truth and love.

In reviewing the world's events, during the past four years, and the relation of the Methodist Church to these events, Dr. Chown said that notwithstanding the unrest which has marked the past quadrennium, the General Conference officials were able to report with glad thanksgiving to the Great Head of the Church, that marked prosperity had been granted to the faithful ministers and laymen of Canadian Methodism.

The Forward Movement

"It was an instance of supreme generalship on the part of the Church of Christ in Canada to launch the Forward Movement just after the war. It was the psychological moment for aggression. It not only cleared the way for most remarkable advances against the Kingdom of Darkness, but it prevented a terrible slump with consequents we cannot now realize, and from which it might have taken a century to recover.

"The Methodist National Campaign saved the financial situation, and we are to-day thankful to say that we have already received in cash the sum of over $4,000,000 which exceeds the original objective of the Fund.

"It is to be regretted that certain interests of the Church were not included in the financial objectives of the Campaign. However, although the Women's Missionary Society did not participate, the impetus of the general movement assisted it in greatly increasing its income. Also, local enterprises were set afoot and many church debts paid. The financial position of the Church as a whole was greatly strengthened. If the amount raise by special efforts were added to the amount paid to the funds represented in the National Campaign, its total would be greatly augmented.

"The reception of 78,398 new members into the Church during the quadrennium the remarkable growth of our Sunday Schools and Young People's organizations, the enrolment of over 100,000 Christian Stewards and Intercessors, and particularly the enlistment for some definite form of life service of nearly 1000 young Methodists, bear testimony to the revival of spiritual interests in the Church, and have supplied consecrated workers for every branch of its work. We have also obtained a vision which will carry us to greater victories in the future, if we are true to the high purpose of our calling.

"Our recent experience amongst students has convinced us that the comparative decrease in candidates for the ministry of late years was entirely due to the war, that Christian training in the homes of our people is producing the most desirable results.

"Looking at the whole movement, we must realize that it was a transcendent success, and, as instant action was essential, the Conference will feel that the General Superintendent was justified in consenting to the formation of the Executive Committee without calling together the General Conference Special.

Church Union

"It is impossible to review the activities of the Church and measure its outreach without a brief retrospect and anticipation of the Church Union Movement.

"It is a matter of deep gratitude to Almighty God that in all the years of negotiation between the Presbyterian, Congregational and Methodist Churches of Canada no word has been uttered which could be fairly construed as indicating lack of confidence in the perfect good faith of any of the negotiating bodies. Heart has always answered to heart during the whole movement. Remarkable cordiality and mutual respect have marked all the meetings of the Joint Church Union Committes throughout the negotiations. Nor has there ever been any desire for the consummation of Union in the mere spirit of filling a contract. The importance of the whole question is too profound to proceed upon any shallow motive. The kind of union desired cannot be secured by resolutions or accelerated by plans for economic advantage. Its challenge is found in the prayer of Christ, and the necessities and opportunities of this new era.

"We have deep sympathy with the strong preferences of many of our people for the Church of their fathers; for her institutions of fellowship and worship, her sweet communion, solemn vows, her hymns of love and praise." We realize the pain of parting from old associations, and if moved by personal considerations, or consideration of denominational sentiment alone, would hesitate long before dissolving the Church of our love, but we believe that the will of the Almighty is that we should pitch our tents forward, and we have sought prayerfully to prepare ourselves to yield our preferences to the genius of the Gospel of Christ and the fulfilment of His purposes in the world.

"Since June last such draft bills as may be necessary for the incorporation of the United Church of Canada have been in course of preparation, and the proposed Act of Incorporation is now ready for your consideration. In doing so it will be observed that the doctrines and policy of the Church, and the provisions relating to the ministry, have been mutually accepted in considerable detail by the negotiating Churches. In the sphere of administration certain policies and principles have been enunciated, but it will require much thought and study to reduce these policies and principles to such an administrative form as will provide for their application to all the exigencies of the future. Much actual work must be done and its results accepted in order to secure respective equality of opportunity and responsibility as between the members and ministers of the uniting Churches in regard to benevolent funds. Particularly is this true in respect to the Superannuation Fund of our Church, which must not of any account be imperilled, and it may be that a separate trust must be established to that end.

"The Appendix on Law will have to be reconsidered by this Conference, having in view that at a meeting of the Presbyterian Committee held on December 15, 1914, it Was resolved that "It is expected that in the proposed legislation proper provision will be made to guard the rights and privileges of any minority which may be opposed to Union." This condition was afterward affirmed by the General Assembly, and is now embodied in the proposed Act of Incorporation. It was presented to our General Conference Special Committee for considera-

ROBBERS OF HEN HOUSES AWAIT THEIR PENALTY

Lived Like Gypsies by Day and Raided Feathered Flocks in Dummer at Night.

TWO PLEAD GUILTY

Two robbers of hen houses in the County of Peterborough, have at last been brought up with a round turn and landed in jail in Peterborough city. They are Lorne Woodcock, who gave his home as North Monaghan, and Pearce Nicholson, who it is said, has a wife and family in all but destitute condition living four miles north of Young's Point.

The men, when arraigned in Magistrate O. A. Langley's court here this morning, both pleaded guilty and electing to be tried summarily his worship remanded them for sentense on October 3.

Chief Newhall says Nicholson has a police record in the U.S. and both he and Woodcock have of late been living the gypsy life by day and raiding hen roasts in the county at night, besides purloining whatever other goods of value came their way.

The offence for which they stand committed was theft of a number of from farmers in Dummer a month ago, estimated in value at $60. One of their victims was a farmer named Wm. Crowe, resident near Warsaw, while the other feathered booty found on the night in question is thought to have owners in Stoney Lake district.

The arrests were effected by Provincial Constable G. E. Cookman, Nicholson being landed in jail last night and Woodcock two days previously.

WEDS EVANGELIST IN NEW LISKEARD

Samuel Taylor - Muriel Hartshorn Nuptials.

Bethel Gospel Hall, New Liskeard, was appropriately decorated with beautiful flowers on Tuesday night, September 19th for the happy event which took place there, when Miss Muriel Hartshorn, of Peterborough, was wedded to Mr. Samuel Taylor, Scottish Evangelist, who is well known in the North. The friends of the young couple manifested, in a very practical manner, their high esteem for the young preacher and his bride.

The hall was packed to its utmost capacity by friends from the immediate vicinity and from other parts of Ontario.

The marriage was solemnized by Mr. A. G. Bentley, a fellow worker in the Gospel, with the bridegroom. Mr. A. E. Smith, another fellow-laborer, led the bonnie bride, who carried a beautiful bouquet, no mean part of which was a Scotch thistle, to the front of the hall, while Mr. Rowdon, of Cobalt, accompanied the bridesmaid, Miss Carrie Saunders, of Peterborough. Miss Margaret McMillan played the wedding march. At the front of the hall, Mr. Taylor took his place beside the bride. He was accompanied by Mr. Alvin Sauer ,of Buffalo, who acted as "best man."

When it was time to commence the service, Mr. Bentley requested the audience to stand while he prayed in a most earnest manner. After prayer he read a simple, but solemn and impressive marriage ceremony. When the young couple were joined in holy matrimony, Mr. Bentley again prayed, after which a fitting hymn was sung. Mr. Taylor then led his young wife to a room at the rear of the hall, followed by Mr. Sauer, Miss Saunders, and Mr. Bert Bentley. There the necessary documents received attention. While this was being done, Mr. Smith conducted a short song service. Miss Irma Dalgleish sang in an impressive manner the solo, "Because of His Love His Sacrifice," and Mr. James Johnston rendered in a similar way the solo, "God Is Just the Same To-day."

The whole of the proceedings were chaarcterized by deep solemnity. Congratulations, verbal and telegraphic, were showered upon the young couple by their Christian friends who wish them much happiness in their married life and who trust that they may be much used of the Lord in the furtherance of the Gospel of Christ.

After the proceedings at the hall were over, a company assembled at the house of Mr. and Mrs. Dalgleish, where a bountiful supper had been prepared by Mrs. Dalgleish and Mrs. F. Hawn. A very pleasant time was spent there, after which Mr. and Mrs. Taylor left by motor car for their home at Haileybury.

A CONCERT CLOSES BISHOP'S JUBILEE

Universal Spirit of Good Fellowship Obtained Throughout the Silver Anniversary of Rt. Rev. M. J. O'Brien, D.D., Bishop of Peterborough

BANQUET YESTERDAY

With fine weather conditions, a universal spirit of good-fellowship and cheerfulness among all classes of the community, and the unanimous co-operation of the parishes and clergy of the diocese, the three-day celebration of the silver jubilee of His Lordship, Rt. Rev. M. J. O'Brien, D. D., Bishop of Peterborough, drew to a close last evening with a particularly charming little concert staged at St. Alphonsus Lyceum by pupils of the Separate schools, under the direction of Sisters of St. Joseph.

Immediately following the Pontifical High Mass celebrated yesterday morning by the Bishop, surrounded by his priests of the diocese a sumptuous banquet was served to the thirty-five or more clergymen present for the occasion, at the Knights of Columbus rooms on Simcoe street. This banquet was the gift of the local Council of Knights to His Lordship, and was preceded by an address by Messrs. J. R. Corkery and W. S. Merrill, representing the Grand Knight and Deputy Grand Knight. During the service of a very enjoyable repast, speeches were made by dignitaries of the diocese, and visitors, including Rt. Rev. Mons. Kidd, Rt. Rev. Mons. Whalen and Very Rev. N. Roche, C.S.B, of Toronto. A number of splendid vocal solos were rendered by Messrs. John Ball, J. Minicolo and E. Bartley, with accompaniments by Mr. Ball. Attendants for the occasion were Messrs. R. Sheehy, Jr., E. Reilley, J. Rutherford, T. Rutherford, N. Kastner, N. Tobin, Emmet Cronin and M. Sheehy. Messrs. John Trombley and Albert Doris, with Miss K. Sharpe assisting, were in charge of the preparation of a heartily-enjoyed dinner.

Evening Entertainment

A fitting close to a jubilee celebration that included no single marring feature was the concert provided by the Sisters of St. Joseph at St. Alphonsus Lyceum last evening, to an audience that packed the large hall to the doors and crowded the outside corridor. Instrumental and vocal music, dramatic art and expression were utilized by the Sisters in an entertainment that reflected the greatest credit on the instructors and the pupils of the different classes in the Separate schols who took part. Applause greeted every graceful and charming number, and remarks of the most complimentary character were heard on all sides as the large crowd poured out of the building.

High School Girls

St. Peter's High School girls, in their attractive black and white school costumes, provided the first choral selection, Hammerel's "Jubilee Greeting", the fresh young faces in the graduated tiers that made every countenance visible, making a lovely setting against the prettily-decorated stage, with its bright flags and hangings of purple and gold. The pontifical colors of white and gold, with many Papal emblems in the same cheerful hues, adorned the hall, the draperies kindly loaned by the Cressman Company, Limited, and the decorating arranged by the Fifth Form boys, supervised by Mr. Ed. Reilley of Mr. Jack Primeau's staff.

The operetta by the little tots of the lower school was a dainty affair the lovely little things in their rainbow-hued paper dresses enacting "God's Little Garden", a delicate fantasy of dream children, wakened to life and jubilation by the touch of the wondering sunbeam, the dew and the breeze.

Throughout the whole entertainment, the thought of the Jubilarian was manifest. The songs and chorus were arranged in honor of the occasion, the little tots sang their rejoicings over his jubilee, and one of the prettiest and most loudly-acclaimed presentations was the delightful allegory staged by the High School Girls, entitled "Mystical Gifts to our Bishop." The curtain rose on the spirit of "Music", a youthful figure in draperies of yellow, wreathed with smilax, beside a golden harp, enacted by Mary Ryan; followed in succession, each with her simply-worded, graceful little speech, by Geraldine McAuliffe, in white with red roses, as the Spirit of Flowers; Helen Grady, the Spirit of Gratitude, with frock of roses and silver

A PETERBORO MAN FELL OFF A LADDER

Came in Contact With a Live Wire in Walkerville Plant.

H. M. Ashley, formerly of Peterboro, employed at the General Motors Plant, in Walkerville, sustained severe burns and a fractured leg, at the Plant on Saturday afternoon, when he fell from a 30 foot ladder. Mr. Ashley was repairing some electric wires and came in contact with a wire carrying 550 volts. In his efforts to free himself he was knocked from the ladder, and when picked up was found to have a fractured leg. He was conveyed to the Hotel Dieu, where his condition is reported as critical. His many friends here will wish him a speedy recovery.

RALLY NIGHT AT GEORGE STREET CHURCH EPWORTH LEAGUE

On Monday evening last, the annual rally of the George street church Epworth League was attended by over 150 persons. The speaker of the evening was Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., who in his usually effective manner talked on the opportunities afforded to the young people of Canada, and the importance of education for their training.

A pleasing feature of the evening was a violincello solo by Mr. Martin Chenhall, Jr., and the music supplied by the Sunday school orchestra was also enjoyed. The second section of the programme was in charge of the Recreation and Social Departments, and the activities provided by them were appreciated by the audience.

NEW YORKER HONORED.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27. — The French government recently made W. Francklyn Paris a chevalier of the Legion of Honor. King Albert of Belgium made him a knight of the Order of the Crown.

Their recipient was notified of these two decorations on the same day. Such a thing doesn't happen often.

Paris is a New York architectural decorator and writer.

He won French and Belgian gratitude by helping the families of artists of these two countries during the war. Also he was identified prominently with the movement for the restoration of the Library of Louvain, and he was chairman of the committee which presented a bust of Cardinal Mercier to New York University.

In the war he was captain of United States troops.

THE TURKS INVADE PROHIBITED AREA AND BRITISH DEMAND THEIR RECALL

General Harrington Allows Kemal Pasha Forty-Eight Hours to Withdraw His Troops From Entrance to Dardanelles — Not Provoking Trouble.

THE SITUATION IS DANGEROUS.

LONDON, Sept. 27. — Canadian Press. — Anxiety is renewed owing to the evident reluctance of the Kemalist officers to order the withdrawal of the Turkish cavalry from the Chanak zone in the Dardanelles. Instead of withdrawing, another detachment numbering 1,000, has crossed the border from Bigha.

It is stated in extenuation of these movements that they were ordered before the receipt of the allied joint note, and the British authorities are therefore making every prudent allowance for the difficulties of communication and the possibility that Mustapha Kemel is not directly responsible for the refusal of the local commanders to order a retreat.

Elastic Ultimatum.

General Harrington, the British commander of the allied forces in Constantinople, has stimulated a time limit of 48 hours for the withdrawal of the Turks, but considerately allows the period to date from the time of this wireless despatch. His ultimatum therefore is somewhat elastic.

The British military authorities, while thus doing their utmost to avoid precipitating trouble, do not conceal that the situation entails much danger. The Kemalists apparently contend that the British and allied governments should cease military preparations during the sittings of the proposed peace conference, or conversely, that the Kemalists should be permitted to continue troop movements during the progress of the negotiations, and although it is very generally believed that Kemal is not desirous of provoking a conflict, apprehensions will continue until the invading cavalry retires.

No formal Cabinet councils are being held here, but the Ministers and defence experts are meeting daily at the Colonial Office, dealing with military questions and arrangements for removing refugees from Smyrna.

Preparations Continue.

Until Kemal's reply is received there will be no diminution in the war preparations, and as according to Kemal's aide, Ezad Bey, the Angora government will insist upon the admission of Russia, Persia and Bulgaria to the conference, there will be many difficulties to overcome before the conference actually meets. It is thought that the British government is less averse to Russia participating than are the French, but the British contention in the first place will be that the conference is limited to the same nations as were concerned in making the Sevres Treaty and consequently Russia should be excluded.

The Russian Soviet Government, however, has addressed another note to the powers putting forward a strong plea for the inclusion of Russia. Bulgaria and other interested nations, in any settlement of the Turkish problem, and refusing to recognize any settlement unless Russia is a party thereto.

Greek Situation.

Little is known here of the attitude of Greece in Thrace. Rumors are published to the effect that the Greek army in Thrace is no more reliable than it was in the Smyrna region. Nevertheless the Kemalists are objecting to Greek military and naval movements, arguing that such movements justify the Kemalists in continuing their military operations, regardless of the conference or negotiations and until the proposed armistice conference at Mudania has settled the terms, these matters will continue to be a disturbing factor.

Reports through Paris to-night show that the Ministerial crisis at Athens has already begun, the Greek government's refusal to countenance a national ministry, including Venizelos, having resulted in the resignation of one minister and others are expected to follow.

British Move Troops.

British reinforcements were disembarked at Chanak to-day and further naval units are proceeding to to Constantinople. The Home government has requisitioned the liners Manoria and Corsican, both of British registry, as troopships, and they will leave in a few days for the Near East.

One effect of the crisis will likely be the disappearance of the Sultan and the Constantinople government. Mustapha Kemal will probably become Grand Vizier of the united Turkish Administration.

LONDON, September 27. Canadian Press. — Describing the position at Chanak, a Chanak despatch to the Times, says:

"The situation here is harder. The Turks who reoccupied Eren Keui are showing a determined attitude, and it is expected that fire will be opened if the British advance.

"A Turkish mounted patrol moved northward to within 5 miles of the Chanak defences. One patrol approached a British observation post under a white flag. A Turkish officer, speaking English, asked the British non-commissioned officer if the Greek defences were wired, how many guns the British had mounted, and how many troops were in support. He was given evasive replies.

"This extraordinary boldness of reconnaisance gives the appearance that Kemal is disposed to challenge the British Empire."

BOTH ARMIES DIGGING IN

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 27. —(Canadian Press.) —It is reported that the Turkish Nationalist troops are entrenching in the neutral zone of the Dardanelles.

The Turks refuse to recognize neutral zone and declare they will hold their present position.

Kemalist forces also occupied the town of Bigha. The British made representations against this, but these were not heeded.

The region from Pandik to Yarinje, along the Anatolian railway, has been proclaimed a zone of operations by the British. The civilian populations of the village within the zone have been ordered to leave and the British are digging three lines of trenches.

DENY USING SHIPS ORDERED DISMANTLED.

LONDON, Sept. 27. Canadian Press. — The British Admiralty emphatically denied to-day that any capital ships, due to be scrapped under the Washington Treaty, were being sent to, or prepared for service in the Near East or any other part of the world.

The Admiralty further stated that on the contrary these ships long since had their stores unloaded, their ammunition taken off, and all parts dismantled ready for the ship-breaker, while several others have already been broken up.

BRITISH CRUISERS TO CONSTANTINOPLE

MALTA, September 27. Canadian Press. — The British light cruisers Ceres, Carysfort and Caledon, and the third torpedo boat destroyer flotilla have orders to leave to-night for Constantinople. The flotilla will be accompanied by the torpedo boat destroyers Rocket, Tuscan and Tribune, and one submarine.

The British dreadnaught Centurion arrived here to-day.

AUSTRALIA CUTS TAXES.

LONDON, Sept. 27. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—A bill has been introduced in the Australian house of representatives abolishing the twenty per cent. income super tax and reducing the land super tax from twenty to ten per cent, says a Reuter despatch from Wellington, N.Z.

JOHN ADAMS MET DEATH IN OWOSSO.

Authorities Attempting to Locate His Relatives.

The Chief of Police has received the following communication from Geo. J. Denyes, Chief of Police in the city of Owosso, Michigan, under date of September 21:

"We have been unable to locate relatives of one John Adams, killed in an automobile accident here on Sunday, September 17. His home was supposed to have been in New York. He was a travelling salesman, selling forms for keeping data for income tax returns.

"The dead man was 57 years old, height 5 ft. 10 ins., blue eyes, grey hair, parted in the middle, and his face was badly pitted from smallpox. He wore a light-weight suit of yellowish grey material, and a heavy grey overcoat, soft hat and tan oxfords. In the lapel of his coat was the insignia of the Commercial Travellers' Association. In the inside band of his hat was a folded Argus Press paper, dated January 23, 1920. On his body was found a picture of a girl, believed to be his daughter. Under the picture was the name, 'Gertrude Adams, 6 years old.'

"We ask that you request your local paper to publish these facts, if they will, in an effort to locate someone who knew this man. We are holding his body here ready for shipment to his relatives, if they can be found. If you can obtain any information, wire us at our expense, and we will appreciate it."

OLD MAN DROWNED IN A SHALLOW WELL.

HALIFAX, N.S., September 27 (Canadian Press). — Edward Martin, 87 years of age, was drowned in a shallow well at his home at Herring Cove, near the entrance of Halifax Harbour, this morning.

The old man was seen to go after a bucket of water about 11 o'clock. At noon his body was found with his head hanging in the water and half of his body lying on the ground.

The well, formed by a spring, was only four or five feet deep, with about three feet of water in it.

A verdict of accidental drowning was given by a coroner's jury.

ADVERTISEMENT LEFT OUT SALES DROPPED

Canadian Grocer, in a recent issue, says that an action was brought by a retail grocer against the daily of a town in the Western States, for failure to print his advertisement alleging loss of sales to the extent of $1,000, is indicative of the value he places on advertising as a means of stimulating business. In his statement of complaint he declares that he does depend very largely on advertising for business, and on account of the non-appearance of his advertisement his sales were $500 less than they would have been had the advertisement appeared.

Trots Globe For Fortune

"The Walking Scotsmen" Through Head Hunters' Land on a Bet.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 27.—(Canadian Press).—After finishing a 9,714 mile walking tour with success P. J. MacDonald of Vancouver, B. C., better known throughout the world as "The Walking Scotsman," arrived in the city last night for a few days' rest before he leaves for England. In London, England, last October, W. H. Howard, multi-millionaire of Argentine, made a bet with Sir George Newes, publisher of the Wide World magazine, that no white man could walk from Panama through the head hunters' district of Javiros, Colombia, South America. There was no stated time set for the man to cover the distance and the stake was $37,500 and the loser was to pay the adventurer's expenses. Mr MacDonald, a fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, was the man picked to make the journey. Mr. MacDonald is a world-famous globe trotter and he successfully hung up a world's record of walking 58 miles a day, and incidentally won the bet for Sir George Newes, besides having hundreds of blood-curdling tales of his experiences.

He left Ottawa last November and is to-day back in the capital after walking to Calliao, Colombia, where he was met by Mr. Howard, who declared that the terms of the wager had been fulfilled. He was allowed $5,000 for expenses. He leaves for England to collect the sum of $375,000 soon, he says.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 27. — (Canadian Press.)— Jessie Audrey, aged 9, the younger daughter of Hon. T. A. and Mrs. Crerar, died at the family residence yesterday afternoon after a very short illness. Mr. Crerar was advised while in Ottawa Monday of the child's serious illness and is on his way home.

LIST NEW BONDS ON STOCK MARKET.

Will Be Distinguished By Name of "Renewal Bonds."

OTTAWA, September 27 (Canadian Press).— Steps have been taken by the Department of Finance to secure the immediate listing on the Stock Exchange of the new bonds which are being issued in exchange for those maturing on 1st December, 1922, under the conversion proposals of the Minister of Finance, which are open until 30th September.

Under the arrangement the maturing bonds are forwarded through the agency of the various chartered banks to Ottawa, whereupon the new bonds for a corresponding amount of the maturity desired are despatched to the banks for delivery to the owner.

The new bonds are going forward from day to day.

In order to differentiate them from existing issues, the new bonds will probably be known as "renewal" bonds.

APSLEY HORSES CAPTURE HONORS.

Won in Free-For-All at Coe Hill.

APSLEY, Sept. 27.—Apsley is figuratively patting itself on the back at the result of the horse races at Coe Hill fair on Friday last, when Vernal Windsor with his two horses, captured all the honors. In the free-for-all fast race his horse, Jim Shell, against six other competitors ,took first place in all three heats, winning the first heat by a neck after drawing sixth place, and winning with plenty of margin in the second and third. This was a most creditable performance, and a surprise to some of the other entrants, as he had to contend against some good stuff from outside points, Madoc, Norwood, Colborne, the Ridge being represented. Zulu, also owned by Windsor, took second place in the green race, and first as single driver, and also first in the lady's driving, the ribbons being skilfully handled by Mrs. Stanley Windsor. Altogether V. Windsor captured four firsts and one second and since his return has been the recipient of numerous congratulations.

A Deserted Look.

The village wore a deserted look on Friday, almost everyone taking in the fair at Coe Hill. The total population of Apsley that day amounted to six people, three dogs and a cat. At least that was the total count seen during the day.

Basket Social.

A very successful basket social was held under the auspices of the Methodist church on Wednesday last at Hale's school house. The sum of about $70 was realized ,the baskets being auctioned by Mr. Richard Hall. The school room was crowded. A good programme of local talent was rendered under the chairmanship of Mr. McTavish. The names of the performers are not available at the time of writing.

Harvest Thanksgiving.

The pretty little church of St. Stephens, Chandos, was crowded on Sunday afternoon, the occasion of the Harvest Thanksgiving. The church was beautifully decorated. The Rev. C. Spence preached an appropriate sermon.

Pretty Bad Road.

The stretch of road between Apsley and Chandos, from the third mile post to Chandos post office, needs attention badly. In places rocks are sticking up in the middle of the road, which are positively dangerous to pedestrians, equestrians and motorists alike. More than one car, it is reported, has come to grief at one particular spot and unless something is speedily done to remove the obstruction, it is likely a serious accident will occur here.

Church Improvements.

Mr. E. L. Spence has very kindly donated a new bell rope to St. George's church, something that was badly needed.

The approach to the church has been improved by the erection of a new flight of steps, the work of church warden Frank Tanner, assisted by the rector.

PARIS, Sept. 27. — (Canadian Press.)—The French Foreign Office in an official statement published today, confirmed news from Constantinople that General Pelle, French High Commissioner in that city, and Admiral Dumesnil, commander of the French forces in the Near East waters, had satisfied themselves that there was nothing to justify holding of the Turks responsible for the burning of Smyrna.

NEW YORK TRAFFIC LAWS LEAD WORLD.

Warm Praise Is Forthcoming From English Press.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—(Associated Press).—American visitors to London, especially prominent ones, are inclined to say pleasant things to their hosts, and Englishmen are not disinclined to listen. The latest example of this was given by Governor Cox of Ohio, who is quoted by The Daily Mail as saying some very pleasing things about London as a city.

But would it not be better all around, asks The Daily Chronicle, if they would give us some constructive criticism? Lamenting the frequency of accidents on London streets this paper says: "Why doesn't London imitate New York, which now leads the world in traffic regulations? It is perhaps too much to hope for the system of signal-boxes, semaphores and colored lights that make Fifth Avenue a model of safety and efficient traffic regulation. But at least we could follow New York's examples in forbidding pedestrians to cross the roadway at dangerous crossings until the point policeman has arranged a fairway and given permission to cross. This rule is so strictly carried out that even the New York messenger boy does not infringe it.

"Another rule that is universal in America and Canada compels all motor traffic to stop dead until a tramcar has discharged and taken up its passengers and started off again. Why this rule is not adopted in England it is impossible to imagine."

"It is nice to have Americans come here and throw lovely bouquets at us," said an English writer, "but I think they would do us more good if they occasionally told us point blank of some of the things they find wrong with us. This mutual admiration business that goes on now is not good for either of us."

NEW G.T.R. CHIEF'S ADDRESS TO EMPLOYEES OF SYSTEM

Management Desires to Give Public Most Efficient Service Humanly Possible—Listen to Public Criticism and Pass It On.

Confident of Success.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 27.—Interest centred in the address of W. D. Robb, the new chief executive of the system, at the important conference of Grand Trunk traffic officials which opened at the Chateau Laurier yesterday.

It was Mr. Robbs' first opportunity of addressing the railroad traffic men since he became Vice-President and General Manager, and he was enthusiastically received. He spoke with confidence of the future of the Canadian National Railways, linked with the Grand Trunk System; described how much could be obtained by the co-operation of every individual in the railway's working force and told of the advance in efficiency and the results obtained by the Grank Trunk during the past few years.

J. E. Dalrymple, traffic Vice-President, who presided over the conference, in asking Mr. Robb to speak, said every man present admired the ability, courage and hard work that had made it possible for the apprentice machinist of fifty years ago to rise step by step through the service to the position of general manager.

Voice From the Past.

"If I have had any measure of success in my work it has been due to the loyal support and co-operation that I have received from the men serving with me," said Mr. Robb, at the outset of his address. The basis upon which a railroad could be operated successfully did not change, he said. There had been sent to him Monday some interesting evidence of that fact in the following extract from the address of S. P. Bidder, the first general manager of the Grand Trunk—an address delivered sixty-four years ago:

"There is nothing," said Mr. Bidder, "in which perfect harmony and good feeling between employees are so necessary as in the working of a railway. The safety of the passengers and the success of the road depend chiefly upon them and the superintendents, I am sure, will give me credit for never having missed an opportunity of calling their attention to the importance of unity and harmony always existing between them and their subordinates. There is nothing more likely to create a bad feeling among those engaged in great undertakings than departmental recriminations. These should be avoided in every possible way. Managers, superintendents, locomotive foremen and the men under them should

THE DEADLY LEVEL CROSSING.

The level crossing continues to take its toll of dead. Almost daily the newspapers have a fatal accident to record as the result of a motorist attempting to race a railway train over a crossing.

There should not, of course, be any grade crossings — they are, unless efficiently protected, nothing more nor less than death traps. Many of them are so situated that in approaching them motorists are unable to get a glimpse of the track on either side.

But dealing with conditions rather than theories, the increasing number of accidents surely must impress upon all drivers of cars that the only course consistent with safety is to exercise the greatest caution in crossing railway tracks.

A few seconds' wait is preferable to a funeral, and with death the loser's share in a race between train and automobile, the wise motorist will see that his car is withdrawn from the contest.

WHO AM I?

I am more powerful than the combined armies of the world.

I am more deadly than bullets, and I have wrecked more homes than the mightiest of siege guns.

I steal in Canada alone over $30,000,000 each year.

I spare no one, and find my victims among the rich and poor alike, the young and old, the strong and the weak; widows and orphans know me.

I massacre thousands upon thousands of wage-earners in a year.

I lurk in unseen places, and do most of my work silently. You are warned against me, but you heed not.

I am relentless. I am everywhere; in the home, on the street, in the factory, at railroad crossings, and on the sea.

I bring sickness, degradation and death, and yet few seek to avoid me.

I destroy, crush and maim; I give nothing, but take all.

I am your worst enemy.

I am carelessness.

RIVERSIDE PARK.

Hundreds of visitors from all parts of this district have come to Peterborough for the Central Ontario League baseball games this summer, and the majority of them have been favorably impressed by Riverside Park.

It is to be regretted that the approaches to the grounds have not created the same impression, and it is hoped that by next summer something will have been done to improve the appearance of the city's property outside the park fences and to better conditions for both pedestrians and motorists.

Eventually, of course, this whole property is to be converted into a beauty spot, but that is an improvement that will require not only ample funds but considerable time.

While waiting for the carrying out of the more ambitious scheme, it should be possible, however, to provide better accommodation for the thousands of people who visit Riverside Park every summer, to improve the roadways and parking facilities for motorists and to build a board sidewalk for the benefit of pedestrians.

This is a work that should be taken in hand early next spring.

THE COAL SITUATION.

Out of the mass of statistics, theories, guesses, warnings and prophecies in regard to the coal situation, there emerge a few simple truths that should be observed.

In the first place, householders should provide themselves with substitutes to the extent of the forty per cent. of Pennsylvania anthracite they cannot expect to get, or at all events they should secure enough to heat their homes during the less severe part of the winter.

If they are fortunate enough to have a quantity of hard coal at the present time, or to get some in November or early in December, they would be well advised to husband it as much as possible, for it will be needed more in January and February than before the New Year.

In addition, local regulations should be made to control equitable distribution, and attempts on the part of citizens to get whole winter's supply of fuel at one time should be prohibited.

The effect of the shortage will be minimized if the people play the game fairly and do not try to hoard coal selfishly while their neighbors have to go without.

YOUTH AND ITS DAY.

A roster of champions in various sports this year carried the names of more than a score of boys and girls whose ages range from sixteen to twenty-two years, says the Kingston Whig. They were successful over veterans, the average of whose years was very much higher. On the stage and in the movies youth of both sexes also predominate. Youth is certainly having its day, but in the more essential activities of life men and women of mature years continue to hold their prominence. A healthy mind in a healthy body is the greatest blessing of life. Rational sports temperately pursued are a means for keeping the physical body fit, and contribute to longevity. Long life brings experience, and experience is a chief ingredient of wisdom.

If it were possible to bring some of the spirit and love of sports into the field of essential work, much friction and unhappiness would be removed from the world to-day. Human nature is so varied in its predilections that there is never any danger of a bitter struggle for the soft places in life. Just as there are extremes in sport between the pugilist and the polo-player, the billiardist and the footballer, so there are extremes in the field of labor, but the distance between sports and labor is measured by the poles, when the mental attitude is viewed. One reason for the difference is that in sports each contestant strives by fair play to excel, while in the field of labor—well, too often fair rivalry is absent. Another and possibly the greatest difference is that in sports the contestant selects his field and, if he is ambitious, trains for championship therein; while in essential work it is often a haphazard matter of selection and indifference to results.

The world is making progress, however. Science has devised means for measuring the capabilities of youth among the varied fields of endeavor, and vocational schools are making selection and training for life a matter of more concern than was the case in our fathers' days. A few old-fashioned folk may deplore the frills and frivolities of youth and declare that there is too much coddling of the latter, but the fruits of the new system will be seen in better citizenship a score or so of years hence.

THE TAXATION TANGLE.

Federal taxation is discussed in an interesting manner by a Toronto business man, quoted by the Financial Post. He is president of a large manufacturing and distributing house, operating branches from coast to coast, and his views will be of interest.

It is not too early now to consider a revision of federal taxes, he says. Budget making is some months off but comprehensive study of the needs of the country should begin now. There has been in the past too much of a tendency for a budget to be drawn up at the last minute by one man. The result has been far from favorable. Every year Canadian industry and business is completely disorganized for from four to six weeks before a budget is announced and often for weeks afterward. Reference need only be had to the disruption of the automobile industry following the last budget, and following the Drayton luxury tax budget to confirm this statement.

Our present system of budget making is all wrong. Once a year the Minister of Finance retires into secret conclave with himself and there in secret with scarcely his own staff knowing what he is thinking about lest there be a leak somewhere, he frames his budget; working out the taxes that will have to be paid by business men and the other elements in the country's activities.

Sometimes the taxes are good; some times they are bad, very, very bad and have to be withdrawn after the whole country has been thrown into a turmoil. But whether they eventually turn out to be good or bad there is no doubt that constant revision from year to year of the taxes is costing Canada millions of dollars every year. Business men simply will not buy or sell normally—especially in their foreign dealings—during the few weeks preceding a budget. A change in the tariff may cost them a year's profits or more. And so it is with other taxes. Even when changes are announced there is a period of assimilation during which business cannot be gone ahead with on a normal basis.

There is a way out. The Minister of Finance should appoint a permanent commission to consider questions of tariff and taxation, not a perambulating political party such as Sir Henry Drayton sent on a tour of the country, but an organization consisting of the best minds of the nation—from business, agriculture and other important interests. They should study the tariff from a national standpoint, considering both the protection and the revenue features. They should evolve other means of raising revenue that will cause the least possible embarrassment to the business community. They should govern the Minister of Finance in his actions.

There are good taxes and bad taxes. The sales tax is an instance of a good tax and the tax on business profits is an example of a bad tax. The sales tax is easily collected, is nominal in amount, can be calculated to a degree of certainty by the firm paying it and is capable of being passed on to the ultimate consumer. The tax on business profits on the other hand is a restraint on business, is inequitable, makes no allowance for losses and is not fairly administered. Under it it is possible for a concern operating on a conservative capital to pay a dividend of 10 per cent. out of its profits to the Government every year — as much as it may be paying its shareholders.

A wider application of the sales tax and a proper readjustment of the tariff by sound economic thinkers in touch with every class in the community would make it possible to abolish the levy on business and probably effect material reductions in the personal income tax.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Wear a tag on Saturday and show that you are a friend of the children.

A civic fuel policy that does not provide for emergencies is not likely to be of much service if a crisis develops.

With the frost on the pumpkin it won't be long before aldermanic candidates begin to declare themselves.

Nobody seems to be taking the by-election in Toronto very seriously except the candidates themselves. But the campaign is likely to warm up before the finish.

The secret of Babe Ruth's failure to hit as well as last year is said to be that there is a baby in the Ruth household. You would have thought, however, that that would have made Babe make a lot of home runs.

If Winston Churchill really was responsible for that appeal to the Dominions, the newspapers owe him for a news story of unusual importance and interest.

THE NIGHT PROWLER

Policeman Barney Costigan strolled down the half block on Fifth Avenue from Eighth Street, turning in at Washington Mews to make his report, a police signal box was on the back wall of the Wanamaker home, just off the avenue. At this hour, there was no life out in the square. In the Mews, the short, squat artists' quarters, stables once, but now remodelled and very fashionable, displayed no lights or signs of late revelry. The busses had ceased operation for the night, long before. One lone taxicap, speeding through arch and up by and past the policeman, made all the noise possible for a Ford, and in the mid-night stillness it was quite a clatter, but Barney did not care. There was a tiny new arrival at his home, way over on Barrow Street, and his words to the sergeant were very perfunctory.

Had he been a little more observant, somewhat less absorbed in a certain baby face, he would have detected, perhaps, the slinking shadow of a hunchback in the Mews. The short, misshapen figure was silhouetted oddly against the arc in University Place, at the other end of the alley, although the little man clung to the wall. He had been surprised by the sudden appearance of Costigan; had been left without any sort of cover or hiding place. But the policeman's mind was elsewhere. He hurried out of the alley turning quickly toward the arch.

Immediately the hunchback darted down to a point beyond the stables and studios to where a brick wall shielded the back yards of the three or four Washington Square residences just east of Fifth Avenue. He paused at the gate of the fashionable old home of Miss Julia Sutton; then he hurried across the cobblestones and found a place to secrete himself, in a studio doorway, opposite.

Violet's room was a large chamber on the second floor at the rear of her aunt's house. Its windows overlooked the narrow back yard, where two trees struggled valiantly for life; they gave a glimpse beyond the high brick wall to the Mews and its miniature Latin Quarter.

The girl herself tossed restlessly in the spacious comfort of her bed. Now she would fling out a slender white tapering arm, as though to ward off some danger threatening her; then she would huddle up into a ball, gathering the filmy covers with her, looking for all the world like solme little yellow kitten at play. But her eyes, turning from side to side beneath delicately veined lids, revealed the terrors of her dream.

Suddenly whe soke. She saw in the semi-darkness the wreck of her couch, and with a ssmile she slipped to the floor in her bare feet to rearrange the covering. There was an easy deliberation in her movements somehow foreign to her. The nervous alertness of her actions, distinctly characteristic, was missing. Beneath everything there lay the most subtle suggestion of the automaton, as if she were walking in her sleep or obeying the impulses of a mind not her own. But Violet Bronson, subject to strange fancies and premonitions, had never revealed the slightest tendency toward obsession. No one, not even Dupont, had ever hypnotized her. Now her eyes were open wide; and her smile, full, red, with its flash of glistening teeth, was unmistakably hers.

Her bed arranged, she hesitated; then she went to her dressing table, switching on the light and shaking down her hair. In the mirror, washed now, it was a florios burst of spun gold, an aureole formed as the illumination caught the flying strands, coating them each in radiance. She slipped her arms free of the clinging silk of her nightdress, arranging and rearranging her coiffure a dozen times before it suited her. Moving to the bed leisurely, she pulled on her stockings and teased toes into the slippers she had worn away from the shack out in Brooklyn.

All at once an impulse of haste swept over her. She rose and glanced about the room eagerly. After several purposeless trips between the dressing table and the bed, she hurried to the closet, there taking from its hanger a trim little pearl-gray suit, much worn by her in the cool days of the preceding spring. She slipped the skirt of this on over her nightclothes, and then stood looking about almost foolishly for a belt. Shaking her head, finally she decided to do without it, and put on the coat of the suit, without a waist, buttoning it tightly. In the pocket were suede gloves. She stopped to work these on her fingers and to powder her face carefully. After that she hurried from the room, a set look of determination in her expression.

Dupont had pre-empted the one guest room on the second floor for himself and the detectives. Two cots had been placed against the farther wall, and the bed moved so as to give the men a chance to dress and get about. While Dupont planned to keep regular hours and suit his movements to those of the family, the detectives arranged eight-hour shifts, sleeping in their clothes and changing at midnight, in the morning, and in the afternoon. Of the two men just relieved, one lay on his back, snoring very feebly, the other slept with his pillow doubled beneath his arms and his head square upon the rough iron corner of the cot.

Violet entered the room softly, and looked at the two guards without particular concern in her features. Glancing at Dupont, she hesitated, but after a moment her interest became as impersonal as in the other men and she passed by him to the bookcase. Here the portrait of Steele was hidden in a slit made in the cover of a huge atlas and only visible when the two boards were drawn back away from the binding. Together, that afternoon, they had slanned this method of secreting the precious canvas. They had carried their scheme into execution while the two detectives then off duty were down in Thelma's domain, eating an early supper. No one but Dupont and herself knew where the painting was placed.

With silent care but rather remarkable strength she lifted the atlas down to the floor. Squatting there before it, she pressed the covers back and removed the picture. Replacing the heavy book, rolling the canvas and slipping it beneath her arm, she left the room without causing the slightest stir or making the faintest sound.

She stole downstairs rapidly, as though she possessed eyes to see in the darkness. In the pantry she took wrapping paper and string, making a neat package of the painting. Still holding it under her arm, she went to the front door, opening it cautiously.

"Hey" The guard's voice was a hoarse, somewhat startled whisper.

"I can't sleep," she said. "Are you sure everything is all right?"

"Oh Miss Bronson" He chuckled in the gloom. "Of course it is," he exclaimed, reassuringly. "Nothing can happen now."

"Thank you"

She closed the door and hurried through the house to the rear. Joe, the man brought back from the Portola by Dupont, was posted here.

"Mr. Man" she called, in a low voice.

"Yes" He came running. "Yes, Miss Bronson," as he recognized her. "Anything wrong?"

HISTORIC BELL IN GERMANY REPAIRED.

Cracked While Tolling Death of Former Empress.

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—(Associated Press).—The huge bell in the cathedral tower on the former imperial palace grounds, which cracked while tolling out the death of the former empress, will ring again after a year of silence. Like America's Liberty Bell, it went mute because of a rent sustained while commemorating a historical event.

The great mass of metal has just undergone welding which marked the first attempt of its kind in German science. The crack measured 820 millimeters in length and required 45 kilograms of metal to fill it.

It was estimated that to remove the bell and transport it to Alpona or Lubeck, where Germany's only recasting works are located, would cost more than 500,000 marks. Further, sentiment precluding installing a new bell for one which has done service since 1471 when it originally graced the Wilsnac monastery. Consequently, a firm undertook to repair it within its own tower.

The bell was lowered from its support to the floor of the tower room and there subjected to a welding process of acetylic oxidizing under a heat of 1,400 degrees. Experts hold that its "voice" will recover all of the old-time clearness when the necessary operations of repolishing and rechasing the metal have been completed.

FORMAL SEIZURE OF LIQUOR CARGO.

Shipment For Vancouver Held Up By Volstead Act.

PORTAL, N.I., September 27 (Canadian Press). — Formal seizure of six carloads of liquor, valued at more than $250,000, en route to the Nat Bell Wine Company, of Vancouver, from Kentucky, was made here yesterday afternoon by Prohibition forces acting under A. A. Stone, State Director.

The cars, containing 1,000 cases each, were found to be intact.

The shipment has been seized on a charge of unlawful transportation of liquor in violation of the Volstead Act.

Reinforcements for the liquor reinforcement officers have been brought into guard the cars, and M. A. Hildreth, the District Attorney for Dakota, declared that if a shipment was sent to Fargo, it would necessitate the building of a structure to house it.

NEW G.T.R. CHIEF'S ADDRESS

go hand in hand in everything and feel that the success of one is necessary to the advantage of the other. Every man should be taught to feel that he is cared for by his superior and that his good conduct will be noticed and rewarded. These are the principles I have always endeavored to inculcate and I hope they will take deep root in the management of the Grand Trunk road, for where discord reigns no man can manage a railroad with either satisfaction to the public, himself or the company he served."

An Immense System.

"You all know, of course, that we are going through a period of change, that within a very short time the final fusion of the Grand Trunk with the rest of the Canadian National Lines will take place. The total mileage of this combined system will be twenty-three thousand, constituting the largest railway system in the world. When you consider the enormous size of the Dominion of Canada and the present sparcity of population, you will realize that we are faced with a big problem in securing sufficient revenue to enable this vast system to be operated without loss to the owners— the people of Canada. It has been said in some quarters that it will be impossible to eliminate the loss in operation of this great railway system until the population of the Dominion has greatly increased. That may possibly be so; but we must take a pessimistic view. Mr. Dalrymple has told you how the traffic of the Grand Trunk has doubled within seven years. To-day the traffic, passenger and freight, handled by the Canadian National-Grand Trunk joint lines is greater than that of any other Canadian Railway."

Serve the Public.

Operating ratio to gross earnings was being constantly reduced. Indeed the Grand Trunk operating ratio to-day made a more favorable showing than that of any other Canadian road. The end that all the employees of the railway must have constantly in view must be to create a ... increasing improvement in the results obtained. "We want ... traffic men to meet day by day the patrons and potential patrons of ... line, to know that the management stands back of you in ... the most efficient service that is humanly possible, and we ... like you to listen patiently to the suggestion, or criticisms of our patrons and to pass them on so that they may receive consideration in the right quarter and no stone be left unturned to remedy any conditions which are susceptible of criticism."

HAVE YOU A FAMILY?
This is of Importance to You

Niagara Falls, Ont.—"Three years ago my son, Gerald, had a severe attack of yellow jaundice. I tried three doctors but they only gave relief for short periods. As I had tried Dr Pierce's Anuric Tablets on my other son, I decided to give him Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and after using four or five bottles he was entirely well. I shall always say a good word for all of Dr. Pierce's remedies. Today our medicine cabinet contains a bottle of each of these famous remedies."—Mrs. Catherine Dempsey, 32 Bridge St.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is free from alcohol and injurious drugs. You can be certain you will find it a true blood-maker, tissue-builder, and restorative nerve tonic and that it will produce no evil after-effects.

DO YOU NEED HELP?

Windsor, Ont.—"Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and his 'Pleasant Pellets' are wonderful medicines for home use. I used to suffer with weak lungs, smothering spells and sick-headaches, but since taking the above-mentioned medicines these conditions have left me."

It's Baker's Cocoa

ANNIVERSARY OF BENSFORT CHURCH.

Inspiring Services Sunday, Followed By Fowl Supper on Monday.

BAILIEBORO, Sept. 27.—The anniversary services of the Bensfort Methodist church were held on Sunday Sept. 24th both morning and evening services being taken by Rev Dr. Manning of Toronto, a former pastor of the Fraserville circuit, who preached here about forty years ago. At that time the contract was let for building the present church at Bensfort. Dr. Manning was superannuated two years ago, when his health gave out and he was compelled to give up his field of labor, he so much loved.

At the morning service he was assisted by the pastor of the church Rev. R. M. Patterson, and Rev. R. E. Finlay, president of the Alberta Conference and in the evening by the pastor again.

Both services were much enjoyed by large congregations, the seating capacity being taxed, many having to sit on benches along the back of the church.

The message delivered by Dr. Manning, is one that will long remain in the minds of all present. Many of the members of the Bailieboro and Fraserville churches were in attendance as well as a number of outsiders

Beautiful music was rendered by the choir and the church was prettily decorated for the occasion.

A Fowl Supper

The crowd came from far and near to enjoy the best supper the Bensfort people have ever served to the public Bensfort ladies are always congratulated on their splendid teas and socials, but this event has surpassed all yet.

About one hundred and twenty-eight dollars were taken at the door, not counting thankoffering of the day previous.

A delightful programme was provided the following talent taking part:— Duets and vocal solos by Misses Marie McBaine and Mary Southam. Readings by Miss M. Perry of Peterborough. Address by chairman, Rev. Patterson. Selections by Bensfort Orchestra. Solo by Rev. R. M. Patterson.

During the programme a presentation was made to Rev. Edgar Russel by the adult Bible class of the Sunday School of which Mr. Russel has been teacher for the past two years; and as he is leaving the community the Bible Class gave him as a token of their appreciation a beautiful Bible. Mr. Russel made a very suitable reply and the happy event broke up by singing the National Anthem.

WEDDING BELLS

CLEMENTS—BOYCE.

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Boyce, in Smith, on Wednesday evening, September 20, at 7 o'clock, when their daughter, Mary Irene Annetta, and Hilliard E. S. Clements of Warsaw were united in the holy bonds of matrimony.

Rev. Girard Graham, B.A., of Warsaw performed the ceremony. As the beautiful chords of the Wedding March, Wagner's Lohengrin, were being played by Miss Lillian Avery the bride appeared in the drawing-room, leaning on her father's arm. She looked charming, dressed in white satin and silk overlace, with pearl trimmings, and carried a bouquet of white asters. The bridesmaid, Miss Olive Clements, sister of the groom, wore a gown of cream satin and silk georgette with seed pearl trimmings and carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. Little Miss Kathaleen Dunford, cousin of the groom, made a pretty flower girl. She was dressed in white silk chiffon and carried a basket of phlox. The groomsman was Mr. John Myles, cousin of the bride.

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold wrist watch; to the bridesmaid, an English gold coin bracelet; to Kathaleen, a string of pearl beads; to the pianist, Miss Lillian Avery, a pearl necklace; to Miss Agnes Strain, the soloist, a gold ring set with a garnet stone, and to the groomsman, gold cuff-links.

After the ceremony the guests all sat down to a tastefully decorated table, in the centre of which stood the wedding cake, and partook of a recherche wedding luncheon.

Among the numerous guests, some from a distance, were: John Thompson and his sister, Catherine, of Trent Bridge; Allan C. Dunford, of Toronto, and others from Cottesloe, Warsaw, Peterborough, Chemong and Lakefield.

The gifts to the bride were numerous and costly. Her travelling suit was navy blue, with hat to match.

MODERN HOMES ARE COVERING SITE OF ANCIENT CARTHAGE

CARTHAGE, Tunis, French Africa, September 26 (Associated Press). — The site of ancient Carthage is being sold off and divided into building lots, and the surrounding hills, rich in history, are being slowly covered with residential villas.

Archaeologists point out that if this building is permitted to continue, their excavation work will be seriously hampered, as the new proprietors object to invasions of their yards by workmen, no matter what treasuries of history may lie underneath.

Two French Government employees of the Department of Tunis lately bought a piece of ground on the site of the old city, and before building their house, started to find out what was underneath the surface.

Unless the French Government stops the sale, real estate agents will shortly put on the market some 240 acres of the site of Carthage, at a total sale price of $200,000.

FARMER'S WIFE PRAISES THE FORDSON TRACTOR

(By Mrs. P. L. Friedly, R. F. D., No. 3, Waterloo.)

I consider the Fordson the most valuable of farm equipment from the standpoint of durability, efficiency and manifold uses. No other machine yields as large return on so small an investment.

The Fordson has broken the shackles that bound the farmer to a life of drudgery and left him master of the situation, and has enabled him to farm his land more extensively and intensively with less cost of production and less physical exertion. It has made him a director of motor power instead of man power. It has enabled one man to do easily as much as two could otherwise do, and in hundreds of instances has solved the hired man question, thereby benefitting not only the farmer but his wife as well. With a tractor the farmer can do his work better and quicker and thus has more time to devote in helping his wife or beautifying his place, or in recreation. Its cost and upkeep is small in comparison with horses and their maintenance. When not in use it is neither deteriorating in value nor making expense as is the horse. "Sterling" describes its worth and power.

WONDERFUL ACTIVITY IN SALE OF FORDSON TRACTORS

The Duffus Motor Sales report the sale of seven Fordson tractors within the last week. Farmers in this section are fast realizing the value of the Fordson Tractor for accomplishing the increasing amount of fall work such as plowing, filling silos, threshing, etc., and frankly admit that at $470 it is much more economical than horses and that the idea of a Ford car, Ford truck, and Fordson tractor on every farm is gaining in favor.

bearing a casket of jewels; Kathleen Burke, a blue-robed figure of Poetry with spotless scroll; the Spirit of Prayer, Louise Letellier, a white-veiled maiden bearing a lighted censer; and the final soft-voiced maiden Laura Herr, as the Bishop's Guardian Angel, with flowing white apparel, sparkling diadem and silvery wings. A tableau of the six pretty apparitions, greeted with prolonged applause, followed, with an ensuing chorus of the "Jubilate" from twenty-six little girls, each white dress emblazoned with a golden date for every year of the Bishop's quarter of a century in the service of God Agnes McCarthy here recited very effectively a glowing tribute to His Lordship, in lyrical prose, while her two small handmaidens, Marie O'Donnell and Mary Heinz carried the flowers which were presented to th Jubilarian by little black velvet-pages; John Burke and Leo Begley.

Vocal Solos

Vocal solos which were much enjoyed were "Spring Awakening", by Miss Eileen McCabe, with violin obligato by Mr. V. McCabe, and Miss Ernestine McManus' contribution, "The Wren", with flute obligato by Mr. Kenneth Greene. The latter solo, with the light, high tones of the singer blending sweetly with the delicate, faint bird notes of the flute received enthusiastic and prolonged applause that brought a pretty encore.

A clever orchestra of young, well-trained players gave an excellent rendition of the 'Lutspiel Overture", with the Misses Marion Hayes, Florence Giroux, Marjorie Evans and Grace Reid at the two pianos; V. McCabe and Baden Greene, 1st violins; Vincent Richea and Gerald Collins, 2nd violins; Gerald Greene, cello, and Kenneth Greene, flute.

Faure's "Sancta Maria" was rendered as a part song by the Misses E. McManus and E. McCabe, first sopranos; M. Galvin and M. Guiry, second sopranos; L. Armstrong, M. Archambault and O. Bacon, altos. One of the most fetching numbers on the programme, executed with splendid effect, in fine melodic harmony, was Gounod's "Praise Ye the Father", ringing out in the fresh boyish voices of the lads of the High School.

Accompanists for the evening were Misses Grace Reid, Marion Hayes, Florence Giroux and Mr. J. J. Ball.

HELD BY POLICE FOR EXAMINATION

Local Man Acted as If Mentally Unbalanced

Acting as though mentally unbalanced, and his wife being in a delicate condition, and fearing rough usuage, John Bickersteth was remanded by Magistrate O. A. Langley in police court for one week. This enlargement is to give the jail physician and accused's doctor opportunity to confer together and pronounce on Bickersteth's condition, which the police infer to have its origin in either drug or drink indulgence.

It appears that Bickersteth, who lives on Queen street, himself 'phoned Chief Newhall, Monday that there was foul play at his home, and for him "to come over". Officers Reid and Puffer were despatched to the house, where on their arrival, they found accused, as they concluded, suffering from having imbibed too freely of either liquor or drugs. In talking with Bickersteth, he suddenly attacked the officers and put up a violent struggle, kicking and biting all the way to the police station.

M.O.H. Dr. Young was called to the station, advised that the prisoner be detained, and gave him a quiet ing, soothing dose, However, the detained man had to be held down in his cell for the better part of the night. His physician reports he has been acting peculiarly for some time

In court, Bickersteth seemed quite self-contained, and to the Magistrate replied that he had been drinking Wincarnis wine.

Must have been pretty strong stuff commented his worship, whatever that beverage unknown to me may be.

Mentally unbalanced, or not, it is worthy of note that Bickersteth played the hero's part with three other men in endeavoring to effect the rescue of little three-year-old Elsie Hopkins from devouring flames at the fire on Romaine street, Saturday evening.

Prices in the wheat market have dropped from five to ten cents a bushel during the last week; alsike is down 50 cents on the bushel also. Red clover is a new entry at from six to seven dollars a bushel. The farmers are not bringing is as much grain this week, being busily engaged in the fall plowing. Peaches are on their last legs in the fruit stores, the quality as fine as ever, the price lowering by degrees. GLORIOUS REVIVAL tion some time ago, but that Committee took no action. It will therefore be a matter for serious consideration and action by this Conference.

"Our Committee on Church Union will be supplied with all details reporting what has been done hitherto, and sufficient copies of the bill under which it is proposed to incorporate the Methodist, Congregational and Presbyterian churchs will be provided for the use of members of this Conference.

"As it has had careful nurture in the past, so the whole Union question will still require an immense amount of intensive and responsible thought to bring the movement to a successful and happy issue.

"As your representative on active service during the war, I saw much suffering and not a few of those brave men dying. I have had close association with German shell fire, and I have been under the rain of their machine-gun bullets, but in my experience of the war I saw nothing so lasting in its effect upon my feelings as when, passing in the dead of night down a dark narrow winding French road to reach the Ridge of Vimy ,I met many squads of our warriors returning from the trenches. Through the darkness, there shone from their eyeballs a luminous vacancy, as though they were trying to forget forever the tragedy of killing and exposing themselves to be killed, through which they had just passed.

"What can this General Conference do?

"1. I would advise that it should give its hearty support to the League of Nations Society of Canada, and cooperate with it to the utmost extent in promoting international peace. A resolution endorsing this most praiseworthy organization would be of great value at this time.

"2. This General Conference should send a hearty assurance to all Churches that, irrespective of differences of creed, we pledge hearty co-operation to promote the teaching in the schools of Canada to the ethical principles upon which all worthy personal and enduring national character must rest.

"3. That we should press upon the Government of Canada the necessity for an immigration policy providing for the careful selection of persons susceptible to high national idealism.

"4. As far back as June, 1920, speaking at the Convocation Exercises of the American University, Washington, D. C., I referred to the mission of Canada, as one of the interpretations of Great Britain to the United States of America, and of the United States to Great Britain, being assured that we in Canada understand each of these nations better than they know each other. That I believe is still the mission of this country. Every endeavor should be made by us to strengthen the links that bind these two great world powers together, with the assurance that in their concord in world problems lies the promise of ultimate peace for mankind.

"5. Our highest duty in the preservation of peace is to implant ideals commensurate with the Gospel of the Kingdom of Heaven. The trend of events shows it is the will of Almighty God that the Church of Jesus Christ should be spiritualized upon higher altitudes, and in the midst of wider horizons of duty than ever before. He is no Christian to-day who is not a citizen of the world at large. Surely if the war has taught us anything it is the strength of the moral factor in life. It was this that defeated German ambition. It is this that must make a new heaven and a new earth. To the Church of Jesus Christ has been committed the supreme task of moral ideals dominating humanity. Canada can congratulate herself that such a large proportion of her public men are committed in their private lives to Christian principles. But it is for the followers of the Prince of Peace to bring His ideals to dominate the great mass of the people so that the State may be really Christian at its very heart. To this high calling we exhort all our people.

The Message of the Church

"The chief question that confronts this Conference is—How shall Christian Methodism adjust her message so as to render the greatest possible service to the Dominion and the world at large?

"I have already suggested certain changes in organization to this end, but these must be considered as matters of altogether secondary importance compared with the spiritual interests of which I now speak. I am thinking now of how our Church may so express her convictions as to become a living soul unto the nation. The destiny of Protestantism and the success or failure of vital religion in Canada will be influenced by the response we make to that question.

"Indeed, it is not too much to say that the years just before us will be so full of challenge to spiritual adventure that the answer of the Christain Church at large will be decisive in the religious history of mankind. It will determine whether civilization shall enter upon a long and unproductive winter which may carry the world back into barbarism, or whether there shall be a new springtime in which will bud and blossom these gracious and vital energies whose full bloom shall be named the Kingdom of God.

"First then let me say that our message must be noted for its openness to truth. It is fatal to the influence of the Church, particularly in this new era, if its pulpit creates the impression that, like caged lions, its ministers move within bars of intellectual servitude. The founder of Methodism believed that liberyof thought is essential to intelligent spiritual growth, that its repression is mentally miasmatic and breeds revolution. The Church of the twentieth century cannot be the same as the Church of the first century, and it ought not to be, because it is a living organism, and must continually rise to higher self-realization.

"Men who are evidently ignorant of the inner spirit of the Churches of Christ are giving them many exhortations in contemporary literature not to spend their spiritual substance in controversy with each other about creeds. Whatever ground for apprehension there may be elswehere, such advice to Methodism is surely misdirected energy. We do not indulge in antagonistic debate with other religious bodies. We are not uneasy about our theology. It is experimental, being the fruit of the inductive method. It rests upon facts authenticated to consciousness by the Spirit of God. It has grown out of experience, and therefore has special fitness to grow experience. We are content without controversy to let it make its own appeal to every man's conscience in the sight of God.

"Long before Conon Doyle was moved to lecture upon the proof of a future life, the pulpits of our Church rang with the certainty of immortality and countless saints, nurtured by the ministry of Methodism, died triumphantly in sure and certain hope of a glorious resurrection. We believe our boys and girls too, who have "gone West" to the land of the setting sun, wait to greet us in the land where the sun rises evermore and never sets.

"Long before Mary Baker Eddy published a new brand of optimism based upon philosophical and mystical ingenuities, the Gospel preached by our Ministers comforted the hearts of suffering millions, and braced them for every trial of life.

"Without setting aside the palable teachings of common sense and human experience, upon which all true philosophy is founded our people have risen superior to the ills that flesh is heir to, trusting in the Lord with all their hearts, and leaning not to their own understanding.

"In her practical and spiritual wisdom, Methodism has always cared more for the centripetal force that holds its theological system close to the Sun of Righteousness, than the centrifugal force that would send it careering into the uncertain depths of speculative inquiry. She gladly yields to the gravitational attraction of the Kingdon of God, and holds every thought in captivity to its redemptive work. Her great purpose is continuously to turn her steadfast convictions into sublime motives to holy living. She asks no man to slay his mind in order that he may satisfy his heart, but she leads the heart and mind together into a profoundly satisfying contact with the realities of personal religion.

"Methodism believes in freedom in the study, the atmosphere of freedom in the pulpit, but more strenuously than anything else, she believes in tremendous concentration upon the things that really matter most. This combination of outlook and endeavor is essential to a true conception of what our message should be at this time.

"Equipped with these salutary conditions for progress, we lift our prayer to high heaven at this potential hour for wisdom to discern the times that we may know assuredly what our Israel ought to do.

"By the 'times' we do not mean simply the passing days, but the current of thought and the throbbing impulses to action which play upon contemporary life and character. To fulfil our mission as a Church we must clearly discern the influences which are putting their stamp upon the hearts of the people who occupy our pews in this crisis hour of history.

"What, then, are the strands which compose the intellectual texture that is now being woven so closely around us?

Materialism

Materialism, which gave some of our fathers in the ministry grave concern, and bombarded our educational institutions with such ceaseless fire, appears to be rapidly becoming a spent force. The hypothesis of evolution, regarded as a divine method, will likely stand, but conceived of as alone due to natural laws supposed to have native force in themselves, and to be self-acting, appears to a layman to have been successfully attacked as incompetent to account for origins, for instincts, and for the whole realm of spiritual intuitions, which now not only challenges, but is receiving the major attention of the thinking world.

"In practice, materialism is condemned as failing to supply the compelling altruistic ideals which indubitably from within the British Empire at least, swayed the hearts of multitudes of men, and settled world destiny during the Great War.

"The only region where materialism continues to manifest striking power is in its appeal to the acquisitive instinct, producing desire for immense accumulations of this world's goods. But even then its control is being seriously disputed by the growing humanity of man, and is doomed to early defeat. Its reign as a respectable motive or even influence in human affairs draws to a close. In the secret heart of men apparently most addicted to accumulation, the strongest motive is the satisfaction of playing a winning hand in the game of life. The pity of it is that their sport should spell misery and injustice to so many millions of their less fortunate fellows.

"The message of the Church must convince contestants in the sphere of capital and labor that all social questions are at bottom moral and spiritual. It must attempt to show the bearing of Christain principles upon industrial life, ruling out the idea that there is any set of circumstances into which the iron laws of business have a right to enter. Ever and always it must be remembered that each soul of man is of infinite and equal value, because all men are children of one Divine Father, and that service is the true function of industry, whether on the side of capital or labor.

"Co-operation in fellowship of service is the only ideal that should be entertained by Christians. If this ideal be revolutionary, then revolutionary it must be. The pulpit must share the reconciling passion of God Himself, and preach with equal intensity the responsibility of men on both sides of the conflict to ease strife, to approach each other in the spirit of fair play, and in the light of full information, conduct negotiations in sympathetic, open-hearted honesty.

"In pursuance of Christian brotherhood, the Church can do no other than follow the gleam until the Holy Grail is found. The fire of love for injured man must ever burn brightly upon her altars.

Effect of Literature

"The literature read by a people largely determines its character. The German nation is said to have been transformed in a generation by its mental food There is an abundance of literature today commended to our people by great intellectual genius which is sapping the very foundations of society. Most attractive novel writers have since the war become so romantic as not only to take advantage of the customary license of inventing the facts and features of the life they depict, but also to escape from truth and reality by deliberately throwing into the discard the fundamental moral convictions which gave direction to conduct and character during the nineteenth century. They distinctly lower the sense of moral responsibility by making the vagrant proclivities of human passion the measure of duty, irrespective of the law of the Superior Being. They trace the formation of character back to a long evolutionary process, on account of which the departed spirits of prowling beasts are now found haunting the chambers of the soul, or what passes for a soul, and setting up a very menagerie of primordial vices, all contending for control. So robust is this exaltation of depravity, that religion, which has always been considered as the cure of sin-sick souls, is now represented as one of the symptoms of the soul in sickness.

"In a most subtle qay, on the hearts of thousands of our people, in common with those of other Churches, there is being produced paralysis of faith, deadness to the appeal of truth and righteousness, and despair of humanity. This unveiling of the impulses of heredity, as guides to life, opens the way without blushing for the morbid and excessive discussion of sex problems, for easy morality, lax divorce, and the excusing ofall manner of crime and scandalism as simply necessary expressions of native instincts.

"The imperative duty of the pulpit in reference to this literary development, is to restore the sense of personal responsibility, to assert the central, commanding place of the human will, the supremacy of moral law, and direct and sure responsibility to the Divine Being.

New Thought

Having regard to limitation of time, in an address of such wide scope and practical purpose as this, it is impossible to discuss at length the various forms of new thought which have recently sprung up so vigorously in this and other countries. Michael Angelo said: "I criticise by creation, not by finding fault.

"In a general way, then, I can only warn our people that though they may regard this new thought teaching favorably as far as it promises optimism, and may even feel it their privilege by the use of natural law within the mind to reinforce the will for the discharge of the duties of life, they should be careful not to allow it to become a substitute for religion.

"Take, for example, Coue's formula for speeding the elixir of life through one's physical and moral being. He advises concentration morning and evening on the formula—"Day by day, in all respects, I am getting better and better." Giving this formula the maximum of credit, it falls short of the minimum of religion. It may be regarded as trust in the mental law of suggestion which on its spiritual side, if it has a spiritual side, is on a par with trust in the physical law of gravitation, But trust in natural law of any kind does not touch the fringe of the Christian religion. It does not in itself link a man to God in adoration or petition; it is not personal trust in the personal love and character of the Divine Being, without which there can be no Christia nreligion. It is akin to the Shintoism of the Emperor of Japan, who, under that form of religion, is supposed to worship himself. Mental suggestion emphasizes "Care for yourself." And religion emphasizes "God cares for you." They are mutually exclusive of each other, and with discrimination may be made mutually helpful.

Long before Coue devised his formula, a preacher had by his bedside a book of devotion in which the first words were—"On waking each morning say—'Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, to-day and forever.' an expression which gathered into itself the benefits of suggestion coupled with a fine spirit of Christian worship. It made Jesus Christ central and supreme. We commend this to our people.

The optimism which Jesus expressed held his hearers close to God. It was not based on any set of mental exercises, but upon the care of the Heavenly Father in every detail of life. "Your Heavenly Father knoweth ye have need of these things." His cure for sorrow was: "Come unto Me, ye heavy-laden ones, and I will rest you." "Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in Me."

He never minimized suffering. He Himself was made perfect, not by denying its reality, but by suffering itself. Neither did he shrink from the problem of sin—it brought Him to His death.

"We must beware of depending on any formula of thought or expression which would make us satisfied to live out of touch with God Himself. There is peculiar danger of being led by this to discard the Grace of God and make the Cross of Christ of none effect.

"Those who have studied new thought will recognize what I mean by these words. Let them trust in psychological law if they will so far as it can help them, but let them trust in Christ alone for salvation from the guilt and power of that terrible tragedy we call sin.

Sympathy With the Doubter

"This occasion will not warrant spending any more time setting forth the problems which are in their present development peculiar to our day, problems of spiritualism, etc. A weakening of the sense of responsibility for Christianizing the world characterizes most of them. To restore the spiritual equilibrium of these times is a delicate and difficult, but imperative task. In doing so, we must not lose patience, but ever keep in mind that the real progress of religion is through conviction, and cannot be brought about by compulsion.

"Too often ministers are regarded as men whose chief function in the world is thought to sit as censors of heresy. Such a conception of their duty raises a barrier which prevents them from fulfilling their ministry of sympathy with doubt. Rather it should be felt that the doubter is to them a fellow helper to the truth. Nor would it be going too far to follow the lead of Dr. Nelles and feel that "by action and counter-action we may strike out the truth, even our antagonist being our helper." Let our confidence be that the truth of God never leads one into a blind alley, but always opens up a shining way, stretching onward to the Infinite.

Our Special Message

"The soul of the message of Methodism is the offer of "the peace of heaven through Christ assured to the heart by the spirit of God, as the source and inspiration of a life of perfect love."

"The purpose of our preaching must be to present the kind of truth to the people which will give the spirit of God an instrument with which He may most freely and fully do the work of God in the individual heart and in the world.

"I hesitate not to say that the General Conference will feel that when the full reports of the Church's activities educational, spiritual and socially redemptive, are presented to it, that the last quadrennium has been in many respects the greatest period that the Methodist Church in Canada has ever known."

This was the statement of Rev. Dr. S. D. Chown, general superintendent of the Methodist Church in Canada, at the General Conference of the Methodist Church in Canada, which opened for its quadrennial session here to-day.

"We shall dispose of the statistics for the quadrennium as briefly as possible," said the General Superintendent, "we do not prize them except as witnesses to the intellectual and spiritual life of the Church. They will at least beget confidence in any interested person who might be induced by misrepresentation to fear that the Church is declining in strength, or, so far as statistics can reveal, is lacking in any essential element of success.

"DAILY MAIL" GOES TO ROTHERMERE.

Now Principal Owner of Northcliffe Papers.

LONDON, September 27 (Canadian Press). — Viscount Rothermere, younger brother of the late Viscount Northcliffe, has acquired Viscount Northcliffe's interest in the Daily Mail and its associated papers, including the Evening News and the Weekly Despatch. He is now the principal proprietor of these papers.

CROP REPORT

Following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

While some of the eastern counties report fair returns of red clover seed there are many complaints of poor yields, some fields being cut for fodder only or pastured. Lennox and Addington however states that farmers in that county are paying special attention to the raising of red clover and alfalfa seed, keeping the fields clean of noxious weeds, having government inspection, and having the seed graded immediately after threshing.

North Simcoe estimates an increase in the area of fall wheat sown this season. Considerable sowing was done during the past week in several counties and some will be put in this week.

Elgin says that owing to rainy weather at harvesting a considerable portion of the bean crop will be of rather poor quality.

So far there has been little injury to the corn from frost and the crop is going into the silo in excellent condition.

Leeds reports tractors as doing good work in fall plowing during the week, while horse plowing has been comparatively light owing to the land being rather hard.

Frontenac states that threshing has been a very heavy and long job this fall owing to the heavy straw. Ensilage corn is also heavy. The weather has been ideal for this work.

Brant says "A few short keep cattle have recently been bought in the county and sold to feeders at around 6c. This seems rather high for feeding cattle, most feeders expecting to buy if possible around 5c."

Lambton reports a good demand for yearling and two year old stockers. "Prices are ranging from 4 1-2c to 6c per pound. Seven car loads of stockers from the West have come to this county during the past two weeks."

Farmers in Prescott and Russell are getting rid of their surplus live stock. A few cars of calves and old milch cows were shipped from Plantagenet during the week.

Frontenac reports the flow of milk as keeping up wonderfully well for the time of year ,pastures being helped out by feeding corn either from the field or silo. Leeds however reports the supply of milk decreasing but the quality improving, and the price of cheese one cent higher at 17c a lb. on the Brockville board on Thursday. The price of milk has also gained strength. The condensary is now paying $1.60 for 3 per cent. Butter and cheese prices remain stationary.

Kenora states "The people in this district are gradually becoming more interested in dairying and are commencing to ship to outside points. The time is not far distant when a good creamery or cheese factory will be well patronized if situated at some

The Brant representative says: — "With hog grading soon to be started the demand keeps strong for little pigs of bacon type. Although few are offered on the market, they are selling quite readily from $12 to $14 per pair."

Lennox and Addington reports: — "There is a demand for horses from 5 to 8 years old, suitable for express and delivery purposes but the supply is quite limited."

North Simcoe says: "Apiarists throughout the county report very slow sales of honey although this is partly due to the uncertainty of the Western crop and to the fact that the local demand has not been quite as great as usual owing to the very large crop of early apples and other fruits. There is also a great variety of prices and many people are unwilling to buy until the price is stabilized. Throughout North Simcoe honey can be bought for prices ranging from 10c to 17c for practically the same product. This condition is injurious to beekeepers on the whole as can be readily seen."

Leeds reports: "School fair exhibits have been excellent this year, mainly on account of the vegetable crop being such a good one. The attendance has also been nearly all that could be desired."

WORLD AIR FORCE TO ASSURE PEACE.

Was Suggestion of Lord Robert Cecil to Nations' League.

GENEVA, Sept. 27. — (Canadian Press.)—Great Britain yesterday informed the Council of the League of Nations that she was ready to guarantee her share of twenty per cent. of the Austrian loan of 520,000,000 crowns. Italy's guarantee, which was dependent on Great Britain taking her share, will be immediately announced, which is regarded as assuring success of plan elaborated by the Council Committee of Five. This was the most important work of the Council yesterday.

The Assembly of the League held a general debate on the question of reduction of armament. The only novelties in the debate were a suggestion by Lord Robert Cecil, of Great Britain, that the air forces of the world might be turned over to the League of Nations for use in enforcing peace, and a proposition advanced by P. Munch, of Denmark, that obligatory military service should be abolished throughout the world.

SPORT NEWS

Colborne and not Tweed will get the second game of the C.G.E.-Picton intermediate O.B.A.A. series, on Friday afternoon, the game to start at 3.30 o'clock. When the Generals left here for Picton. Adanacs had the Riverside Park for a junior semi-final game with McCormicks of Toronto. While away the Generals made arrangements to play in Colborne on Friday. After arriving home, Riverside Park was found to be available for next Saturday, but the Generals decided to adhere to the arrangements for the game being played in Colborne.

Adanacs are practically certain of a game with McCormicks at the week-end, and it will be played in Toronto, and according to the present understanding, will be a sudden death contest. The O.B.A.A. sub-committee have been a bit off-color in their handling of the semi-finals in which Peterboro teams are interested, and the local moguls have had a lot of unnecessary worry.

The management of the Maple Leafs are now in communication with the O.B.A.A. in an endeavor to get a game here next Saturday with Royce avenue, T.A.B.A. midget winners. The Leafs are ready to play a home-and-home series.

A brown rabbit that inhabits the marsh along the suburbs of Riverside park appeared on the diamond on Friday evening. The Petes won. The rabbit appeared on the diamond again yesterday afternoon, with a dog in hot pursuit. The Leafs won, and several of the Petes and fans accepted the incident to mean that the Petes would cop the championship to-day.

Y.M.C.A. FALL SEASON IS NOW UNDER WAY.

Special Effort to Enroll Members Starts Friday.

The fall season of the Y.M.C.A. is now under way, and the prospects are unusually bright for a big season. The building has been brightened up, especially the swimming pool and showers, which look attractive and inviting with the white enamel finish. The filtering of the water by the Waterworks Department shows to wonderful advantage in the swimming pool, the clear green of the water showing a great contrast to the dark discolored water of pre-filtration days. A special effort is to be made to enroll members, starting Friday night and continuing for one week. A supper will be served in the gymnasium by the Ladies' Auxiliary, and it is expected that over 150 workers will be on hand. The event will be in reality a big rally of members. Any member wishing to assist in the membership effort not already on a team is to notify the staff, who will gladly welcome the assistance offered.

GOOD CONCERT AFTER SCHOOL FAIR, DUMMER

An Evening of Music, Dialogue and Recreation —Sports in Afternoon a Great Success.

WARSAW NEWS.

WARSAW, Sept. 27.—Dummer School Fair was a great success, and it was estimated that there were 1,000 people on the grounds. The event was wholly under the management of the Teachers' and Trustees' Association. The exhibits were excellent, there being a great improvement over those at the first School Fair held in 1916. The children who do not get prizes, mostly, take their defeat in the right spirit. One little girl, when asked if she got a prize, said: "No, but my brother got first for his onions."

Excepting that girls of some schools were dressed in white, there was no special costuming for the parade. Marching, carriage, etc., only were considered in the judging.

The 3rd Line School, Reginald Clark teaching, took first prize; Douro No. 6, Miss MacKenzie teaching, second prize, and Warsaw, Mr. Lawrence and Miss Simpson teaching, third. Cottesloe School, Mrs. Bailey teaching, who had an older boy, Stanley Bullock, lead in the march, and Fourth Line School, Miss A. Batten teaching, were also in the parade and all made a good showing. Some other schools had exhibits. With the exception of Mr. Clark, all the teachers are new.

The North Smith Band was in attendance. The teachers and trustees had a booth on the ground and did exceedingly well with it. The Women's Institute Flower Committee served tea, sandwiches, pie, cake and hot-dogs, near the entrance, and the U.F.W.O. served a splendid hot dinner in the Town Hall.

The Sport Programme.

Relay race—Kenneth Payne, Oswald Little, Ralph Garbutt.

Boys under twelve — Kenneth Payne, Ray Darling, Ivan Drain, Willie Parsons.

Men teachers' race—Mr. Lawrence, Mr. Clark, Mr. Dawson.

Good Entertainment.

In the evening an excellent entertainment was given, and the pupils were fortunate in having their own teachers play their accompaniments. J. A. Crowe was chairman. The programme consisted of the following numbers:

Chorus, "The Maple Leaf," S. S. 4 and 5, Dummer; recitations, by Jean Bowen, Doris Payne, Marjorie Frankish and Dorcas Lloyd; the bones, by Ivan Buttler; piano solo, Miss G. Simpson; chorus, "Clinkum, Clankum," S. S. No. 3; recitations, by Rita Watley, Marjorie Payne, Velma Hamilton and Nellie Bullock; solo, by Jennie Batten; part song, "Stars of the Smmer Night," S. S. No. 4; recitations, by Ottie Crowe, Orville Watts and Laura Webster; duet, by Jennie Batten and Daphine Payne; wand drill, S. S. No. 4; solo, by Ada Somerfield, "Swing Me in the Moonlight"; dialogue, "Ain't Nobody's Darling"; recitations, by Billy Hamilton, Hazel Dunford and Marion Hamilton; duet, by Velma Payne and Ada Somerfield; recitations, by Elsie Moore and Sydney McCauley; chorus, S. S. No. 5; recitation, Rayfield Darling; solo, by Daphine Payne; chorus, "Oh, Canada," by S. S. Nos. 4 and 5.

Again the need of a proper hall for entertainments was very apparent. The hall was packed and many were turned away.

MORE TURKS IN THE ZONE.

LONDON, September 27 (Canadian Press). — More Turkish Nationalist troops have drifted into the Chanak zone, according to official advices from Constantinople to-day This is not regarded in authoritative quarters, however, as aggravating the situation, and the opinion was expressed in these quarters that trouble would be avoided.

No word has yet been received from Kemal Pasha in answer to the quarters, however, as an aggravating ultimatum giving him forty-eight hours for the removal of the troops in this area, but the British are inclined to give him all possible leeway to avoid a clash.

SOLDIERS LEAVE.

ALDERSHOT, England, September 27 Canadian Press). — Nearly 3,000 soldiers of all ranks left here to-day for embarkation to the Near East.

CONCENTRATING TROOPS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, September 27 (Canadian Press). — While the Anatolian Cabinet, sitting at Smyrna is completing its reply to the Allied note, the Nationalist army continues its feverish concentration of troops on the Ismid and Chanak lines.

Mustapha Kemal Pasha now has 1,100 men in Kum Kalozi, at the mouth of the Dardanelles, 5,000 at Adranvti, 50 miles south-east of Chanak, 10,000 in the intervening Sanjak of Carassi, and considerable forces in other areas.

WATCHING SITUATION.

OTTAWA, September 27 (Canadian Press). — The changed complexion in the Near East situation has given rise to renewed anxiety and watchfulness at Ottawa.

For several days there have been indications that the situation would right itself, and that military measures would not be necessary.

Now, however, things look far from promising in that regard, and the Government is watching the situation closely, ready to take whatever action may seem necessary.

LONDON SPECULATES.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—(Canadian Press).—The reported abdication of King Constantine of Greece in favor of Crown Prince George has caused wide speculation here on what course former Premier Venizelos will take. It is recalled that the former Premier once stated that he would work with the Crown Prince but not with King Constantine. This was, however, before the latter was recalled to the Throne. The Crown Prince is said to be a favorite of Princess Anastasia, formerly Mrs. William Leeds.

MENACE STRAITS.

LONDON, Sept. 27.— (Canadian Press.) — Turkish Nationalists continue to menace the Straits of the Dardanelles and are entrenching in the neutral zone, which they refuse to recognize. British commanders are confident that they can keep the Turks from crossing the Straits or capturing Constantinople until the arrival of formidable reinforcements, now on the way.

A PEACE EFFORT.

ROME, Sept. 27. — (Canadian Press.)—Pope Pius to-day telegraphed Mustapha Kemal Pasha urging that Turkish commander adopt every possible measure to avoid further bloodshed.

MAY LIVE IN THE U.S.

LONDON, September 27 (Canadian Press). — The report has been published here that Princess Anastasia some time ago arranged for King Constantine to go to the United States to live in the event of his abdication.

CANADIAN MINISTERS READY FOR EMERGENCY.

OTTAWA, September 27 (Canadian Press). — The Prime Minister has been out of the city since the beginning of the week, but he is being kept closely informed of the developments in the Near East.

With the change in the situation, the Government has been notified by confidential messages from overseas of the trend of affairs as well as through the medium of the press despatches.

These confidential messages it is understood, are being sent on to the Prime Minister immediately upon their receipt at his office, and it is expected that if the situation warrants such action, further meetings of the Cabinet Council to deal with the situation will be summoned without delay.

So far the Cabinet has not been called to meet this week, but the Ministers who are in and near the capital are setting themselves in readiness for an emergency call at any time. Practically all of the Ministers who are in Canada are within reach of Ottawa at present, and can be brought together on short notice.

THE ABDICATION OF KING CONSTANTINE CONFIRMED.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—(8.06 p.m.) —(Canadian Press).—The confirmation of King Constantine's abdication has been received by the British Foreign Office, it was announced this evening.

RODOLPH VALENTINO'S GREATEST TRIUMPH IS COMING TO CAPITOL

Rodolph Valentino's latest and greatest success, "Blood and Sand," a picturization of the Ibanez novel, will be shown at the Capitol Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. It comes direct from a sensational two weeks' run at the Regent Theatre, Toronto, and has been acclaimed by press and public wherever shown as one of the biggest productions of the season.

It would seem that June Mathis, who adapted "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" to the screen, has accomplished another triumph of adaptation with the novels of Vicente Blasco Ibanez, while Valentino repeats the success of his role in the "Four Horsemen." No role could be chosen which would suit his peculiar genius better — nothing could be found to give him better opportunity of displaying the romantic side of his personality than does that of the torreador hero of "Blood and Sand."

Beautiful Lila Lee is the leading woman and Nita Naldi, well known for her work in "Experience" and "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," plays the adventuress.

The romance of old Spain has been caught in the beautiful scenes of "Blood and Sand" and the production is one of the most expensively staged of the year. Scenes include genuine bull fights in which Valentino risks his life to perform spectacular feats.

"Blood and Sand" has made a tremendous hit in Toronto and is now playing the Strand Theatre there for a second week after concluding a two weeks' run at the Regent.

A shift of locale from 1850 to 1922 provides an interesting variation of charming gowns for Agnes Ayres in "Borderland," her new Paramount picture.

A yellow cut velvet evening gown hits the eye because of its unbelted effect and the startling use on the skirt of yellow crystal beads. Crystal beads form the head-dress, a dangle of them hanging at one side of the head for a charming and novel effect.

As a contrast, there are several gorgeous hoop-skirts of 1850, worn by Dora Becket, whose spirit returns to warn Edith Wayne of the consequences of her projected mis-step. And old rose skirt, whose hoops are about eight feet in diameter, is covered with orchid lace from skirt to modest neck. Another hoop-skirt of delft blue and bronze is decorated with worsted passementerie.

"Borderland," besides presenting an interesting sartorial contrast, is said to be an unusual dramatic novelty. The story is by Beulah Marie Dix, Paul Powell directed, with Harry Perry at the camera. Included in the cast are Milton Sills, Fred Huntley, Casson Ferguson, Bertram Grassby, Sylvia Ashton.

AT THE ROYAL.

RUSSELL A HIT IN "MEN OF ZANZIBAR.

"The Men of Zanzibar" was received with keen appreciation at the Royal Theatre last night. Richard Harding Davis, author of the story, had a style in writing love romances which is inimitable; and the thrills he put into them by way of good measure heightened by the cloak of mystery are all present in this splendid Fox film production starring William Russell. If you want a picture with action running through it like an elephant on a rampage, here it is.

Zanzibar, centre of trade for the East African coast, is the scene of the story. Men of every country, ships of all flags, frequent this Eastern port of the Dark Continent. The cast portrays each character convincingly, the direction shows a keen sense of values and proportions, the settings create an impression of realism. The story never ceases to be interesting. Some of the flashes are as sparkling as the Indian Ocean on which the protectorate faces. Its glow of romance is soft as the tropic night. Every scene radiates the atmosphere of the place that it represents. To-night will be the last chance to see this great picture.

CHAPLIN AT THE CAPITOL ...

"Pay Day" is attractive to most people in this work-a-day world, but a "Pay Day" such as Charlie Chaplin has every once in a while must be a downright joyful occasion. He is past master of the art of making people laugh, he can evoke tears, too, but he does not try to very often—and in this particular time of depression, of worries about the morrow, it is a rare treat to have the opportunity to go to a picture, sure of an evening full of laughter and genuinely good comedy. One often enters a moving picture house uncertain as to the exact nature of the attraction either because one never reads the advance notices or because they are extremely hazy anyway—but there is never any doubt about a Chaplin picture. It is funny from the first appearance of the comedian to the last fade-out. Of course, Charlie has had a good deal of experience in the line of work which he does so well, but it is a question as to whether he would have reached the position he has, were it not for the motion picture industry. He used to watch the old, decrepit London cabmen, who used to sorrowfully await their fares during the early mornings just before dawn, in teh old days when "parties" were a gentleman's privilege, and the night cabs were manned by individuals who looked as nitiful as their broken old steeds. Their sore, badly shod feet gave Charlie his first idea as to an act at the variety shows, and he soon got an engagement to display his powers of mimicry, and so his long, now famous feet had their premiere as money-making assets.

Shortly after coming to this country, with an English company playing "A Night in a London Music-Hall," Mr. Chaplin found his work sought after by the then new and growing movie picture studios. His work with Mabel Normand made him very popular, and now his name resounds throughout the world.

By Stuart P. West.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Sept. 27. — (Special.)— To-day's stock market was considerably different from the markets of preceding days this week. Prior to to-day the market had yielded only slightly to speculative pressure.

The resistance to-day was considerably poorer and the break in prices became really sharp.

To have explained the decline by the more war like tone of the morning's Constantinople despatches would have been the obvious thing to do. But actually there was still no real evidence that the troubles in the Near East were a major influence in the markets.

In the sense that they were probably one of the reasons inducing intending buyers to hold off, they helped along the professional operations for the decline in stocks and contributed to the less favorable tone of the bond market. But they still showed only very moderately in the quarters which would have been most sensitive to any genuine war scare, namely, the wheat market, the foreign exchanges and the money markets.

For the most part the downward movement in stocks was simply in the nature of a further readjustment of a speculative position that had been rather overdone.

One of the chief weak spots was the so-called independent steel shares, the stocks which were so violently exploited three and four months ago, when the various merger negotiations were the principal topics of discussion. The Street had the report that the opposition of the Federal Trade Commission might not prevent the Republic Midvale combine but that it would compel a modfication of the terms so that these would seem less attractive from a market standpoint.

But whether there was anything in this story or not, the fact was that the speculative movement today was correcting the extravagances of a previous speculation, a speculation based upon a distorted idea of what the merger advantages in the shape of lower costs would mean for the values of the constituents securities.

Another aspect of the stock market was that it was finally registering the effect of the great coal strike which it had ignored in the campaigns of the spring and summer. This subject was brought forward forcibly by the passing of the dividend on Pittsburg coal common, an action for which as was shown by the severe break in the stocks, had been wholly unanticipated. It was suggested unpleasantly by the August report of Reading, typical of the anthracite carriers, showing a decrease of $1,631,000 in gross and $1,144,000 in net income as compared with the last year.

There was, however, no apparent logic in selling railway stocks because of poor August traffic statements. In the first place the market looking as it should do, forward and not backward, must visualize the extraordinary tonnage volume in prospect for the next few months. In the second place, the August figures themselves, outside of the roads which depend heavily upon coal traffic, are so far not turning out as bad as expected. The effect of the shopmens' strike was apparent in New York Central's loss of $2,797,000 in operating income. However, the increase in gross of $1,137,000 over August, 1921, was proof of how little the labor disturbances had affected the general business of the road.

BARINGS LETTER:

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Grain.—Wheat rallied a little and I still think it should not go any lower than it was yesterday (Monday) if it is going up.

Stocks.

The stock market was again very irregular, reacting in the morning and recovering in the afternoon. I think we will have this kind of a market for the balance of the week and the resumption of the advance after this week.

General Motors was strong again and it will sell near twenty.

C.P.U. got up to 65 again and should be bought under 64.

Marine Pfd. should be bought around 57and the common near 14.

C.P.R. is a purchase around 144 and Union Pacific near 148.

AR is a purchase around 61 and Anaconda 53 to 54. CRU has reacted 11 points from the top and if you took your profits at 90 as advised at the time buy back half your original holdings around 87.

GST had a good set back and may be bought around 88, but would limit risk to about 2 points.

DSV which I said to buy under 50 sold 49 7-8 then rallied I consider it a purchase around 50. MNP does not act as if it would have much of a further set back and it might be just as well to buy a little now and more every point down. But buy it only with a good margin so that you could see it down to 180 if necessary. P.P. can be bought around 79 and should go above PAR, but a set back of two or three points is possible.

THE RAILWAYS.

NEW YORK, September 27. — B. and O. August net operating deficit $648,190, increase $3,206,605; eight months' net operating income $15,157,172; increase, $2,941,511.

New Haven RR August net operating income $625,312, increase $61,495. Eight months' net operating income $8,615,189, increase $12,202,859.

NEW YORK, September 27. — Sterling's opening showed a recession of 5-8 from previous close because of Turks' refusal to recognise neutral zone around the Straits, but this news was offset by an announcement before the opening of the stock market that an armistice conference had been arranged for Sunday.

DECLARED A DIVIDEND.

MONTREAL, September 27. — Abitibi Power and Paper Company declared a dividend of $1.00 on the common stock. Dividend was passed 23rd June, 1921. Company paid quarter dividends of $1.50 previous to that time.

American Ice Company declared a dividend of 1¾ on common and regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ on preferred, both payable 25th October stock record 6th October.

Plans for the proposed merger of the Midvale, Republic, and Inland Companies may be modified to conform with the Federal Trade Commission's view. Rumours of dissention among the officials of the companies denied from those interested in the consolidation.

BANANA SHIPPING REQUIRES A CLOSE EYE ON CALENDAR

Bananas are shipped while yet green and unripe but careful and elaborate time calculations are required in setting out the plants and cutting off the fruit in order to insure the arrival of the bananas in proper condition at their destination. When a plantation is begun the young plants are set out at certain periods so that they will produce at regular prefixed times during the year. A certain number of days before the arrival of a steamer the green fruit is cut and a close calculation of the time that will be consumed in the voyage must always be made else the bananas will be spoiled. Fruit steamers carry steam heating apparatus to insure a uniform temperature throughout the voyage. The ripening is calculated to occur only after the fruit has reached the retail dealer.

REO PHAETON A BEAUTIFUL CAR

Moore's Carage is Now Showing This Design—Five Passenger -- With Every Convenience to Be Thought Of—Built With Excellent Taste.

One of the most handsome, without fuss or frills, yet serviceable cars that has been shown in Peterboro, is the Reo Phaeton, a five-passenger car now being exhibited by Moore's garage, 191 Hunter St. Some of the conveniences and equipment is as follows:

Deep cushions, generously upholstered in curled hair and genuine Marshall springs, provide unsurpassed ease.

The top is of new design, with gray interior trimmings. Clear-vision curtains, Reo designed and made, pack flat in a special compartment behind the removable back cushion of the rear seat. A slip cover is furnished.

The coverings in high quality gray Spanish leather, are splendid examples of fine custom upholstering. The leather solid and substantially trimmed, is exceedingly durable and retains its color and finish indefinitely. Heavy carpet is fitted to the floor, front and rear.

Three-bar full nickel bumpers, front and rear, are features of the new Reo Phaeton. A Boyce Moto-Meter fully nickel plated keeps watch on the temperature of the motor. The radiator cap is of new design, made of German silver, with ball handles. The headlights, also new in design, are equipped with nickel bail. Small parking lights on either side of the cowl near the wind shield braces conserve the battery. A special combination stop-signal and parking light is carried at the rear.

Aluminum is used generously in the trimmings of the new model. Seven polished aluminum guard bars protect the rear seat back panel. Aluminum moulding fitted at back of hood where it joins the cowl prevents scratching of the body due to careless handling of the cover at filling stations. Stop plates and kick plates are of heavy solid aluminum.

The windshield, a new Reo design with integral side wings and nickel-plated frame, is good looking and insures better vision and greater protection against rain or snow. The windshield cleaner is of solid brass, nickel-finished. The radiator core is nickel-plated.

In the back of the front seat are two curtained spaces for wraps and packages; and between these two compartments is a disappearing vanity case well furnished. Near them is a tonneau light with concealed wire long enough to permit its use as an extension trouble lamp.

The steering wheel is finished in American walnut with arms also of walnut. The hub caps are ringed with a nickel-plated name plate.

To-day the car is in Lakefield, Friday it will be in Campbellford. A number of Peterboro people who are contemplating a new car for next spring are favorably interested in the model that is being shown at Moore's Garage. Mr. Moore or Mr. Brewer will be glad to give a demonstration or show the car to anyone who wishes to see it.

RESIDENTS PROTEST 9 O'CLOCK CURFEW

Harrah, Okla, Citizens Say it Wakes Them Up.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 27. — Citizens of Harrah, Okla., have made good the ancient joke about the 9 o'clock curfew waking up the townspeople. A delegation came to Oklahoma City and registered a vigorous complaint with the county attorney. They admitted to the prosecutor that interruption of their slumbers was becoming a serious matter and that the Harrahites were growing petulant.

Every night, long after the lights are turned out and the village has settled down for a good rest, the clanging of the 9 o'clock curfew sounds through the town. The citizenry is roused from its slumbers, the delegation told the county attorney, and the situation is becoming well-night unbearable.

The delegation wanted to file a complaint against the city watchman, who stays up until 9 o'clock to sound the warning bell. The county attorney was willing, but discovered that under an ordinance recently passed it was the duty of the watchman to ring the gong even if he had to stay awake until 9 o'clock.

TIME AND DRIFTWOOD

Here's another lost September that is drifting on along,
And we're all getting nearer to the goal;
Here's another vanished summer that has sung its final song,
And we're all getting nearer to the goal.
Here's another passing autumn that will whisper soon good-bye,
As the Old Doc beckons to us and the giddy seasons fly,
But we'll play the bally game out to the finish you and I,
Though we're all getting nearer to the goal.

And we're all getting nearer to the goal.
We have known another caravan of frolic and of play,
But we're all getting nearer to the goal.
As the years move fast and faster, have you ever noticed mate,
How soon the twilight gathers and the gray dusk haunts the gate?
We have barely stepped from morning, yet the day is growing late,
And we're all getting nearer to the goal.

MONTREAL STRONG FOR DRUG TRADE

Illicit Traffic Carried on to Enormous Extent

OTTAWA, Sept. 27. — (Canadian Press).—Co-operation between the municipal, Provincial and Federal police forces, the formation of special "dope" squads in larger cities and eternal vigilance are necessary to stamp out the drug traffic in Canada, according to Federal officials charged with the enforcement of the Narcotic Drug Act. Montreal is at present the worst centre of the illicit drug traffic in Canada, according to F. W. Cowan, who is chief of the branch of Health Department enforcing laws. This is due to the geographical position of the city as Canada's chief sea-port, and also to an ever-changing cosmopolitan population. But there are centres of Canada where the drug traffic is a serious menace.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT TAKES GRAVE VIEWS OF NEAR EAST CRISIS

Opinion Freely Expressed That There is Greater Prospect of Fighting Between British and Turkish Nationalists Than at any Previous Time.

OTTAWA IS ANXIOUS OVER THE SITUATION

LONDON, Sept. 28.— (Canadian Press.)— British Government circles this morning took a grave view of the situation in the Dardanelles, which was regarded as so critical as to overshadow revolutionary developments in Greece. Opinion was expressed that there was greater prospect of fighting between British and Turkish Nationalists than at any previous time.

Mustapha Kemal Evasive.

The Cabinet was convened this morning to consider a message from Brigadier General Sir Charles Harrington, commanding Allied forces in Constantinople, summarising Mustapha Kemal Pasha's reply to General Harington's warning against violation of the neutral zone along the Straits. The reply was considered to be evasive and ambiguous.

Two views may be taken of Mustapha Kemal's intentions, it is stated. One is that under cover of his cavalry he may be bringing up artillery and material ,and doing all he can to compel the British to fire the first shot. A less serious view is that he is truthful in his statement that he does not know where the neutral zone extends.

MUST STOP FORTIFYING.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 28. — (Canadian Press.)—Turkish Nationalists have modified the Allied High Command that they will not tolerate fortification of certain points in the so-called neutral zone along the Dardanelles. Continuance of work of fortification will be looked upon by Kemalists as warranting military action, their representative, Hamid Bey informed Allied Commander Brigadier-General Harrington.

ANXIETY AT OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, Sept. 28.— (Canadian Press.)—Pessimistic intimations from London that there is increased possibility of fighting with Turkey are reflected in renewed anxiety at Ottawa. The Prime Minister is kept in constant touch with the situation, and although no emergency meeting of the Cabinet has so far been called, Ministers are on hand ready to meet at any time. Little doubt is felt here that should the situation make such a course necessary, a special session of Parliament would be summoned at short notice.

GREEKS WOULD FIGHT.

OTTAWA, Sept. 28.— (Canadian Press.)—Local Greeks are anxious to join any Canadian force that might be organized for service in the Near East, it was announced last night. They are watching the situation closely and a meeting of the Greek Club of Canada will be held here in the near future to consider the question.

SAY NOTE IMPERTINENT.

NE WYORK, Sept. 28.—The British Cabinet which met this morning to consider the reply of Kemal to Sir Charles Harrington, British Commander in Chief in the Dardanelles, adjourned until four p.m. Kemal evaded questions asked in 48 hour ultimatum of the Allies, stating Turks are not officially cognizant of the existence of neutral zone. Kemal added he was as desirous of avoiding unpleasant incidents as were the Allies. It was evident, judging from interviews with high officials after the meeting that close examintion of the

REGULATIONS FOR THE FAMILY RADIO

Where to Secure Licenses for Receiving Stations

Considerable interest is aroused in Peterborough these days by radio-telegraph and its comparatively easy acquisition for private use. And there are quite a few homes here here where a radio set is installed by which its occupants pluck out of the air music, song, news —whatever is being broadcasted from stations within receiving limits, which are remarkably extensive.

There fore many resident in Peterborough will be interested in the following regulations governing radio licenses for private receiving stations published by the Dominion government in the Canadian Gazette under date September 23:

Licenses for "Private Receiving Stations" are issued to any person in Canada, irrespective of nationality.

Licenses for "Private Receiving Stations" are issued by the Department of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa, by Departmental Radio Inspectors, and by the Postmasters of the larger towns and cities in the Dominion of Canada, including Peterborough.

A license to operate radio receiving equipments under the act costs $1, and is in force from the date issued until March 31 next year.

FOUR ARRESTS WERE MADE IN COFFIN FRAUD

United States Marshals Halt Stock Promotion Scheme at Point of a Gun—Prey on Gullible

HEAVY BAIL DEMAND

CHICAGO, Sept. 28—Four leaders of the Glass Casket corporation, alleged $1,500,000 mail swindlers, were trapped yesterday in a room at 10 North Clark street. Although they have been sought in every state for the last eight months, they were boldly establishing headquarters at the Clark street address, one of the loops newest skyscrapers.

The men taken into custody by postal inspectors and United States deputy marshals are Samuel Safir, Samuel Getzier, H. A. Sedeman, and Samuel Rosenblatt, all of New York until federal warrants for their arrest were issued thre on April 22

Taken at Gun Point

Warned by New York postal inspectors that the alleged swindlers "are unlike most Wallingfords, in that they are adept at gunplay," Deputy Marshal Hal Carr led federal officers into the "corporation" offices with his gun drawn. The promoters were taken completely by surprise and were marched to the federal building without resistance.

The men were arraigned immediately before United States Commissioner Lewis F. Mason. At the request of federal authorities in New York the bond for each of the men was placed at $25,000, an unusually high amount, officials say, for an offense other than large mail robberies

The four arrested here form the major part of a ring of alleged swindlers that has realized a fortune through the sale of worthless stock in mythical coffin factories, government agents say.

Prey on Gullible

Scores of stock salesmen, each with a convincing prospectus setting forth the advantages of glass coffins and plans for revolutionizing the undertaking business, are said to have been used to follow up leads gathered through the mails among the gullible of the east and central west.

When locked up at the federal building all of the men professed innocence and asked permission to call upon "some millionaire business associates for bond." The request was granted, but the men called upon turned deaf ears, deputy marshals said. One of the arrested men produced $15,000 in Liberty bonds, but the amounts could not be increased. All said they could get unlimited funds if permitted to get in touch with associates in New York.

Fuel Controller Claims Peterboro Being Overcharged for Hard Coal

Mr. T. Tooms, M.P.P. for West Peterorough, was in Toronto yesterday, and interviewed J. A. Ellis, Fuel Controller for the Province, regarding the publication of a report in Peterborough that the price of anthracite coal at the mines would be $13.50 a ton.

Mr. Ellis informed Mr. Tooms that the price at the mines would be $8.50, and not $13.50 as stated by a member of the City Council.

Mr. Ellis further said the city must be dealing through jobbers to obtain such a high quotation, and that if any member of the City Council would report the name of the dealer quoting $13.50 at the mine, the case would be dealt with by the Fuel Controller's Department.

Mr. Tooms is interested in getting a supply of coal for Peterborough at a minimum of cost, but so far he has not received any encouragement from the local authorities.

STREET LIGHTS AGAIN RESTORED

Will Be in Full Operation This Evening—Lightning Responsible.

Peterborough citizens will be pleased to note that the Megnetite street light service is again restored. The Utilities Commission has been seriously handicapped in this service this year by lightning. About the middle of August part of one of the Arc Rectifier Tranformer wass destroyed during a storm. This particular device was wound with wire in form of of a copper ribbon and it seems very difficult to get. After receiving the proper material the Canadian General worked night and day until it was completed, and the apparatus is now being reassembled and will be in operation this evening.

RUBBISH CAUSES FIRE LAST NIGHT

The Fire Department was summoned to a fire at 579 George street at 9.58 last night by a call given through Box 42. The fire, which started underneath the stairs was extinguished after using 35 gals of chemical. The damage to the building which was a rough-cast owned by Wellington Asling and was used as a shoeshop and residence, was estimated at about $100. About $50 worth of clothing was destroyed that was hanging in the hall. The fire was caused from some old rubbish, paint tins and old oily rags that were under the stairs. The occupants of the building were fortunate that the fire did not occur during the night as the dense smoke that went up the stair-way would have cut off their way of escape.

The Fire chief once more wishes to call the attention of the people to the careless way they are throwing their old waste around. Also that Fire Prevention Week is to be held here October 2 to 9, and his advice to all is "Clean up and exercise care to avoid fires, and remind others to do the same."

Slashed Throat of a 16 Months Baby

TORONTO, Sept. 28.—(Canadian Press).—Following an alleged quarrel with her husband, Mrs. Julia Currie, 44, a Scotch woman, mother of thirteen children, slashed the throat of her sixteen-month-old baby, Pearl, at her home in North Toronto this morning, according to police information. When the police entered the house they found Mrs. Currie nursing her baby. The child was dead, and the mother was cuddling it to her bosom while blood streamed from a gash in the baby's throat. Questioned by the officers, she drew the baby more tightly to her breast, and with tears covering her face, she admitted, "I did it." She was placed under arrest, and on appearing in court was remanded.

TALK OF TOBOGGAN SLIDE AT RIVERSIDE PARK THIS WINTER

Ald. Hamilton Visions the Possibility of Council Providing For This Sport.

That this winter may see a public toboggan slide erected in Riverside Park is a vision of Ald. Hamilton's which may materialise if the cost does not prove prohibitive owing to the state of Council's finances.

Of course, it will cost money, exclaimed Ald. Hamilton at the meeting of the Board of Works last evening, when he raised this issue, "but the people have $30,000 odd invested there, and are getting none too many free privileges for that investment.

He suggested that the projected toboggan run south across the park to avoid the river.

The Board was unanimous in the idea that a toboggan should be erected somewhere for public enjoyment.

One member feared a second caretaker to the one employed last winter to supervise the open-air rink just outside the park would be needed to look after the toboggan.

Ald. Stocker could not see why one caretaker could not assume both duties. "The man at the rink last winter," he declared, "was toasting his knees the best part of the time."

Ald. Gainey pointed out that a revenue might be derived from renting toboggans, and on the motion by him and Ald. Jones, Engineer Parsons will look into this proposition, and report on cost etc.

A Doctor, A Specialist, Recommends Gallagher's Blood Purifer

The other day the Gallagher Remedy Co., Limited of this city had the following note from a representative at Trenton, Ont.

"I got a good recommend unexpectedly yesterday. I was introducing your lines near Percy Boom below Campbellford and was told that last Spring a local man was doctoring with local doctors and getting no satisfaction went to Toronto to a specialist, who told him he had Anaemia and to go home and take Gallagher's Blood Purifier, which he did with good results." 2d 28 30

WORKS BOARD PLAN FURTHER SEWER WORK

MAKE OWN PIPES

More work for the laboring man is contemplated by the City's Works Board, who last evening recommended to Council the early prosecution of two pieces of sewer construction, aggregating in cost $43,000, more or less. This work comprises re-constructing the Romaine Street sewer (on a permanent basis this time) and extending Park Street outfall main to the river. The latter proposition is work in conjunction with the new sewage disposal plant.

In connection with the foregoing, Engineer Parsons wanted to know the city's intention regarding the reconstruction of Romaine Street sewer from Aylmer to George Streets. The cost under winter conditions would be over $8,000. Steel sheeting for this work will be required, he said, but it would come in handy when excavating elsewhere under similar conditions of soil.

On motion of Ald. Gainey and Holloway, the Engineer was instructed to procure the material necessary for this work, which he is to proceed with as soon as possible.

Make Own Pipes.

Engineer Parsons also raised the question of continuing Park Street sewer from King George Street down to the river, in connection with requirements of the sewage disposal plant. Forty-two-inch piping will be needed, and the whole work will cost, it is estimated, $35,000. The Engineer asked instructions as to whether this work shall be done by day labor or by contract.

Ald. Turner was strong for inviting tenders, and moved, seconded by Ald. Phelan, that tenders be invited, the City Engineer also putting in a price. This failed to carry.

Ald. Crowe and McIntyre's motion that this sewer be laid by day labor carried, and Engineer Parsons saw no reason why it should not.

On motion of Ald. McIntyre and Turner, the Engineer was authorized to procure equipment for making 42-inch concrete sewer pipes, to be used in place of iron, for the Park Street outfall sewer. This will effect considerable saving over the use of iron pipes. The equipment will cost $200 or $300.

Several Petitions.

W. J. Byers petitioned that the city's sewer at the corner of Chamberlain Street be extended into Byersville. As it is contrary to the city's policy to furnish sewer privileges to border residents, Ald. Crowe and Turner's motion that the petition be received carried.

Max. Kerneghan's petition for a sewer on Smith Street to serve his property was granted, on motion of Ald. Turner and Morrison.

The Western Clock Co. petitioned for a concrete sidewalk running up to and alongside their new building on Armour Hill—274 feet; also for a crossing over Concession Street.

On motion of Ald. Hamilton and Crowe, this petition was granted.

Claude Rogers petitioned for a sidewalk west side of Mark Street, south of Maria Street, a distance of some 150 feet. On motion of Ald. Hamilton and Crowe, a cinder path will be laid for the present.

There were present: Chairman Ald. Walter Stocker, Mayor W. H. Taylor, Aldermen Nagel Phelan, James Hamilton, Mel. Turner, Malcolm McIntyre, Joseph Crowe, W. T. Holloway, R. Morrison, Harry Gainey, R. N. Jones.

ONLY 60 PER CENT. COAL REQUIREMENTS FOR PETERBOROUGH

Deliveries Are to Be Regulated on This Basis, Advises Provincial Fuel Commissioner J. A. Ellis—Burn Substitutes For Anthracite Till End of Year.

ALD. W. T. HOLLOWAY MAKES A STATEMENT

The public are warned officially to entertain no misapprehension regarding the hard coal situation. This fuel available is going to be but 60 per cent. of Canada's normal requirements the coming winter, declared Provincial Fuel Commissioner J. A. Ellis, in an interview with Ald. W. T. Halloway at Toronto. "No matter whence anthracite coal is derived," said the Provincial official, "such will be the distribution for the Dominion as allotted by the Fuel Commissioner of the United States."

And so, Commissioner Ellis advises Peterborough consumers, through Ald. Holloway, Council's chairman of this city's fuel commission, under all circumstances to burn whatever substitute for hard coal is available until the beginning of the New Year, whether they have anthracite in the cellar or not.

Commissioner Ellis stressed two points for the notice of Peterborough consumers. One, that the price of hard coal is fixed at all old line companies' mines in the United States, who represent 80 per cent. of that country's total output, and that price is not an inflated one. (This is why Council's Fuel Commissioner turned down an offer of 3 cars of anthracite at $13.25 at the mines, the quotation being exorbitant, states Ald. Holloway). The other point is, that the distribution of hard coal—to Canada, its communities and individual consumers—will be strictly regulated on a 60 per cent. basis, and that no profiteering will be permitted. Prices and regulations for Canada will be announced early next week.

Local Administrator.

Ald. Holloway further stated that Council intends appointing a Fuel Administrator to enforce the distribution of hard coal to consumers, under regulations laid down by Ontario's Fuel Commissioner. Only a small supply will be allowed each householder, at one time, in proportion to the quantity reaching this city; and the poor people may rely on receiving the same treatment as those more fortunately situated, in equitable proportion to the requirements of all.

Two Robbers Are Sentenced Today

SARNIA, Sept. 28—(Canadian Press).— Justice Lennox this morning sentenced Edward McMullen, self confessed Wyoming bank robber to fourteen years penal servitude, and George Anderson, found guilty of complicity to ten years. A penalty of two years for attempting to break jail was also imposed upon McMullen, both sentences to run concurrently. Both men took their sentences calmly. William Ayrs was found guilty and imprisoned for twelve years at the last assizes and John Yohn, fourth and last member of the quartet held was last night acquitted.

BETTER DRAINAGE NORTH MONAGHAN

Deputation Asks City's Permission to Deepen Culvert.

A deputation from North Monaghan Council waited upon the city's Works Board last evening with a view to securing the city's consent to deepening, by one foot, a culvert on the Monaghan Road at the head of Romaine Street.

This culvert runs beneath the C. P. R. tracks, and the deputation explained that its deepening is needed with the proposed drainage of a low-lying residential district in Byersville, the work to be done under the Ditches and Water Courses Act.

In the spring, some properties are flooded, and the work proposed would give much-needed relief from such freshets.

But this culvert is partially on the city property, and Engineer Parsons explained that its deepening would expose a sewer there, necessitating re-grading at a cost of perhaps $400.00 or $500.00.

However, the Board were willing to co-operate with the Township in this project, if possible, and on the motion of Ald. McIntyre and Crowe, City Engineer Parsons and Township Engineer Fitzgerald will look into the matter and report.

More Drainage.

Reeve Rye took the opportunity of protesting that North Monaghan should not be shouldered with the whole burden of providing adequate drainage on the Monaghan Road from the Prince of Wales School south. He assumed that the city should take care of the surface water from this school, which practically at times inundates the road, especially at the foot of the hill opposite R. Waddell's property.

This issue was sent to the two engineers—city and county—to report.

The township deputation consisted of Reeve H. B. Rye Deputy Reeve R. T. Lillico Councillors Joseph Bell John Barnes ,and Clerk Bruce Johnston.

BRITISH AND TURK ARMIES ARE HOVERING ON BRINK OF WAR

Kemalists Defiantly Refuse to Recognize Neutral Zone—London Sentiment Gravely Apprehensive — Greeks Complicate Imbroglio.

BRITISH AVOID CLASH

LONDON, Sept. 28. — (Canadian Press.)—A Greek revolution has been added to the ever-deepening Near Eastern difficulty and the Allies are now faced with a more complex situation than ever. An impromptu Cabinet meeting last night found the ministers in a very pessimistic mood, the only comforting aspect of the critical position being that no collision has as yet occurred between the British and the Turks in the Chanak zone.

In other respects the situation contains every element of danger. The Kemalists, who are on both flanks of the British line at Chanak ,apparently refuse to budge and ever decline to recognize the existence of a neutral zone.

Peace Dove Pressing.

After the Cabinet Council to-night the proposed peace conference was described as "not on the horizon at present." Yet until the conference materializes every one here realizes that the danger is extremely grave. Both British and Turks are hastening the conecntration of their forces, and the British public is apprehensive that any moment might bring about an unfortunate incident, setting the opposing forces in action.

The people are anxiously asking how the disappearance of King Constantine and the new situation in Greece will affect the question of Greek evacuation of eastern Thrace required by the Allies and insisted upon by Kemal Pasha as a preliminary to any peace conference. From the confused and conflicting accounts reaching here from Athens this is a matter of extreme uncertainty.

Problem of Thrace.

The revolution seems to have taken two different lines, one demanding the defence of Thrace, the other asking for the formation of a pro-Entente Government. It is also reported that General Papoulas, the new military governor of of Thrace, has gone to the revolutionists headquarters in the Laurium region to consult with the leaders of the coup.

Until some definite news is received an a new Greek Government is formed, it is impossible to estimate what the situation will develop. It is stated that Greece has 80,000 troops in Thrace ready to fight the Turks, and in the event of a revolutionary government coming into power, with a determination to defend the Provinces, the question arises who will undertake to enforce Greek evacuation to satisfy Kemalist demands.

Prohibit Greek Fleet.

That the British Government is adhering to its policy of returning Eastern Thrace to the Turks is demonstrated by the fact that Greek transports have been forbidden to use the Straits from yesterday. It was supposed that the Greeks themselves had withdrawn the cruiser Averoff in response to the Allied requests, but a late despatch reports that the crew of the Averoff mutinied and sailed for Constantinople without their commander.

The Associated Press correspondent at Constantinople learns that the Kemalists are willing to accept the principle of neutrality of the Straits pending the armistice conference, which General Harrington proposed should be held at Mudania or Ismid. Apparently, therefore, Kemal Pasha is ready to participate in such a conference, and this implies that the position is much eased.

Harrington is Prudent.

Gen. Harrington continues to act with the utmost prudence and moderation. He prevented an imminent collision of the opposing forces in the Chanak area by a wireless order to Gen. Shuttleworth to suspend an attack, and ,according to information here, the Government here has given him complete freedom of discretion regarding a time limit, and clearly does not desire to press matters.

M. Franklin-Bouillon, the French envoy, is expected to reach Smyrna this morning and it is believed that until he has seen Kemal Pasha there will be no military movement of importance. Unofficial reports assert that Kemal will declare the Allied conditions for a peace conference unacceptable and insist upon the use of the Straits for the transfer of his troops to Thrace before consenting to enter such a conference.

Both British and Turks are concentrating large forces on the Ismid and Chanak lines. The British fleet on the spot now consists of six dreadnoughts, seven battle cruisers and twenty destroyers, while the land forces, which are continually being increased, already amount to 30,000 men.

MOVING REFUGEES FROM ASIA MINOR.

British Have Chartered Ships But Experience Great Difficulties.

LONDON, September 28. Canadian Press. — Premier Lloyd George motored from Chequers Court this evening to preside over a hurriedly convened meeting of the Cabinet Ministers to discuss events in the Near East. After sitting for an hour and a half the Council adjourned until 11 o'clock this morning.

The absence of any reply from Kemal Pasha, either concerning the peace conference or the withdrawal of the Turks from the Chanak tone, made it impossible to arrive at any definite decision and the general feeling of the ministers cannot be considered optimistic. After the meeting it was understood that previous instructions to General Harrington, Commander-in-Chief of the forces at Constantinople. were reiterated, and according to the official view Kemal Pasha does not seem to realize that strong resistance will be made in the event of any Kemalist attack, and that the British strength in this quarter is rapidly increasing.

The latest government advices are that there has been no contact between the opposing forces in the Chanak region.

RANEY ATTACKS CANADIAN SENATE

Race Track Gambling and Liquor Laws Dealt With in Address.

TORONTO, September 28. — Canadian Press. — Charging that the Canadian Senate had been instrumental in making legal the monopoly of race course gambling, Hon. W. E. Raney, Attorney General of Ontario, last night told the general conference of the Methodist church that the action of the Upper House of Canada's parliament was the most scandalous episode in the history of law making in this country.

"If the Senate of Canada," he added, "continues as it has often done in the past to block the path of reform it will be for the people to consider whether it is expected that this country should much longer continue to have irresponsible government."

Hon Mr. Raney outlined the legislative history of the prohibition laws in Ontario and claimed that there were no grounds on which the government could reasonably submit to the people the question of permitting the sale of light wines and beer, which had been asked for by certain sections of the province. This aspect of the liquor question he declared had been settled when the question was answered and settled in 1919.

RECOGNIZE TEMPORARILY THE NEUTRALITY OF THE STRAITS

Belated Declaration By Kemalists Pending Negotiations Averts War — British General Urges Early Meeting.

Conciliatory Message.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 28.—(Canadian Press.)—Possible war between Great Britain and Turkey was at least temporarily averted yesterday afternoon by an eleventh hour declaration of the Kemalists that they would respect the neutrality of the Straits pending an armistice conference.

The declaration relieves the situation, which even the British had admitted was critical.

In a message to Kemal Pasha at Smyrna, General Harrington urged an early meeting of the British and Kemalist generals at Mudania or Ismid as the most effective way of reaching an amicable understanding in the present difficult situation created by the Kemalist advance in the Dardanelles.

The message, which was not conciliatory in tone, declared it would be a pity at the present juncture to allow local occupations on the Straits to jeopardize peace.

Prior to announcement that the Kemalists would respect the neutrality of the Straits, Hamid Bey, the Angora representative, said to the correspondent:

"The Kemalists naturally will come across the so-called neutral zones, but they have not the slightest intention of firing upon the British occupying those zones. If, however, the British move against us, we will be forced to reply."

CONDEMNS APPEAL TO THE COLONIES

London Periodical Says It Was Unconstitutional and Ridiculous.

(Canadian Press Cable.)

LONDON, September 28. — "Anything more unconstitutional and ridiculous than the wild telegrams despatched to the Colonies asking for volunteers, cannot be imagined," declares this week's Truth. "With the exception of New Zealand, which seems pretty pugnacious, and nobly anxious to land again in Gallipoli, all the Colonies are asking very naturally what all the pother is about," Truth continues. "It is a difficult question to answer."

Truth also publishes the following from a correspondent, who, it says, might know something about the sentiment in the Colonies:

"Surely it is time we realized that 'Help the Mother Country,' is played out in the dominions. Everyone knows that Great Britain is not the Mother Country for either the French-Canadian or the South African Dutchman, nor for the matter of that is it the homeland of a majority of the present generation of British origin inhabiting Canada and Australia. They are first and foremost Canadians and Australians, taking their nationality from the land of their birth. Only as such are they likely to redeem the pledge under which their signatures to the treaty of Sevres ties them to the responsibilities entailed thereby.

"It is not a question of helping the mother country at all, and the sooner this is recognized the better for all concerned. If they find the appeal of Saturday week was only crying wolf the consequences will be far reaching."

North winds will soon go scuth for the winter.

Street Crowd Calls For Venizelos and Republic While Officers Declare Loyalty to the House of Constantine.

REVOLUTION SWIFT.

ATHENS, Sept. 28. — (Canadian Press.)— Crown Prince George will take the oath as king this afternoon at the palace before the members of the retiring Cabinet.

VENIZELOS SILENT.

DEAUVILLE, France, Sept. 28.—(Canadian Press.)— Former Premier Venizelos, of Greece, first heard the news of King Constantine's abdication from a despatch showed him by the Associated Press correspondent last evening. He resolutely refused to make any comment on it.

CONSTANTINE BOWS TO VOICE OF PEOPLE

ATHENS, Sept. 28. — (Canadian Press.)—King Constantine, bowing to the will of the army and navy, has abdicated, and Crown Prince George, who married Princess Elizabeth of Rumania, becomes King of Greece.

"Until the people say they want me no more, I shall hold my throne," the King declared to the Associated Press correspondent Tuesday night. He accepts this swift revolution as the voice of the people.

The revolutionary army is marching on Athens, and will reach the capital to-night. Three hundred army officers visited the King and urged the formation of a military cabinet. They were ready, they said, to put themselves at the head of the people to combat the revolutionists, maintain order, and defend the King.

A street demonstration by prominent citizens acclaimed Venizelos and a republic. There was some rioting and former Minister of Agriculture Sideris was wounded.

Constantine twice occupied the throne of Greece. His first regin began March 18, 1913, with the assassination of his father, George I., and continued until June, 1919, when he was forced by the demands of Great Britain, France and Russia, to abdicate because of his pro-German sympathies. He was succeded by his second son, Alexander, who was nominated by the deposed Monrach, and who had promised to carry out Constantine's policies, despite Allied demands to the contrary. For three stormy years, Alexander reigned in name only. Then his tragic death in 1920, due to the bite of a pet monkey, again turned the spotlight on Constantine, who had spent the intervening years in exile with his large family.

A plebiscite had shown that the Greek nation was insistent upon the return of Constantine to the throne, and while the Allied Governments continue to exert every pressure at their command to prevent his re-ascension, the former king marched triumphantly into Athens and was crowned in December, 1920, amid scenes of the wildest enthusiasm.

LINDSAY'S PRIZE.

Great preparations are being made in Lindsay for the Provincial ploughing matches, and the problem of accommodating the visitors is causing considerable trouble. It is expected that the attendance will reach as high as fifty thousand people, and that at least two thousand will remain in Lindsay over night.

Peterborough lost a rich prize when the ploughing matches, through want of a united effort, were allowed to slip away.

This city was the logical place for the big event when an Eastern Ontario centre was being selected.

It would have been a much simple matter for Peterborough to have secured the necessary accommodation than it is to find room in Lindsay for so many visitors, and it is unfortunate that the desirability of making a strong bid for the Provincial competitions did not impress itselsf upon the local authorities.

The thousands of visitors who will attend the ploughing matches will spend a lot of money in Lindsay, and the impetus to business that will follow will have a beneficial effect upon the whole community.

UNEMPLOYMENT.

The Hamilton Spectator declares that it is premature for civic officials to talk about less civic relief being given this winter, for it is tolerably certain that there will not be any material decrease in the number of applicants. The city's generosity has caused the situation to become chronic.

Undoubtedly there is much truth in our contemporary's statement.

The doles system of the past couple of years has left deep grained effects upon many people. They have learned to eat their bread without earning it, and a lesson of that kind, once learned, is difficult to get rid of again.

Peterborough is not without its share of those who have been demoralized by unemployment doles, and doubtless this winter will face the same old problem.

What is to be done about it? What policy is to be adopted during the cold weather when there is certain to be at least the usual amount of season unemployment and perhaps a repetition of last winter's conditions.

The Unemployment Committee of the City Council has a big task upon its hands in endeavoring to find a solution for this vexed question.

SHOULD GET TOGETHER.

If the Provincial Fuel Controller is to be of value to the people of Ontario, it is the duty of the municipalities to take full advantage of his services in consulting him as often as possible in regard to fuel matters.

The local Fuel Commission have been offered coal at $13.50 at the mines, in the face of the announcement that the United States authorities have fixed the price at the mines at $8.50 a ton. The offer was rejected and the matter should be referred to the Provincial Controller for investigation.

That official has been appointed to protect the interests of the people of Ontario in the present emergency. There does not seem any reason why $5 a ton more than the fixed price at the mines should be asked, and the Provincial Controller is the man to investigate such conditions. He is there for just such work, and unless his department is given a chance to function, the value of his services will be completely lost.

The best efforts of Provincial and municipal authorities will be necessary to ensure not only fair prices but a fair distribution of coal this winter, and there should be the closest and most harmonious working relation between Mr. Ellis and the municipal authorities.

THE HIGH TARIFF IN EFFECT.

With the signing of the long-debated, new high tariff bill by President Harding, the United States amended tariff rates have gone into effect, and there now exists between Canada and the country to the south a tariff wall which is higher than any which had ever been contemplated prior to the election of the present Republican regime. The bill, which was at first promised an easy passage through congress, was passed only after a hard fight in both the Senate and the House of Representatives, and after much amendment. The opposition came from both political parties, and although the measure was passed finally, in its amended form, it is by no means a popular one.

The passing of this tariff bill is a direct blow at trade between the United States and Canada. Not only does it impose tariff rates which are prohibitive, but it aims them directly at agricultural products, which, in the past, have formed a very large part of Canada's exports to the United States. In one way, this will be a heavy blow to the farmers of the Canadian west, who have heretofore been able to compete in the United States markets on a basis of equality in price, but with an advantage in the quality of their products. This condition no longer exists, for the tariff is so high that, at the present price of wheat, it gives the United States farmer an advantage of from twenty-five to thirty per cent. in price. There can only be one remedy for this from the Canadian point of view. New markets must be found for the surplus of the grain crop. The United States cannot hope to have wheat for export without the Canadian supply, and the loss of the foreign market to the United States gives Canadian farmers an opportunity to seize these markets and hold them. Canada will not altogether be a loser by the new tariff, for in securing new markets for wheat and the other products affected by it, there will be opportunities for further trade expansion which should be for the ultimate benefit of the country.

In the new tariff rates the people of the United States are liable to find a two-edged sword which will cut both ways. No country can live to itself in an economic sense; and by raising a wall of prohibitive tariffs that is exactly what our neighbor is trying to do. It is trying to give its home industries a monopoly in its own markets and a measure of protection far in excess of what they need. It means that the United States' producers can increase their prices by substantial percentages and still undersell their foreign competitors. Once again the consuming public will have to pay, for it is an accepted economic truism that every tariff is ultimately paid by the consuming public. The people of the United States are not likely to submit meekly to this increase in living costs imposed upon them by their own Government, but when they elected the Republicans in 1920 they knew that they were electing the party of high tariffs and the big financial and industrial interests, and so they have only themselves to blame. In the final analysis, the United States will lose more by the high tariff than it will gain, and its effect on Canada will not be so serious as was anticipated when the measure was first introduced.—Kingston Whig.

A WESTERN VIEW.

There are excitable persons in this community and throughout Canada who are trying desperately to envisage events in Europe and the Near East in the likeness of 1914. They try to imagine the British people menaced by the world rising as one man in defence of civilization and freedom and summoning all the kindred peoples to the standard flying on the field of Armageddon.

There is of course not the remotest resemblance between the events of 1914 and the relatively unimportant occurrences in the Near East to-day. The present difficulty is a regional one, not the outcome of any planned menace to the world's safety, but the result of the mishandling of a delicate situation. In its present shape it is a matter of European concern. It is possible, though highly improbable, that if there is more bungling, it may have consequences so serious as to bring this country within the orbit of the disturbance. The Canadian Parliament can alone decide, if that time comes, what it is proper that this country should do.

The best remedy for those over-stimulated imaginations would be a little judicious reading of the cable despatches from London. Whatever their origin they are in virtual agreement that the British people have refused to be unduly excited by the sabre-rattling of the semi-official announcement given out to the press last Saturday. There is also agreement that there has been a considerable modification by the Government of its policies in the face of the critical attitude of the public.

The British Government could undoubtedly carry with it the British people in a determination to keep the Kemalist army from crossing into Europe pending a peace conference. But it has ample means at its disposal to accomplish this. The Kemalist army does not possess even a row boat; and how it could cross either the Dardanelles or the Bosphorus with powerful British warships patrolling these waters does not appear. The defence of the neutral zone along the Asiatic shore, in view of the refusal of the French and the Italians to co-operate, to the extent of engaging in war with the Kemalists is a policy which obviously is not commanding a complete measure of popular backing; and if, by adhering to it there is a clash with resulting war between the Turks and the British there will be no lack of critics, in Great Britain, of the policy responsible for the bloodshed.

The British Government has, however, determined to take upon its shoulders the task of holding the south shore of the Dardanelles and the south shore of the Bosphorus. This being its policy discretion should suggest to Kemal Pasha the wisdom of being content with the great advantages he has already gained. A conflict with the British, even though it resulted in ejecting them from the southern side of the Straits, would give Kemal no additional leverage at the impending peace conference. It is not unreasonable to suppose that France has advised Kemal against so foolish a course as an assault upon the British; and if she has assurances to this end her ostentatious retirement from the southern shore resolves itself into a gesture intended to impress the Mohammedan world to the detriment of Great Britain. France throughout has played a careful, calculated, clever game of making herself solid with her Moslem subjects, regardless of all other considerations.

Our pre-war enthusiasts also appear to think that they are beink asked to take part in a Holy War to keep the Turk out of Europe. It might be of advantage to them if they were to consider for a moment some of the modifications to the treaty of Sevres agreed upon jointly by Great Britain, France and Italy at a conference held in Paris last March. These modifications were never put into effect because neither the Greeks nor the Nationalist Turks were willing to accept them; but they represent a minimum of concessions that the Great Powers will agree to without question at the forthcoming conference. By the Paris agreement the Turks were to be restored to the full sovereignty of Constantinople. Moreover, while the neutrality of the Straits was to be safeguarded by agreement allied military occupation was to be restricted to the European side of the Dardanelles; that is to say, the neutral zone on the south of the Dardanelles and both sides of the Bosphorus were to be protected by moral, not military, provisions. Further, the boundary line of Turkey in Europe was to be moved north and west. The new boundary was to run from Ganos on the Sea of Marmora through Kirk Kilisse to the Bulgarian boundary, thus transferring a large part of Eastern Thrace from Greece back to Turkey.

We thus see that Great Britain is committed by engagements made last March to withdrawing the allied military forces from the Asiatic side of the waterways, and to turning Constantinople and a large section of Thrace over to the Turks. These being the facts the criticism of the British manifesto, sent broadcast throughout the world, together with the sensational appeal to the Dominions to pledge their participation as going far beyond the requirements of the case would appear to be pretty solidly based. The one point upon which Great Britain would be amply justified in sticking was a refusal to permit the Kemalist army—which is not under the control of the recognized Turkish Government holding office in Constantinople — to cross into Europe in advance of the meeting of the conference of the Powers interested in a settlement of th Near East difficulty. She had available in her navy ample power to give effect to her wishes in this regard. There was no apparent reason to fear that the neutralization of the Straits was in danger from an abandonment of their desire for such neutralization by the other European Powers concerned. On the contrary they have declared their adherence to the policy of a free waterway from the Aegean to the Black Sea. — Manitoba Free Press Evening Bulletin.

THE MYSTERY MIND

She led the way to the little wooden door in the wall leading to the Mews. Opening it, she stepped through. At that he put out a hand, taking her arm and stopping her.

"Excuse me," he apologized, "but it is very dangerous for you to go out alone at this time of night. Does Mr. Dupont know——"

"Of course Robert knows," she interrupted. Though she spoke quickly and decisively, there was yet a strange listlessness, an unaccountable far-away quality in her voice. Too, her enunciation was even, again subtly suggesting the automaton. "Robert knows and approves of everything I do," she stated, evenly.

Joe was suspicious. He was unable to explain the feeling that something was wrong. There was nothing tangible about the girl to warrant his interference; nothing out of the way in her attire that he could see, nor in her manner; yet—

"It's—it's two o'clock in the morning, he stammered. "Certainly you can wait until daytime, of ir it's anything of vital importance we can wake one of the other men and send him——"

This time she did not answer.

He studied her face, revealed clearly in the light of the arc at Fifth Avenue. The only thing strange about her was that she never quite met his eyes, nor did her own glance remain fixed upon any one object more than an instant. There was the elusive suggestion of the drug addict in her expression, however impossible the hypothesis.

Suddenly she started away again. Joe acted according to his sense of duty. He seized her, almost roughly, to drag her back into the yard. As he did so she whirled about with lightning speed. Her hands went to his throat, pressing in upon the veins with the strength of a maniac. Joe remembered, until he lost consciousness, that she was the woman he was employed to protect. He made no attack upon her to try to break her hold. His last recollection was of her features. In her face there had not been the slightest flicker of change of expression.

As the guard dropped to the ground, unconscious, Violet stooped to pick up the portrait, which she had dropped. Tucking it under her arm once more, she walked out into the Mews, then stood uncertain and hesitating.

From his place or concealment, Case, the hunchback, stepped forward to meet her. She smiled. With a certain little air of graciousness she handed him the roll of canvas.

"Thank you, lady," he muttered in a low voice. He bowed slightly, and as he did so, the characteristic wink distorted the flabby flesh about his eyes.

Violet waited impassively.

"Oh, yes" The hunchback fumbled in his clothes. "Here it is," he wheezed, giving her a small package in return.

She tore off the paper, revealing a small bottle and a tiny sponge. Smiling again, she turned and left the little man, paying no further attention to him. He hurried off in the direction of University Place, the portrait safely grasped in a pudgy hand. She re-entered the little door to her aunt's back yard, closing it carefully behind her.

First she stopped to see that the detective was still unconscious. The she entered the kitchen, and in the pantry turned on the lights. Here several drawers contained silver. After some changes of mind she selected a small carving knife with a bright sharp edge and point. Fingering the switch, she plunged the little service hall once more in darkness.

Upstairs, she entered the room where Dupont slept, with the two guards off duty. Placing the knife on a table by the man she loved, she took the tiny bottle in one hand, the diminutive sponge in the other, and approached the first of the detectives, the one who snored.

But suddenly and for the very first time there came a genuine change of expression in her features. As if checked by an invisible hand, she stood stock-still in the middle of the chamber. The struggle, hardly to be seen in the impenetrable gloom, was revealed by a twitching of her sensitive mouth, by a narrowing and a widening of the pupils of her eyes. It was as if she were asleep and her spirit was clamoring for admission to her body, left for the night without its guide.

A trembling seized her. Inarticulate sounds died in her throat, without utterance. Then the moment passed. She became placid as before, deep again in the strange, unaccountable mood to which she had awakened.

She regrasped the bottle in one hand, the sponge in the other. Hurrying to the side of the snoring guard, she saturated the sponge with the contents of the bottle and held it beneath his nose until his breathing died off to the faintest flutter.

Stealing to the second guard, she chloroformed him in similar fashion. Afterward she tossed both bottle and sponge out the open window, listening until she heard the crash of glass in the area below.

For several moments she stood silent. Next she walked slowly to the side of Dupont. Groping about the surface of the little table, she found and clasped the carving knife. With her other hand she felt on the bedclothes until she located his exact position. Standing close to him, she raised the knife. Making sure she was placed correctly for the stab, she started her arm on the downward strike.

Before she could drive the blade home, the invisible influence once more checked her. Again, there was the twitching of her lips, the dilation and contraction of her eyes. Again she trembled, again inarticulate sounds in vain tried to break past the bound cords of her throat.

Once more the struggle ended without result. She became placid and purposeful, as she had been. With her left hand she fumbled about the sleeping figure of Dupont to locate the place she wished to strike. This time she pulled the covering back to his waist, smoothed the folds of his pyjamas over his heart. Then she raised her right arm, the knife firmly grasped, muscles tensed; death poised, vibrant, over its victim.

(b) Ten year bonds, dated 1st November, 1922, to mature 1st November, 1932.

While the maturing bonds will carry interest to 1st December, 1922, the new bonds will commence to earn interest from 1st November, 1922, GIVING A BONUS OF A FULL MONTH'S INTEREST TO THOSE AVAILING THEMSELVES OF THE CONVERSION PRIVILEGE.

This offer is made to holders of the maturing bonds and is not open to other investors. The bonds to be issued under this proposal will be substantially of the same character as those which are maturing, except that the exemption from taxation does not apply to the new issue.

Holders of the maturing bonds who wish to avail themselves of this conversion privilege should take their bonds AS EARLY AS POSSIBLE, BUT NOT LATER THAN SEPTEMBER 30th, to a Branch of any Chartered Bank in Canada and receive in exchange an official receipt for the bonds surrendered, containing an undertaking to deliver the corresponding bonds of the new issue.

Holders of maturing fully registered bonds, interest payable by cheque from Ottawa, will receive their December 1 interest cheque as usual. Holders of coupon bonds will detach and retain the last unmatured coupon before surrendering the bond itself for conversion purposes.

The surrendered bonds will be forwarded by banks to the Minister of Finance at Ottawa, where they will be exchanged for bonds of the new issue, in fully registered, or coupon registered or coupon bearer form carrying interest payable 1st May and 1st November of each year of the duration of the loan, the first interest payment accruing and payable 1st May, 1923. Bonds of the new issue will be sent to the banks for delivery immediately after the receipt of the surrendered bonds.

The bonds of the maturing issue which are not converted under this proposal will be paid off in cash on the 1st December, 1922.

LINDSAY'S PRIZE.

Great preparations are being made in Lindsay for the Provincial ploughing matches, and the problem of accommodating the visitors is causing considerable trouble. It is expected that the attendance will reach as high as fifty thousand people, and that at least two thousand will remain in Lindsay over night.

Peterborough lost a rich prize when the ploughing matches, through want of a united effort, were allowed to slip away.

This city was the logical place for the big event when an Eastern Ontario centre was being selected.

It would have been a much simple matter for Peterborough to have secured the necessary accommodation than it is to find room in Lindsay for so many visitors, and it is unfortunate that the desirability of making a strong bid for the Provincial competitions did not impress itselsf upon the local authorities.

The thousands of visitors who will attend the ploughing matches will spend a lot of money in Lindsay, and the impetus to business that will follow will have a beneficial effect upon the whole community.

UNEMPLOYMENT.

The Hamilton Spectator declares that it is premature for civic officials to talk about less civic relief being given this winter, for it is tolerably certain that there will not be any material decrease in the number of applicants. The city's generosity has caused the situation to become chronic.

Undoubtedly there is much truth in our contemporary's statement.

The doles system of the past couple of years has left deep grained effects upon many people. They have learned to eat their bread without earning it, and a lesson of that kind, once learned, is difficult to get rid of again.

Peterborough is not without its share of those who have been demoralized by unemployment doles, and doubtless this winter will face the same old problem.

What is to be done about it? What pulicy is to be adopted during the cold weather when there is certain to be at least the usual amount of season unemployment and perhaps a repetition of last winter's conditions.

The Unemployment Committee of the City Council has a big task upon its hands in endeavoring to find a solution for this vexed question.

SHOULD GET TOGETHER.

If the Provincial Fuel Controller is to be of value to the people of Ontario, it is the duty of the municipalities to take full advantage of his services in consulting him as often as possible in regard to fuel matters.

The local Fuel Commission have been offered coal at $13.50 at the mines, in the face of the announcement that the United States authorities have fixed the price at the mines at $8.50 a ton. The offer was rejected and the matter should be referred to the Provincial Controller for investigation.

That official has been appointed to protect the interests of the people of Ontario in the present emergency. There does not seem any reason why $5 a ton more than the fixed price at the mines should be asked, and the Provincial Controller is the man to investigate such conditions. He is there for just such work, and unless his department is given a chance to function, the value of his services will be completely lost.

The best efforts of Provincial and municipal authorities will be necessary to ensure not only fair prices but a fair distribution of coal this winter, and there should be the closest and most harmonious working relation between Mr. Ellis and the municipal authorities.

THE HIGH TARIFF IN EFFECT.

With the signing of the long-debated, new high tariff bill by President Harding, the United States amended tariff rates have gone into effect, and there now exists between Canada and the country to the south a tariff wall which is higher than any which had ever been contemplated prior to the election of the present Republican regime. The bill, which was at first promised an easy passage through congress, was passed only after a hard fight in both the Senate and the House of Representatives, and after much amendment. The opposition came from both political parties, and although the measure was passed finally, in its amended form, it is by no means a popular one.

The passing of this tariff bill is a direct blow at trade between the United States and Canada. Not only does it impose tariff rates which are prohibitive, but it aims them directly at agricultural products, which, in the past, have formed a very large part of Canada's exports to the United States. In one way, this will be a heavy blow to the farmers of the Canadian west, who have heretofore been able to compete in the United States markets on a basis of equality in price, but with an advantage in the quality of their products. This condition no longer exists, for the tariff is so high that, at the present price of wheat, it gives the United States farmer an advantage of from twenty-five to thirty per cent. in price. There can only be one remedy for this from the Canadian point of view. New markets must be found for the surplus of the grain crop. The United States cannot hope to have wheat for export without the Canadian supply, and the loss of the foreign market to the United States gives Canadian farmers an opportunity to seize these markets and hold them. Canada will not altogether be a loser by the new tariff, for in securing new markets for wheat and the other products affected by it, there will be opportunities for further trade expansion which should be for the ultimate benefit of the country.

In the new tariff rates the people of the United States are liable to find a two-edged sword which will cut both ways. No country can live to itself in an economic sense; and by raising a wall of prohibitive tariffs that is exactly what our neighbor is trying to do. It is trying to give its home industries a monopoly in its own markets and a measure of protection far in excess of what they need. It means that the United States' producers can increase their prices by substantial percentages and still undersell their foreign competitors. Once again the consuming public will have to pay, for it is an accepted economic truism that every tariff is ultimately paid by the consuming public. The people of the United States are not likely to submit meekly to this increase in living costs imposed upon them by their own Government, but when they elected the Republicans in 1920 they knew that they were electing the party of high tariffs and the big financial and industrial interests, and so they have only themselves to blame. In the final analysis, the United States will lose more by the high tariff than it will gain, and its effect on Canada will not be so serious as was anticipated when the measure was first introduced.—Kingston Whig.

A WESTERN VIEW.

There are excitable persons in this community and throughout Canada who are trying desperately to envisage events in Europe and the Near East in the likeness of 1914. They try to imagine the British people menaced by the world rising as one man in defence of civilization and freedom and summoning all the kindred peoples to the standard flying on the field of Armageddon.

There is of course not the remotest resemblance between the events of 1914 and the relatively unimportant occurrences in the Near East to-day. The present difficulty is a regional one, not the outcome of any planned menace to the world's safety, but the result of the mishandling of a delicate situation. In its present shape it is a matter of European concern. It is possible, though highly improbable, that if there is more bungling, it may have consequences so serious as to bring this country within the orbit of the disturbance. The Canadian Parliament can alone decide, if that time comes, what it is proper that this country should do.

The best remedy for these over-stimulated imaginations would be a little judicious reading of the cable despatches from London. Whatever their origin they are in virtual agreement that the British people have refused to be unduly excited by the sabre-rattling of the semi-official announcement given out to the press last Saturday. There is also agreement that there has been a considerable modification by the Government of its policies in the face of the critical attitude of the public.

The British Government could undoubtedly carry with it the British people in a determination to keep the Kemalist army from crossing into Europe pending a peace conference. But it has ample means at its disposal to accomplish this. The Kemalist army does not possess even a row boat; and how it could cross either the Dardanelles or the Bosphorus with powerful British warships patrolling these waters does not appear. The defence of the neutral zone along the Asiatic shore, in view of the refusal of the French and the Italians to co-operate, to the extent of engaging in war with the Kemalists is a policy which obviously is not commanding a complete measure of popular backing; and if, by adhering to it there is a clash with resulting war between the Turks and the British there will be no lack of critics, in Great Britain, of the policy responsible for the bloodshed.

The British Government has, however, determined to take upon its shoulders the task of holding the south shore of the Dardanelles and the south shore of the Bosphorus. This being its policy discretion should suggest to Kemal Pasha the wisdom of being content with the great advantages he has already gained. A conflict with the British, even though it resulted in ejecting them from the southern side of the Straits, would give Kemal no additional leverage at the impending peace conference. It is not unreasonable to suppose that France has advised Kemal against so foolish a course as an assault upon the British; and if she has assurances to this end her ostentatious retirement from the southern shore resolves itself into a gesture intended to impress the Mohammedan world to the detriment of Great Britain. France throughout has played a careful, calculated, clever game of making herself solid with her Moslem subjects, regardless of all other considerations.

Our pre-war enthusiasts also appear to think that they are beink asked to take part in a Holy War to keep the Turk out of Europe. It might be of advantage to them if they were to consider for a moment some of the modifications to the treaty of Sevres agreed upon jointly by Great Britain, France and Italy at a conference held in Paris last March. These modifications were never put into effect because neither the Greeks nor the Nationalist Turks were willing to accept them; but they represent a minimum of concessions that the Great Powers will agree to without question at the forthcoming conference. By the Paris agreement the Turks were to be restored to the full sovereignty of Constantinople. Moreover, while the neutrality of the Straits was to be safeguarded by agreement allied military occupation was to be restricted to the European side of the Dardanelles; that is to say, the neutral zone on the south of the Dardanelles and both sides of the Bosphorus were to be protected by moral, not military, provisions. Further, the boundary line of Turkey in Europe was to be moved north and west. The new boundary was to run from Ganos on the Sea of Marmora through Kirk Kilisse to the Bulgarian boundary, thus transferring a large part of Eastern Thrace from Greece back to Turkey.

We thus see that Great Britain is committed by engagements made last March to withdrawing the allied military forces from the Asiatic side of the waterways, and to turning Constantinople and a large section of Thrace over to the Turks. These being the facts the criticism of the British manifesto, sent broadcast throughout the world, together with the sensational appeal to the Dominions to pledge their participation as going far beyond the requirements of the case would appear to be pretty solidly based. The one point upon which Great Britain would be amply justified in sticking was a refusal to permit the Kemalist army—which is not under the control of the recognized Turkish Government holding office in Constantinople — to cross into Europe in advance of the meeting of the conference of the Powers interested in a settlement of th Near East difficulty. She had available in her navy ample power to give effect to her wishes in this regard. There was no apparent reason to fear that the neutralization of the Straits was in danger from an abandonment of their desire for such neutralization by the other European Powers concerned. On the contrary they have declared their adherence to the policy of a free waterway from the Aegean to the Black Sea. — Manitoba Free Press Evening Bulletin.

THE MYSTERY MIND

She led the way to the little wooden door in the wall leading to the Mews. Opening it, she stepped through. At that he put out a hand, taking her arm and stopping her.

"Excuse me," he apologized, "but it is very dangerous for you to go out alone at this time of night. Does Mr. Dupont know——"

"Of course Robert knows," she interrupted. Though she spoke quickly and decisively, there was yet a strange listlessness, an unaccountable far-away quality in her voice. Too, her enunciation was even, again subtly suggesting the automaton. "Robert knows and approves of everything I do," she stated, evenly.

Joe was suspicious. He was unable to explain the feeling that something was wrong. There was nothing tangible about the girl to warrant his interference; nothing out of the way in her attire that he could see, nor in her manner; yet—

"It's—it's two o'clock in the morning, he stammered. "Certainly you can wait until daytime, of ir it's anything of vital importance we can wake one of the other men and send him——"

This time she did not answer.

He studied her face, revealed clearly in the light of the arc at Fifth Avenue. The only thing strange about her was that she never quite met his eyes, nor did her own glance remain fixed upon any one object more than an instant. There was the elusive suggestion of the drug addict in her expression, however impossible the hypothesis.

Suddenly she started away again. Joe acted according to his sense of duty. He seized her, almost roughly, to drag her back into the yard. As he did so she whirled about with lightning speed. Her hands went to his throat, pressing in upon the veins with the strength of a maniac. Joe remembered, until he lost consciousness, that she was the woman he was employed to protect. He made no attack upon her to try to break her hold. His last recollection was of her features. In her face there had not been the slightest flicker of change of expression.

As the guard dropped to the ground, unconscious, Violet stooped to pick up the portrait, which she had dropped. Tucking it under her arm once more, she walked out into the Mews, then stood uncertain and hesitating.

From his place of concealment, Case, the hunchback, stepped forward to meet her. She smiled. With a certain little air of graciousness she handed him the roll of canvas.

"Thank you, lady," he muttered in a low voice. He bowed slightly, and as he did so, the characteristic wink distorted the flabby flesh about his eyes.

Violet waited impassively.

"Oh, yes." The hunchback fumbled in his clothes. "Here it is," he wheezed, giving her a small package in return.

She tore off the paper, revealing a small bottle and a tiny sponge. Smiling again, she turned and left the little man, paying no further attention to him. He hurried off in the direction of University Place, the portrait safely grasped in a pudgy hand. She re-entered the little door to her aunt's back yard, closing it carefully behind her.

First she stopped to see that the detective was still unconscious. The she entered the kitchen, and in the pantry turned on the lights. Here several drawers contained silver. After some changes of mind she selected a small carving knife with a bright sharp edge and point. Fingering the switch, she plunged the little service hall once more in darkness.

Upstairs, she entered the room where Dupont slept, with the two guards off duty. Placing the knife on a table by the man she loved, she took the tiny bottle in one hand, the diminutive sponge in the other, and approached the first of the detectives, the one who snored.

But suddenly and for the very first time there came a genuine change of expression in her features. As if checked by an invisible hand, she stood stock-still in the middle of the chamber. The struggle, hardly to be seen in the impenetrable gloom, was revealed by a twitching of her sensitive mouth, by a narrowing and a widening of the pupils of her eyes. It was as if she were asleep and her spirit was clamoring for admission to her body, left for the night without its guide.

A trembling seized her. Inarticulate sounds died in her throat, without utterance. Then the moment passed. She became placid as before, deep again in the strange, unaccountable mood to which she had awakened.

She regrasped the bottle in one hand, the sponge in the other. Hurrying to the side of the snoring guard, she saturated the sponge with the contents of the bottle and held it beneath his nose until his breathing died off to the faintest flutter.

Stealing to the second guard, she chloroformed him in similar fashion. Afterward she tossed both bottle and sponge out the open window, listening until she heard the crash of glass in the area below.

For several moments she stood silent. Next she walked slowly to the side of Dupont. Groping about the surface of the little table, she found and clasped the carving knife. With her other hand she felt on the bedclothes until she located his exact position. Standing close to him, she raised the knife. Making sure she was placed correctly for the stab, she started her arm on the downward strike.

Before she could drive the blade home, the invisible influence once more checked her. Again, there was the twitching of her lips, the dilation and contraction of her eyes. Again she trembled, again inarticulate sounds in vain tried to break past the bound cords of her throat.

Once more the struggle ended without result. She became placid and purposeful, as she had been. With her left hand she fumbled about the sleeping figure of Dupont to locate the place she wished to strike. This time she pulled the covering back to his waist, smoothed the folds of his pyjamas over his heart. Then she raised her right arm, the knife firmly grasped, muscles tensed; death poised, vibrant, over its victim.

Once again the consuming public will have to pay, for it is an accepted economic truism that every tariff is ultimately paid by the consuming public. The people of the United States are not likely to submit meekly to this increase in living costs imposed upon them by their own Government, but when they elected the Republicans in 1920 they knew that they were electing the party of high tariffs and the big financial and industrial interests, and so they have only themselves to blame. In the final analysis, the United States will lose more by the high tariff than it will gain, and its effect on Canada will not be so serious as was anticipated when the measure was first introduced.—Kingston Whig.

A WESTERN VIEW.

There are excitable persons in this community and throughout Canada who are trying desperately to envisage events in Europe and the Near East in the likeness of 1914. They try to imagine the British people menaced by the world rising as one man in defence of civilization and freedom and summoning all the kindred peoples to the standard flying on the field of Armageddon.

There is of course not the remotest resemblance between the events of 1914 and the relatively unimportant occurrences in the Near East to-day. The present difficulty is a regional one, not the outcome of any planned menace to the world's safety, but the result of the mishandling of a delicate situation. In its present shape it is a matter of European concern. It is possible, though highly improbable, that if there is more bungling, it may have consequences so serious as to bring this country within the orbit of the disturbance. The Canadian Parliament can alone decide, if that time comes, what it is proper that this country should do.

The best remedy for these over-stimulated imaginations would be a little judicious reading of the cable despatches from London. Whatever their origin they are in virtual agreement that the British people have refused to be unduly excited by the sabre-rattling of the semi-official announcement given out to the press last Saturday. There is also agreement that there has been a considerable modification by the Government of its policies in the face of the critical attitude of the public.

The British Government could undoubtedly carry with it the British people in a determination to keep the Kemalist army from crossing into Europe pending a peace conference. But it has ample means at its disposal to accomplish this. The Kemalist army does not possess even a row boat; and how it could cross either the Dardanelles or the Bosphorus with powerful British warships patrolling these waters does not appear. The defence of the neutral zone along the Asiatic shore, in view of the refusal of the French and the Italians to co-operate, to the extent of engaging in war with the Kemalists is a policy which obviously is not commanding a complete measure of popular backing; and if, by adhering to it there is a clash with resulting war between the Turks and the British there will be no lack of critics, in Great Britain, of the policy responsible for the bloodshed.

The British Government has, however, determined to take upon its shoulders the task of holding the south shore of the Dardanelles and the south shore of the Bosphorus. This being its policy discretion should suggest to Kemal Pasha the wisdom of being content with the great advantages he has already gained. A conflict with the British, even though it resulted in ejecting them from the southern side of the Straits, would give Kemal no additional leverage at the impending peace conference. It is not unreasonable to suppose that France has advised Kemal against so foolish a course as an assault upon the British; and if she has assurances to this end her ostentatious retirement from the southern shore resolves itself into a gesture intended to impress the Mohammedan world to the detriment of Great Britain. France throughout has played a careful, calculated, clever game of making herself solid with her Moslem subjects, regardless of all other considerations.

Our pre-war enthusiasts also appear to think that they are beink asked to take part in a Holy War to keep the Turk out of Europe. It might be of advantage to them if they were to consider for a moment some of the modifications to the treaty of Sevres agreed upon jointly by Great Britain, France and Italy at a conference held in Paris last March. These modifications were never put into effect because neither the Greeks nor the Nationalist Turks were willing to accept them; but they represent a minimum of concessions that the Great Powers will agree to without question at the forthcoming conference. By the Paris agreement the Turks were to be restored to the full sovereignty of Constantinople. Moreover, while the neutrality of the Straits was to be safeguarded by agreement allied military occupation was to be restricted to the European side of the Dardanelles; that is to say, the neutral zone on the south of the Dardanelles and both sides of the Bosphorus were to be protected by moral, not military, provisions. Further, the boundary line of Turkey in Europe was to be moved north and west. The new boundary was to run from Ganos on the Sea of Marmora through Kirk Kilisse to the Bulgarian boundary, thus transferring a large part of Eastern Thrace from Greece back to Turkey.

We thus see that Great Britain is committed by engagements made last March to withdrawing the allied military forces from the Asiatic side of the waterways, and to turning Constantinople and a large section of Thrace over to the Turks. These being the facts the criticism of the British manifesto, sent broadcast throughout the world, together with the sensational appeal to the Dominions to pledge their participation as going far beyond the requirements of the case would appear to be pretty solidly based. The one point upon which Great Britain would be amply justified in sticking was a refusal to permit the Kemalist army—which is not under the control of the recognized Turkish Government holding office in Constantinople—to cross into Europe in advance of the meeting of the conference of the Powers interested in a settlement of th Near East difficulty. She had available in her navy ample power to give effect to her wishes in this regard. There was no apparent reason to fear that the neutralization of the Straits was in danger from an abandonment of their desire for such neutralization by the other European Powers concerned. On the contrary they have declared their adherence to the policy of a free waterway from the Aegean to the Black Sea.—Manitoba Free Press Evening Bulletin.

THE MYSTERY MIND

She led the way to the little wooden door in the wall leading to the Mews. Opening it, she stepped through. At that he put out a hand, taking her arm and stopping her.

"Excuse me," he apologized, "but it is very dangerous for you to go out alone at this time of night. Does Mr. Dupont know——"

"Of course Robert knows," she interrupted. Though she spoke quickly and decisively, there was yet a strange listlessness, an unaccountable far-away quality in her voice. Too, her enunciation was even, again subtly suggesting the automaton. "Robert knows and approves of everything I do," she stated, evenly.

Joe was suspicious. He was unable to explain the feeling that something was wrong. There was nothing tangible about the girl to warrant his interference; nothing out of the way in her attire that he could see, nor in her manner; yet—

"It's—it's two o'clock in the morning, he stammered. "Certainly you can wait until daytime, of ir it's anything of vital importance we can wake one of the other men and send him——"

This time she did not answer.

He studied her face, revealed clearly in the light of the arc at Fifth Avenue. The only thing strange about her was that she never quite met his eyes, nor did her own glance remain fixed upon any one object more than an instant. There was the elusive suggestion of the drug addict in her expression, however impossible the hypothesis.

But suddenly and for the very first time there came a genuine change of expression in her features. As if checked by an invisible hand, she stood stock-still in the middle of the chamber. The struggle, hardly to be seen in the impenetrable gloom, was revealed by a twitching of her sensitive mouth, by a narrowing and a widening of the pupils of her eyes. It was as if she were asleep and her spirit was clamoring for admission to her body, left for the night without its guide.

A trembling seized her. Inarticulate sounds died in her throat, without utterance. Then the moment passed. She became placid as before, deep again in the strange, unaccountable mood to which she had awakened.

She regrasped the bottle in one hand, the sponge in the other. Hurrying to the side of the snoring guard, she saturated the sponge with the contents of the bottle and held it beneath his nose until his breathing died off to the faintest flutter.

Stealing to the second guard, sh chloroformed him in similar fashion. Afterward she tossed both bottle and sponge out the open window, listening until she heard the crash of glass in the area below.

For several moments she stood silent. Next she walked slowly to the side of Dupont. Groping about the surface of the little table, she found and clasped the carving knife. With her other hand she felt on the bedclothes until she located his exact position. Standing close to him, she raised the knife. Making sure she was placed correctly for the stab, she started her arm on the downward strike.

Before she could drive the blade home, the invisible influence once more checked her. Again, there was the twitching of her lips, the dilation and contraction of her eyes. Again she trembled, again inarticulate sounds in vain tried to break past the bound cords of her throat.

Once more the struggle ended without result. She became placid and purposeful, as she had been. With her left hand she fumbled about the sleeping figure of Dupont to locate the place she wished to strike. This time she pulled the covering back to his waist, smoothed the folds of his pyjamas over his heart. Then she raised her right arm, the knife firmly grasped, muscles tensed; death poised, vibrant, over its victim.

YE OLDE PORTRAITS.

Quaint, interesting and historical is the display of old pictures in the show windows of The Roy Studio, Hunter street.

The collection embraces practically all processes of photography for the past eighty years, Daguerrotypes, Ambertypes, Tintypes and Silhouettes, also miniatures on ivory, cameos and water colours. Louis J. M. Daguerre, a French Scenic Painter succeeded in the year 1840 in producing the first sun-light portrait of a human face. This was the Daguerrotype process which made his name immortal, a copy of this historical photograph is shown.

The old family album contains many fading and forgotten treasures which the modern photographic expert can reproduce in monochrome, water colour or oils and retain all the quaint interest and beauty of the original. So few people realize this. Mr. Roy's Exhibit is proving a very valuable one.

THE DAY'S DOINGS AS RECORDED BY THE EXAMINER'S STAFF OF CORRESPONDENTS.

On the Night before Wash Day

DO this, and you will have a pleasant, easy, work-free wash-day—with wonderfully clean sweet clothes:

For each tub of clothes take half a package of Rinso, dissolve in just enough cool water to make it as thick as cream. Then stir in two quarts of boiling water, and stir well. When the bubbles disappear you will have a clear, amber-colored liquid that is the magical Rinso washing solution. Pour it into your tub of cool or lukewarm water, and put in the clothes and soak. For extra hard water or extra dirty clothes add more Rinso solution.

In the morning rinse thoroughly and hang out to dry—the washing is done! That's why Rinso is different from all other Soaps and Washing Powders.

WALKS 16,000 MILES ON BEAT AS WATCHMAN

RICHWOOD, W. Va., Sept. 27.—E. F. Taylor, watchman at the Cherry River Paper Company's plant here, has been walking his beat every night for the last 10 years. Figuring that he takes 15,200 steps each night ,or 15,480,000 steps in 10 years at two and a half feet to the step, he has traveled 138,700,000 feet, or 26,296 miles, which is more than the distance around the globe.

Besides doing this nightly stunt at the paper mill, Mr. Taylor walks quite a bit each day about the city and his home.

HARVEST FESTIVAL ST. LUKE'S CHURCH

Rev. E. R. James of Omemee, Preached the Sermon—Church Beautifully Decorated.

Taking for his text part of the 35th verse of the fourth chapter of John: "Verily, I say unto you: lift up your eyes and look on the fields, for they are white unto the harvest," the Rev. E. R. James of Omemee preached a brief but very effective sermon at St. Luke's church last evening, on the occasion of the annual harvest home festival.

The church, which was beautifully decorated with the fruits of the earth, the walls, the chancel and the pulpit, making their contribution of glowing color in the large sheaves of wheat, the red poppies, the immense bouquets of asters, and the vari-colored vegetables that were arranged with tasteful profusion on every side, was well filled with an attentive congregation. The harvest home services, with their simple feeling, the specially prepared musical service by the choir, with one particularly fine anthem; the rich sonorous tones of Rev. Mr. Bousfield in the impressive prayers, with their devout responses, made a fitting prelude to the earnest, sincere utterances of Rev. Mr. James, who took the pulpit at the last moment to fill the place of Rev. Canon Sawyers of Cobourg, unavoidably absent through death in his family.

The Four Lessons.

The four points brought out by the reverend speaker in the course of his impressive little discourse were (1) The almighty power of God in nature, as manifested in the ever-recurring miracles of seed-time and harvest; (2) God's faithfulness. It was not a curse but a blessing, that was pronounced on Adam when the Lord said to him: "In the sweat of thy brow thou shalt eat thy bread." for said the preacher, "the man that does not work, either mentally or physically, is truly an unhappy man." God has given us the seasons; the seed time and the harvest shall not fail. He has been faithful to his promise: "Thy bread and thy water shall be safe unto thee." This is a promise, not of the luxuries, but of the neecssities only of life. God has preserved us from the prosperity, or "the fulness of bread," which was the curse of the doomed cities of Sodom and Gomorrah.

The third point in considering this text was the thought that the harvest was the result of death, for "except a grain of wheat fall into the earth and die, it abideth alone, but if it die, it bringeth forth good fruit." In this was proven the doctrine of the Atonement, when the death of Christ brought to the earth abundant fruitfulness, and to our lives and characters an increase of life and grace.

That a bountiful harvest is the fruit of sacrifice was the fourth lesson emphasized by the speaker. "As you reap plentifully so also shall you sow plentifully." The farmer who sows his grain in a niggardly manner will reap a niggardly harvest. If you give of yourself in a beautiful love and generosity to all mankind, a bountiful spiritual harvest will be your reward, just as God gave His only begotten Son that the world might live." Christ enjoins us to see what is beyond the natural order, that we may look truly, see understandingly, and receive the Truth with humility, not only what is apparent to the eye, but the spiritual lessons that form the basis of all natural truth and beauty.

Northcliffe Death Dues

May Amount to £1,500,000—Raise Money By Issue of Debentures.

LONDON, Sept. 27— (Canadian Press Cable).—The creation of a new debenture issue £1,600,000 seven per cent debentures in connection with Viscount Rothermere acquiring the many Northcliffe newspaper interests is undoubtedly to provide money for death duties, which probably will amount to £1,500,000. The new issue will almost certainly command instant success when launched this week-end, for Viscount Rothermere has always been credited with possessing even better brains for actual business and financial management than Lord Northcliffe himself and in this way he was largely responsible for his late brother's earliest triumphs.

VERDICT AGAINST FREDERICK BRYANT

The Upton Brothers and Bryant Will Be Sentenced To-Day.

KINGSTON, Sept. 28.—(Canadian Press).—A verdict of manslaughter against Frederick Bryant charged with murder of Constable Beard of Napanee, a year ago last August was brought in by jury at late hour last night. Mr. Justice Orde, presiding Judge deferred sentence till to-day. The Upton brothers who previously pleaded guilty to same crime will also be sentenced.

The chief evidence for prosecution was given by Erwood and Sherwood Upton, twin brothers, who last February pleaded guilty to manslaughter in connection with the Beard case, and on whom justice Riddell decided not to pass sentence until after Bryant had been tried. Erwood Upton swore that he and his brother and Bryant had gone to Napanee, to commit burglary, that they had rifle which Bryant carried that when Constable Beard appeared in lane and cornered them, Bryant stumbled and rifle went off. Sherwood Upton gave similar testimony but would not say whether Bryant was carrying rifle or not. He testified that both Erwood Upton and Bryant stumbled and that rifle went off.

At the evening session of the court no witnesses for the defence were called Counsel for prisoner claiming that the shooting was accidental.

note demonstrated to the British the gravity of the situation. One official described the note as imperinent. Hope was expressed that Kemal would respond to Gen. Harrington's invitation to a conference.

Kemal notified the British commander, General Harrington, that he does not recognize neutral zone of the Straits.

Twelve United States' destroyers are ordered to Constantinople to protect American interests and furnish supplies if needed. This order marks no departure from the policy of non-participation in European affairs adopted by Harding's administration.

REPLY NEXT MEEK.

LONDON, Sept. 28. — (Canadian Press.)—Mustapha Kemal Pasha is en route to Angora to place the Allied note personally before the National Assembly, Reuter's says it learns from information obtained through a Nationalist representative in Constantinople. It adds that it is unlikely that any reply will be received before next week.

ATTITUDE OF PESSIMISM.

LONDON, Sept. 28.— (Canadian Press.) — The abdication of King Constantine of Greece making again possible co-operation between Prime Minister Lloyd George and ex-Premier Venizelos, may cause a lightning change in Great Britain's policy towards the Turks, it was announced in well-informed circles to-day. It is ascertained in these circles that a possible new conjunction of these two former co-workers is the explanation of the studied attitude of pessimism which, since yesterday, has been radiating from Number Ten Downing Street, where this morning much apprehension was expressed regarding possible war-like acts of Turks in the vicinity of Chanak.

Kemalist forces have occupied, without opposition, positions in regions of Dumbrek Lampsaki, Yachjilar and Sangakeli, all in neutral zone of Dardanelles. This is fifth violation of zone. Remonstrances by British Officers failed to stay advance of Turks. British flags were posted throughout the invaded territory.

WITH WOODROW WILSON AT A VAUDEVILLE SHOW

(By Robert Talley.)

WASHINGTON, September 26.—When Woodrow Wilson goes to the theatre—vaudeville show—

He doesn't occupy a box. He sits with the crowd—in the last row back and on the extreme left aisle.

Mrs. Wilson, her mother, her sister, his secretary, (Mrs. Wilson's brother, John Randolph Bolling) and a secret service man, accompany him.

His auto stops in the alley alongside the theatre, two attendants assist him through a sidedoor to his seat which is only a few feet away.

The audience stands, faces him and applauds as he comes in, hobbling heavily on his cane; he smiles and bows in acknowledgment.

* * *

At Keith's vaudeville theatre the other night I sat less than three feet from the ex-president and watched him enjoy the show. He was as happy as a kid at his first circus.

A female impersonator fooled him until he snatched off his wig at the end of his act.

With amused interest and frequent soft chuckles he followed the songs and stories of a dapper young comedian.

Like jazz? Seems to be crazy about it. Patted his foot softly in keeping time with a jazz band that was part of a musical revue.

The grotesque doll dance of Adelaide and Hughes, old time vaudeville artists, seemed to win his particular admiration. He watched their antics through opera glasses, handed to him by Mrs. Wilson.

* * *

But what do you suppose tickled him most?

One of those animated cartoons in the movies wherein a cat with highly flexible eyebrows and a long, nervous tail twitches his whiskers and stretches his neck like it was made of rubber.

"Ho, ho, ho!" came Wilson's soft deep-throated chuckles as the feline got chased by the polar bears and was threatened with sudden and terrible extinction in a dozen different ways.

* * *

This gag by Johnny Burke, soldier-comedian, got a good laugh from the man whom historians will class with Washington and Lincoln!

"I was diggin' a trench," related Johnny, "when along comes a captain and says: "Whadda you throwin' in all that dirt for?" .. 'Cause I ain't got no where else to throw it,' I says back at hi. . . . Then he says to me: 'Then go dig another hole an' throw the dirt in that.'"

* * *

As a special feature Manager Robbins presented some "news" movies of several years back showing views of President Wilson.

The crowd broke into loud applause when his picture flashed on the screen. One man even so far forgot the dress suit and evening gown surroundings as to give vent to a wild yell.

Wilson accepted the tribute silently.

* * *

"The ex-president is a vaudeville fan and attends every Saturday night usually," confided Manager Robbins. "There is nothing that he likes better than comedy. Even the slap-stick variety amuses him."

Very often as Wilson is being assisted from his auto in the alley, he will say to Robbins: "Got plenty of fun in the bill this week Ah, that is good!"

INTERALLIED DEBTS A HUNDRED YEARS AGO

Situation After the Napoleonic Wars Recalled by London Bank

The September monthly review of the London City and Midland Bank recalls the financial relations of Great Britain and her continential allies during and after the Napoleonic wars, the purpose of the discussion being to draw analogies or contrasts with the present status of interallied indebtedness. The Review shows that between the years 1793 and 1816 Great Britain advanced a total of £50,000,000 to her various allies of which individuality the most important was Austria, to whom advances, amounting to over £12,000,000 were made. Of the total advances made by Great Britain, £58,000,000, direct subsidies accounted for about £50,000,000 whih was not expected or intended to be repaid.

In 1817, however, the total due in respect of the Austrian loans of 1795 and 1797 reached nearly 19 1-2 millions, and a convention was finally reached in 1823, by which Austria agreed to pay 2 1-2 millions in satisfaction of the whole of the British claims upon the Austrian Emperor under the head of the Austrian loan, and each country reciprocally released claims on the other. As the debt by that time must have been well over £20,000,000, the extent of the remission, according to the Review, probably amounted to over 90 per cent. of the debt. Austria met her liability under this convention by borrowing the agreed amount from London bankers, The Review further recalls that at the end of the Napoleonic wars, although the English debt was nearly £900,000,000 or four times as much as that of France, it was agreed that France should pay the equivalent of only £28,000,000 as an indemnity, and England duly received her share, amounting to £5-000,000.

Delegates Far From Unanimous on Question of Armament Limitation.

GENEVA, Sept. 28.— (Canadian Press). — The Assembly of the League of Nations adopted recommendations of the Council on the restriction of armaments at the end of the debate to-day, which showed that the delegates were far from unanimous in approving the measure proposed. Speeches brought out sharply the fact that the Assembly is divided to-day, as it was at the opening of the first session, between the Extremists, who want to abolish armaments immediately, and the Conservatives, who hold that a sure and slow policy is the only one that can succeed.

OVER EIGHTY DELEGATES TOOK IN THE DISTRICT CONVENTION

Peterborough Well Represented at Gathering Held in Millbrook Yesterday—Two Sessions Held.

MILLBROOK September 28. — Over eighty delegates attended the Peterborough District Convention of the Woman's Missionary Society, which was held in the Methodist Church, Millbrook, yesterday. Fortunately the weather was favourable, thus making it possible for delegates to motor in from outside points lacking railroad accommodation.

The district president, Mrs. J. K. Moore, of Peterborough, occupied the chair in her usual capable manner, and associated with her was Mrs. E. J. Wagar, also of Peterborough, who has been for some years a very efficient secretary-treasurer for the district.

Two sessions were held, the morning one beginning promptly at 9.30, when the devotional period was taken by Mrs. Wason and Miss P. Byam, and the Scripture lesson from Matthew, 28th chapter, was read and commented upon in a most helpful manner by Mrs. S. R. Armstrong, of Peterborough.

One of the features of the convention which always proves particularly interesting is the reading of reports from the various auxiliaries, those responding to the roll-call on Wednesday being George Street, Trinity, St. James, and Mark Street, Peterborough; Bailieboro, Bensfort, Warsaw, Union, Bridgenorth, Lakefield, Bethany, Fairmount, and Millbrook.

An appropriate solo, "I think when I read that sweet story of old," by Mrs. G. W. Sayles was followed by reports from the Mission Circles and Bands of the district, fifteen of these being given, and like those from the Auxiliaries, were in every case most encouraging and optimistic. After the singing of the hymn, "What a Friend we have in Jesus," Mrs. Nichols, of Bailieboro, spoke briefly on "Gleanings from the Branch Meeting," referrng to the warm-hearted hospitality extended to the delegates by the people of Belleville, to the splendid addresses listened to, several of the latter having special reference to the subject of "Stewardship," and the entire convention proving an inspiration to the societies represented to take up the work of missions with renewed zeal and consecration.

"The New Ukraine."

"The New Ukraine" was the subject of Mrs. J. Kendry's remarks, and in view of the fact that this little republic is the fatherland of the 350,000 Ruthenians now in Canada, and that the same propaganda which is causing religious and political unrest in their homeland is being carried on here as well, makes the need of prayer for them, and of missionary work amongst them, imperative; won for Christ here, they will send their own people back to do effective mission work for their sadly-tried countrymen across the sea. Mrs. Kendry also emphasised the importance of prayer by such Christian organisations as the Woman's Missionary Society for the British Empire, that her leaders may be upheld and guided in a right course amidst all the unrest of these troubled times.

A very real inspiration was keenly felt by all present at the convention when Mrs. (Rev.) S. G. Rorke, of Cavan, and Mrs. (Rev.) C. H. Coon, of Peterborough, read extracts from their daughters' letters, both of whom are missionaries on the foreign field. Miss Luella Rorke has been for three years a teacher in a girls' school in Tokio, Japan, and also does evangelistic work on Sundays her letter showed a joy in service, and an appeal for other young women to respond to the great need, and volunteer to devote life and talents amongst their less fortunate sisters in heathen lands. Miss Marian Coon finds her place of service at Chung-King, in China, a city of 600,000 inhabitants, where she and Miss Sparling represent the W.M.S. Her letter was descriptive of Mount Omei, the beauty of which she very graphically set forth; this is where our missionaries spent their summer holidays, and where they find the wonders of nature marred by the disease and dirt, ignorance and superstition of both priests and the people. Miss Coon also voiced an earnest plea for more workers because of the great area yet uncared for, and the appalling need seen on every hand.

Rev. Mr. Tucker closed the session with prayer, and all adjourned to the basement for dinner, during which a pleasant social hour was spent.

Afternoon Session.

The afternoon gathering began at 1.30 with the singing of the hymn, "We've a story to tell to the nations," and prayer by Rev R. M. Patterson, of Frazerville. On behalf of the local Auxiliary the "Words of Welcome" were given by Miss Burnham, from the Sister Societies by Mrs. (Canon) Allen and Mrs. (Rev.) G. S. Gervan (the latter by note, being unable to attend). Mrs. C. H. Coon responded for the visiting officers and delegates, her remarks being most appreciative of the hospitality extended, and of the excellent addresses which had been listened to.

At the morning session Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Wagar had both been re-elected for another term of office, and this fact was commented on with much satisfaction by several of the speakers at this time.

"Christian Stewardship" was set forth in a most illuminating manner by Miss Kidd, of Peterborough, considerable discussion following her paper, and also that on, "The Strangers' Secretary's Dutics," by Mrs. W. Seymour, of Fairmount, those taking part being Mrs. S. R. Armstrong, Mrs. Kendry, and Rev. Mr. Patterson. The Strangers' Department, as Mrs. Seymour explained, was only organized two years ago, but is developing into a healthy child whose usefulness is unquestioned in the larger centres; it received special emphasis at the Branch meeting this year, is authorized by Scripture, its object being to win "the stranger within our gates" for Christ and the church. Haphazard methods will accomplish nothing, the work must be done in an organized systematic manner.

Mrs. Marie McBain, of Fairmount, sang very beautifully the solo, "Abide With Me," and Mrs. Morton, of the Mark sreet Auxiliary, interested everyone by her well thought out address on, "Occupied Areas," Mrs. Morton clearly showed our responsibility towards fields in our own land, and in other parts of the world, yet without any missionary work being done. Large tracts in Asia and Africa are still in utter ignorance of the gospel message, though now the open doors are more numerous than the closed ones; Christ's command was "Occupy till I come." What excuse will His children give for their tardiness in obeying His will? A map of the world aided Mrs. Morton in making her points clear. The concluding address on, "The Power of Prayer in our Work," given by Mrs. (Rev.) Langford, of Trinity church, Peterborough, was listened to with the closest attention. That prayer is service of a very real character, because it releases the energies of God, revealing Him to us as a living, loving personality; that it is opening our minds and souls to God until we think His thoughts after Him; that we should never be too busy to pray for "time saved from prayer is time lost in the end"; that even delayed answer to prayer should not lead to lack of faith in its efficiency; that God sometimes must carry us through deep waters, and dark places, before we so lose our wills in His that prayer becomes not merely petition for things we need, but a consuming desire to have God, Himself, more than anything else, supreme in our lives; that it is worth while to pray, worth while to those for whom we pray, worth while to us, and best of all worth while to God; were some of the points brought out by Mrs. Langford in a most impressive way. Willing, consecrated women would offer a channel through which God could work, bringing great blessing to the whole world, and the best way to become consecrated is by prayer.

A vote of thanks to Mrs. Langford was moved by Mrs. (Canon) Allen, seconded by Mrs. Whyte, and unanimously carried by all rising to their feet. A Chinese chorus by Mary Burnham, Jean Stinson, Marjorie Sayles, and Gladys Tucker, gave much pleasure, and afterwards Rev. Mr. Tucker conducted the "Quiet Half Hour," urging that the inspiration gained from what had been learned during the day should lead to a greater faith, a willingness to venture out into God's unknown. "Arise, let us go hence" would be an appropriate motto. Rev. C. E. Beddick, and R. M. Patterson led in prayer, before the benediction was pronounced by the pastor. Tea was served to any delegates wishing refreshment previous to leaving for home. The offerings amounted to nearly $16.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, September 28. Canadian Press. — It is reported that sales of storage firsts have been made for export 20 shillings c.i.f., and that the prospects for the movement of storage surplus eggs to Great Britain are very much brighter. Another sale of storage firsts was reported at 40c f.o.b. Montreal. The United States markets are difficult to understand at the present time particularly the further advance in refrigerators. It is hardly likely however that the prices will be maintained.

CASH GRAIN.

MONTREAL, September 28. — Trading in cash wheat here to-day was the most active since the new crop season opened. There was no further change in the condition of the local cash market for coarse grains, prices being firmly maintained. The local flour situation showed no new developments. A steady feeling continues to prevail in the millfeed business but the rolled oats market continued quiet. There is a fair demand for baled hay. Prices hold about the same in the butter market and there is no change in the cheese situation. Trade in eggs continues active.

CHICAGO GRAINS.

CHICAGO, September 28. Canadian Press. — The disturbed conditions in the Near East had a bullish effect on the wheat market to-day, and so too did orders for all rail shipments of grain from Chicago to the seaboard. Wheat prices closed unsettled, varying from 14c net decline to 3 7-8c advance, with Dec. $1.05 to $1.05 1-8; and May $1.08 1-4 to $1.08 3-8. Corn finished 1-8 to 1 1-8c up, and oats up 1-4 and 3-8 to 7-8c. In provisions the outcome ranged from 5c decline to a rise of 40c.

Except for a brief dip in prices at the start, wheat showed an upward tendency throughout almost the entire day. The initial weakness appeared to be due to the fact that Liverpool quotations failed to reflect any uneasiness over developments at the Dardanelles and in Greece. Persistent buying set in, however, on the part of some of the larger commission houses here and a good deal of notice was taken of strength of prices at Winnipeg in the face of large receipts there.

Broadening European demand for wheat from the United States, so some traders said, could be seen in the purchase here to-day of some hard winter wheat for shipment from the Gulf of Mexico. Besides about 500,000 bushels were bought here for all rail despatch to Atlantic ports. It was urged also that the congestion at lake ports would make Canadian wheat more and more difficult to obtain in the near future. Profit-taking sales forced a late setback in the price of December and aMy deliveries, but shorts continued to bid up September.

The corn market plainly showed the bullish effect of orders for extensive all rail shipments of corn to the seaboard. Oats sympathized with corn.

Packers buying of October lard made the provision market average higher.

TRAINING TO HELP THE OTHER FELLOW.

The Junior Red Cross, with its slogan, "The Children of All Nations United for Health and Humanity!" is becoming very popular amongst school children wherever tried out. It trains the boys and girls to help the "other fellow." The children in schools where this society has been organized help needy fellow-pupils to get glasses or hospital treatment. They remember the sick and lonely in their own neighborhood. They make and distribute Christmas presents. They improve the equipment of their schools with first aid cabinets, wash basins, play apparatus, books on sanitation for their libraries, etc. They send donations and gifts to local hospitals, to children's shelters, to orphanages, to soldiers' children's hostels, to Preventoria, to the Hospital for Sick Children and to the Ontario Crippled Children's Fund. They aid children's famine funds abroad, recognizing that "he who is in need is our neighbor." They collect voluntary contributions in Junior Red Cross mite boxes. They raise money at concerts, picnics, bazaars and school fairs.

This society enables the up-to-date teacher to teach health effectively, by the new or practical method of health training, called the "project method." So, the pupils organized in a Junior Red Cross Auxiliary, work together for individual or community health. They sleep with their windows open; they care for their teeth; they take a weekly bath; they drink milk; they keep their hands clean; they observe the laws of health; they grow in stature and in knowledge; they keep the school surroundings sanitary.

NEXT CONVENTION FARM YOUNG FOLK.

The Peterborough branch of the United Farm Young People of Ontario is already making arrangements for their annual debating competition. A convention of the county U.F.Y.P.O. will be held here on Saturday, November 11th, when the debating schedule for the season will be arranged. Six clubs competed last year, but it is hoped that more will take advantage of the opportunity this season.

Another feature of the convention this year will be a senior and junior oratorical competition, for each of which a ten karat gold medal has been donated. The senior competition is open to one member from each U.F.Y.P.O. club in the county, speeches to be limited to ten minutes, with a choice of topic from a list of seven subjects. The junior competition is open to U.F.Y.P.O. members between 13 and 20 years of age who are not entered in the senior competition and with no more than two years' high school training, speeches limited to five minutes. Two from each U.F.Y.P.O. club in the county may enter the junior competition, with the topic, "Why I Am a Member of the U.F.Y.P.O." or a subject chosen from the senior competition list.

WOMEN AND HOME

Conducted by JEANNETTE

FAMILY ATMOSPHERE ABOUT LOCAL TRAINS.

(By Jeannette.)

Travel on the local trains coming up from the country districts is usually interesting. There is a family feeling about these trains that is absent from the chair cars and longer coaches that transport travel to more distant portions of the country. The conductors are very sociable. If one happens to be a constant traveller, they recognize the fact immediately, and have a pleasant word on the second or third meeting. The second conductor comes in and bends carefully over a compartment a few seats ahead. There is no visible occupant in this seat, but he smiles down at something and carefully arranges a covering. Then he reaches over and pulls down the blind. Later on, he comes in with an orange for the same mysterious person. Curiosity leads to the discovery of a little, curly-haired girl who looks rather sick, and is probably travelling alone.

Coming up another evening on the same train, a little boy is ill and his mother rushes hastily for a glass of water. The plain-looking woman across the way forsakes her own baby and comes with a fan to look after the little sufferer. The passengers look sympathetically on. A small mother with a tiny baby arrives and fails to find a seat. Her husband is with her, with a replica, evidently a twin, of her little burden. The ugly young man across the aisle surrenders his seat and stands through many miles, smiling occasionally down at the little creature.

A blind woman and her daughter are well known to the conductor. He asks for "the boys" and the woman, with her cheerful, sightless face, smilingly tells him about them. The girl in the uniform of the Salvation Army watches her intently. This girl is very homely, until she takes off her unattractive hat. Then one sees her hair, beautifully blonde, done in trim fashion, with a very fine marcel wave!

Behind us, two men are arguing in broad Scotch over religion. The one is evidently a minister, and a man of large-minded impulses; the other is strong for the "fundamentals." The latter believes only in reliance on the Scriptures, and reiterates at intervals, "We have the holy word for our guide, man"; while the other says, "But you can't see the heart. Wasn't there a Judas amongst the twelve apostles? Didn't our Lord know that he was a traitor, and yet didn't He treat them all alike? And you remember that he loved St. Peter, and yet he called him a mule on one occasion." The listener is somewhat doubtful about this assertion, and requires book and verse for verification.

On longer trips, when one leaves Ontario on a trip down to the lower Province, and comes into Quebec, there is a decided difference in the atmosphere in the coaches. Just as the signposts change from English to French, so the conversation becomes enlivened with the utterances of vivacious, dark-skinned people who may be talking about the war or about the weather, for all one knows, but who keep up an animated discourse about something or other for many miles, never seeming to tire of their endless smiling stream of talk, with its shrugs and eye-turnings and its sibilant esses. A little man gets in at one of the stations, and immediately the car is alive. He is evidently well known, and greets all with charming cordiality. Discarding his hat with great haste, and opening an enormous bag of fruit that he carries, he runs up and down the car, offering his treat and stopping at every seat to chat and smile and joke.

DON'T WORRY.

QUESTION OF LIFE AHEAD OF CHILDREN.

In a book of mystical experiences written by Rev. Robert Hugh Benson and entitled "The Light Invisible," the author relates an occurrence when, under the influence of the second sight vouchsafed him, he saw an angel push a little child forward under the flying hoofs of the horse which beat its life out, and he realized that this fate was preferable to the life ahead of the child, innocent and bright as it seemed to be.

It was probably a vague belief in matters such as this that prompted a man who is very active in the work of the local Children's Aid Society to draw a parallel between two little children of his acquaintanceship. One was the very small son of a minister, a tot that wandered off one fine afternoon, and, after traversing several miles of traffic-laden streets, was discovered finally playing happily by the bank of the river, unharmed. The other child was the offspring of an unfortunate and miserable marriage. When the narrator first saw this baby, it was lying in its wretched cradle with a broken leg, while its half-starved mother lay nursing a wee infant in a squalid bed. Eventually, the older baby wandered away one day and was drowned. And the theory this man advanced was, that the first child was protected because its future was an assured and happy one, while the second little thing was taken back to a Father's home where things would be better and happier than it could ever expect to possess in this world. To take the place of poverty-stricken or helpless parents was to him the first duty of a society which seemed to him to provide the necessary background, not only for its bodily welfare and future life, but also for its present protection against death, as well.

One outstanding example of the powers of the organization in this respect was the case of the mother with five little children, the woman discouraged and forlorn, the children dirty and neglected. An appeal was made for clothing, which was responded to, and the children taken out of school were returned to their classes, the mother was helped and encouraged and the home maintained, instead of being broken up.

CONDITIONS BARRED LUXURY OF TEARS.

Jimmy lay in one end of the carriage, and sucked his thumb. Occasionally he kicked out and landed a soft blow somewhere in the anatomy of Jean, who occupied the western portion of the same vehicle. But Jean was as good-natured as Jimmy, and merely smiled up confidingly into the face of the police sergeant who was paying her a great deal of attention. The plight of their father, who had just heard the man behind the police blotter hand out a sentence that would keep him boarding at the expense of the municipality for some time to come, meant nothing in the lives of Jimmy and Jean. At seventeen months of age, there are few things that matter much outside of a warm place to sleep in, a full bottle, and a mother to cuddle one. However, this mother, besides the bouncing twins in the carriage, had another baby also to cuddle, a little thing of indeterminate age and sex, who rested momentarily in the arms of the eldest little boy, a youngster of about seven years of age, while the little brother, perhaps five or thereabouts, smoothed the baby's dress. The small mother, tucking the coverings over the twins, looked as if she would like to cry, but a lady with three small babies and two little boys hasn't much time to cry, particularly if she possesses a larder that is much in the condition of old Mother Hubbard's, and not much prospect of anything to fill it. With a husband in the lockup, a cold house and an empty cupboard might present possibilities that would prevent the luxury of tears, although even the most unsympathetic onlooker would hardly say that they were unjustified, at that.

HOW TO MAKE ROSE CABBAGE FOR LUNCH.

Take a small cabbage or the heart of a large one. Cut off stem and the ribs of heavy leaves if necessary to make cabbage stand up well. The cabbage may be blanched, but this is not necessary if it is steamed, by which method of cooking it will keep its shape. When it is tender, with two forks turn it or roll in each leaf and cut out the centre to make space for about a cup of the above mixture, which can be heaped up and some placed in by the rolled in leaves. The turning in the leaves gives the cabbage the appearance of a great rose and the beet gives the rose color. When this is to be used as a central dish for a meal a meat sauce may be served with it. But if the stuffing has bits of bacon scattered through it and is well seasoned with bacon fat no other meat is required. A little well seasoned bacon fat may be poured over the cabbage or it may be well buttered before the stuffing is put in.

FAILURE IN MAKING JELLIES, JAMS MARMALADES

Now Almost Impossible

Discovery of Powdered Pection a Boon to Housewives

What housekeeper has not worried over the uncertainty that attends the making of jelly in the summer months of fresh fruits? The day must be clear and sunny, the fruit must be fresh and not over-ripe or it will not "Jell". And even then with all rules rigidly observed, after hours of hot, exhausting labor, after the fruit has been boiled and steamed and boiled and tested, for some unexplained reason the result is often disappointing.

What welcome news, then, to learn that there is a process by which you are guaranteed successful perfect jelly, jam and marmalade at infinitely less trouble than formerly. Even the most inexperienced housekeeper cannot fail in her jelly-making. Moreover she can make a variety of jellies never dreamed of before—from practically every kind of fruit that grows.

Though only recently made available for housekeepers, this process has long been familiar to jam and jelly manufacturers This is nothing more or less than the use of "pectin", and element found to some extent in all fruits, but most abundantly in apples. It is pectin in fruit that makes it jell. But most fruits contain such a small percentage that the fruit and sugar must be boiled for a very long time, until through evaporation of the fruit juices, the pectin eventually becomes sufficient to form jelly. This is also true in making jams and marmalades. The reason for frequent failures is the lack of this pectin.

By using powdered pectin in your jelly, jam and marmalade making, you hasten the process of jelling and thus prevent the wastage of fruit and sugar which is inevitable in long boiling. The result is many more jars than you usually get from the same amount of fruit.

No one need hesitate to use powdered pectin. It is a natural fruit product, made as explained, entirely from the pectin extracted from apples. It should not be confused with other products of somewhat similar nature which are sold in liquid form. It has taken the manufacturers years to reduce the pectin to a satisfactory powder which will last indefinitely in your pantry cupboard. Once a bottle of liquid pectin is opened it must be used within a very short time or it will spoil. Yet frequently the housekeeper is making only enough jelly to require a small portion of pectin and consequently the rest of it must be wasted. Thus the advantage of powdered form. Another important point is its economy in sugar, requiring as it does much less for the same quantity of fruit than any other pectin preparation, and, as every woman knows, sugar is no small item of expense in the making of jelly.

Neither must powdered pectin be confused with jelly powders made from gelatine, which is partly an animal product, and which cannot be used successfully in making fruit jellies.

The discovery and manufacture of powdered Pectin—which is now sold in Canada under the name of Jel-A-Fruit—has indeed opened a new and fascinating world of possibilities in jelly-making. With it you can make the most delicious jellies from cherry, pineapple and strawberry, from currant, peach, apricot, grape or any other fruit. You can be absolutely certain that your jams, marmalades, and conserves will have the desired consistency without long boiling and consequent waste of fruit.

You can make apricot jelly from dried apricots at any time of the year. If you have surplus juices from canned or stewed fruits, again you can use them for jelly, merely following the extremely simple directons and recipes which accompany each package of Jel-A-Fruit. It is also invaluable in preparing a variety or delectable dishes, such as meringues all kinds of light desserts, cake icings and so on.

To sum up the advantage of Jel-A-Fruit,— it represents economy of fruit, sugar, time and energy. You get more jelly and better jelly and with less trouble and expense. You retain the delicious fresh flavor of the fruit, so often lost in long boiling You are absolutely certain your jelly cannot be a failure, and that it will keep indefinitely, when made airtight the same as you always have done. And you can make jelly at any time of the year—a great convenience where cupboard space and jelly glasses are limited. Jel-A-Fruit is now carried by the best grocers.

DELIVERS SOCIETY BALLS AND PARTIES TO ORDER

KATE SPROUL.

By Marian Hale.

Old-fashioned hospitality should be revived with the old-fashioned dances, the longer skirts ,the more subdued manners and the other evidences that we are working back to a slower tempo.

This is the working hypothesis of Kate Sproul ,for whom a new position and a new title has just been created. She's officially the "Social Directa" of the Ambassador Hotel in New oYrk.

"Technically, I'm supposed to relieve the guests of all responsibility connected with their social affairs except their presence and their financial obligation," she explained.

"I'm to keep a store where balls, luncheons, teas and banquets may be purchased with as little difficulty as magazines and candies.

"Suppose a guest comes to me and orders a debutante ball for her daughter. Well, at the appointed hour, I deliver to her one ball, with floral decorations, caterers, musicians, and all the trimmings.

"If she has ideas of her own that she wants me to carry out, I'll be ever so glad to accommodate her, or if she wishes to leave the whole matter to me, she may.

"The success or failure of her function is entirely up to me."

I admitted that this was handy for the guests, but I asked Miss Sproul if she didn't think she was undertaking a pretty big job, with so many sides ,and so many chances for slip-ups.

"Of course, it's a big job, and that's just why I like it," came back. "And here's where I'm going to inject the hospitality and the personal touch which I believe is so absolutely necessary to success.

"Ready-made parties and custom-made luncheons would be deadly. They would have much less individuality than ready-made clothes or ready-furnished rooms.

"But I'm going to make every function my own affair and give it the same care and study I would give if I were actually the hostess.

"For several years now I've been watching business and professional women ,and I have yet to see a successful one who isn't going after her job like a man, making a keen game of it, and putting in more than nine hours a day on it if it needs it.

"And back of the whole thing is my desire to revive genuine hospitality. I want to show people that it can flourish in a big city just as well as it can in the picturesque old south, or the old, free west."

ESSAY COMPETITION FOR BOYS AND GIRLS.

Something that should be of interest to the junior boys and girls of the city is the contest arranged by the Cressman Company, Limited, in connection with their twenty-fourth birthday anniversary sale. This is an essay competition, the subject to be "How I Would Conduct a Store," and to be not more than 500 words in length, open to all boys and girls of fifteen years and under, with a gold watch offered for the prize essay.

PARASITE WIVES.

Piquant advice to married women was offered by the Lady Mayoress of Manchester, Eng., in a speech to the girls of the High School at the Free Trade Hall. Marriage, she explained is not a profession, but an occupation, because it is generally understood that no previous training or experience is required. Those girls who intended to marry she urged not become parasites, like the plants and animals who did not work themselves, did not even get their own food, but lived on the work of others. "Any woman who is not doing a full day's work," declared the Lady Mayoress, "is a parasite to the community. This is the greatest danger to the married woman, because marriage is not necessarily a full-time job. It is not a full-time job to do housekeeping and supervising; no woman of average intelligence should take the whole of her time for that. In fact, they don't; they play golf or bridge or go to tea parties in the afternoon. They ought to be doing the voluntary work of the city, because they are the people who have the time to do it. If they are not doing a full day's work they are parasites."

Everybody seems to have the inalianable right to quit work, except mother.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE.

Among certain Indian tribes it is the custom for a woman to present her future lord with an embroidered and beaded leather jacket of her own make and a whip.

The whip is symbolic of her absolute submission, but it is said to be most infrequently used. The Indian seldom gives his squaw any gifts save the trophies if his hunt.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour Gassy Stomach and Acid Indigestion.

Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion you have already tried pepsin, pancreatin, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know that these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate or milk, but the pure Bisurated Magnesia, which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach, which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that provided you take a little Bisurated Magnesia immediately after a meal you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow and moreover the continued use of the bisurated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.

ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN.

Nearly every newspaper in London now has women reporters as well as women feature writers.

Mrs. Lewis B. Barrett has been named as president and publisher of the Birmingham, Ala., Age-Herald.

Miss Elizabeth Daingerfield, Kentucky's famous horse breeder, has horses in her stables valued at close to $1,000,000.

Miss Florence North of New York City is not only a fight promoter, but acts as manager of four clever boxers as well.

Jane Addams, one of the greatest of our women, started the settlement movement which now every city has taken up.

Before the war the surplus of women in Russia amounted to about 4 per cent.; now the surplus is more than 30 per cent.

UNCOVER HOMES OF STONE AGE MINERS

Vestiges of Ancient Civilization Believe Found Near Port Arthur.

PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 28.—(Canadian Press.—Further details concerning the uncovering on Isle Royale of what are believed to be remains of homes used by miners of the stone age while taking copper from Isle Royale are given by William P. Ferguson of Franklyn, Pa., who is in Port Arthur today while on his way home after his summer's activities.

"Isle Royale is definitely placed as a stone age mining district," he said to-day. "Mining was in progress there at least 1,000 years ago; how much longer we do not know, but we found pines six feet in diameter growing on the ancient rock dumps I have long believed there were villages or towns in that vicinity and I have been hunting for three years for remains of one.

This summer we found an area covering at least half a mile in width and two miles long over the whole of which we found remains of human habitation. These were largely pits which had been dug for homes. They ranged from eight to ten feet deep and were protected by carefully built stone walls which kept them free from water. Some of these walls had been pushed and heaved by the frosts of years Apparently they had been covered by wooden roofs. Some of them were twenty by forty feet in diameter, these evidently being communal dwellings. We found one fifty by eighty feet that had evidently been a fort.

"These pits had all been Oriented, the sides running squarely east and west and north and south, the long sides being straight north and south indicating that people who built them perceived the relation of stars and the sun to the direction.

"These people mined in solid rock, the whole island over, but did not dig their shafts more than about twenty or perhaps thirty feet deep. Their tools were black egg-shaped stones of great hardness which are found on the shores of Black Bay on the north shore of Lake Superior, but not on Isle Royale."

SAGE AND SULPHER DARKENS GRAY HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Colour, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural colour and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredient at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, and attractive.

ROYAL—Earle Williams in "Fortune's Mask". Also great feature drama, "The Angel of Crooked street, and a comedy unexcelled.

Charlie Chaplin in "Pay Day" and Agnes Ayres in "Borderland" at the Capitol Tonight—Novel and Unusual is Story of Agnes Ayres' picture "Borderland."

Edith Wayne, pretty, young, rich and spoiled, thinks herself neglected and unappreciated by her busy husband. She turns to her husband's cousin, Clyde Meredith, and the situation gradually begins to get away from them.

Watching anxiously at the Well of the World's End is Dora Becket, Spirit of an ancestor of Edith's. Edith must not tread the path she herself went—she will go and warn her!

Edith agrees to a rendezvous with Meredith at Becket's Point, the old family home, from whence they are to sail to the other side of the world. Dancing to jazz music Edith does not get the message of Dora who arrives at the home. Dora gets her story to Edith eventually, however, through the medium of an old servant who tells the story of Dora Becket.

Dora was married to a harsh, old, unkind man. They had one girl, Totty, a mischievous child, and a dog, Bose. Captain Francis Vincent came to the house, his ship being moored just below the rocks of Becket's Point. Fleeing to Vincent's ship, Dora sees fire break out at the house. Knowing Totty to be locked in her room, her mother-love reawakened, she jumps overboard to swim ashore and is swept out by the tide.

At the end of the story Edith springs to her feet and rushes out of the house with only one thought, to get to her own Jimty, before anything, she knows not what, can happen to him.

As Edith tears away, her better self awakened, the Angel of Heaven tells Dora that she has won the right to find her little girl Totty, denied because of her mis-step, now redeemed.

Edith drives furiously to the private school where she has sent Jimty because he "bothered" the jazz Edith, and finds him just as he has climbed in his sleep to a dangerous spot on a new gymnasium roof. And it is there that Edith finally comes to her senses and is reunited not only with her boy, but with the husband whose sound kindness and loyalty her former small spirit had never before appreciated.

Charlie Chaplin in "Pey Day."

Charlie Chaplin in "Pay Day" has won fresh laurels for himself—and it almost seemed as if he had so many of those signs of a noble and useful career that there were no more for him to get. He is still the great "slap-stick comedian," he still uses the feet that made him famous—but he can do so many other things, there are so many new tricks that one wonders if he possesses the secret of perpetual youth, but of perpetual novelty. At the Capitol Theatre, where the very newest and best pictures only are shown, this chief of fun-makers, one of the original "great" comedians of the screen, will be seen in "Pay Day" and should crowd the house at every performance. One might say, "Don't forget to bring the children," and at the same time that it is a great tribute to his genius that he is unqualifiedly popular with the youngsters he is still a prime favorite with "children of a larger growth." Almost any kind of good, interesting story, well adapted for the screen plus a good cast and beautiful scenery, will draw the average sized audience; but a man who can fill houses to capacity night after night, causing gales of laughter and uproarious applause by his grotesque actions and peculiarity of appearance and manners, is more than an ordinary actor or comedian—he is a genius. Some persons find his tricks vulgar, and pretend to be disgusted at his pie-slinging, or sly gestures. Charles Spencer Chaplin has a personality that cannot be dubbed vulgar. The most discriminating critics admit that often he approaches the sublime in his ridiculous performances, but he is not low or common. His imitators—yes, they do overstep the bounds of good taste, but the wonderful Charles? Never. Quite a long time ago, Chaplin wrote a story for the screen and played in it himself. It was a short story, called "The Vagabond," and in it he showed great dramatic ability. He passed quickly from fun to sadness and brought tears to the eyes of his audience as easily and as rapidly as he was wont to cause laughter. In "Pay Day" there are some dramatic situations which call for clever acting and the plot is quite a good one. He is seen in his old, familiar clothes, his soft flexible boots are in evidence and he is just as lovable as ever. Patrons of the Capitol Theatre will find the attraction so popular that it will be advisable to make sure of obtaining seats in good time.

AT THE GRAND.

Still going strong, with an apparent inexhaustible store of new gags and jokes that keep their audiences in constant good humour, Jimmie Evans' Musical Revue is as popular as ever with the Grand Opera House habitues. "Behind the Footlights" had a good-sized attendance for its third presentation last night, with the usual rapid-fire movement and gay atmosphere that make the offerings of this aggregation so entertaining. "A Travesty on Life Behind the Scenes", with the difficulties encountered by an amateur masculine lady's maid, and the trials of a musical professor with the solfeggic scale, was a constant scream. "You Said It" and "The Commuters" were a couple of gay bits of nonsense, and Joe Devine with Jimmy Evans have an invisible piano duet that is wildly hilarious. Burt Ryan sings, in his usual excellent style 'Don't Leave Me Mammy", and the "Choo-Choo Blues" with a catchy chorus; Kittens Fraser and Girls do "Those Finale Hoppers" with their usual zest, and "Good Mornin'" is another fetching [illegible]er, with Dolly Jollymore and Dolly and Roy Ellis have a [illegible] that is just like its name [illegible]ola"; Florence Pippin gets her triple encore with her violin [illegible]tions, and Grace Gould sings dainty effect, "When the Honey was Over".

[illegible] to-night and the balance of the week, the Revue will offer "A Night in Spain", with Spanish dances and musical novelties.

AT THE ROYAL.

BIG BARN DANCE IN MOTION PICTURE.

Country Atmosphere Transferred to Screen By David Smith.

For the big barn dance scene for "The Angel of Crooked Street," which will be shown at the Royal Theatre to-night, many professional dancers appeared.

Alice Calhoun, the star, made real lemonade and cake for the players and proved herself an expert cook. The scene showing the guests eating the cake is included in the film.

"The Angel of Crooked Street" is a story of unusual interest because of its action and intensely dramatic scenes. It deals with the adventures of a young girl who is falsely accused of theft and sent to the workhouse. When she comes out she seeks revenge, but finds that vengeance is not hers to take.

EARLE WILLIAMS HAS REAL FIGHT.

Goes Up Against Fat Man in Photoplay.

Earle Williams, known as the wearer of typically handsome clothes and as the portrayer of strictly gentleman roles, surprised those on Vitagraph's western lot by engaging in a free-for-all fight in a scene for "Fortune's Mask," which will be shown at the Royal Theatre to-night.

Mr. Williams engaged in a frantic battle with a Central American commandante and a gang of the latter's soldiers. Oliver Hardy, who takes the part of the commandante, is a gigantic man and powerful. In the scene where Williams, as Dickey, escapes from jail and encounters the enemy he engages in a fist battle which resulted in several soldiers spending an uncomfortable night as the result of Mr. Williams' energetic efforts.

Williams had a particularly hard set-to with the gigantic Hardy, who, following the battle, was nursing a large lump on his head. "Fortune's Mask" reveals Earle Williams not only in a particularly refreshing and compelling picture but also as the athlete who has held his physical prowess subdued, in keeping with the "gentlemen" parts which as a rule has been his lot to play.

Ruled Out Heat Because Drivers Not Trying.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 27—After declaring the fourth heat of the 2:08 trot no heat because they ruled that the drivers were not trying, judges at the local grand circuit meeting late to-day discovered they had exceeded their authority and ruled that the heat would stand as the horses finished, but all bets on the heat were declared off.

The heat was won by Escotillo, trotting the mile in 2.20. Escotillo, McGregor, the Great, and Main Lick turned the first quarter on a jog in 40 seconds, and to the half in 1.18 but they raced home in the last half.

"Pop" Geers, the veteran horseman, making his first start of the local meet to-day drove Miladi Guy to a straight heat victory in the 2.12 trot, limited to three year old trotters. Chop Suey, the favorite, finished second, losing the first heat by a nose.

Belleville Wins The Central Ontario League Championships

PETES CRACK WIDE OPEN IN FINAL TILT ARE OVERWHELMED

Belleville Wins Central Ontario League Title By Whitewashing Solomon Crew 13 to 0 in Crucial Game at Oshawa.

ROUT IS COMPLETE.

Belleville are the 1922 champions of the Central Ontario League.

By smothering Peterborough 13 to 0 in the third game of the play-off series at Oshawa yesterday, the Easterners captured the Johnston Cup for the second time.

From a Peterborough standpoint, yesterday's "croocial" fixture was a complete rout. Before the game several baseball sharps opined that after two such hard fought battles one of the teams was liable to crack. They were right, and Peterborough was was the one. They made a good job of it, cracking so far open that they looked like novices. It was difficult to imagine that they were the same team that had played such brilliant baseball against Belleville on Saturday.

In the most vital game of the season they simply could not do anything right, turning in by long odds their worst exhibition of the year. Al Heckman, whose superb pitching has held the team up all summer, got off on the wrong foot and was hit hard all the way, while his team mates went to pieces behind him, and the result was an exhibition of ragged baseball that had to be seen to be realized. "Heck" was in difficulties all through and the fact that Belleville came through with sixteen hits off his delivery is convincing proof that the Petes' ace was not "right."

On the other hand, Belleville's Indian wizard, Williams, who was expected to crack after his two hard games of last week, came back stronger than ever and had the Petes at his mercy, fanning fifteen and allowing but two stingy hits. Even when the Solomon crew filled the bases with nobody out, they could not squeeze a run over and he was going as strong on end as in the first innings.

It was a disappointing finale to a splendid series. A grand crowd, composed of baseball enthusiasts from all over Eastern Ontario was on hand expecting to see one of the most brilliant exhibitions of the year, and they saw about the worst. Knotty Lee, Toronto scout, was among the experts present. He did not call any of the Petes to one side after the game was over. "Nip" Dwan, Hillcrest manager, Duke Hennessey, Hillcrest's good catcher, and other Toronto baseball celebrities, including Joe Walsh, secretary of the O.B.A.A. were in attendance. Belleville and Peterborough each had a special train load of supporters, and altogether there were over 2,500 customers present.

Congratulations are due Belleville. After slumping in the first half, they rallied in the second section, and have made a grand record, winning ten straight games in their dash for the second half honours. Their victory over the Petes in the play-off series was complete and decisive, the Solomon crew being able to score but two runs in the three games. Manager Walter Gerow has a fighting team, powerful on the attack, and in Williams, a pitcher who, when at the top of his form, is a puzzle to any man's team. They will carry the best wishes of every Peterborough player in their attempt to bring the Ontario honours east.

As for the Petes, while the final game was humiliating because of the unexpected blow-up of the whole crew, they have had a great season, have never lost a game on their own grounds in eighteen starts, and made [illegible] the limit of three games to decide the title. Considering the material that Manager Solomon had at his disposal, the team has done even more than was considered possible at the beginning of the season.

How It Happened.

The fireworks started right in the first innings. Ross hit past third and went to second when the ball got away from Shaughnessy. Weir promptly doubled past third, and the first run was in. Weir went to third on a passed ball. W. Mills was passed and stole second. H. Mills hit to Holyman, who threw to the plate, too late to stop Weir from scoring. J. K. Williams forced H. Mills at second, Heckman to Johnston. Williams died stealing, Swanston to Holyman, W. Mills being held at third. Shaughnessy muffed Meagher's fly, Mills scoring. Collins tossed out Casey.

Heckman struck out the side in the second, but Belleville came right back in the third. Weir walked and was sacrificed to second by W. Mills. H. Mills doubled to centre, scoring Weir. J. K. Williams doubled to left, the ball bouncing over Shaughnessy's head, and Mills scored. Kirn replaced Shaughnessy at this stage. Meagher's roller got away from Holyman and Williams scored. Bergoine dropped Casey's fly but saved himself an error by forcing Meagher at second with a pretty throw to Johnston. Hagerman fanned.

Belleville bagged three more in the fourth. Williams got a life on Holyman's error and Weir doubled past third, sending Williams to third. W. Mills' fielder's choice scored Williams, the batter being safe. H. Mills singled to right, scoring Weir, but was out at second on Bergoine's neat throw to Holyman. J. K. Williams hit to Collins, whose throw to the plate hit Mills, and the catcher registered. Johnston's fumble gave Meagher a life. Johnston threw out Casey.

The Petes got by the fifth without being scored upon, but the 1922 champs added another in the sixth. Harry Mills singled past second. J. K. Williams fanned. Meagher dropped a single into centre. Casey singled to the same field, scoring Mills, while the runners advanced an extra base on Wolfe's wide throw. Hagerman fanned and J. H. Williams hoisted to Holyman.

That made it 10-0 and the Trunks reached the even dozen in the next frame. Ross started it with a single to left, and Weir beat out a bunt. W. Mills' bunt to Heckman forced Ross at third. The runners advanced on a passed ball. H. Mills fanned. Weir scored when Swanston threw to second in trying to catch W. Mills. J. K. Williams singled to left, scoring W. Mills and going to second on Kirn's wide throw. Meagher grounded to Long.

The eighth was a blank, but in the ninth, with one gone, W. Mills singled and brother Harry followed with his fourth safety. J. K. Williams whiffed, but Meagher singled, scoring W. Mills. He was forced by Casey, Collins to Johnston.

The Petes did not get a man on until the second, when Heckman, first up, walked, but Shaughnessy, Wolfe and Bergoine struck out.

With two out in the third, Holyman got the first hit off Williams, and Johnston was safe on Meaghers' fumble, but Williams grabbed Swanston's roller and beat the runner to the bag.

Wolfe was the only man to get on in the next two innings, reaching first on Weir's fumble, but he was left stranded.

Johnston opened the sixth with a single to centre and was forced on Swanston's roller to third. Heckman walked. Kirn hit to the Indian and Swanston was forced at third. Weir tossed out Wolfe.

The Petes' best chance for a counter came in the seventh. Bergoine got a life on J. H. Williams' fumble. Long walked and Mills missed the third strike on Collins, filling the bases. Holyman was called out on strikes. Johnston's bunt forced Bergoine at the plate and Ross grabbed Swanston's fly to centre. The Petes went out in order in the last two frames.

Here is the box score. Read it and weep:

PETERBORO TEAMS PLAY SATURDAY

Adanacs Go To Toronto—Midgets Have Semi-Final Here.

Although Peterborough's senior ball team was eliminated from the championship race at Oshawa yesterday, three other local teams are still in the running in the intermediate junior and midget series of the O.B.A.A. The Adanacs, who won the Peterborough junior championship, are scheduled to play the McCormicks of Toronto in Toronto on Saturday in a Junior O.B.A.A. semi-final game. McCormicks won the T.A.B.A. League in their class.

Charlie Curtis' Maple Leafs are billed to play the Toronto Midget group winners here on Saturday afternoon, and on their performance here against Lindsay this week should provide an interesting game for the fans. These youngsters are smart fielders and they clouted the Lindsay pitchers hard and often. On their showing in Tuesday's game they should surprise the fans who have not yet seen them in action.

The C.G.E. team's next game with Picton has been announced to be played in Colborne, but nothing definite was known here last night regarding this reported arrangement.

Bad Luck This Year

But Yankees Equal Any Major League Team Just the Same, As Billy Evans Rates Them.

Playing Looks Good As Ever, Yet It Isn't the Same.

JUST ONE OF THE MYSTERIES OF BASEBALL.

By BILLY EVANS.

A year brings about some funny changes in baseball.

This time last season, as the Yankees were coming down the home stretch, Carl Mays and Waite Hoyt were carrying the burden of the pitching.

Mays finished the season of 1921 with 27 victories, Hoyt with 19.

New York, in order to win the American League pennant, registered 98 triumphs.

Mays and Hoyt scored 46 of the wins.

Some pitching!

In the world series these same pitchers were called upon to save the day. Each pitched three remarkable games, Hoyt winning two and Mays one. The two defeats suffered by Mays and the one by Hoyt were heartbreakers.

Different This Year.

There was every reason to believe that Hoyt and Mays would be equally successful this year. Thus, when Sam Jones and Joe Bush, the stars of the Boston staff, were sold to New York, it was only natural that the experts could concede the pennant to the Yankees.

Things have been mighty different this year with the two star pitchers of the Yankee staff. With four weeks of the season to go, Hoyt had 14 victories to his credit. Mays, on the other hand, had only 12 wins.

It is possible that Hoyt will come close to his 19 victories of last year, but Mays is certain to fall far below his mark of 27 wins for 1921.

Luck Needed, Too.

They do say, that to be a winning pitcher, you must be blessed with luck as well as ability. Last year the Yankees made plenty of runs for Mays, this year they seem to leave their bats in the club house when he performs. Hoyt's luck has been much the same.

Failure to get the breaks often rols a pitcher of much of his confidence. That, to a certain extent, has played havoc with the Yankees' pitching this year.

I can see very little difference between Carl Mays' pitching this year and last. He seems to have just as much stuff, but he can't win with any degree of consistency.

Hoodoo Worries Him.

Mays is high-strung, temperamental; he lacks the poise that would enable him to throw off the hard-luck hoodoo. Instead, he worries over his failure to win, which, in turn, naturally affects his pitching.

Last year Sam Jones, pitching for Boston, won 23 games for a club that finished fifth. This year, with a month to go, he had only won 11 games for the league-leading Yankees.

Joe Bush has carried the Yankees' 1922 burden. With four weeks of play remaining, he had 22 victories to his credit. He should reach the 25 mark easily.

Bob Shawkey, who failed in the series, and was counted out by many of the experts, ranks next to Bush in effectiveness.

Three Best Bets.

Thus the three best bets—Mays, Hoyt and Jones—have not run true to form, while Bush and Shawkey have bettered past performances.

However, despite the disappointments that have crept into the Yankee staff, I rate it as the equal of any in the major leagues. Hoyt, Mays and Jones have all their off-time stuff. Their failure to win is simply one of the many mysteries with which baseball is filled.

If the Yankees get into the big series the opposition certainly will be forced to look at some mean pitching. The staff boasts five regulars of class and experience.

Collins Predicts Style of Play in the World Series

This is the fourth of seven articles written for The Examiner by Eddie Collins of the Chicago White Sox. Collins has played in more world series games than any other major league player.

By EDDIE COLLINS,
World's Greatest Second Baseman.

In spite of the fact that there has been a decided revolution in the game of baseball in the last two years, and that now it's distinctly a game of swat, and hits and runs are of much more frequent occurrence, due, let's say, to simplify, to various causes, I am of the opinion the style of play in a world series will always have a tendency to be more along the old conventional conservative lines.

My reasons for this belief are several.

In the first place, opponents in a world series do not know each other, individually or collectively, as well as they know the teams they combat daily in their respective leagues, and the procedure is consequently slower.

Secondly, players or teams do not take the same chances, to begin with at least, in a world series as they do in a regular game. The series is too short, the risk too great, and not worth it. As a last resirt, when other means of making runs have failed, a manager may be forced to attempt anything.

For example, in 1911, when the Giants couldn't fathom the offerings of Bender or Coombs with any degree of success, McGraw started his men on a base-stealing crusade. That year, if I am not mistaken, the combined steals of the New York club created a major league record which still stands. But after Jack Lapp had pegged out five in one game, that was stopped too.

Base Stealing.

Strange though it may seem, base stealing is an art and a practice that's played but a small part in the outcome of any world series.

In the 1921 pre-series predictions the slowness of the Yanks and the fleetness of the Giants was dwelt upon at great length. Whereas the final count showed the Nationals had seven stolen bases to the Americans' six. And I think I am safe in saying the six were better applied and counted for more than the seven.

Just so this year, I would be inclined to attach small significance to the fact that Sisler and Williams of the Browns alone total more stolen bases than the entire Yankee team.

From a fan's standpoint, as well as from a player's, I would be more interested in watching the Browns' style of play in a world series than I would in watching the Yanks. Understand me, not that I believe they would be any the more successful, but because of the fact that there would be opportunity for a greater variety.

The Yanks' style of play varies but little, they are not hard to outguess, but ofttimes when you know what's coming off, it succeeds in spite of you.

Browns Mix 'Em.

The Browns mix their plays better and oftener—their men more often assume the initiative and pull the unexpected. They are more careful in their play, and make use of their strength to better advantage.

Don't let me give the impression the Yanks are dumb and the Browns vice versa. I have just as much respect for Miller Huggins as I have for Lee Fohl, and regard them both high as baseball men. But they work along different lines, although arriving at the same ends.

Possibly there is no set style of play that can be followed in a world series, but play must be adapted to conditions. It's the team that can adjust its play to conform with those conditions that has the big edge.

When one method of attack fails, try something else.

"Mix 'em up," is the motto I like to follow.

Have the other fellow worrying about what you are going to do, and you'll be a jump ahead all the while.

The edge is what counts in a short series—hustle!

MIDGET LACROSSE FINAL IN LINDSAY

Lindsay will be the scene of a tidy lacrosse battle on Saturday next, when Orillia and Campbellford meet in a sudden-death fixture. Owing to the distance between points a happy medium was arrived at and the game arranged for Lindsay, where everything will be in apple pie shape for the midget play-off. Lindsay fans are expected to turn out in goodly number, as it is possible that within a year or two that town will be back on the lacrosse map. The teams yesterday agreed on "Len" Smith of Toronto as referee.

SELF-CONTROL AN IMPORTANT RUGBY FACTOR SAYS C.S. BROWNE

Collegiate Coach Discussed Rules and Code at Meeting of Peterborough City Leaguers at Y. M. C. A. Last Night.

EMPHASIZED FAIR PLAY.

Loss of self-control on the rugby field impairs a player's efficiency twenty-five per cent., according to the statement of Mr. C. S. Browne of the Collegiate Institute staff in an explanation of the rugby rules to a group of City League players at the Y.M.C.A. last night.

"The first thing to learn," said Mr. Browne, who is coach of the Collegiate team, "is self-control, and if you learn that it will be an invaluable lesson to you in all your other activities. "If in the progress of a game a player loses his temper, he is reducing his efficiency on that team. He can't be thinking of the next thing he's going to say to an official, to some of the opposing players or what he's going to do to them and pay attention to the game as well. If he continues to 'crab' and tells the officials they missed this play or their decision on the other one was wrong, he lowers his usefulness to the team by at least twenty-five per cent.

Tie Up Temper.

"A rugby player should never lose his temper. If he does he is likely to transgress the rules and put himself out of the game. If he uses profanity or abusive language he leaves himself open to a penalty, and the rules state that in such cases the referee has no option but to rule off the offender for at least three minutes. If a player says to another, 'I'll get you,' or uses other such threats, the referee has no choice but to impose the penalty of not less than three minutes."

Following this vein, Mr. Browne urged the members of the City League teams to remember that the success of the game from the spectators' standpoint and from every other standpoint as well, depended upon their conduct on the field. Rugby, he declared, was one of the finest games of all, but it could be easily marred if players did not put the right spirit into it.

Continuing from this preface, Mr. Browne explained the general idea of rugby and went into the details. The rules and other information regarding rugby will be published in instalments in The Examiner for the benefit of the new players, and also the public whose interest will be rekindled by the City League and the Collegiate team.

Holding.

The following is an introduction:

Holding is prohibited because it does not belong to the game of football. It eliminates skill. The slowest man in the world could make a long run at any time if the rest of his teammates would hold their opponents long enough. The game of football is to advance the ball by strategy, skill and speed without holding your opponent.

Talking to Officials.

When an official imposes a penalty or makes a decision, he is simply doing his duty as he sees it. He is on the field representing the integrity of the game of football, and his decision, even though he may have made a mistake in judgment, is final and conclusive, and should be so accepted. Even if you think the decision is a mistaken one, take your medicine and do not whine about it. If there is anything to be said, let your captain do the talking. He has that privilege, according to the rules. You have not; therefore, keep quiet and play the game.

The Football Code.

You may meet players and even coaches who will tell you that it is all right to hold or otherwise violate the rules if you do not get caught. That is the code of men whose sense of honor is sadly lacking.

"The football code is different. The football player who intentionally violates a rule is guilty of unfair play and unsportsmanlike tactics, and whether or not he escapes being penalized, he brings discredit to the good name of the game, which it is his duty as a player to uphold."

GREAT FINISH BY NEW HAVEN

Six Runs in Ninth Beat Baltimore By One—Won Three-Game Series.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., September 28 (Canadian Press). — Staging one of the greatest finishes in a ball game ever seen in this city, New Haven, Eastern League champions for 1922, won the three-game series from Baltimore. International League pennant winners, by taking yesterday's game, 6 to 5, scoring all their runs in the ninth inning with two out.

Pandemonium broke loose in the stands, and every member of the New Haven team was paraded around the field on the shoulders of the spectators.

Parnham pitched well up to the ninth inning, holding New Haven to three hits. Stryker also pitched well, three of the visitors' runs being scored through errors.

Baltimore won the first game, 5 to 1; New Haven took the second 11 to 7, and the third, 6 to 5. Max Bishop's fielding, Styles' hitting, Hargrave's general all-round work, and Bentley's pitching featured the series. Score:

Baltimore	002000030—5 8 1
New Haven	000000006—6 9 3

Parnham and McAvoy; Stryker, Woodward and Hargrave.

McGRAW'S RECRUITS WIN.

NEW YORK, September 28 (Canadian Press).—The champion Giants divided a double-header here yesterday afternoon with the Phillies, the visitors taking the first, 5 to 3, in ten innings, and the home team the second, 3 to 2. Philadelphia won the first game through home runs hit by Henline and Wrightstone off Johnson, a young right-hander from San Antonio.

McGraw sent a team of recruits into the second game. After Ring baffled them for seven innings the youngsters batted out three runs in the eighth. Score:

Philadelphia	0000020012—5 10 3
New York	0000101010—3 8 0

Weinert and Henline; Johnson and Snyder.

Philadelphia	100000100—2 7 1
New York	00000003x—3 7 1

Ring and Withrow; Scott, Hill, V. Barnes and Gaston, Smith.

NEW PITCHER WINS.

PITTSBURGH, September 28 (Canadian Press). — Fred Fussell made his local debut by striking out four times yesterday, but he pitched Chicago to a 4 to 1 victory over the Pirates. The recruit southpaw was somewhat wild, but he showed a curve ball that stopped the Pirates with men on bases. The Cubs bunched their hits and fielded well. This game, transferred from Chicago, closed the home season. Score:

Chicago	200200000—4 11 0
Pittsburgh	100000000—1 5 1

Fussell and O'Farrell; Cooper and Schmidt.

FOUR RUNS ON ONE HIT.

BISTON, September 28 (Canadian Press). — The Boston Braves closed their home season yesterday by defeating Brooklyn, 7 to 0. McNamara pitched well with men on bases. Loose playing permitted Boston to score four runs on one hit in the eighth inning.

AMERICAN LEAGUE IDLE.

NEW YORK, September 28 (Canadian Press). — The double-header here between the Giants and Phillies and the other National League games at Boston and Pittsburgh were the only major league games played yesterday.

SMOKING WHILE EATING NOT CORRECT IN FRANCE

PARIS, Sept. 27.—To the French eating is sacred. It is not to be profaned with any more than one would light up a cigar in church.

A favorite story in Paris tells of a young French woman in a dining car, who expressed the annoyance of the other passengers at the table when a young Englishman pulled his pipe and calmly lit it between the fish and meat courses.

"Pardon, monsieur," she addressed him, "I hope it won't disturb you if I eat while you are smoking."

GEORGE POWELL VETERAN DRIVER DIES SUDDENLY

Well-Known Horseman Called After Illness of Less Than a Week.

DROVE AT PICTON FAIR.

BELLEVILLE, September 28.—Driver of horses for nearly sixty years, George Powell, well known veteran turfman, of Belleville, has run his last race. He died early on Tuesday after an illness of several days at his West Bridge Street home. Only last Friday he drove Billy Patch at the Picton Fair, and was there taken with tonsilitis, which developed into other complications, which resulted in his death. Few knew of the serious nature of his illness, and the news of his death was received with many expressions of regret by the many friends of the horseman.

Racing men one and all yesterday voiced their sorrow at the passing of Mr. Powell. He was held in the highest esteem, and his remarkable showing for a man of his years in the sulky seat was often noted. Mr. Powell atlways drove the best horses. His vast experience in starting and his intimate knowledge of the noble animal the horse gave him a success on the track that few drivers enjoy.

Rarely in an accident, he drove many of the winners. He was known from one end of the Dominion to the other. Every fall fair had him as one of the entries, and every event of importance found George Powell competing.

He was a fair horseman, as all his rivals in the racing business admit. He was a loyal supporter of every sporting event, and at all times demonstrated his true sportsmanlike qualities. He was a warm friend of the horse, as trainer and driver he was esteemed and honoured by his associates on the turf and by all who knew him on the track or as a citizen.

Born at Port Perry 72 years ago, he was a son of the late James W. Powell. Early in life he was brought into close touch with horses, which he came to love. As a boy he started in the course which was only closed when his life's race was run. Fifteen years ago he came here from Orillia, and from that time to this he held a warm spot in the hearts of the people of Belleville and this part of the province.

There survive to mourn his loss, his widow, two sons, George of Belleville and James of Burn River, and three daughters, Mrs. Wilton Fleury, Mrs. John McIntyre, and Mrs. Irvine Jackson, all of Toronto.

The remains will be taken to Orillia for burial.

RUGBY NEWS

Coach Browne had forty candidates out at the Collegiate practice yesterday afternoon. "Pete" Mulholland, formerly of T.C.S., has been doing great work and looks good for the kicking job. He also shapes up in great style as a ball carrier.

Although Peterborough drew an O.R.F.U. bye and will have no games in the first round, it has been suggested that weekly workouts should be held, beginning at once, in order that a team may be drilled and rounded into shape.

Oshawa Collegiates will have the advantage of the guidance of a former T.C.S. coach.

This from Sandy Lockington in The Port Hope Guide: "Johnny Evans, who caught for the Oshawa Central League team this year, has turned out with Queen's rugby squad. The coach remarked when he saw Evans trot on to the field that the latter was looking too prosperous and that twenty pounds of weight would have to come off during the few weeks of training. With the soft job he had all summer it was only natural that he would put on weight.

With an almost all-McGill team as their opponents, Argos are sure to get an interesting reception from the M.A.A.A. aggregation next Saturday. The McGill stars will not crumple under fire, and any time that players like "Dud" Ross, Draper, Heney, Russell, Seath, Livshin and Lazier are around there is likely to be a lot of good tackling. All signs point to a real struggle next Saturday.

Take what you like out of this from The Ottawa Journal: "Ottawas missed Harry Batstone by a few days. Up to last week the Senators had a chance of landing the backfield peach. Batstone has turned out with Queen's University.

The bite of the American tarantula, long popularly believed to be deadly poisonous, is now known to be little worse than a bee sting.

WORLD SERIES COMPARISONS

THE CENTRE FIELDERS

By BILLY EVANS

WITT, NEW YORK AMERICANS.—Witt is one of the fastest runners in the majors going down to first base. After reaching first he doesn't use his speed to its utmost advantage.

Witt is a good outfielder, but not a great one. He is a fair judge of distance, but a trifle uncertain on the catch. His arm is about the average.

At the bat Witt is a hard man to pitch to. He usually works the pitcher to the limit. I would rate him a good hitter. He is a past master at the art of bunting. He is away with the tap of the bat, and his great speed makes it difficult to throw him out if the bunt is half good.

In a recent double-header with the Athletics I saw Witt lay down seven bunts and beat out five of them. He was thrown out on the other two on very close plays at first.

STENGEL, NEW YORK GIANTS.—Stengel, with Cunningham, is used in centre field for the Giants as a switch combination. Stengel was merely a substitute of uncertain standing last season. This year, when the Giants were hard pressed for outfielders, he jumped into the breach, and has played great ball for McGraw.

Stengel is a left-handed batter. He is used by McGraw against right-handed pitching. He has batted well over .300 all season. Always a good hitter, the veteran Stengel continues to play a very neat game in the outfield.

Cunningham is a right-handed batsman, and is used by McGraw when a southpaw opposes the Giants. Cunningham is very fast, and a good hitter and fielder. He gives promise of developing into a great player.

In these dry times it doesn't take three hips to make a hurrah.—Syracuse Herald.

LEAFS' FINAL ON SATURDAY

Fans Will See Battle for Midget Championship of Ontario.

The Maple Leafs have been notified that Royce aye., midget champions of the Toronto Amateur Baseball Association will come here on Saturday afternoon for a sudden death game, the winner of which will be acclaimed Ontario champions.

It is to be hoped that baseball enthusiasts will rally to the support of the local team. The expenses will be considerable.

The Leafs are capable of playing high-class baseball, and fans who saw the game with Lindsay on Tuesday were immensely pleased with the snappy game put up by the Leafs, one significant fact being that the locals had to come from behind to win.

Announcement will be made of the progress of the Belleville-Hillcrest championship game at Toronto, and the Adanacs-McCormick game, also at the Queen City.

LADIES' SOFT BALL LEAGUE

A special meeting of the Executive of the above League is called for to-night at 8 p.m. in the Chamber of Commerce when the Schedule committee will make their report, also consideration of the Trophy being donated will be taken up. A full representation of all teams is requested to be on hand.

Little Lessons For the Golfer

(By George O'Neill.)

The golf stroke is a pendulum stroke all the way through, regardless of the club used. The golfer can get at a good understanding of this by swinging his putter for a practice swing now and then. The putter, being short, is easy to watch and requires a pretty good stoop for a practice swing. Place the putter blade back of a weed or a dandelion, stooping over, meantime, until the reach is comfortable. Then lift up the putter, keeping the wrists straight. Now snap it down at the weed or dandelion, endeavoring to snap off the object of the aim as the blade passes through. Hold the head still, and be CONSCIOUS of the object you are aiming at. Keep the gaze intently on this object. The putter blade will snap through and be up and back over the left shoulder almost before you know it. The swing with driver, brassie, midiron or any other club is the same thing. Get the true pendulum snap and your ball will go far and straight.

After the player gets the true pendulum swing into his drives he can begin the practice of shooting his whole body into the stroke at the proper instant when that is done effectively. In this picture of Walter Hagen you see a drive with everything in it that Hagen could possibly throw after the ball. He has swung his right shoulder and his right hip, together with all the force of his arms, shoulders and wrists, into his drive. This perfect co-ordination must be accomplished to an exact nicety, however, with perfect timing or the result is not 100 per cent. First get the right swing, with perfect rhythm—then the rest of it is no so hard.

PICTON TEAM TO PLAY HERE

Second Game With Canadian Generals at Riverside Park To-morrow Afternoon.

Arrangements made for a game at Colborne having been called off, Canadian Generals and Picton will play the second contest of their intermediate O.B.A. series at Riverside Park to-morrow afternoon. The game will start at 3.30 o'clock.

The Generals could not get a Saturday date with Picton, and this accounts for the game being billed for Friday, an arrangement that entails considerable sacrifice on the part of the local team. The expenses in conducting the Picton-C.G.E. series reach a high figure.

"Lefty" McElroy looks like the probable choice as an opponent for Croft, and if these two engage in the battle, there should be a lot of good baseball at the lot to-morrow afternoon.

LONDON HOUSES UP FASTER AND CHEAPER

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Houses built at "half the cost and twice the speed" are springing up in all parts of England.

Speed, which reduces largely the cost of the building, is an essential factor in the production of the cheaper house, cheaper materials being the second factor.

The great fall in the cost of houses has not been confined to one or two types. While local councils are finding it possible to place contracts at £299 per house fog blocks of artisans' homes, the rich man who can afford to spend anything from £5,000 to £50,000, upon his home is also being encouraged to build by lower prices.

All round building of houses, whether for rich or poor, is the surest solution of the housing problem. It will make employment this winter and help to relieve the taxpayer of the dole now paid to so many men in the building trades.

"People who have been waiting for reasonable prices are coming to us again," said a representative of a firm which builds houses for well-to-do clients in both town and country. "They recognize that a level has been reached, both in cost of materials and labor, which will be maintained now for some time, certainly we think until next March.

By Stuart P. West.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Sept. 28. — (Special.) — Cable advices from Europe pronouncing the Turkish situation more critical than it has been at any time, afforded a further severe test for the markets.

Again there was no real war scare, but there was a good deal of sensitiveness to the news, especially in the investment market and in the foreign exchanges.

Wheat went up and cotton came down, but in neither instance was the movement anything more than ordinary fluctuations that might be expected in the day to day routine.

British Government bonds were rather noticeably soft, and this taken in connection with further marked weakness in sterling, furnished an indication that banking opinion abroad was viewing the latest developments at the Dardanelles with some uneasiness.

So far as the decline in sterling was concerned, however, it could have been accounted for quite as readily by the seasonal pressure of commercial drafts drawn against foreign purchases of American staples.

So, too, while the tone of the whole bond market was weaker, including liberties and corporate issues as well, and more reactionary than it has been at any time, it was hard to say just how much this was due to the European crisis and how far to the uncertainty regarding the new treasury financing at home. Unquestionably the fear that the new government loan would be offered on terms which would make the recent average bond prices seem rather too high has made large stock holders more willing to sell.

In the stock market, speculative efforts to get prices down were resumed at the opening and renewed at intervals during the remainder of the day. They were helped by a moderate amount of real liquidation which represented the necessity of over expanded individuals, and pools that cut such a figure in the August advance. The buying in on a large scale of stocks sold short on previous days, however, furnished an increasing element of support and buying orders put into reaccumulated stocks distributed 5 to 10 points up, were more of a factor than they had been.

Operations for the decline made headway in the independent steels and the tobacco ,but encountered more opposition in the motors and equipment issues.

ILL IN GERMANY PAY TOWERING PRICE NOW.

Treatment Costs 20 Times as Much as Before War.

BERLIN, Sept. 28.—Medical treatment costs 20 times more in Germany than it did before the war, declares Dr. Heinrich Brauns, German Minister of Labor, writing in a recent number of Reconstruction. Dr. Brauns calls attention to this increase in connection with the critical situation which, he says, prevails in Germany's social insurance.

Although so far the directors of the sick funds have been successful in maintaining the payments of the benefits, the funds are "approaching their day of fate."

Medicine cost, on an average, 25 times the pre-war figure, while in 1914 a charge of 3 marks was made for a day's hospital treatment, which now costs 100 marks.

According to the Minister's statistics, 16,000,000 employees are insured under the German invalidity insurance system and 1,600,000 under the private employees' insurance.

The sickness insurance grants to workmen, domestic servants and clerks, whose annual earnings do not exceed a certain limit, cash payments and benefits in kind. The funds responsible for the payment of these benefits are kept up by the contributions of the insured persons and of the employers.

Accident and invalidity insurance also are provided. These, however, as well as the sickness insurance, are being operated with a great deal of difficulty and highly unsatisfactory results, owing largely to the depreciation of the value of the mark.

"It will depend on the value of the mark and on the labor market," the Minister concludes, "whether the sick, the disabled and the invalids can be protected against further misery."

RADIO'S RETURN TO FORMER POPULARITY.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Sept. 28. — Approach of cooler weather heralds the return of radio to its former popularity.

So says J. H. Dellinger, chief of the radio labratory of the U. S. Bureau of Standards. Dellinger represented Uncle Sam at the recent International Radio Conference.

During the summer radio had a decided slump. It was not unexpected by those who had experience in the new science. Warm weather has ever caused a slump in radio.

The reason for this has been not so much the interference of static as it has been the call of the outdoors. Even the dyed-in-the-wool radio fan abandoned his set and went out to play.

J. H. DELLINGER.

But says Dellinger, "a greater wave of general radio development than ever before is due during the coming winter months.

"For one thing, atmospheric conditions are much better for radio in the winter. That makes possible more satisfactory results both in sending and receiving.

"Next, the opportunity for enjoying radio programs will be much more appreciated during the long winter evenings. This, in addition to the better results that will come with the improved atmospheric conditions, seems certain to bring new high peak in the use of radio during the coming winter."

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE DIGESTS PROTEINS BY USE OF CHEMICALS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—"Experts of the Department of Agriculture have developed an artificial stomach" to test the digestability of food. A glass jar is used instead of the human "tummy."

"It is now possible to determine the digestability of the protein in foods and whether it is necessary to cook them, without conducting feeding tests, thus saving much time and expense," the specialists assert.

By the use of certain laboratory apparatus, it is explained, it "is possible to imitate at test a part of the digestive processes." Here is the plan:

"The proteins to be tested, those from beans, for instance, are placed in glass containers in a diluted soution of hydrochloric acid, similar to that found normally in the stomach. The proper quantity of pepsin is added and the mixture is placed in an incubator, where the temperature is kept at the same point as that of the human stomach, about 37 degrees centigrade.

"After a certain number of hours the contents of the container are sampled and analyzed. The digestive effect is measured by the ratio of what is known as amima-nitrogen to total nitrogen. By running through cooked and uncooked proten from beans, it is possible to determine which is the more easily acted upon by the chemicals in the artificial stomach, and, consequently by the human stomach itself."

IN MEMORIAM.

HEFFERNAN.—In loving memory of Cornoral Frank Heffernan, who was killed on September 28, 1918.

How autumn winds recall the brave,
Who for their country's freedom gave,
At Cambrai, life, and hopes, and dreams.
How autumn's chilly breath recalls
Among them he at Cambrai falls.
Our hearts are sad, and yet it seems
That honor calls, consoling, they
Canadians' debt to mankind pay.
Then sleep among thy comrades, rest,
Dear one, for all the nation blest
Your cause, a glory multiplied
By comrades who beside you died.
—A Sister.

SITUATION IN NEAR EAST GRAVER THAN PUBLIC YET REALIZE

Crisis Regarded as Bad as Can Be Short of Actual War--The Main Danger Centres in the Chanak Zone on Southern Shore of Dardanelles.

READY TO DECIDE ACTION OF CANADA

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press.)—Mustapha Kemal Pasha, replying to General Harrington's telegram of Wednesday, has sent a message declaring his troops would not advance further. He says he desires that no aggressive incident should occur, and that he will see General Harrington as soon as possible.

FEAR EUROPEAN WAR.

LONDON, Sept. 29.— (Canadian Press.)— Grave fears of recurrence of general warfare in Europe as a result of the Near East crisis are occupying the minds of British official circles, it was stated this morning in authoritative quarters.

It is explained that these fears are based on relations known to exist between the Angora government and Soviet Russia, and the danger of such relations.

The whole British policy, it is stated, is to keep the Turks from crossing the Dardanelles into Eastern Thrace, because it is maintained that in this event fighting would certainly occur and the whole of the Balkans would be drawn into the struggle. It is declared emphatically that such a crossing will not be tolerated.

REVOLUTION SPREADS.

ATHENS, Sept. 29. — (Canadian Press.)—The Greek army in Thrace has definitely joined the revolution. The army corps in Epirus also has thrown in its lot with the revolutionists.

CANADIANS OFFER SERVICE.

OTTAWA, Sept. 29. — (Canadian Press.)—Offers of service in event of war with Turkey continue to pour into militia headquarters in increasing numbers. In some instances these offers include whole regiments and companies, while individual volunteers are bombarding the department with letters. Volunteering is not confined to Canada, although it was stated at the department this morning that practically every city and town in the Dominion was represented in the offers already received.

BRITISH ULTIMATUM.

LONDON, Sept. 29. — (Canadian Press.)—The British government has sent a practical ultimatum to Mustapha Kemal Pasha, stating that his troops must leave the Chanak zone.

LONDON, Sept. 29.— (Canadian Press.)— The situation in the Near East is as bad as it can be short of actual war. This is the concensus of opinion among editorial writers of the morning newspapers. "All outward signs indicate that, as is known to the government; it is graver than the general public yet realizes," said the Times. Deep anxiety is manifest everywhere and in some quarters there is an insistent demand that parliament be summoned without delay

UPHELD DEFENCE OF MRS. STILLMAN

Former Show Girl Proves Husband's Misconduct

CARMEL, N.Y., Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press).—The referee's decision in the Stillman case was a complete sweeping victory for Mrs. Stillman. Not only was her defence upheld, but the referee also confirmed her charges that Mr. Stillman had misconducted himself with Florence H. Leeds, former Broadway show girl, and that Mrs. Leeds had borne two children.

In regard to Mrs. Stillman's charges that her banker husband had also misconducted himself with two other women, identified only as "Helen" and "Clara," Referee Gleason decided that the evidence was not sufficient to prove the allegations of adultery.

RESIDENTIAL HIGH SCHOOLS BADLY NEEDED

Particularly to Look After Boys and Girls From Rural Communities in the Dominion.

DR. GRAHAM'S APPEAL

TORONTO, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press)—The Methodist General Conference got down to hard work of the session to-day. Rev. Dr. J. W. Graham, Toronto, brought appeal in behalf of church secondary schools. He favored chain of efficient secondary schools to extend from Newfoundland to British Columbia. He outlined the need of residential high schools, particularly to look after boys and girls from rural sections who have to leave their home to secure a secondary education. Many boys go astray during time they are attending high schools he said. They do not fall into sin during the hours when they are in school rooms, but when they are at play.

Dr. Graham also defended the church remaining in the university field instead of turning over its arts courses to the universities.

Rev. Frank Langford urged that churches should send teachers to public schools to give religious instruction once a week.

DEAD GIRL'S LETTERS READ MURDER TRIAL

Notes of Edith Lavoy Introduced in Prosecution of Creasy for Killing Her--The Defense Opens.

MINEOLA, L.I., Sept. 29.—Letters and telegrams that passed between William M. Creasy, the mechanic of Fort Thomas, Ky., and Miss Edith Lavoy, Freeport school teacher, whom he is accused of having slain on the evening of June 23, were introduced in evidence here at the trial of Creasy. Most of the telegrams were from Creasy to Miss Lavoy, to whom he is reported to have been engaged.

Some of the letters from Miss Lavoy to Creasy were identified as the handwriting of the slain woman by her sister, Miss Eva Lavoy, who identified also the handwriting of letters said to have been written by Creasy to the school teacher. The letters were introduced by the prosecution in an effort to forestall Creasy's defense as outlined by his counsel, Harry A. Uterhart, on the ground that Miss Lavoy shot and killed herself. Some of the letters showed she was happy when out of sight of Creasy and that she was endeavoring to end her friendships with him.

George Davison, an artist of 179 Sixth Avenue, Brooklyn, the attentions of whom the letters showed Miss Lavoy was accepting when she was writing of her fear of Creasy, was asked on the witness stand by District Attorney Weeks if he loved Miss Lavoy.

"I am very proud to say that I did love Edith Lavoy," replied the witness.

The artist was then asked to identify letters written by Miss Lavoy to Creasy, to whom she confessed her love. He said the handwriting was that of Miss Lavoy. A letter on Jan. 25, 1921 ,to Creasy, said that Davison followed her continually.

The State rested its case yesterday and Mr. Uterhart opened for the defense.

Brown, Shipley and Co., who disembarked at Quebec, where he will remain for a couple of days before proceeding to Montreal and the West.

Economic Situation

Mr. Hugh Allan of Montreal, in an interview said he did not study the economic situation while abroad as he had only run over there for a pleasure trip. Speaking of the various situation he said that the British Government may have made mistakes during their terms of office but in regard to the stand they had taken in the present crisis in connection with the Turkish threat the government had made no mistake and it must be admitted that Lord Curzon did splendid work in Paris. The first and second class passengers who came out on the Empress of France were immediately landed after the ship docked and within an hour and fifteen minutes were entrained on a special steamship train drawn up on the dock and on their way to Montreal and their western and American destinations. Third passengers after immigration inspection were forwarded to their destinations at three thirty p.m. Besides mail the Empress of France brought out two hundred and forty tons of German goods from Hamburg in bond for western United States centres. This is the first season of navigation that the Canadian Pacific steamers have been bringing out freight from Germany to the United States and it is estimated that in the course of time this trade will develope into large proportions.

THE THOUGHTS MAY BE READ

Sex Also Revealed, Explains Dr. Abrams, Discoverer of New Electronic Theory.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29,—The amazing assertion that from the handwriting on a letter or a note can be diagnosed disease and its exact location in the body of the writer, was made by Dr. Albert Abrams, of San Francisco, who is here to lecture before a medical body.

Not only can diseases be diagnosed from handwriting, but the sex of the writer, whether living or dead, and the location of the writer at the time is examined, can be determined, Dr. Abrams asserted.

"I know this sound grotesque", said the scientist, "but I have done it. My students have done it. There is nothing grotesque about it when one understands the electronic theory."

Disease Mad Electrons

The electronic theory, which Dr. Abrams has worked on is based on the accepted fact that all life is electronic motion. Dr. Abrams holds that all diseases are nothing more than the electrons jarred out of their normal positions. "electrons gone mad." And to cure all diseases, all that is necessary is to combat the radio-activity which each disease has by a precise counter radio-activity. Dr. Abrams, in making these assertions, offers a complete catalogue of almost all known diseases with their specific radio-activity which can be used to destroy that disease.

On this theory, also, Dr. Abrams bases the assertion that from one's hand writing can be discovered the sex, disease, if any, and location of the writer.

"All life," said Dr. Abrams, "is electronic energy. When one writes, the electronic energy is transferred indellibly to the paper and that electronic energy can be diagnosed."

He Reads Thoughts

And then began the most amazing part of the interview. Going on his assumption that all matter is electronic energy the doctor asserted that even abstract thought was electrons put in motion, and though provided physical reflexes.

Without a machine, with nothing but his own body, Dr. Abrams, using the writer as a subject, accurately recorded, in a series of experiments the "thought transference" of the reporter. Mental telepathy is explained by Dr. Abrams on the same theory of electronic motion. And, the doctor further asserts that these so-called supernatural phenomena, the mysterious ectoplasm which is engaging the attention of scientists over all the world, most likely "is condensed thought."

The mysterious effect of the mind upon the human body which is recognized by all scientists and laymen, Dr. Abrams explains in a similar way.

"Thoughts are vibratory," he said, "and thoughts of a well being produce profound physiological effect on the human body, aiding to cure diseases.

"Disease," he asserts, "is only a symptom. There is basic trouble in the human system otherwise no disease could flourish. Clear the soil and no weeds will sprout. The doctor of the near future will be a physiological farmer who will clear the soil and with the clearing of the soil, prevent the rots upon which germs fasten."

British Savants Interested

A commission of British scientists, it was learned, attracted by Dr. Abrams' theory and amazed that application of it really produced results, will leave for San Francisco for a careful investigation of the Abrams method. This commission will be headed by Mather Thompson fellow of the Royal College of Physicians, London.

"The electronic theory, I admit, sounds grotesque," Dr. Abrams said, "but it would save immeasurable sorrow and pain if it were used. Many reputable scientific bodies oft hand decline even to investigate it, thought those that do are convinced.'

The Rockfeller Institute Dr. Abrams asserted, though spending huge sums in research work seeking cures for the diseases that Abrams asserts he can cure, declined even to investigate his method.

"I am always ready to have any reputable body of scientists investigate," said Dr. Abrams. "I have ben a professor of medicine, my work in medical fields, is recognized, but this latest and greatest discovery is ignored. If I am wrong, let it so be demonstrated once and for all. If I am right, and my method does hold out hope for a suffering and afflicted humanity, let us not waste further time seeking possible cures, when cures can be affected in so many cases."

Dr. Abrams stated that he expected to be in New York on Oct. 3rd and 4th and, when asked whether he would submit to a close scrutiny of his method in diagnosing and treating diseases of the body to reputable scientists, he stated that he challenged the Rockefeller Institute or any other reputable body to investigate his electronic theory of the diagnosis and treatment of disease.

He-Flapper Does His Stuff Right Beside the Judge

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.— Supreme Court Justice Callaghan stopped a divorce hearing in Brooklyn for a few minutes yesterday and taught a class in court etiquette, the object lesson being a young man, resplendent in new fall garb, who forgot to take off his delicately tinted hat.

The victim, seated in a front row, with his new hat perched at a rakish angle, did not notice Justice Callaghan's stony stare. When the justice asked him to "come up here," he snapped out of a reverie, blushed, and started to remove his headgear.

"No, keep it on," said Justice Callaghan. "It's a prety hat, isn't it? Come up here and let's all look."

Red faced, the youth sat beside the judge until the court room had its fill of giggles at his expense, when he was allowed to regain his seat.

Constipation

It is a disease-producing malady, and if not corrected may result in serious complications. In good health the bowels should move freely at least once every day, carrying away the waste products from the Blood and Liver. If this function fails or is irregular, the work of removing the poisons falls on the Skin and Kidneys, with the result of the latter organs becoming congested and clogged. The Blood becomes poisoned. Indigestion sets in, the Kidneys become deranged, and a severe if not fatal illness is brought on. DR. HENDERSON'S HERB TABLETS correct this trouble by its action on the Liver, causing a healthy flow of Bile, and exerting a soothing and toning influence on the whole Intestinal Track.

New Courts In Ireland

To Curb Disorders and Punish Offenders Against Public Safety.

DUBLIN, Sept. 29.—The Irish Parliament to-day adopted the Government's resolution for the establishment of military courts to try persons charged with hindering the restoration of order or who endanger the public safety. The vote was 47 to 15.

The members then discussed a motion made by Dr. Patrick McCartan for the arrangement of a truce of not less than a fortnight's duration for the purpose of restoring peace and saving the country from economic disaster. Dr. McCartan suggested General O'Duffy, professor McNeill, Labor eLader Johnstone and Deputy Fitzgibbons of Trinity College to negotiate for peace terms.

President Cosgrave in replying said if it was possible to effect a peace the Government was anxious to do it but that it was not authorized to go on much further than the terms he had already outlined, namely obedience to Parliament and recognition of Parliament's control of arms.

After several suggestions had been made, Dr. McCartan admitted that he had no authority from the irregulars to suggest a truce, but said he desired they be given an opportunity to recede from their present position

The House adjourned without any vote having been taken on the question.

CANADIAN CABINET WILL BE CALLED ONLY FOR EMERGENCY

Routine Business Has Been Disposed of and Prime Minister Follows Trend in Near East By Cables From London.

Consult Parliament.

OTTAWA, Sept. 29.— (Canadian Press.)—Unless developments in the Near East should necessitate the calling of an emergency sitting, it is unlikely that the cabinet will meet this week. The numerous meetings held last week, following receipt of the original message from the British Government, resulted, it is understood, in the disposition of routine business which had accumulated, and it even may be that a decision was reached as to what action would be taken in the event of hostilities. At any rate no cabinet has yet been called and none is in prospect at the moment. As far as can be ascertained the action of the Government in the event of hostilities would be confined to the immediate calling of an emergency meeting of parliament. Members could be summoned to Ottawa with the least possible delay and parliament would be asked to determine the course of action to be pursued. This is the policy favored by Hon. T. A. Crerar, Progressive leader, in his recent visit to Ottawa, and it is thought that the Government is in agreement with it.

The Prime Minister is understood to be in receipt of cabled information from the British Government, and this taken in conjunction with the news despatches, enables him to follow the trend of events carefully.

Bars Closed

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 29. —(Canadian Press.)—One of the first acts of the Kemalist administration in the re-conquered territory has been the confiscation of all alcohol beverages and the closing of all bars. The Turkish newspapers here warn the inhabitants of Constantinople that they may soon expect similar steps to be taken in this city.

PROBABILITIES.

BRITISH LINES NOW INVESTED BY THE TURKS

With Their Backs to the Straits Britain's Forces Are Surrounded on Three Sides.

CLIMAX APPROACHES

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 29. —(Canadian Press).—Events are surely approaching a climax. The Turks have occupied the entire neutral zone on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles, with the exception of the Chanak area, around which they have established infantry units in a semi-circle, virtually investing the British lines. Turkish cavalry squadrons are retiring, and the British troops, who are in strong force at Chanak, are ready for what may happen.

In these circumstances, General Harington, British Commander-in-Chief, has sent a wireless message to Kemal Pasha at Smyrna, asking for an immediate personal meeting. He leaves the choice of place to Kemal, whose reply is expected momentarily. Yussuf Kemal Pasha, Nationalist Foreign Minister, is understood to have gone to Angora to submit an Allied joint note to the Nationalist Assembly, but in the meantime Turkish concentrations are being pushed with the greatest speed.

Back to Straits.

With their backs to the Straits, the British forces in Chanak now look out on three sides upon the forces of Mustapha Kemal Pasha. By their recent incursions, the Turks have completed their occupation of the neutral zone, in defiance of Great Britain's ultimatum, and a climax is swiftly approaching. The British are confident that they can hold their lines against any Kemalist attack, as their flanks at Chanak are protected by a powerful fleet of warships, the long-range guns of which can sweep the area around the town for a distance of twenty miles, while the Turks at present are equipped only with machine guns in this sector. Among the British naval units are the super-dreadnoughts Revenge and Resolution, the most powerful warships afloat. The British naval authorities are holding up all Greek and Turkish craft in the Bosphorus and Dardanelles, making minute searches for materials of war.

Brigadier-General Sir Charles Harington, Commander-in-Chief of the British forces in the Dardanelles, is making plans to leave this afternoon for a conference with Mustapha Kemal Pasha, probably at Mudania, on the Sea of Marmora. The British are confident that if the next twenty-four hours pass without the firing of shots at Chanak or other points along the Dardanelles, all immediate danger of hostilities will have been avoided. This is the period of time estimated to be required for General Harington's journey and interview with Mustapha Kemal.

ASK BIG CONCESSIONS.

LONDON, Sept. 29. — (Canadian Press). — An Exchange Telegraph despatch from Paris gives a report that the Angora Assembly, in secret session, decided to notify Kemal Pasha that it was unable to agree to any cessation of hostilities or the participation in a peace conference until the restoration to Turkey of all its territories in accordance with the national pact.

Explosion of Fort in Italy Kills 144 People

Several Hundred Seriously Wounded and Casualty List Not Yet Complete—Towns Wrecked on Gulf of Genoa—Violent Storm Heightened Terror.

SPEZIA, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press).—The number of dead is feared to reach 144 in the explosion today at Falconara Fort, near here, according to available lists. Several hundred have been seriously injured A majority of the victims are still beneath the wreckage.

The wounded are being rushed to the hospitals here, all of which are already filled. Military forces have been assigned to the work of rescue.

The explosion occurred in a violent storm, which damaged the crops and property of the inhabitants for large areas along the Gulf. Half crazed with terror from fire and storm, the despairing population is being relieved through Governmental care.

The towns of San Terenzo and Pitelli are greatly damaged. All the available conveyances have been requistioned to remove the injured to the hospitals here.

San Terenzo is located on the shore of the Gulf of Spezia and is across the bay from Spezia. Pitelli is an inland town about two miles from San Terenzo. The whole of the coast line in this section forms the south part of the Gulf of Genoa, the Gulf of Spezia being included in it.

CONTROVERSY EXPECTED OVER RESTRICTION OF U.S. DRY NAVY

Prohibition Fleet Will Pursue More Moderate Policy Beyond Three-Mile Limit Along Coast.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Sept. 28. —(Canadian Press). — Announcement that the United States Government will pursue a moderate course as to the enforcement of prohibition along the coasts and will not seek to search vessels beyond the three mile limit, save in exceptional cases, will undoubtedly serve to stir up a bitter controversy in this country. The announcement is looked upon as a diplomatic victory for the British Government, backed by Canada, inas much as the British Ambassador, Sir Auckland Geddes, protested against the activities of the prohibition "navy" beyond the three mile limit.

But the announcement of this Government's policy will not be satisfactory to the drys, whether in Congress or out of it. They have been demanding that the enforcement officials go to great lengths in their operations along the coasts. Senator Sterling of South Dakota in the recent session sought to secure legislation which would virtually extend the three mile limit to a limit of 18 miles. In doing this, he was acting with the backing of the powerful Anti-saloon League. Now the drys are in a situation where they have not only failed to get the Sterling provision accepted by they found the Administration unwilling to permit the dry "navy" to operate up to the 12 mile limit. Drys insist that, as a result, the smuggling of liquor into the United States will be much increased. They are prepared, if it does increase, to protest vigorously when Congress meets again and to try to extend the three mile limit by law.

LOBSTER SEASON TO BE LIMITED.

OTTAWA, Ont., September 29. — (Canadian Press.) — No additional lobster fishing season will be granted in Western Nova Scotia this year. In a statement issued last evening, the Department of Marine and Fisheries gives reasons for the refusal of requests that a fall season for lobster fishing be granted on the southwestern coast of Nova Scotia, which extends from St. Mary's Bay, Digby County, to Cole Harbor, Halifax County. The regular lobster fishing season on this coast is from the first of March to the 31st of May but last year an additional season was granted there from November 1 to the 15th of December.

The ill-effects of this additional season are manifest, says the statement.

During the regular season of last year 110,277 cwts. were taken and during the additional fall fishing season 32,733 cts. The result was that the catch was only 62,100 cwts, while in practically every other district around the coast, it is said, there have been good increases.

TURKS OCCUPY ALL NEUTRAL ZONE EXCEPT NEAR CHANAK

Three Meetings of British Cabinet Indicate Seriousness of Situation in Near East — Kemal's Government Votes Large War Credit.

NO HOSTILITIES YET.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 29. — (Canadian Press.)—The Turkish Nationalists have occupied the whole of the neutral zone of the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles, with the exception of the Chanak areas, where the British are entrenched.

LONDON, Sept. 29. — (Canadian Press.) — The British Cabinet held three successive meetings yesterday and another meeting will be held this morning. This fact alone is sufficient comment on the gravity of the situation in the Near East, revealed by Wednesday's bad news, which has been amply confirmed and accentuated by yesterday's despatches.

Latest advices are to the effect that there has been no collision between the Turkish and British forces in the Chanak zone, and that seems to be the only satisfying aspect of a very threatening situation. Friendly messages have been exchanged between General Harrington, the British Commissioner at Constantinople, and Kemal Pasha, discussing their respective viewpoints in an amicable manner, but the Kemalists show not the slightest disposition to recede from their position and refuse to withdraw their troops from the Chanak sector.

Increasing Forces.

On the other hand, according to private despatches and correspondents on the spot, an additional Turkish force entered the neutral zone yesterday and there is a constant increase in the Turkish troops in both the Chanak and Ismid sectors. Not only do the Kemalists refuse to retire from the neutral zone, ignoring all British warnings, but they are reported to have declared that they will not permit the British to build fortifications at certain points within the zone.

In Constantinople, it is believed that the situation has been relieved by the Kemalist agreement to recognize the neutrality of the Straits, pending the armistice conference. Another point on the peace side is that General Harrington still professes confidence in Kemal's moderation.

Sultan Quits

PARIS, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press.)—Mohammed VI., Sultan of Turkey, has abdicated in favor of the heir apparent, Prince Abdul Medjid Effendi, according to a report sent by the Havas correspondent at Constantinople. The news, he adds, has not yet been officially announced. Prince Abdul Medjid, who is a cousin of the Sultan, was born in 1868.

He sent a wireless message to the Nationalist leader at Smyrna last evening, asking for an immediate personal meeting and leaving the choice of place to Kemal Pasha.

Delay Reply to Russia.

The British Government is delaying its reply to the Russian note, pending further developments. With regard to Kemal Pasha's protests against British demolitions on the south side of the Straits and the Sea of Marmora, the British Government states that these were executed in 1920 and that anything done since that time was quite unimportant. Regarding the Turkish complaints that the Sea of Marmora is closed to Turkish troops, the British contention is that it has thoroughly maintained absolute neutrality as between the Greeks and the Turks and that the whole of the Sea of Marmora is free to both the Turks and Greeks equally.

Kemal May Parley.

A Smyrna despatch through Paris last night says that Kemal Pasha is disposed to accept the invitation to a peace conference with certain reservations, but that the Angora Assembly has voted a large war credit.

All it is possible to say with confidence is that, while peace has not yet been broken, some unforseen incident may at any time provoke hostilities.

PROPOSED MERGER WILL NOT BE CARRIED OUT

NEW YORK, September 29.—The proposed merger of the Inland Steel Company, the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company and the Republic Iron and Steel Company, will not be effected, it was announced yesterday. The situation arising from the action of the Federal Trade Commission in declaring that such a merger would be illegal was declared responsible for the decision.

Ford Boom Premature

Move to Endorse Him As Democratic Presidential Candidate Failed at State Convention.

BAY CITY, Mich., Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press).—A movement to endorse Henry Ford as a presidential candidate in 1924, failed at the Democratic State Convention here to-day when the Resolutions Committee decided such action would be "premature and too far in advance of the election." The proposal sponsored by the delegation from Andrian, which included S. W. Raymond, a brother-in-law of the Detroit manufacturer, precipitated a fight in the Resolutions Committee.

Those opposing the movement held that endorsement of Mr. Ford would make the presidential issue the predominating feature of the coming campaign in Michigan and detract from the strength of Wood bridge N. Ferris, the Party's nominee for Senator. Supporters of the resolution argued that Henry Ford was the real instigator of what they termed "the Newberry issue."

Mr. Ford came in for mention in the report of the Resolutions Committee, however, when it commended his stand on the coal problem. The platform assailed the new tariff law as "having been enacted at the dictation of special interests and profiteers;" condemned the Government's handling of the coal and railroad strike situations assailed the seating of Senator Newberry and accused the National Administration of violating campaign promise. Endorsement of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence project was considered in the platform.

HARRINGTON--DIPLOMAT AND FIGHTER

LONDON, Sept. 29. — (Canadian Press.)—Brigadier-General Sir Charles Harrington, commander of the British forces in Constantinople, into whose hands has been placed the issue of determining between peace and and war along the Dardanelles, is held by military experts to be one of the ablest British soldiers of modern history. There is much of the diplomat in him, but he is typically a fighter.

During the war, when General Harrington, as Chief of Staff of the Second British Army, planned the brilliant strokes which made the army world-famous, experts frequently remarked that he was fully competent to be Commander-in-Chief of the British Expeditionary Forces, should occasion arise.

The present British commander in Constantinople, is a quiet, rather retiring man, of rather pleasing personality. One needs to talk with him only a few moments to realize that he is possessed of great ability and force of character. His firm mouth and penetrating eyes gives an early warning that he is not to be trifled with. He has a cool, analytical mind and an almost uncanny foresight — some have called it a superabundance of horse sense.

It was this, coupled with his long experience as an active fighter, which enabled him to outguess the Germans during the war. Those who knew him well during the great conflict, cannot recall a time, even during the periods which looked blackest for the Allies, when he showed any signs of emotion or nerves. He was always the same cool and collected man, who could divert his attention from matters of grave moment to attend to some comparatively unimportant detail without losing his balance.

One of his outstanding characteristics, which is linked up with his analytical mind, was his ability to give justice to all. He invariably placed the credit or blame where it belonged and, as an indication of his bigness, he was always free to admit when an error of judgment had been made by the British in the campaign.

General Harrington is 50 years of age. He served on the British Staff in the South African War and was mentioned in despatches twice, receiving the decoration of the Distinguished Service Order. He served throughout the European war and following the armistice was Deputy Chief of the Imperial General Staff. He was given the command of the Allied forces about the Black Sea in 1920.

A CIVIC SLIDE.

In proposing that a civic toboggan slide be established at Riverside Park during the coming winter, Ald. Hamilton is doing a good service for Peterborough's young people, and it is pleasing to note that his suggestion was favorably received by his colleagues.

The community that recognizes the desirability of providing facilities for healthful recreation for the benefit of its citizens stamps itself as progressive and awake. It has usually no trouble in keeping its people at home and in attracting new citizens who want to live in a place where the right of the people to enjoy themselves in a clean and invigorating way is realized.

The citizens of Peterborough have a big investment in Riverside Park, and, as was pointed out the other night, they have not so far had many free privileges as a result of the securing of this property by the city.

To some extent at least a civic toboggan slide will prove to be self-sustaining, and it will in any event earn rich dividends in the health and vigor it will impart to the hundreds of young people who will be glad to avail themselves of the opportunity offered by the establishment of a slide at Riverside Park.

It is to be hoped that the Council will see to it that the suggestion is acted upon this winter.

THE COAL REGULATIONS.

The regulations issued by Fuel Controller Ellis in regard to the sale and distribution of anthracite coal in Ontario appear to be in the public interest, and will be welcomed by the consumer as a protection against the profiteering possibilities afforded by the present emergency.

A price of $15.50 a ton has been fixed in Toronto. The local rate has not yet been announced, but it will not be materially different from the Toronto rate.

There is, however, a "joker" in the order.

Special consideration is to be given, it is announced, to cases where more than $8.50 was paid for the coal at the mines. The dealer in such cases, if he can convince the Fuel Controller that he has paid more than $8.50, will be given a letter to that effect and permitted to sell his coal for more than the fixed price if he can get it.

It remains to be seen how that exception to the fixed price regulation will work out.

Regulations preventing dealers from supplying coal to those who already have a supply should prove of much benefit to those who are without fuel. They will ensure a wider distribution and give poorer families a chance that they would be deprived of were the more well-to-do to be allowed to grab all the fuel in sight.

REMOVE THE FIRE HAZARDS.

The proclamation issued by the Governor General setting aside October 9th as Fire Prevention Day, declares that it is shown by reliable statistics that at least ninety per cent. of the fires which occur in Canada originate either directly or indirectly through inexcusable ignorance and neglect, and are therefore preventable, and that the exercise of reasonable prudence and proper carefulness on the part of responsible individuals would reduce losses by fire in Canada to the comparatively insignificant proportion of losses in other countries.

The necessity of education along this line is shown by the fact that during the last decade more than 3,000 persons have lost their lives and property damage of more than $250,000,000 has been caused by fires in Canada. The loss from this cause last year alone reached the unparalleled total of $45,000,000.

The week of October 2-9 is the time selected for this year's fire prevention campaign, and all citizens of Canada are urged during that week to realize the importance of fire prevention education.

The individual citizen can best help by carefully inspecting his home and its surroundings and to seeing that all conditions likely to cause or promite the spread of fire are removed.

There are fire hazards in every home in Peterborough that should be eliminated.

Next week should see the disappearance of the majority of them if Fire Prevention Week is to prove a success.

TO-MORROW'S TAG DAY.

If the work of the Children's Aid Society in Peterborough is not to be hampered by lack of funds, the response to to-morrow's Tag Day appeal will have to at least equal the best record of other years.

"Another tag day," a citizen was heard to remark the other day in reading about Saturday's drive.

Not "another" tag day—but rather the "original" tag day.

This method of raising funds originated, so far as Peterborough is concerned, with the Children's Aid Society. It has been annually used for a long period, and in calling once more upon the citizens to contribute the Society is merely following a long-established precedent.

The work done by this splendid institution is of the most important nature.

It opens the doors of opportunity to homeless waifs and neglected children whose home surroundings are such as to deprive them of a fair chance to develop.

It takes the derelicts and converts them into material from which good citizens are made.

It is of service three hundred and sixty-five days every year.

The Children's Aid Society in fact deserves the support of the whole community, and to-morrow's tag day should show that that support is solidly behind the institution and the work that it is carrying on here and throughout this district.

THE PROGRESS OF THE FREE STATE.

There is considerable anxiety in various quarters as to the policy of the new Free State Government toward Republican rebels, says the Brantford Expositor. It is said that the public mind may be intimidated by the terrible destruction which has been wrought as a result of the guerilla warfare which the irregulars have carried on. Apart from damage to property by the burning of mansions, most of which were irreplaceable centres of employment, and of public buildings, the industrial life of the country has been paralyzed by the wanton destruction of roads and railways. To the material losses incurred must be added the immense cost of the stagnation that has been caused. The prosperity of agricultural Ireland depends upon her arteries of communication. She has been stricken at her most vital point, and it seems that not even yet is the full extent of the injury she has sustained apparent. Moreover, the winter is coming, with possibilities of continued disorder, of indigence, of unemployment, and, perhaps, of famine. These are the conditions with which a new and untried legislature will be compelled to deal.

With the signing of the Treaty Irishmen accepted complete responsibility for the government of their country. Insofar as the British Government and the British people have been concerned, they have had full and unrestricted opportunity. Irish desires have been gratified and Irish susceptibilities consulted, with a generosity and understanding unparalleled in Anglo-Irish history. The result of this policy, however, has been to apply the sternest of all tests to Irish political capacity. The Provisional Government has surmounted difficulties that once bade fair to overwhelm it. It has avoided discredit in council and registered considerable progress in the field; but the test has not even yet been applied in its full strength. In the sessions of the new Parliament it will have not merely to justify the measures it has taken, but to proclaim the policy that it means to oppose to the rising tide of anarchy.

The eyes of the world are upon the new government in its efforts to defeat the rebels and establish the security and safety of the Free State. What is feared is that the new executive, for the sake of a false peace, may be tempted to make compromises with the rebels that will entail dangers to the stability of popular government later on. It will require both courage and perseverance to permanently establish authority throughout the disaffected districts.

MUDDIED WATERS.

Close upon the return of 214 indictments by the special grand jury which has been investigating the murder of more than a score of men in Williamson County last June, A. W. Kerr, chief of counsel for the defendants, attempts to cloud the issue by branding the prosecution as "persecution by a political boss and labor hating organization."

That is getting to be a common practice in the defence of a certain class of criminals. In this case the defence, financed by the miners' union, tries to muddy the waters by giving the original crime, and therefore the prosecution, the character of a battle between capital and labor.

It cannot be done successfully. Straight thinking people can and will too easily follow the facts which led up to these indictments. There was a strike throughout the unionized coal fields of the United States, promoted because the public demanded cheaper coal. The operators pretended to act upon that demand and in order to give cheaper coal demanded a reduction in the pay of the miners. Both the miners and the operators were strongly organized, and the result was a strike. The outcome of that strike is now well known. After five months of idleness, during which reserves were consumed at high prices and a strong demand was created, the operators put the miners back to work at the old scale and themselves added one or more dollars to the price of coal at the mines "to pay their strike losses."

The outcome indicates that the strike was more a pretense than a struggle. And in the course of the trouble a small independent operator thought he saw a chance to make big money by mining coal from a small strip mine in Williamson County. He started to do so, using non-union men in the midst of a great union field. It was clearly no effort to break the strike. It was more like competition with the other operators whose mines were closed.

And in that situation a group of men comprising the local union of the district in which this small strip mine was located went to neighborhood shops, took guns and ammunition with assurance that they would be paid for by the union, and prepared to drive out the non-union miners. They even asked Frank Farrington, the head of their state organization, what they should do and were told that the workers were unauthorized by the union and should be treated as scabs. Local authorities, knowing the facts and realizing the growing indignation of the union men, did nothing.

The assailants attacked the strip miners. Two or three of them were killed. They continued the attack until the non-union men hoisted a white flag and offered to surrender and leave, an arrangement promoted by a State official. And having surrendered, these non-union men were marched down the road and massacred according to a deliberate plan, some being shot and mutilated while tied together, and others being shot in the back as they fled and attempted to make their way through a barbed wire fence. The mutilated bodies of a score of victims attest the viciousness of the murders. Such facts are clear.

It was in no way a battle between capital and labor. Capital, as represented by the organized mine operators, was not party to it. The operators never tried to break the strike. Any effort to blame a war between capital and labor for the bloody massacre or the subsequent prosecution is ridiculous in view of the facts.

The careful planning of the attack, the deliberation with which the massacre was carried out, the long defiance of all authority, and now the heavily financed campaign to mislead the general public indicate a conspiracy the depth of which has not been sounded.

The indictments returned in Williamson County are indictments for murder and associated crimes. They are not indictments of the union or for belonging to the union. The authorities are moving to punish murderers, not miners.

That should be made clear. It is not labor hating but murder hating which prompts this prosecution. Labor is not a defendant in this murder case. No one should be allowed to place it in the dock. — Chicago Tribune.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

King Constantine doubtless realizes that there is something in that "uneasy lies the head that wears a crown" stuff.

The "war" news and the coal situation are about equally easy to understand.

They say "they can't come back," but Venizelos seems to refute that assertion, judging by the latest news from Greece.

With the Kemalists consenting to an armistice, the Near East trouble looks to be on a fair way to settlement. But the situation is not without its element of danger. A precipitate move on the part of the Turks might start a general conflagration.

MASTER.

Dupont woke abruptly, and with quick instinct toward self-preservation, rolled to the farther side of the bed. As he did so there was the gleam an flash of the knife in the hand a dull pop as she struck and as the point of the blade punctured the linen.

For several moments he lay uncomprehending, accustoming his eyes to the gloom. Then he detected the figure of the girl, failing to recognize her. Reaching under the pillow he had vacated, cautiously, he grasped his automatic. With his other hand he found and pressed the pendant switch of a shaded reading lamp attached to the back of the bed. In numbing amazement he saw that the intruder was his fiance that nothing but a psychic alertness had saved him from death at her hands.

In the circle of warm light she was revealed, a picture, motionless, a cameo carved out of the darkness. After the futile stab she had paused as if unable to grasp the situation. Her delicate fingers still rested upon the handle of the blade stuck into the bed. Wisps of yellow hair, rebellious after her shampoo, caressed cheeks which were very red and flushed, as though nature had made her up for this spotlight. The top button of her suit had come unfastened, showing the fine lace of her nightgown and revealing an intimacy of marble throat and neck which lent a bizarre note to her costume. Her lips were pouted slightly, demurely. About her was nothing suggestive of the assassin.

As he watched her, she moved again. Very slowly and deliberately she pulled the knife, regrasping it firmly. Leaning forward, she passed her free hand over the bedclothes until she felt the outline of his form. He lay very quiet, striving to understand the phenomenon.

The trace of a puzzled frown crept over her forehead. It was a long reach to the man now. After some moments she climbed up on to the bed and worked her way close on her knees. Once more she located his heart by the aense of touch, raising the blade to stab sgain.

Her eyes gave Dupont a clue to her condition. When the light was switched on, very sudden and dazzling, they did not blink, and though they were open and gave her expression every appearance of consciousness, hardly suggesting sonambulism, yet even in the brigh illumination she seemed dependent upon the sense of touch.

He noticed, too, that while she appeared to look at him—there was no blankness nor abstratcion in the pupils, and no dilation—yet she did not quite meet his gaze, but rather fastened her eyes upon a point half an inch to an inch lower than his. The expression of her face otherwise was normal. The curve of her mouth and the set of her eyebrows were sweetly familiar. An unusual tranquility marked her, with just a trace of determination.

Rather than moving, seeking to defend himself by eluding he blow a second time, he remained still, bending his will to the mastery of the girl and whatever influence held her in subjection. Before the might of his glance she hesitated, and her own eyes wavered. As in the invisible, si ent struggle before her first attempt to stab him, the pupils dilated and contracted in swift successive phases. Her look travelled around and around, never leaving his face, but never centering and meeting his glance squarely.

He knew that if he could fix her eyes he would win. There was no wavering in his purpose, no moment of fear that she might strike now. She began to tremble. The co or left her cheeks. Her mouth dropped, slightly agape. Through it all, however, there was no change in her expression.

Once, twice, three times she raised her arm, flexed her muscles, and struck downward. Each time the sheer strength of Dupont's will power checked her in the midst of the blow.

Now there were beads of perspiration upon her forehead. Her glance, rotating about his still, circled more and more swiftly. All at once a little groan escaped between her lips. Her lids half closed. The grim, obsessing personality behind her surrendered. Her eyes, losing their hard, frightened glitter, met the warm friendliness of his look for the first time. Recognition came into her features. With its coming all fear fled from her.

"Robert" she exclaimed, very softly.

Then she saw the knife in her hand and threw it to the floor. She grasped the oddness of her attire and the strangeness of her position. A characteristic playfully demure scowl testified to her lack of comprehension.

He explained as far as he could piece together her actions. Then he questioned her. "Didn't you tell me you were given some crackers and a glass of water before you were released by Evil Eye? And—and didn't you have a sort of feeling that they expected you to eat and drink; that you were not released until you did? Didn't"—he smiled ruefully—"didn't you tell me you half expected you were poisoned?"

She nodded. "I didn't think so, really," she confessed.

"Was there anything peculiar about the taste of the water?"

"Yes" She began to understand now. "It tasted awfully sweet, and yet it didn't taste sweet at all. It—it was insipid."

"That's it, Violet When I was down studying voodooism among the West Indians they told me of a hypnotic drink some of the magicians among them could make, but I didn't believe it. We might have known Evil Eye wouldn't turn you loose without a reason."

She began to tremble violently, She snuggled down on top of the covers, so that she was lying close to him. She raised her head to allow him to slip an arm underneath and about her. "I—I might have killed you" she moaned, beginning to sob quietly.

"You didn't." he reassured her. He smiled, little suspecting that the portrait was gone, that three of his four guards lay unconscious and helpless. "No damage has been done," he chuckled.

Gradually she became quiet. After a while he looked at her, discovering that she had fallen asleep, secure in his embrace. The light was in her eyes. He hesitated, then switched it off.

BIG ATTENDANCE AT CHICKEN PIE DINNER, HASTINGS

Dainty Viands to Tempt Appetite of the Most Fastidious — Personal Mention.

HASTINGS, Sept. 29. — A very successful chicken-pie dinner was held in the Methodist church on Wednesday evening, 27th, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid. The weather was ideal and the attendance good. The tables were beautifully decorated with cut flowers, asters of all colours predominating, and were laden with everything to tempt the appetite of the most fastidious.

The centre table was reserved for the boys of the lacrosse team, who have won honours for the home town and who were the guests of Mrs. J. Cruikshank and who were waited on by a host of their admirers.

The colors of the team were shown in profusion ,and the boys were well received. After ample justice had been done to the tasty viands, the gathering repaired to the church auditorium, where an excellent miscellaneous programme was rendered, consisting of vocal and instrumental music by home talent, ably assisted by Mr. Batten of Warsaw, who gave several selections very acceptably. Readings were contributed by Mrs. Crowe, Miss Crowe and Major Anderson ,of Warsaw, which proved them to be entertainers of no mean ability, and who were obliged to respond to repeated encores. An address was also given by Rev. D. A. Thomson, of the Presbyterian church, who is always a favorite with a Hastings audience.

Rev. M. L. Hinton filled the chair very acceptably.

At the close of the programme a vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Cruikshank, moved by Dr. J. H. Hess, seconded by Alex. Wilson and loudly applauded.

The proceeds of the evening go into the treasury of the Ladies' Aid.

This Will Ward Off And Break Up Colds

Just a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin removes the congestion

THE two ailments that people generally regard as of the least importance are in reality the cause of most serious illness and of the greatest proportion of deaths. They are constipation andcommoncolds. Many doctors believe that colds, tonsilitis, a touch of malaria will cause constipation, instead of constipation being their cause. The fact remains that you seldom have a cold without constipation, due to general congestion. The only way to avoid colds is to keep up your vitality. You usually catch cold in the winter if you are run down. Therefore in cold weather exercise more; eat more fatty foods; drink four to six glasses of water a day; keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

You are also less liable to colds if your system is free from the intestinal poisons of constipation, so empty the bowels regularly with a plain vegetable laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin. At the first sign of a cold, at the first few warning sneezes, take a teaspoonful of Laxative Syrup Pepsin and the congestion will be gone in a few hours. Don't wait until the cold has a grip on you. Mr. R. H. Powell, of Gilbert Plains, Man., considers Laxative Syrup Pepsin the best laxative he ever used, and Mrs. Chas. Lewis, of Winnipeg, Man., uses it effectively for all the small ills of her family, such as constipation, biliousness, headaches, dizziness, and to break up fevers and colds.

Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a scientifically-balanced compound of Egyptian senna with pleasant-tasting aromatics. It is safe to give to infants, and all children like it. Before you again resort to cold remedies containing narcotics try a teaspoonful of Syrup Pepsin. Any druggist will supply you, and the cost is less than a cent a dose.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try my Laxative Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 23 Caldwell Building., Toronto, Ont. Do it now!

CHICAGO, September 29. — With the Anglo-Turkish tension at apparently the most critical stage yet, wheat prices to-day averaged higher but new upturns brought out an increasing volume of sales. The market closed unsettled at 3-8c net decline to 1 1-2c advance, December $1.04 7-8 to $1.05 and May $1.08 to $1.08 1-8; corn and oats finished unchanged to 3-8c off and provisions varying from 2c loss to 5c gain.

Aside from war news, the chief subject of interest among wheat traders was an official statement that importing countries had produced 160,000,000 bushels less than was the case a year ago and that exports from North America hereafter until February could be looked for at the rate of 13,000,000 bushels to 15,000,000 bushels a week as against 11,500,000 bushels weekly average up to date. On the other hand difficulty in getting cars to ship wheat and flour to the seaboard was said to be hampering the export business very much at present.

Corn and oats like wheat, were firmer early and then ceased somewhat. Provisions reflected declines in the hog market.

Donald D. Stewart, Minister, Bigamist and Swindler, Who Blames Dead Sweetheart.

Former U. S. Senator Henry French Hollis, Whose Divorced Wife Declares She Will Regain His Love After Death.

Vincenzo Gullotta, Violinist, Who Says His Dead Wife Advises Him on His Affairs of the Heart.

By Elizabeth Shields

LOVED by a ghost! A sensed, but unseen presence, creeping through the twilight, caressing with spectral fingers. Kisses strangely disturbing for such fleeting, vanishing impressions. Always the certain knowledge of a restless intelligence directing, forbidding or commanding more tangible loves, hates, aspirations; never absent even in sleep. Is such an astonishing condition possible?

The Rev. Donald Duncan Stewart says that it is. Abhorrence of it has driven him, he says, to flight and drugs and crime, and yet it persists, the albatross 'round his neck, creating in him that most terrible of all afflictions to fall upon a human, the split personality!

Vincenzo Gullotta, the violinist, also says it is possible, to his great happiness. For his ghost sweetheart is beloved as ever was the woman to whom the hovering spirit belonged in life and his way is planned to keep the wraith near till he, too, shall enter the spirit world and there find the perfect union that the barrier of flesh prohibits.

Will Claim Him After Death

And Mrs. Grace Bruerton Fisher Hollis, advocate of a fervent spiritualistic doctrine and a belief that the affections of the present life endure in the life beyond the grave, promises that she will demonstrate its truth when she has passed over the border and her husband, the former Senator Henry French Hollis, continues in his determination to throw her off—a determination that has separated them in this life.

These three, men and a woman of education, culture, more than the usual capacity for careful reasoning, subscribe to the negligible quality of death which destroys the contact of flesh with flesh, but in no way mars the association of mind or soul or whatever bit of immortality it is that exists within the personality with its like, no matter in what corner of the cosmic scheme this something may be directed to linger after it has been freed from the limitations of life as we know it. Furthermore, they offer plenty of proof for their contentions. It is not the sort of proof that would convince a jury in a court of law, necessarily, excepting as it might seem an excuse for the most irrational of conduct.

Others, almost within memory of the race, have held the same theory. It has been expressed in song and story and tradition. The yearning heart, saddened by loss of its mate, has comforted itself with the hope that the beloved one "is not dead, but sleepeth." Promises have been made by lips, warm with life, to brave the terrific barriers between the two worlds for sake of love.

John A. V. Weaver, the poet who writes the heart-throbs of the masses in their own argot, has told all about it in his "Ghost":

I'm comin' back and haunt you, don't you fret.
What if I get as far as Hell away?
There's things of me that just can't help but stay—
Whether I want or not, you can't forget!

Just when you think you got me wiped out clear,
Some bird that's singin'—moonlight and a hill—
Some lovely thing 'll hurt like it would kill,
And you'll hear somethin' whisperin' "He's here!"

But however unfaltering may be the conviction of these ghost sweethearts, science would demand more than visionary impressions. Science, crediting only what may be seen and heard and touched, would inquire whether that sense of contact, vague as the phenomenon of thought transference, intangible as the fluttering of a summer breeze, really is the "glimpse of a vanishing vision" or whether it may be the powerful force of suggestion, set up by living lips to work its weal or woe in the personality of the subject long after those lips are dust!

A Vow That Outlives Death

The dramatic case of the Hollis husband and wife seems to bear out the suggestion theory. For the sweet-faced, gentle-minded little wife of the man-who-did-not-care, strong in her sense of fairness, has stated her position in such terms of solemn warning as to startle all who have heard. Could that prophetic promise fail to make deep impression upon the mind of the man whose life has been linked with her own, and perhaps recur so vividly, if death frees her from frustrated hope, as to destroy his scepticism and cause him to believe his own impression a voice from the grave?

"For better or worse, in sickness and health, through life eternal, forever and ever."

This is the promise that was included in one of the strangest love ceremonies ever performed; the one which united in holy bonds of matrimony Grace Bruerton Fisher of Concord, to Henry French Hollis, the now famous international lawyer of New Hampshire.

He was a struggling young attorney then, and she struggled with him for thirty years, helping him up the steep way of success, her two children retarding her own climbing somewhat. And when he had become such a power in politics that he won the first United States Senate election for the Democrats in the memory of man, he found himself dissatisfied with the woman who occupied the place by his side.

The Federal law-maker had met Anne Hobbs, who was ambitious and young, and apparently cared little for the heart-aches of middle-aged wives. But the discarded partner suddenly developed a streak of obstinacy when divorce was mentioned. She brought to attention that peculiar clause in her marriage contract, the "deathless union" clause, and stated that she intended to abide by it.

Followed a great deal of rushing about on the part of the Senator. Oddly enough, this age of progress still holds with sentiment. The faithful wife possessed rights that were recognized by all. New Hampshire refused a divorce.

The courts of Paris refused a divorce. The obscure Methodist minister of Bulgaria, who eventually signed a decree, was denounced by the Bulgarian government. The marriage of Senator Hollis and Anne Hobbs, which followed in Rome with the American Ambassador to Italy, Richard Washburn Child, acting as best man, caused the world to cry "Shame!"

It was when word came to her of this ceremony that the little woman back in New Hampshire, sad-eyed, but with the look of fate in her face, made her prophecy:

"Senator Hollis is still my husband. And though he elude me, his true wife in this world, I'll be waiting for him in the next!

"Let Anne Hobbs have him for a few years. Theirs is a marriage of the flesh. My union with him was of the spirit as well, not to be dissolved nor broken."

Like the faint, sweet, exquisite love songs he draws from his violin, Vincenzo Gullotta explains, is the knowledge of the presence of his dead wife's spirit rising to his consciousness. Beloved in life as she was, the beautiful Ruth Gregg, also a musician, was mourned with desperation of grief when she "went away."

The Ghost Gives Approval

"But she promised," the musician continued, "that if it were permitted, she surely would return to me. She promised to give her love and counsel just as she had given in life. Finally, in the long nights, when loneliness seemed like a physical presence, torturing and destroying, I felt her near. It was as if her thoughts, wordless and soundless, crept into my mind. She told me that her greatest desire was to see me linked with youth and vitality and love."

It was the woman in the spirit land, the musician believes, who led him to Helen Rogers, a girl fourteen years his junior, who has promised to become his second wife. And unlike the dead wife in "Die Tode Stadt," who resents the newcomer in her place, Ruth Gregg Gullotta approves this second marriage and is working, from her astral plane, for its success!

*** *** ***

A terrible spectre pursues the Rev. Donald D. Stewart, he says. From Los Angeles to Boston; in New York when he rubbed elbows with thousands and in the solitude of the country, the wraith of Mrs. Maud Hendricks, whom he met in Hayward, California, and loved and jilted, and who killed herself when she saw that her continued love for him was hopeless, pursued. One-time clergyman and prominent moral crusader of the Pacific state, this man whose eyes are filled with the shadow of terror, is charged with bigamy, grand larceny and conspiracy. Alienists who had him under observation declared him to be a victim of the terrible split personality; a Jekyll of honor, integrity, brains and sincere desire to uplift his fellows, and a Hyde of sinister promptings. He is said to have married at least three times without being divorced; Miss Norma Ehrenzeller and Mrs. Ethel Turner Osbaldeston were bigamously made his wives, although he was married at the time he was unfrocked in California. This last named woman is charged with being his accomplice in bigamy and swindling.

Is the astral body of Maude Hendricks actually hovering near her wretched lover, avenging his unfaithfulness and her death by driving him into committing actions that surely must bring punishment? He says this is true. Out of his wretchedness he explains:

"Her spirit has flitted between me and happiness. Every night since that tragedy the woman's wraith has trooped with stealthy, accusing footsteps outside my door. Women used to say I had fascinating ways. They were the ways of desperation. Anything to counteract that creeping presence. It followed me everywhere. There was no peace. It was while so haunted that I went from bad to worse in marriage ventures.

"In New York I met Mrs. Ethel Osbaldeston, the most inspiring influence in my life, whom I married. But that devilish vampire ghost mocked me; that irresistible posthumous love of the woman who killed herself for me besieged me day and night. When I married the others who followed Ethel I did not know what I was doing, for day and night I piled drugs into me in an effort to throw off the damnable ghost. It was only when I was so drugged as to be in a stupor that I could get away from her!"

Says a London Despatch

A Royal Beneficiary

PRINCESS Mary, daughter of George V, granddaughter of Edward VII and great granddaughter of the great Queen Victoria, is to benefit by a monthly income insurance policy—the best provision any husband, rich or poor, titled or plain commoner, can make for his wife. When Princess Mary attains the age of 50, whether her husband be living or not, she will receive an annual income thenceforth of $60,000.00 for the rest of her life.

This is a remarkable endorsement of the value of Life Insurance and, more particularly, of the monthly income policy. Viscount Lascelles, for all his wealth and high position, chooses to protect the future of his wife with a monthly income policy issued by an insurance company on this side of the Atlantic.

What was wisdom on the part of the husband of Princess Mary, the royal daughter of England, is no less wise as an example to be followed by the husbands of Canada. The monthly income policy is the safest and most satisfactory form of insurance for the protection of wives and mothers of families.

Turns Back To The Old For The Newest Modes

By MARIAN HALE.

If the celebrated beauties of the old French court could revisit the earth, on which they exerted such a tremendous influence, they would probably feel quite at home.

For their favorite styles, preserved in famous paintings and in old French prints, are serving as the inspiration for our most advanced styles.

Fashion designers are studying their little tricks of combining fabrics and laces, jewels and tissues.

Milliners are endeavoring to bring back their quaint millinery.

Hairdressers are trying to revive the elaborate coiffures and have succeeded in bringing back into fashion the old elaborate headdresses and turban effects of silks and jewels.

On the whole, we are facing a season of great luxury and splendor.

We have grown tired of black frocks, with their limited possibilities and somber effects, and are going to burst forth into rainbow colors, and gold and silver fabrics and barbaric displays of jewels, particularly for evening.

The popular materials for gowns are rich velvets, brocades, satin-faced crepes and metal cloths.

Frequently these are quite plain, with only slender shoulder straps of diamonds or pearls, and slipper heels studded with the same jewels.

Possibly the whole interest in the frock is centred in the girdle, of pearls or a rope of them, loosely tied and ending in long tassels of jewels.

Costume jewelry this reason is more important than ever before. Sometimes one has a girdle, headband and bracelet, of diamonds and sapphires, or diamonds and emeralds, all following the same pattern.

Long chains of jewels or carved metal hang nearly to the knees, and necklaces are worn many times about the throat.

Jet is made into most interesting ornaments and sets, to be worn with all-white costumes, giving the black and white combination that is so popular.

White velvet and silver cloth, black velvet and gold are popular combinations at the present time.

Designers say, however, that before we can properly wear these gorgeous costumes we must acquire the dignity and the stately bearing of the old French beauties.

And that, of course, is more difficult than acquiring the clothes.

ARTIFICIAL GROWN JAPANESE PEARLS BEYOND DETECTION

Pearl Experts Are Unable to Distinguish Them From the Real Gems.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—(Associated Press).—Owners in Paris of valuable strings of pearls have been thrown into something like consternation by the published opinion of Dr. Louis Boutan, professor of science at the University of Bordeaux and an expert in pearls, that he and other pearl experts are unable to distinguish between real pearls and those artifically grown by the Japanese. The statement of Dr. Boutan, made at the French Academy of Sciences, removes the last hope concerning Japanese pearls, which have been grown in quantity since M. Mikimoto, the Japanese scientist, made his discovery.

Pearls normally are grown by accident, through a fine grain of sand entering the shell of the oyster. The white substance, called a pearl, grows inside the oyster and is a secretion caused by the effort of the shellfish to get rid of the foreign substance. Mikimoto conceived the idea of opening oysters and inserting the foreign substance, or grain of sand, that formerly came there accidentally.

Since Japanese began to grow pearls artificially, there has been much discussion as to whether these new pearls would affect the value of the accidentally grown pearls. The only difference would appear to be in the pearl seed, or grain of sand, and now it is claimed by Dr. Boutan that even this difference cannot be detected.

The statement of Dr. Boutan is categoric: "If I did not have a certificate of origin when sections of pearls were shown me, pearls cut into sections for testing purposes, I would not be able to say which pearl is artificial."

THEIR HAIR

Some ungallant bookworm has dug up a scandal that Sappho was bald. There are not wanting grounds for the suspicion that Queen Elizabeth's red wig concealed a nude scalp.

As for the thrice lovely Mary, Queen of Scots, she actually wore a wig when she went to have her head cut off, and she left a suspiciously large collection of wigs behind her.

How much trouble the Venetian women took to acquire the reddish hirsute tint that is admired in the pictures of Titian may be judged from this account written by an Italian chronicler in 1589:

"The houses of Venice are commonly crowned with little constructions in wood resembling a turret without a roof. At the base these ledges or boxes are formed of masonry and covered with a cement of sand and lime to protect them from the rain. It is in these that the Venetian women may be seen as often as, and indeed oftener than, in their chambers; it is there that, with their heads exposed to the full ardour of the sun, during whole days they strain every nerve to augment their charm.

"Seated there, they keep on wetting their hair with a sponge dipped in some elixir of youth. They wear on their heads a straw hat without a crown so that the hair, drawn through the opening, may be spread upon the borders; this hat doing double duty as a drying line for the hair and a parasol to protect the head and face."

And consider the Roman matrons who used to blondine their "crowning glory" with a mess of decomposed leeches.

Bees have been known to leave their hives and hover around the entrance of the approach of a storm.

PULQUE MADE FROM MAQUEY SAP

The national drink of the Mexicans, pulque, was first known according to legend, in 1050 A.D., when a beautiful Indian maiden named Xochitl brought a pot of sweet liquid drawn from maquey plants in her garden to the Toltec emperor, Teopancalzin. He liked the beverage so well that he married the girl.

The maquey plant is much like the century plant, and its juice is sweet and harmless until fermented. Large plantations employing hundreds of peons are given over to maguey growing. The high-voltage liquor made from the juice is sold in the lowest class of Mexican saloons patronized only by Indian peons.

Indulgence in this drink softens the brain, ruins the digestion and paralyzes the nerves. Its effects on the native population are so destructive that it has been named the "curse of Mexico."

SAFE FOR MAILS REMAINS AFLOAT IF SHIP SINKS

All Dutch liners are equipped with special safes for the conveyance of mails and other valuables. The safe is oval in shape and is carried on the deck in a cradle. Should the vessel meet with disaster and sink, the safe remains afloat. On its top is an ingenious automatic signalling apparatus. After the safe has been in the water half an hour this is set in operation, and a bright light is shown every fourth minute. Every ninth minute a signal horn sounds for one minute, while for 12 hours after the safe leaves the ship a rocket is set off every half hour.

The safe is fitted with an inside cover, so that it can be opened only by using a secret code known to the Dutch postal authorities. Finally, every safe is provided with a separate compartment, which automatically destroys the whole of its contents should an unauthorized person attempt to open it.

ORIGIN OF COCHINEAL INDUSTRY

The cochineal industry originated in Oaxaca, Mexico, and spread hence to Central America, then to the Canary Islands and elsewhere.

The Indians of Oxaaca had used the brilliant and permanent scarlet dye to color their sarapes, probably for centuries, without discovering that they were indebted to a minute insect which feeds on a certain species of cactus. They thought they were baking or boiling a natural product of the plant itself. However, they were perfectly familiar with its virtues, as they were with many of the native dye woods.

Here are still to be bought the best Indian blankets in the Republic, or either wool or cotton, dyed with vegetable colors.

THE HEART OF FRANCE FOR PEACE

SO ANSWER FARMERS AND PEASANTS

What is the feeling of the true rulers of France, the peasants? France is a pivotal nation, and upon it largely depends war or peace in Europe. That is why the Examiner sent Milton Bronner, representative of the NEA Service, to go out upon the highways and into the villages of France to talk to the French peasants and to ask them, "What if war comes?" This is his first in a series of four articles.—THE EDITOR.

* * *

BY MILTON BRONNER

TOURS, France, Sept. 29.—The peasant farmers of France—the people who feed the country and create its real wealth and who, in the last analysis, have to supply the men for the army—are against militarism, against big armies and navies, against big taxes. Moreover, they are looking forward with keen expectancy to 1924, when they will elect a new parliament and have a chance to turn out the present reactionary "Bloc National." They think the radical parties of the Left will come into power, cut the size of the army, shorten the term of enforced service in its ranks, reduce naval expenditures, and make a serious endeavor to reduce taxation.

I didn't gather this information from armchair theorists or propagandists in Paris, who don't know what the peasants are thinking. I went away from big cities and walked the highroads, talking to the peasant farmers, to the dwellers in the tiny villages, to the chance passers-by on the turnpikes, to the village schoolmasters, to the old women who served me a cup of coffee in the little wayside "debits," where the farm laborers gather to sip their wine and play a game of "manille," before resuming tasks which keep them occupied in the fields until long after nine o'clock at night.

A TYPICAL FRENCH PEASANT TOILING IN HIS FIELDS, AND (INSET) ANDRIVEY METIVIER.

The Heart of France

The section of France I chose for my investigations was the very heart of France, that section which has always been called its gardenspot—Touraine. Here the French blood is least adulterated by infiltrations from other races. Here, in the old days, France of the monarchy found its supreme expression. When the great revolution flamed up, it was the peasants of Touraine who helped proclaim the birth of democracy and destroyed many vestiges of royalty. Touraine helps supply the bread and the wine of France. My walks took me past endless fields of golden wheat. On all the terraced hillsides were growing the white grapes from which is made vouvray—the golden wine of France.

It is a rich country despite the fact that it has been cultivated for more than 2000 years. Endless manuring and ceaseless labor have kept the fields fertile. And they are such tiny fields compared to our American holdings. A farm has 5, 10, 15 or 20 acres, but every inch of it is made to produce something. And the melancholy fact is the people one sees at work on these little farms are mostly the old and middle-aged. The young men went away to the war and never came back; were so mutilated they can't work on a farm, or else got the fever of restlessness in their blood and went to the cities.

I didn't find much worship of the glory of war among these simple, kindly, hospitable, industrious folks. They are sick of war. They are aghast at the very idea of another conflict. And they would never dream of it again if they could just be sure that the German neighbor was also henceforth devoted to the ways of peace and industry.

The Ex-Soldier

I got my first "slant" on the situation from a village schoolmaster whose name I suppress because his frankness might cost him his job. This little man, who had to study hard at technical schools before getting his post, is paid a pitifully inadequate salary. The pinch of poverty showed in his shabby clothes, his cotton shirt, his rough shoes. He was 44 when the war broke out. He went away as a soldier, while his wife, a school mistress in the same village, undertook his classes as well as her own. He told me the middle-aged schoolmasters of France were radical almost to a man. The younger men, as the result of revulsion against war, were mostly Socialists. However, he said they outgrew that as they grew older. He predicted a smashing defeat in the next election for the coalition of the parties of the Right, which now govern France. These parties represent the vested interests, the banks, the capitals of industry, the profiteers, the old aristocracy, the militarists. He thought after the next elections, Heriot, the brilliant radical mayor of the great city of Lyons, would form the government. My schoolmaster said many of the farmers were reticent as to politics, but he noted great signs of uneasiness and dissatisfaction among them because of what went on in Paris. He added this significant remark:

"If any French government in a moment of criminal lunacy were to order another mobilization of the army, I tremble to think what would happen in the countryside."

Now come with me while I chat with Andrivey Metiver, who cultivates 10 acres near Fourchette, a village some miles away from the town of Amboise. It takes him a little time to straighten his figure from the furrow in which he is digging. You see, he was born in 1850. He fought the Germans in the war of 1870 at Gravelotte. "It was hell," he says. He was at the disaster of Sedan, but though wounded in the leg and shoulder, managed to escape. After the war, he returned to his village, where he has dwelt every since.

A Successful Man

Among the notable professional men of this country who achieved great success along strictly legitimate lines was Dr. R. V. Pierce. Devoting his attention to the specialty of women's diseases, he became a recognized authority in that line.

Over fifty years ago this noted physician gave to the world a Prescription which has never been equaled for the weaknesses of women. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., long since found out what is naturally best for women's diseases. He learned it all thru treating thousands of cases. The result of his studies was a medicine called Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine is made of vegetable growths that nature surely intended for backache, headache, weakening pains, and for the many disorders common to women in all ages of life. Women who take this standard remedy know that in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription they are getting a safe woman's tonic so good that druggists everywhere sell it in both tablet and finid form.

Send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Branch Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont., for trial package tablets.

RECIPES

By Bertha E. Shapleigh

Veal is a delicious meat, but many feel it is difficult of digestion. But if thoroughly cooked there is no danger.

Cut in pieces for serving, roll each piece in well seasoned flour and cook in fat until brown, having about three tablespoons of fat in a frying pan.

If the fat is all cut from the meat, and tried out, it is as good as butter. Of course any other fat, as bacon, lard, drippings or butter, may be used.

After the pieces of meat are a good brown remove and, using the fat remaining in pan, add an equal amount of flour, and one or two cups of water, salt and pepper. When thickened add the pieces of veal, cover closely, and cook one hour, over a slow fire.

Another good way is to bake the cutlet.

Baked Veal Cutlet with New Onions.

1 veal cutlet cut one inch thick
2 bunches young onions (scallions)
2 fresh tomatoes or 1 cup canned tomatoes.
1 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup water
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons fat

Roll the cutlet in the flour and fry in the fat until brown. Place the meat in a casserole or baking dish. Cover with the onions cut in thin slices, using two inches of the green stalks, the tomatoes, seasonings and water. Cover and cook slowly in a moderate oven two hours.

If fresh tomatoes are used, peel, and cut in small pieces. This will serve five.

SCALLOPED FISH POTATO BORDERS

By Bertha E. Shapleigh

2 cups any cold, cooked fish
2 cups white sauce
1 cup buttered crumbs
1 pint well seasoned mashed potatoes
Salt and pepper

Melt three tablespoons butter, add four tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, and when smooth and bubbling add two cups milk. Cook until thick.

For one cup of buttered crumbs use one cup crumbs and one-fourth cup butter, melted.

Place the fish and sauce in layers in a baking dish, or in individual shells or dishes. Put the potatoes through a bag and rose tube, or orm with a spoon a way around the fish and sauce.

Cover all but the potatoes with the buttered crumbs and set in a hot oven until the sauce bubbles through and the crumbs are brown.

Salmon is a good fish to use in this way, and green peas are a good accompaniment.

CASSEROL RICE WITH SHRIMPS

By Bertha E. Shapleigh

1 cup rice
1 can or ½ pound fresh shrimps
1 small onion (finely chopped)
2 cloves of garlic (finely chopped)
3 tablespoons oil or fat
1½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon paprika
2 cups tomatoes
2 cups water

Pick over and thoroughly wash the rice. If the shrimps are fresh ones and have not been boiled wash and cook in boiling water 20 minutes. When cool remove shell and separate the fish into two or three pieces.

Fry the onion and garlic in the fat until yellow, then add the rice and fry until slightly brown. Turn into a casserole, add shrimps, seasonings, tomatoes and water. Cover and cook slowly one and one-half hours. Serve from the casserole.

If one does not wish to use a casserole this may be cooked in a double boiler.

One cup of cooked salmon or crab meat may be used in place of the shrimps.

The garlic may be omitted, but it improves the flavor.

CHICKEN FRITTERS

By Bertha Shapleigh

12 slices stale bread
12 slices stale bread
1 cup cooked chopped chicken
2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon celery salt
½ teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
½ cup milk
¼ teaspoon celery

Cook the chicken with seasonings in butter for two or three minutes. Add flour and when blended with the meat add milk and cook until a paste is made. Spread this paste between slices of bread, making six sandwiches. Cut off thin crusts and dip each sandwich in a mixture of one cup of milk and two eggs beaten slightly. Fry in butter until a golden brown on each side. Serve hot, garnished with crisp celery.

NOTE: These so-called "fritters" may be made of any kind of left-over cooked meat excepting beef, and also crab meat. Always season to taste, the amounts given being sufficient to make palatable. This recipe makes six fritters.

BAKED PEARS WITH RICE

12 pears
Inch piece of cinnamon
2 cups milk
½ cup rice
1 egg
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups sugar
1 cup water

Pare, cut in halves, and remove the seeds from the pears. Make a sirup by cooking sugar and cinnamon together for five minutes. In this sirup cook the pears, a few at a time, until they are soft but not mushy. Cook rice in milk for one hour—add sugar, salt and egg and cook five minutes. Turn into a mold and chill. Turn into a serving dish, surround with pears and sirup.

Hard winter pears, or the early fall pears, or seckel pears, are all good cooked in this way.

Sometimes a little preserved ginger instead of the cinnamon is used.

GLAZED BEETS

Beets are an exceedingly good vegetable, good to the taste and pleasing to the eye. They make an excellent soup, are a fine addition to some salads and may be served as a vegetable in a variety of ways.

The first thing to do after washing them is to boil until tender. Then plunge them into cold water and slip off the skins.

Young, small, baby beets are usually served whole, but if they are larger ones cut in slices and cook as follows:

6 beets, boiled and sliced
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons sugar
A little salt

In the sauce pan place butter and sugar and when a sirup is formed add beets and cook slowly 20 minutes.

Vegetable Salad

One of the reasons that many people do not serve salad is that the family does not like oil. Another reason is that one does not always have lettuce, and most recipes for salad call for lettuce.

The following recipe uses very little oil and no lettuce:

1 cup shredded cabbage
1 cup celery cut in small pieces
2 cucumbers, pared and cut in very small pieces (or they may be chopped)
3 tomatoes, chopped
1 red pepper, fresh or canned
2 green peppers cut in small pieces
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar
3 tablespoons oil

Mix all the ingredients in a bowl thoroughly, and serve very cold.

If you do not have celery use twice as much cabbage and add one-fourth teaspoon celery salt.

This salad is especially good served with fried or broiled fish and with cold meat.

CORN CHOWDER

By Bertha E. Shapleigh

1 quart green corn cut from cob or 1 pint canned corn
1 quart thinly sliced potatoes
½ cup bacon or clear fat pork (cut in dice)
22 onions thinly sliced
3 tablespoons flour
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 quart water
1 pint milk
8 crackers

Try out the bacon or pork in a kettle and in it fry the onions for a few minutes being careful they do not brown.

Then put in a layer of potatoes and a layer of corn, sprinkle over these part of the flour, salt and pepper. Repeat until the material is all used.

Cover with the water and cook until potatoes are soft. Add milk, bring to boiling point, add crackers and serve when the crackers are soft. Add more salt and pepper if desired.

Corn chowder is a "one kettle" dish and is sufficient for lunch or supper as the main dish. Chowders are always better the second day reheated.

Corn Pudding

By Bertha E. Shapleigh

This dish is excellent to serve with cold meat, or with a brown sugar sauce it may serve for a simple dessert.

It can be made with either cooked or raw green corn, the latter giving a better flavor.

1 pint grated green corn
1 quart milk
½ cup sugar
1-8 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter (melted)
3 eggs (slightly beaten)

Mix all together, turn into a buttered baking dish and bake 30 minutes, having the dish set in a pan of water.

If the water does not boil, the pudding bakes without separating, and the custard will be smooth. This is true with all combinations of eggs and milk.

For this Recipe you need:—

One egg
Two teaspoons sugar
One teaspoon lemon juice
One cup rich milk
Few gratings nutmeg.

Prohibition has not taken all the zest out of the egg-nog.

While some may demand the pre-Volstead elements that are lacking today, many of us will find the following recipe for a 1922 egg-nog yields a delicious and refreshing as well as nourishing drink.

Beat egg well with sugar. Add lemon juice and continue beating. Add milk and pour from one glass to another several times to mix.

Grate nutmeg over the top and serve at once. A few grains of salt should be added with the sugar and two or three drops of vanilla can be added with the lemon juice.

Egg-nog can be made by beating the white and yolk of the egg separately. The yolk is beaten with sugar and milk and the white beaten till stiff and dry and folded into the first mixture.

Always add a few grains of salt to any drink made of milk.

HEADBANDS

Headbands will be worn extensively this season, particularly those made of tiny leaves of flowers. There are also many wide, swarthed bands of metallic tissue.

RIBBONS AND BRAID

Ribbons and soutache braid are used in a variety of ways on the new frocks. One of the most effective ways is to have them tinted in graduated shades, from yellow to deep orange, or from orchid to peep purple.

A Full Flavored Blend of Supreme Quality.

WOMEN FOR WIVES SCARCE IN WEST MANY ARE NEEDED

Mayor of Victoria, B.C., Acted Recently as Matrimonial Agent.

HOMES DIFFERENT.

WILLIAMS LAKE, Cariboo, B. C., Sept. 28.—Recently the Mayor of Victoria, B. C., obtained much popularity by interesting himself in a number of young ladies who arrived at that city from the old land and who were willing to be married if suitable husbands could be secured for them. In the course of a few weeks His Worship received a great many letters from both women and men who wanted him to use his influence in securing life-partners for them. One woman in her hurry made a mistake and wrote to Mayor Tisdale of Vancouver thinking that he was the match-maker.

A few months ago a lonely bachelor living in the interior of British Columbia advertised in one of the London dailies for a wife, and in the course of three weeks from the date of the first insertion of his advertisement he had received as many as four hundred applications in reply from prospective brides. These incidents serve to show the alarming state of affairs in the world today.

In the frontier districts like Cariboo, Yukon, Peace River, there are seventy-five per cent. more men than women. In the section of the interior of British Columbia from Ashcroft on the south to Soda Creek on the north (nearly two hundred miles) and from Quesnelle Lake on the east to Chilauko Lake on the west (nearly two hundred miles), covering an area of over 3,500 square miles, there are over five hundred unmarried men. As a class they are educated, honorable and clean living and above the average in many respects, and 99 per cent. of them would be married tomorrow if they could find suitable wives. An unmarried lady school teacher very rarely escapes without marriage in these parts.

Return to Cities.

From year to year some of the bachelors become weary and abandon their homes and farms and return in disgust to the congested cities. This is certainly to be regretted as there are too many people living in the cities now and more people are needed on the land. The complaint is often made that the country, especially a new country like this, is too lonely for women. No doubt there is much truth in this complaint.

In the earlier years of pioneering on the prairies and in the valleys and glens of British Columbia life was exceedingly lonely and many women, it is to be feared, died of broken hearts in shivering solitude. But things are different now. The march of advancing civilization has gone on rapidly during the last quarter of a century. It is almost impossible to find a place where the telegraph and telephone have not entered, and now radiophones are being installed even in the remotest sections of the land. There are several radio stations in this country, one being situated in the town of Williams Lake, the newest town in Cariboo. The telephone is for private communication ordinarily speaking and the radiophone is for public information and entertainments.

The cost of living again is an element in favor of the country today. The cost of living in this land is not more than fifty per cent. of what it was in the earlier years of the gold rush into Borkerville in the sixties. The cost of living here now is less than fifty per cent. of the cost of living in the big cities.

The unmarried men of this country are well aware of the fact that they cannot make a success of life while they live alone. They have given it an honest trial and others tried it before them, and failed. There is a streak of selfishness in all men, but no man can succeed in coming to his best unless he has someone outside of himself to live and work for. A man must have a wife, a child, a mother, a father, a sister or a brother, or someone to work for and support before he can keep up doing the same old tasks day in and day out, which shows, after all, that every man is at heart an altruist.

Story of "Shorty."

In this connection it might be interesting to know how one lonely bachelor in this country got his wife. He was nicknamed "Shorty," but his real name is Henry Atkinson. Shorty left his home in the distant south when he was a boy of 12 years of age. His father was dead and he was the youngest of a large family. Some disagreement with his oldest brother led to Shorty leaving home and unlike the prodigal without his portion of the estate and never to return. He had no education, so he took to bear hunting for a living. He became a very proficient hunter and had seven hundred grizzily pelts to his honor and to many stories of hair breath escapes from enraged grizzlies I listened in the early days from Mr. Atkinson. When I knew him he was inclined to give up hunting and was settling down on a farm on the banks of the Upper Columbia River. He had 300 hens, 200 hogs and several hundred head of cattle. From nature's book he spelled, read and analyzed.

No One To Marry.

Shorty was a bachelor, and not because he did not want a settled life with a family around his fireside, but because he knew no woman who would have him for a husband. There were only half a dozen women in that whole country of 350 miles then and they had husbands.

One day a merchant by the name of Kempton was buying cattle off Shorty. When he had bought twenty head and paid money down for them he noticed a beautiful steer in the bunch and he said, "I'll give you your own price for that one if you will let me have it?" Shorty replied in the negative, but on reflection said, "I'll let you have that one if you will get me a good woman for a wife." "It's a bargain," the merchant said, and without delay he set to work to get in touch with a young Norweigan woman that had come to Golden a short time before and was living with a family there. He informed her of Mr. Atkinson's good intentions and then informed Mr. Atkinson of her attitude to the proposition. In the course of a few weeks Mr. Atkinson visited Golden and went to see the young lady to whom he had had an introduction in absentia. As he marched up to the house he met a woman coming down the walk to the street, but he did not suspect that she was the object of his quest. He knocked at the door and a woman answered. He asked her if Miss —— was here? She said, "She is but she is out at present, that was she you met going down the walk as you came up. She'll be back in a few minutes." Shorty thanked her and walked away. He paced up and down the sidewalk for about fifteen minutes, but it seemed longer than that to him. The lady at last came and Mr. Atkinson, taking off his hat, introduced himself and told her that he was the chap that the merchant had spoken to her of and that he was here to find out if she would accept him for better or worse, and added that he would give her twenty minutes to decide.

She decided in ten minutes and that evening they were pronounced husband and wife by the Presbyterian minister of Golden. At the close of the ceremony Mr. Atkinson handed his wife $400, saying, "Seeing that your parents are living now on the prairies and as it will be difficult for you to visit them once you go to the upper country, take this and board the train, which is due for the East in one hour, and go and visit them, and when you want to come back send me word and I'll meet you here and we will make our way to our future home in the Columbia Valley." She accepted his offer with gratitude and in three weeks they were in their home together in the beautiful valley of the Upper Columbia River where they have lived happily and prosperously ever since.

Eat Again Like A Hungry Child

The work of the stomach is to extract the life-giving properties from the food you eat, and these properties are distributed through the body by the blood. If the stomach does not perform this work, as Nature intended, the blood suffers and the entire system becomes affected.

The eight different ingredients in TANLAC, the wonderful stomach medicine and system purifier, are so blended that they readily assist the stomach in performing its natural function. Its corrective action will make you eat again like a hungry child.

TANLAC is highly recommended by all leading druggists.

5,000 CANADIANS IN HOSPITAL YET.

Of These Nearly 3,000 Are Practically Incurable — Victims of War.

OTTAWA, Sept. 29.—That there were nearly 5,000 ex-service men still in Canadian hospitals and that it was not expected this number would very materially decrease owing to the fact that approximately 3,000 of them were either mentally affected or suffering from tuberculosis and others practically incurable complaints as a result of the great war, was one of the statements made to-night to the inaugural supper of the season of the Dominion Methodist church Men's Association by Major N. F. Parkinson, deputy minister of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment in an interesting address in which he reviewed the work of his department.

Major Parkinson also stated that 56,000 ex-service men had completed courses of vocational training. There were also 70,000 pensions being paid at the present time to disabled ex-service men and to dependents.

SHORTAGE OF FIGS A RESULT OF WAR.

Seventy Per Cent. of Smyrna's Crop Believed Lost.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press.—A shortage of figs is threatened by the war in the Near East, according to a report to the Commerce Department to-day from Commercial Attache R. O. Hall at Athens.

No figs or currants have been shipped from Smyrna, he reported, since the military operations around that city began, and it is estimated that there will be a loss of approximately 70 per cent. of the fig crop.

GREEKS UNITED FACING DANGER

National Spirit Behind Revolution—May Have Great Effects.

PARIS, Sept. 29. — Canadian Press.)— The telegram received by the Greek Legation here, recites events already known and adds:

"The spirit and aims of the revolutionary movement being especially Nationalist, it was, from the first moment, warmly welcomed by all, and the entire population as well as the army of Athens, received the revolutionary forces which entered the capital yesterday afternoon, with enthusiasm.

"The revolutionary movement succeeded in uniting all Athens for the safety of the country. All, without exception, forgetting their hatreds and political passions and including the Royalists and Reactionaries, grouped themselves, in the National union movement, represented by the revolutionists."

Explaining the progress of the revolution, the telegram says:

"After the retreat of the Greek armies in Asia Minor ,all the officers, the people and the army became convinced that the abdication of King Constantine was necessary, inasmuch as his presence was an obstacle in the way of our national interests, both for domestic and foreign affairs, since as king he no longer enjoyed the confidence of the Allied Powers and those Powers allied with Greece.

"All the officers who landed in the islands of Mytilene and Chios decided spontaneously and by a unanimous movement to proclaim a revolution and to exact the removal of the King. An appeal was addressed to the first asking it to join the revolution. This appeal was sent to the armies in Thrace and Macedonia. All replied within 48 hours, accepting with enthusiasm. The rapidity with which the navy and the army joined the revolutionary movement shows that it has been unanimously adopted.

"Immediately afterwards, 20,000 soldiers embarked on transports, and, accompanied by the fleet, arrived on Tuesday afternoon at Laurium, whence they sent an ultimatum by wireless to the Government, requesting the abdication of Constantine in favor of Crown Prince George; dissolution of the National Assembly, and new elections under a government which would inspire confidence in the people, and that Greek interests abroad be confided to M. Venizelos.

"The ultimatum was accepted after brief negotiations and the city of Athens was then occupied by the revolutionary army."

Make-up of Your Child's School Lunch Box

By Bertha Shapleigh

Soon housewives and mothers must think of the children's lunches which must be "put up" to carry, or prepared at home to serve hot. In either case many things must be considered.

These lunches must be attractive, appetizing and contain those foods which are necessary to keep the growing child in good health.

Let us consider first, the lunch box. If a girl is to carry it, it can be quite different from the one a boy carries. He does not wish to be bothered with one which must be carried home. If it is too elaborate, the boys may laught at him. So if possible let him carry his lunch in a paper container which need not be taken home.

With the present convenient paper dishes, obtainable at almost all stores, it is possible to prepare a very attractive lunch box.

As to food, there should be one substantial sandwich with a filling of meat or egg; one sweet sandwich, or plain bread and butter with some salad in a jelly tumbler.

Put in the box some sweet, such as stuffed dates or figs—cookies or one piece of cake, and always fruit. The orange may have the rind cut, so it will be easy to peel, and then be wrapped in oiled paper.

For the older children, pastry baked in two rounds with a fruit filling between is always enjoyed. A baked apple, a few pieces of homemade fudge, a cup custard baked in a pretty cup; a small frosted cake—all of these at various times will be appreciated.

When possible, milk should be bought at the school. But otherwise, have one or two half-pint bottles with tight-fitting caps, and put that and two straws in the lunch box. There is a novelty about drinking milk from the bottle through a straw.

Each piece of cake and the sandwiches, ought to be wrapped separately in oiled paper. Paper napkins may be used in place of oiled paper, but newspaper or any printed paper should never be used around food.

The following are suggested combinations for a lunch box:

ONE—Two sandwiches, one of brown bread and butter, one white bread and butter.
One boiled egg, the yolk, taken out and mixed with butter, salt and pepper. The egg is then wrapped in oiled paper.
Two cookies.
One orange.

TWO—One sandwich made with chopped ham and chicken mixed with mayonnaise. (Of course any other meat on hand may be used).
Three olives or three small pickles.
One frosted chocolate cake.
Bottle of milk.
One apple.

THREE—Chopped egg and bacon sandwich.
Jelly tumbler of cole slaw.
Three cookies.
One orange.

FOUR—Two peanut butter sandwiches, one having chopped pickle, and one jelly mixed with the peanut butter.
One apple tart.
Three pieces chocolate fudge.
Bottle of milk.

FIVE—Two buttered rolls.
Jelly tumbler of fruit salad.
Cup custard.
Two cookies.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

The loquacious wife has no part in the domestic scheme of many Indian tribes.

Most of them consider it quite debasing to hold any conversation with a woman. She is given orders, but she takes them in silence.

For that reason, all proposals and matters pertaining to marriage are taken up with the fathers or nearest male relatives.

HER AILMENTS ALL GONE NOW

Mrs. Sherman Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lake, Michigan.—"About one year ago I suffered with irregularities and a weakness and at times was obliged to stay off my feet. I doctored with our family physician and he finally said he could not understand my case, so I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After I had taken the first bottle I could see that I was getting better. I took several bottles of the Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and I am entirely cured of my ailments. You may publish this letter if you wish."—Mrs. M. SHERMAN, Route 2, Lake, Mich.

There is one fact women should consider and that is this. Women suffer from irregularities and various forms of weakness. They try this and that doctor, as well as different medicines. Finally they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound, and Mrs. Sherman's experience is simply another case showing its merit.

If your family physician fails to help you and the same old troubles persist, why isn't it reasonable to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound?

SIGNS OF THE TOWNS

HEMLOCK CENTRE.—"This is Hemlock Centre, home of Nathaniel Nutte, the inventor of the self-sharpening butter knife. Mr. Nutte is still alive at the age of 110, and may be observed skipping rope in front of the large red house two miles north of here. Go slow and sound horn passing school, drug store, and pool parlor."

• • •

CEDAR CROSSINGS.—"You are now entering the picturesque village of Cedar Crossings, famous in history as the birthplace of Obidiah Oggswump, who devoted fifty-five years of his life to the perfection of a process for removing bones from shad. He would have succeeded if the town hadn't run out of shad. One mile from here is the Hotel Restless, deserving of distinction as the only hotel in Canada at which John A. Macdonald never stopped. Come again

• • •

MILLSIDE MANOR.—"Two miles from here is Millside Manor, for years the home of Mrs. Mathilda Muddlmawdle, whose brown bread and cheese cake won her prominent mention in the Millside Sentinel-Recorder, and whose husband jumped into Goose Creek, three miles north, during an attack of indigestion in 1886. Please observe quiet zones.

• • •

OYSTER RIVER.—"The telegraph pole with the blue stripe 100 yards from here marks the boundary of Oyster River, scene of a stirring battle between two bull terriors during the war of 1812. Otis Dumdum, the first man to wear button shoes with cloth tops was once a resident here. Stone shaft at top of the hill marks site of proposed two-chair barber shop."

• • •

GOPHERVILLE.—"This is Gopherville, thriving centre of the celluloid collar washing industry. It has two factories employing over 11 men, three tobacco stores, five cider mills, a creamery, and a hardware store. Gopherville is the native town of Horace Hodgerspodge, who left it soon after he was old enough to walk, and who is to-day national corresponding secretary of the New England Chiropractors' Association with a business in his own right. The yellow house 15 rods east is the building in front of which Charles Sshwab., the steel magnate, once stopped to change an auto tire."

• • •

HICKORY HAVEN.—"You are now 200 yards from Hickory Haven, the birthplace of Prentice Pudge, originator of the idea of coloring Easter eggs and author of 'The Face on the Drugstore Floor.' Observe at the top of hill the Honor Roll showing Hickory Haven's contribution to the Venezuelan war. It sent four men to the war and got seven back. Sound Klaxon passing depot and pinochle game 200 yards beyond this spot."

LAKE GAZOOKUS.—"This is the home of Ellis Beetle, author of 'If Winter Comes Will Coal Be Far Behind?' 'Care of The Kerosene Lamp,' and other standard works of literature. The mayor of this town had his picture in the metropolitan papers in 1907 for being run over by the motor car of the president of the International Harvester Company."

YEASTVILLE.—"Just beyond this point is Muddy Creek, famous in history as the scene of one of the early battles in the Indian wars. A force of Yeastville infantry, seven strong, met a detachment of four Blackfeet Indians at sunrise, Aug. 10, 1673. The battle raged for five days, both sides finally retreating because of the lack of excitement. On the left observe the ruins of a brewery."

SCALLOPED FRESH TOMATOES

There are certain meats which seem to need always a vegetable like the tomato, and fish is especially good in combination with tomatoes, cooked or raw.

Scalloped tomatoes, like scalloped oysters, may be good, or equally poor, due to a careless use of the bread crumbs and too little seasoning. The following recipe is good:

6 tomatoes peeled and cut into thin slices
1 cup fine bread crumbs (soft stale bread is better than the over-dry)
3 tablespoons chopped onion
3 tablespoons butter or bacon fat
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
A little pepper

Fry the onion in the butter or bacon fat for five minutes, but do not let it brown. Add crumbs and mix until crumbs are well coated with fat.

In a buttered baking dish place a layer of tomatoes, sprinkle with sugar, salt and pepper. Cover with crumbs and repeat until material is used, having crumbs on top.

Bake twenty minutes.

KISSES

Many people are very fond of these little fluffy cakes which all bakers and caterers show. They are not hard to make, but must be baked very carefully. They should not be browned at all—and it takes about an hour to cook them.

Caterers make them quite differently, but the following recipe is a good one:

4 egg whites
1 cup granulated sugar
Few grains salt
½ teaspoon vanilla

Have fresh cold eggs, and after separating the whites and yolks add salt to the whites. Beat until stiff and dry—that is, so dry that when the bowl is inverted the egg does not run or fall out. Sift sugar two or three times, and add it, a little at a time, beating steadily until the mixture will hold its shape. Add vanilla and drop the mixture from a teaspoon onto an inverted pan—dusted with corn starch. Place in a moderate oven and bake, with the oven door open, for one hour. At the end of that time the little cakes should have risen, cooked dry, and may be easily removed from pan. They should have no color.

LAYER SANDWICHES

The sandwiches may be made with any kind of filling and consisting of five slices of thinly cut bread; three white and two brown, having a white slice top and bottom. Butter each slice generously.

A very good filling is cream cheese with chopped olives and pimentoes; any kind of cold-chopped meat mixed with salad dressing. Put the five slices together, press, trim off crusts and cut in crosswise slices one-quarter inch in thickness.

never stay long where there are pimples, 'cause I come from heaven, and pimples never do." Cupid's words ring true. Pimples belong to nobody's darling, no matter how much of a darling you may be. With the proper amount of vitamines and iron in your blood, pimples would be a practical impossibility. The remarkable power of yeast-vitamines when properly ironized is proven by the results of Ironized Yeast. This is not a mere mixture of vitamines and iron, but is yeast ironized, which is a substance all by itself. Be sure that you take only Ironized Yeast. Your blood will be freed from impurities, your skin will clear almost magically, pimples and skin spots will vanish. Ironized Yeast is a powerful builder of nerve force. It is sold at all drug stores at $1.00 a package. Each package contains 60 tablets, each tablet sealed by itself. They never lose their power. Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., Toronto, Sales Agents. THE HOPE FOR DISTRESSED HUMANITY.
MILLIONS NOW LIVING WILL NEVER DIE.
SPEAKER: H. HOWLETT,
Travelling Representative of the International Bible Students Association.

REGENT THEATRE

Sunday Evening, Oct. 1st, 7 p.m.

Never in the history of mankind has the unrest been so general as it is to-day, and on every hand the question is being asked "What does it all mean?"

The students of God's Word are reminded of the words of Jesus, "Upon the earth distress of nations, with perplexity; the sea and the waves (the restless, discontented) roaring; men's hearts failing them for fear and for looking to the things coming upon the earth (society); for the powers of the heavens (ecclesiasticism) shall be shaken . . . . When ye see these things begin to come to pass, then know that the Kingdom of God is at hand. Look up, lift up your heads, rejoice, for your redemption draweth nigh."

SITUATION IN NEAR EAST

in order to elicit a full statement from the government and give opportunity for endorsement or rejection of its policy.

The Main Danger.

The main danger is still regarded as centering in the Chanak zone, on the southern shore of the Dardanelles, into which Turkish Nationalist troops continue to move freely in defiance of the British decree.

"Cavalary detachments in bands of 100 or 200 continue to filter in," says the Morning Post's Constantinople correspondent. "They ride under a white flag or with rifles reversed whenever they near our troops. They show no aggression but tend to make the British situation militarily most difficult, and their movements naturally furnish an excellent method of reconnoitering"

A CLASH IS POSSIBLE.

OTTAWA, Sept. 29.— (Canadian Press.)—With everything apparently in readiness for summoning of special meetings of the Cabinet Council to decide upon Canada's action in the Near East situation, a call for sessions has not yet been issued. Confidential despatches from London and from Canadian representatives at Geneva, which it is understood simply elaborate facts given in press despatches, continue to reach the government ,and as fast as they can be decoded are being placed in the hands of the Prime Minister and other members of the Cabinet. While the news of last night and to-day indicate a serious situation between British and Turk leaders in the menaced area, there is continuance of the hope here that the conference between General Harrington and Mustapha Kemal Pasha may result in a bloodless settlement. Ottawa, however, largely inclines to the belief of London that a clash is possible at any moment. Should there be such an occurrence, Parliament, it is believed, will be summoned immediately to an emergency session, which will last only a few days. Expectation is that Parliament will vote to send troops, although opposition is expected if the proposal is laid before the House.

GREEK TERRORISM.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press.) — Turkish refugees numbering 240 from the village of Sezara in Thrace arrived at the Bulgarian frontier yesterday, declaring that they had been forced to flee to escape Greek terrorism. The Greeks, they asserted, surrounded the village, burned their homes and killed part of the population.

NOTE CONCILIATORY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 29. — Kemal, Commander in Chief of the Turkish Nationalist army, and President of the National Assembly at Angora, has sent a communication to General Harrington informing him that Turkish troops were under orders to hold positions they have already occupied in neutral zone on Turkish Straits. Communication was said to be conciliatory in tone, leading to the belief that Kemal and Harrington will hold a conference within the next day or two in an effort to reach some sort of agreement.

By Stuart P. West.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Sept. 29.—(Special.)—The markets again today all felt the strain of the ugly appearing developments at the Dardanelles. But again the Turkish News was only one factor and not the most important one, in the general unsettlement.

Sterling exchange gave the principal reflection of the prevailing uncertainty with a drop of over 3 cents a pound. This was accompanied by declines in British government securities and other European government issues. French 8's sold again at their low of the year. French 7 1-2's came down within a point and a half of their low, while Belgian 7 1-2's with a drop of a point made a new low record for 1922. The investment bond market in general was really weak. There were losses of a point to 2 points in many coroprate bonds, and the impression was still given that institutions and other local holders were looking for the chance to sell and were increasingly willing to make concessions. This was a development, however, which could not be associated except perhaps very slightly, with the dubious outlook in South-western Europe. Mainly it was the further preparation of investment values forthe new government loan.

The stock market stood up much better than the bond markets. It had to face another piece of unpleasant news in the shape of the abandonment of the Republic-Midvale merger. This gave traders on the short side fresh ammunition to work with, and under the encouragement of a violent drop in the independent steel shares, another sharp drive was launched against the general list.

For a time around mid-day the market was made to look pretty weak, but it soon became apparent that short selling was playing more of a part than real liquidation, and that the professional raids were running into a lot of solid buying.

In the afternoon, accordingly, operations for the decline abruptly ceased and an upturn followed which was particularly rapid in the equipment stocks, in the motors and in some of the industrial specialties.

The Very Wildest Game Now Attracts Women Hunters

The Modern Jungle Queen Most Successfully Slays Vicious Elephants and Snakes in Darkest Africa When Led by the Man She Loves.

Mrs. Osa Johnson on an African Houseboat with Savages as Her Sole Companions Feels Safe and Happy as Long as Her Husband Is "Somewhere in the Jungle" Nearby.

By Elizabeth Shields

DISCOVERED—the reason for women invading the jungle! Sociologists, psychologists, the entire thinking portion of the world, in fact, have been spending the last short time that has added the Jungle Queen to other new types of women, puzzling over a feminine bravery before such horrors, a courage midst such dangers, a poise in such tangled wildernesses as have daunted the stoutest masculine hearts. They have tried to determine why women have met these things with sweet smiles and incomparable attitudes of triumph; returning again and again to paths that are more figurative than actual through thoroughly nightmare surroundings.

Of course, the women themselves have offered many an excuse for their feats. One wished adventure. Another loved wild animals. A third sought, in the unexplored heart of nature, the relaxation she failed to find in haunts of men.

But these explanations, sincere though they may be, are descriptive of effect only. Cause lies in the queer root of life itself. It is nothing more nor less than the great all-powerful lure of love!

And the conduct of these doughty huntresses goes to show, perhaps, that, after all, Mr. George Bernard Shaw may have been right. For possibly it is true that in the terrific game of love woman is indeed the more indefatigable, undismayed and imaginative worker for what she wants!

If the logic here offered appears far-fetched, let us demonstrate that a man was the direct though unacknowledged first reason for our three most famous Jungle Queens conducting their romantic pilgrimages through the South Sea Islands and deepest Africa. Husband, brother, cannibal chief—one of these figures in the fortune of each feminine explorer. Each, after telling her six-reel thriller of a story, adds: "I might never have left home but HE!!"

And there you are!

Osa Johnson, for example, was the most popular girl in her little home city, Independence, Kan. The company of her friends, pretty dresses, theatres, auto rides, all the odds and ends of good times young folk love, were her delight.

Then she married Martin Johnson, the handsome and youthful explorer, friend of Jack London and his companion on the "Cruise of the Snark," and hunter who does most of his shooting by camera. And when she was invited to take a trip into the remote regions of Borneo she went willingly enough, though without any fanatical enthusiasm.

That was nearly 13 years ago. Now the one-time society butterfly wears khaki puttees almost permanently instead of fluffy frocks, and instead of hosts of friends she sees for weeks on end no one but her husband and a company of blacks. Why? Her husband laughingly declares that she gave up civilization for King Nagapate!

Osa describes this king as the "biggest, blackest, most handsome savage in the world." He took captive the Johnson party when they visited the "Big Numbers" tribe on the Island of Malekula. And while an assortment of braves held the explorer, the king, who wore a plug through his nose, first invited Mrs. Johnson to become his 61st wife and then invited her to become his dinner. Only the arrival of a British man-of-war in the harbor saved her from either the harem or the stewpot of Nagapate. It was, she declares, her most thrilling and enjoyable experience, though she will not say that the memory of the black king draws her back.

Martha Miller's story is somewhat different. Petite, soft-voiced, and 23, she trailed through South Africa with a party from the American Museum of Natural History and came home laden with glory and trophies.

Miss Miller spends a share of each day in the museum seated before a typewriter in the office of Carl F. Akeley, whose secretary she is. She is feminine as pink baby-ribbon. Yet she confesses that her ambition always was to shoot an elephant.

"You see, I have six brothers and all my life I've been trying to keep up with them. Back on the ranch where we lived in Texas I managed to get along fairly well, for I could ride and hurdle fences and do such things almost as well as they. But when the war came and all six of them went and I couldn't get into it I was discouraged. The odds seemed all on their side.

"Then I happened to think that if I could shoot an elephant we'd be even again. So when I had opportunity to go to Africa I seized it and now the most adventursome brother admits that we are squared."

Miss Miller's elephant was the only one brought down by the party. And for good measure she shot a lion which chanced to be the star kill of the expedition.

Mrs. Harry Kaigh Eustace is the third woman who invaded the jungle because of a man. He happens to be her husband, and she followed him into the most jumbled corners of the dark continent because she was home loving!

"I knew if I didn't go there to make a home for him he'd never have one!" she explained.

Mrs. Eustace, too, is exquisitely feminine. A tall figure with fluffy, graying hair and blue eyes, she isn't at all the type you would expect to find knocking about the Congo. Nor is she the sort you would think of running across with a snake or two twined round her neck. Yet her jungle experiences have given her a taste for snakes and she seldom is without a python or a sweetly affectionate boa-constrictor trailing her about like a house cat. A beloved member of her household is a 2-year-old leopard.

"I never had been more than a few miles from the little English town where I was born," she explained, "until I met my husband. After we were married I couldn't let him go on his expeditions alone. A woman's place is with her man. So I put away the peaceful monotony of the life that had been mine for the adventure of his."

And there you are again—the eternal feminine braving the most terrible dangers of the earth—all for love!

Viscountess Maidstone, the former Margaret Drexel of Philadelphia, sister to Anthony J. Drexel, Jr., is preparing for a trip to the upper reaches of the Nile River. She will be accompanied by a party of explorers and her immediate companion will be the Duchess of Sutherland. The two noblewomen expect to reach a spot that no white woman ever has set foot on. It will be a tedious trip, for they will depend on native transportation facilities.

None of the women whose stories have been related here has enjoyed the colorful experiences, despite the romance of her invasion of the Dark Continent, that have been a part of the daily existence of the former Miss Etta Lee Woolsey. In the shadow of the Congo she promised to be her husband's bride; there she was married three times; there she roamed on a 500-mile honeymoon trek through the jungle; there she lived, for two years, in a little mission that was like a fairy bower among gladioli, giant ferns, palms, flowers like a flowing rainbow.

This girl left her home in Bay City, Texas, to carry the message of Christianity to the natives of coal black Wembo Nyama. After sailing several of the seven seas in search of her, Capt. Charles Schaedel found her at the little mission house. The marriage between "Ecima Dunga," or "Digger of Dunga" as the natives called him, because only a big, powerful man like him can tear up the tenacious roots of the jungle plant, and the small "Mama of Wisdom," as they called their teacher, took place first with such ceremonial as would be managed in their country.

It satisfied the bride and groom, but not the government. Accordingly a second ceremony was managed and accomplished in the Otetela language, for the benefit of the natives. The third ceremony was performed by a government official in French. And it was after this triple tying of wedding bonds that they went on the long journey through the Congo.

They took up their life at a mission, Mrs. Schaedel as a teacher, and her husband as her assistant. It was when "Junior" came that they thought of the States with longing. Only a little later they found themselves back in Texas. But Capt. Schaedel wished to go back. And Mrs. Schaedel wished to accompany him. So you see, love called this woman into the jungle again.

THE SOFT BALL LEAGUE MEETING

C. G. E. Team Will Get the Medals—P. A. A. A. Will Supply Colonial Weaving.

At a special meeting of the Executive of the Ladies' Soft Ball League, held last evening in the board room at the Chamber of Commerce, it was decided, by mutual consent, to discontinue League games until the spring, as the fall season is closing in, and some of the girls are unable to attend the scheduled games on Saturday afternoons. The trophy donated by the P.A.A.A. for winners in this League will be awarded next season, when the games have been completed.

The medals donated by the Spalding goods people of Toronto will go to the C.G.E. team, winners of the first portion of the scheduled games, while the P.A.A.A. have almost definitely decided to furnish medals for the Colonial Weaving team, champions of the city. The awarding of these medals is a recognition of the hard work done by the girl players in the different teams, and is intended as an encouragement towards further sustained effort next season.

A letter was received from the Shamrocks of London, desiring to play home-and-home games with the Peterborough basketball team, but things are not yet in shape for a definite decision, and no action has been considered as yet.

The committees interested in girls' sports will endeavor to start a ladies' basketball league and also volley ball, as soon as possible, and would be glad to hear from any girl employees in the offices and factories of the city who wish to enter same.

LAUDS COLLEGE BASEBALL

Jack Barry Says Players Entering Pro Ranks Elevate Game

Jack Barry, former star shortstop of the Philadelphia Athletics and of the Boston Red Sox, and an alumnus of Holy Cross College, is one of the great many who give the college players much credit for uplifting baseball in general. While discussing the subject recently Barry said:

"It surely is true that the college players have done more to elevate professional baseball than any other factor in the development of the game. The college player has helped to make the national sport worth while. He has helped to make the professional baseball player respected everywhere, and his influence has tended to eliminate most of the rowdyism from the game. Of course, from time to time there will be flareups but these are only natural when players are working under a great train.

"In the old days it was customary to look down on the professional baseball player. He was not considered a proper person in certain quarters. Conditions that surrounded the game were far different from what they are at present. The greatest improvement has taken place during the last twenty years, and the influx of college players in great numbers has been responsible for this to a great degree. Furthermore, college baseball, as it is conducted today, not only sends players into the professional game who have been polished in the classroom, but also players who have been taught to play the game proper.

Jump from Bed in Morning and Drink Hot Water

Tells why everyone should drink hot water each morning before breakfast.

To see the healthy bloom in your face, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, to wake up without a headache, backache, coated tongue or a nasty breath, in fact to feel your best, day in and day out, just try inside bathing every morning for a week.

Before breakfast each day, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it as a harmless means of washing from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases and acidity and gives one a fine appetite for breakfast.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate that those who are subject to constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, rheumatic twinges or whose skin is sallow or pallid, that one week of inside bathing will have them looking and feeling better every way.

FEGS

Keg manufacturers say a great change is taking place in their industry. The popularity of the five-gallon keg seems to be on the wane.

Apparently last year's sample batch was satisfactory, for the demand now is for 10-gallon kegs, with 15 and 25-gallon sizes crowding Brother Ten.

The current sensation among home brewers is the 52-gallon used whiskey barrel, direct from bonded warehouses. Some experts say a whiff at the bung is worth the price of the barrel.

VALENTINO'S KISS A HEGHT OF FAME

CHICAFO, Sept. 29.—Lila Lee, Chicago movie star, who sat around on her daddy's North Clark street bar 4 years ago and entertained the customers free of cover charge, came home yesterday—a success.

"And it's not because I'm earning $20,000 a week—movie money—and I won't-say-how-much-in-real money — that I consider myself a silver screen success," she said with a smile. "And it's not because I've become the star in some mighty big productions. It's because—listen "

In a whisper, she sajd:

"I—am—a—success—because I've been kissed by Rodolf Vzlentino There "

And here, James Kirkwood, her director, hasetned to assure that he and Miss Lee are not wed.

Last night in Charlie Appel's North Side Turner hall, there was a wealth of apple strudel and German pancakes, for you see Lila is Appel's daughter in civilian life.

HUGE CROWDS SEE BLOOD AND SAND

After Sensational Run Before Packed Houses at the Regent Production Moved to Strand for Another Two Weeks.

"Blood and Sand" with Rodolph Valentino and Lila Lee is proving to be the greatest hit of the season so far in Toronto. After a two weeks' run before packed houses at the Regent the production has been moved to the Strand for another two weeks. Toronto is enthusiastic about the star, the play itself and the wonderful acting of the entire cast. Wherever "Blood and Sand" has been presented in the larger cities of the continent it has established attendance records that will stand for months to come.

The Toronto Star Weekly said: "Rodolph Valentino in Blood and Sand" has created a role which equals, if not surpasses, the one in which he became famous as Julio in "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." He establishes his claim to being a star of the first magnitude and the role he plays suits him to perfection."

In "Blood and Sand," Valentino is handsomer, more gallant, more charming than ever before—the prefect lover. He is supported by beautiful Nita Naldi ,and the production is one of the most expensively staged of the season.

You saw Valentino in "The Four Horsemen," now let him as the irresistible torreador hero of "Blood and Sand" transport you to old Spain with its glamour and romance, through scenes of wonderful beauty, strong situations, bull fights filmed at great risk in a real arena, all in a play in which the master hand of Ibanez is evident through June Mathis' clever adaptation of the novel to the screen.

Capitol Entertainment

A well-filled house watched the unfolding of a unique and peculiarly interesting drama in "Borderland" at the Capitol Theatre last night. A story of modern life and modern passions that alternates with scenes from the other "bordering" world, where, in shadowy fashion, restless souls go to and fro, it commands the attention with its out-of-the-ordinary atmosphere. The beautiful Agnes Ayres, as Edith Wayne, the temperamental, restless wife of a rich man, is distinctly modern in her longings and desires. Seeking for admiration and excitement, she resolves to leave her home, and child and depart with her husband's handsome friend. The spirit of her long-dead ancestress, from whom she has inherited her moral frailty, watches her through the mystic pool that permits of earth glimpses from the shadowy world where the departed spirit lingers, seeking for her lost child. There are marvellous examples of photography in scenes depicting the sufferings of the wraith of the long-dead woman, as she struggles by pain-filled ways back to earth to give a warning to her erring descendant. The old paralyzed servant, Eileen, near to the brink of the grave hears the spirit's message, and comes in the nick of time to the forgetful wife. Then is enacted the story of the dead woman, sinful, tragic, with its pathetic finale, her baby burning to death while the faithful dogs howls vainly at the locked door, and excitement-crazed servants vie with one another in the dance, many miles away.

There is a satisfactory conclusion to this striking picture, which holds up a mirror to the life of today, and presents to its audiences a conception of the spiritual life surrounding us that puts it on a plane much higher than that of the usual movie drama. A picture that no one should miss seeing, for its extraordinary filming and unusual theme.

Quite a contrast to the feature, and a splendid foil for its vague, spiritual atmosphere, is the performance of Charlie Chaplin in "Pay Day". "Packed full of the laughs that made Chaplin famous"; as it is described, it depicts the versatile comedian in the role of a hen-pecked husband, who has recourse to the bottle to drown his woes. The picture of Charlie in the rain, with his four equally inebriated companions, solemn and dignified, garrulous and quarrelsome in turn, with his two overcoats trailing in the wet, is a scream from start to finish. He comes late to work, and presents his fat and infurated boss with a lily in token of his sorrow; he shovels earth industriously for a few feverish minutes, and rides up and down on the company's lift to catch a glimpse of his lady love, getting his dinner from stray bits deposited on the same busy conveyance. His final adventures with a dozen stray cats and a wife equipped with a rolling pin give full scope to his peculiar fun-making talents.

There is also a very good Snub Pollard comedy in which a game of ante and a lost baby figure prominently to round out a really exceptional programme.

AT THE ROYAL.

Earle Williams at the Royal Theatre is the star of a feature picture that is packed with interest. As Dicky Maloney, from County Cork, with a debonnair Irish personality that wins him a host of friends, and of enemies, he makes his way through a maze of intrigue in "Fortune's Mask". He falls in love at sight with the pretty daughter of the Spanish cafe proprietor, in the little Mexican town where he has happened to land, and wos and wins her away from a vigilant, wrathful mother, in the gayest manner. Becoming involved in an international tangle and contest for great railroad rights with a revolutionary plot on the side Dicky needs all his diplomacy and tact to finally come through triumphantly.

Alice Calhoun is the particularly appealing heroine of "The Angel of Crooked Street", a heart interest drama of real merit, and intensely dramatic scenes. The pathetic figure of the young girl falsely accused of theft, with the following workhouse background, leads eventually to a desire for revenge which is subdued by nobler impulses and ends in happiness.

Jimmy Aubrey is the comedeian of this programme, in a hilarious mixture of fun and frolic.

AT THE GRAND.

Jimmy Evans' Revue Company scored another big hit at the Grand last night in their latest revue, "A Night in Spain," the large crowd including the members of the Peterborough Baseball Club, who were the guests of Mr. Evans and of Manager Phillips of the Grand. As the title suggests, there was a Spanish atmosphere to the opening of last night's bill and the music and costumes were in keeping with the locale.

The programme included a long list of specialties, all of which were well received. Jimmy Evans and Joe Devine were as funny as ever in their skits, and were given able assistance by Bert Ryan. A new feature was the appearance in a solo dance of Katherine Phillips, whose waltzes, clogs and step dancing was thoroughly enjoyed. Miss Phillips also scored in her violin duet with Florence Pippin, the clever pair being recalled twice. It was a notable first appearance for Miss Phillips, and her double triumph makes her a decided acquisition to the cast. Grace Gould, Bert Ryan, Kittens Fraser and Florence Pippin all helped materially in the success of the bill, and George Wheeler followed his song with a recitation that went over in great style. "A Night in Spain" adds to the laurels of the Evans Company and they should attract a large audience for the rest of the week.

Next week there will be two complete changes.

FIND OUR DANCE STEPS AND 'BOBS' VOGUE IN WILDS

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—The "toddle" the "camel walk" and other so-called modern dance steps ar not inventions of civilization at all, but of tribes of Central Africa, according to E. N. Newman, just returned from that country. "I have s en every step danced there by natives, who have been doing them for hundreds of years," he said, "and as for bobbed hair, it has been fashionable on the White Nile for 2,000 years.

"I told a Zulu princess, an almost nude lady, that the American women were copying her tribes in their society dances. 'Ah,' she said, 'they used to copy our dances, now they copy us in taking off their clothes.'"

TORONTO AND PETERBORO TEAMS IN FINAL AT RIVERSIDE PARK

"Sudden Death" Championship Game in Midget Series of O. B. A. A. Here Saturday Deserves Big Crowd — Maple Leafs Have Fine Record.

PLAY SNAPPY BALL.

Maple Leafs make the final dash for Ontario championship honours to-morrow afternoon at Riverside Park. It is hoped that Peterborough fans will turn out and give the youngsters a big crowd of supporters to help bring victory.

The Leafs have done remarkably well. They have lost but two games this season. The last seven games have been an unbroken string of victories. That achievement was no brought about without a considerable knowledge of baseball and a lot of practice.

The games in the lower ranks of local baseball have not been largely patronised this season, the Central League team having received the lion's share. Now that the first team is through, and the youngsters are still going strong, te fans are given an opportunity of assisting in the effort being made to give the young players a chance.

With Royce Avenue, midget champions of Toronto, as the osposition for the Leafs, the prospects appear good for a snappy game of the great summer pastime. A moderate admission fee will be charged.

YANKS WEAK AT BAT STILL NEED ONE WIN

Lost to Red Sox Yesterday and American League Race Not Yet Decided—"Rip" Collins Erratic But Effective.

WEATHER COLD.

BOSTON, Sept. 29. — (Canadian Press.)—Boston prevented New York from clinching the American League pennant to-day by defeating the leaders, 3 to 1. Warren "Rip" Collins, last year with the Yankees; had the better of Joe Bush, in 1921 a member of the Red Sox, in a well-pitched game. Collins allowed only four hits. He walked seven and fanned only one, but was effective. Bush struck out nine, Collins fanning four times.

The New York run was the result of a pass to Witt in the third and singles by J. Collins and Mitchell. In the sixth Pratt doubled to short right and scored on J. Collins' single to centre after O'Rourke's sacrifice. A pass and Pratt's double gave Boston its third run in the seventh.

Former Yankees were responsible for all three Boston runs. Despite cold weather, a crowd of 6,000 attended. New York must win one game or St. Louis lose one to assure the Yankees the pennant. Score:

New York ..... 001 000 000—1 4 0
Boston ..... 010 001 10x—3 9 1

Bush and Schang; W. Collins and Ruel.

WORLD SERIES COMPARISONS

SHORTSTOPS

(By Billy Evans.)

Bancroft, New York Giants—Bancroft is a great ball player. Frail of stature, he effervesces enthusiasm. He is the keystone of the Giants' infield. He has brains and uses' em.

Bancroft is a turn-around batter, shifting to the right side of the plate when a southpaw opposes the Giants. He seems to hit equally well from either position.

In the field Bancroft is a student. He analyzes his batters and plays for them, constantly shifting his position to meet conditions. He starts quickly on the ball, has a good arm and gets the ball away quickly and from any position.

Scott, New York Americans—Scott rates as one of the greatest shortstops of all time. However, he is a youngster no longer. He is now at the top of the game. He tells me that he finds the Polo Grounds the most difficult diamond he has ever played. Is of the opinion that it has affected his play.

Scott never has been rated a great hitter, but always a most dangerous one. He seems to get his base hits when they will do the most good. Covers much ground, has a good arm and throws well from any position. Bats right-handed.

THE RULES OF RUGBY

Rugby rule books appear to be temporarily out of supply, judging from the fact that telegraphed orders to Toronto have so far failed to bring any response. Mr. Carl Browne, of the Collegiate, has the only copy in Peterborough, so far as is known, and through his kindness The Examiner is enabled to publish serially the definitions and rules of the game.

The game is played by teams of 12 on each side, and on grounds 110 yards long by 65 yards wide. The lines marking the sides are called touch lines, and the lines marking the ends, the goal lines. Twenty-five yards behind each goal line and parallel thereto is drawn a line called the dead-ball line. If the natural boundary of the field be less than 25 yards behind the goal line at either end, then such boundary constitutes the dead-ball line at that end.

The space enclosed by the goal line, the dead-ball line and the touch lines extended is called the goal.

The bounds are defined as the touch lines and the dead-ball lines. Upright goal posts are placed in the middle of each goal line at least 20 feet in height, placed 18 feet 6 inches apart, and with a cross-bar 10 feet from the ground.

Scoring.

A try is scored when (1) the ball in possession of a player in his opponent's goal is declared dead by the referee, any part of it being in goal; (2) a player, having possession of the ball within the opponent's goal, goes into touch, or over the dead line, and retains possession of the ball until it is dead.

When a side had obtained a try, one of its players shall bring the ball straight up to the goal-line, and thence out into the grounds, not more in front of the goal than where it was declared dead, and there place it for one of his side to kick at goal. When a try has been scored in touch-in-goal the kick shall be taken from the touch line of that side of the field on which the try was scored.

The kicker's side shall not be in front of the ball when it is kicked, and after a try has been awarded no player other than the player or kicker shall touch the ball until it is kicked, and in case of infringement a goal cannot be scored. The goal shall not be disallowed because of the player or kicker being ogside or in touch.

In case of a kick at goal from a try the opponents may charge from the goal-line as soon as the ball is kicked or touches the ground. If an opponent charges or interferes when he has no right to do so, the kicker shall have his kick over again if he claims it. A try scores five points, and a goal kicked from a try, one point.

Definition of Rouge.

A rouge is made (a) when a player getting possession of the ball in his own goal makes his mark, or the ball is declared dead in his possession when when it is on, or behind his own goal line; (b) when the ball or a player of either side having possession of it, is in-touch-in goal; (c) when the ball, or a player with it in his possession touches, or is in or across the dead ball line; (d) when a forward pass is made in goal by the defending side, or interference is committed in goal by defending side. A rouge scores one point.

A safety touch is scored when the ball has last touched a player of the side defending the goal in front of the goal-line prior to crossing the goal-line and he or one of his own side rouges it. A safety-touch counts two points.

A drop kick is made by dropping the ball from the hands and kicking it with the foot just as it rises from the ground. A goal scored from a drop kick counts three points.

ROTARIANS AND RAYBESTOS WIN

Softball League Hummed With Two Fine Games Last Night.

The fans at the Armouries last night saw two fast games in the Men's Soft Ball League. The first game between Raybestos and Quaker Oats went nine innings in fifty-four minutes. The second game, in which the Rotary Club defeated the Lawn Bowlers, wasn't much slower.

The Raybestos took the first game from the Quaker Oats by the score of 7 to 1 in nine innings of sparkling ball. There were only six errors in the game, each team having three hung up against them.

"Angy" McLeod did the twirling in great style for the winners. He worked a fast ball with a hook on it, and struck out nine of the Quaker gang, and allowed only five hits.

"Lefty" Turner turned in a nice game for the Quaker Oats, retiring ten of the Raybestos sluggers via the strike-out route, and allowing but nine hits.

Neither team scored in the first inning—both got a hit. In the second two hits and a costly error gave the Raybestos three runs. A hit by Turner gave the Quaker Oats a run in the second. The Raybestos got four more in the last three innings, a home run by Russell in the sixth accounting for one. The Quakers, although they got men on the bases, failed to chase another across.

The Teams.

Quaker Oats—Butcher 3b, Vincent 2b, Turner p, Gilchrist ss, Meyett lf, Jack Simmms1b, Foster c, Jim Simmins rf.

Raybestos	03000211x	7	9 3

SECOND GAME.

The Rotarians trimmed the Lawn Bowlers 19 to 4 in a game which lacked nothing in excitement. Both teams did some fast playing. Hendry for the Lawn Bowlers pulled off a double play unassisted, and Primeau did the same feat in the sixth, cutting off a dangerous rally of the Bowlers.

Mathews for the Rotary Club, and Fox for the Lawn Bowlers performed well on th mound.

Mathews and Freeman each had a circuit clout.

The Teams.

Rotary Club—Young lf, Killaly 1b, Mathews p, Macdonald 3b, McPherson ss, Graham c, Dobbin ss, Primeau 2b, Rogers rf.

Substitute—Roy.

WORLD'S TROTTING RECORD LOWERED.

"Peter Manning" Paced By Runner Sets New Mark.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press.)—Peter Manning, driven by Tommy Murphy, yesterday not only lowered his record of 1:57 3-4 in a trial against time, but also broke the world's trotting record and reduced the trotting record of the Columbus Driving Park track, which until yesterday stood at 1:59 1-4. His time was 1:57 for the mile. The former world's record, held by Peter Manning, was 1:57 3-4.

THE FALL FAIR CAMPBELLFORD HUGE SUCCESS

General Consensus of Opinion is That Progressive Townships' Annual Event Better Than Ever

A GOOD MIDWAY

CAMPBELLFORD, September 29. —With the largest crowd on record, ideal weather conditions, Campbellford band in attendance, the Seymour Agricultural Society's Fall Fair started most auspiciously today, with an unusually large number of exhibits of high grade quality.

The main building showed a very fine collection of vegetables, dairy products, grain, real home made bread, and being particularly a potato township there were some great samples of Irish cobblers. Apples in endless variety table corn which all look like first prize, crisp celery, grand floral display, to say nothing of melons, turnips, carrots, cauliflowers, parnsips, beets and cabbage.

Driving Competition.

The ladies' driving competition always the feature of the day, was this year very keenly contested.

Ring judging contests, and the largest Midway ever seen at a fall fair keep the throngs merry, while those interested in cattle found the classes of high grade stock filled with entries.

The Girl Guides have lots of good things to eat, and everybody likes home made cakes and pies.

It was a grand sight to see the "old boys" renewing acquaintances round the grounds.

These fairs bring them all back home and many expressions of surprise at the wonderful growth of Campbellford's fair since the early days were heard. There is no doubt bout 1922 being a banner year and the Society has gradually built up a reputation for pure bred stock that is hard to surpass.

LITTLE THINGS MAY DECIDE A WORLD SERIES

This is the fifth of seven articles written for the Examiner by Eddie Collins of the Chicago White Sox. Collins has played in more world series games than any other major league player.

BY EDDIE COLLINS
World's Greatest Second Baseman.

HERE are little things, considered of minor importance at the time of their occurrence, and of which the public know nothing, that enter into the outcome of many a world series.

For instance, in 1920 the Athletics knew practically every ball the Cub pitchers were throwing in the first three games played. That's a pretty good "ace in the hole," you'll have to admit.

In 1913 there was a certain pitcher on the Giant team who unconsciously showed by his pitching motion what he was going to throw, and as a result he lost.

Last year the Yanks sought to have the green canvas which acts as a background for the hitters at the Polo Grounds lowered during the series. After considerable argument McGraw complied. And the Yankee players now admit that it worked a greater hardship upon their hitting than they figured it would on that of the Giants.

In 1914, owing to a misunderstanding between Managers Mack and Stallings, the Braves missed the use of Shibe Park for practice on the day before the first game. Stallings' players were led to believe that they had been denied the use of the field. As a result of this erroneous impression ,more hard feeling existed between the two teams than in any series in which I have ever participated.

Had Tough Time.

Josh Devore had a rough time of it fathoming the pitching of the Athletics in 1911, striking out four times in one game against Plank.

The next spring while en route to training camp, a number of Giants and Athletic players met in St. Louis.

Jack Murray, Doyle and Devore weer talking together. Barry and I joined them. We exchanged greetings, but Devore didn't speak.

"What's the matter?" asked Doyle, "don't you know Barry and Collins?"

"How should I know them," Devore answered quickly, "I never got as far as second base in that series last fall."

There probably are just as wise and smart pitchers as Chief Bender, but for craftiness I've never seen his equal.

I'll never forget one play he pulled on no less a person than Manager Frank Chance of the Cubs in the 1910 series. Two on base, two out in the fourth game, being played in old West Side Park in Chicago.

Chief finally worked the count down to three balls and two strikes. Then before pitching the final ball, he stopped deliberately in the box, turned around toward his outfield and waved them back with both hands; as much as to say plainly, "I am going to give him a fast one, play deep."

Slipped One Over.

When he proceeded with his windup, and threw up the prettiest curve ball, which Chance, with his bat on his shoulder, watched float across the plate for the third strike.

It is an unusual occurrence nowadays to see an umpire hit by a batted ball. But this happened in the 1911 world series, and, if I remember correctly, sent the game into extra innings.

Harry Davis hit a line drive off Mathewson back through the box. It struck Tommy Connolly squarely in the back—hurt him, too. The Athletics had a man on first at the time and it looked like a cinch for him to have gone to third on the hit. But of course he was not permitted to do so.

A long fly followed and a run was thrown away.

The Athletics eventually won the game, so the incident was soon forgotten. But I can't help thinking how vivid it would have appeared if we had lost.

There are hundreds of "buts" and "ifs" in every ball game, but it takes only a victory to blot them out.

(To-morrow — What the Loss of One Player May Mean in a World Series.)

WILL PITCHING DECIDE WORLD SERIES?

Good Hurling is the Big Consideration, of Course

Will pitching decide the issue in the 1922 world series?

Pitching has been the dominating factor in practically every clash between the two major league pennant winners.

Unquestionably pitching is the big thing. As a rule the breaks go with superior pitching. The breaks of the game have played a prominent part in every world series.

Excellent pitching featured the series last fall between the Yankees and the Giants. The pitching wasn't one-sided either. The losing Yankees on the whole had no complaint as to the pitching, other than the failure of Bob Shawkey to win.

Six Great Games.

Douglas and Nehf of the Giants pitched six great games. Nefh was able to win only one of the three that he worked, while Douglas was victorious in two of his starts. Of the six brilliant games worked by Nehf and Douglas, the Giants were able to get only an even break.

Now for the part that Jesse Barnes played in the triumph of the Giants. Never in any world series has there been a better exhibition of pinch pitching than that displayed by Barnes.

Despite the fact that he wasn't selected to start a single game of the entire series, the great relief work of Barnes was a bright spot in the play of the Giants.

Toney Given Preference.

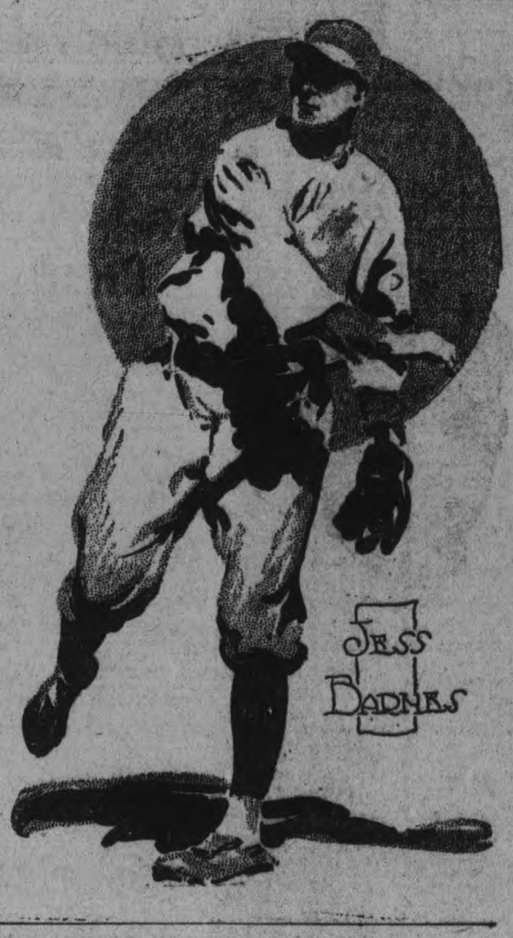
In the third game of the series after the Yankees had scored four runs off Toney in the third inning, Barnes was sent in to relieve him. He held the Yanks to one run and four hits the rest of the way, striking out seven men. The Giants won 13 to 5.

In the sixth game of the series Toney again was given the preference over Barnes to start. In two-thirds of an inning the Yankees had scored three runs and three hits off Toney, and he was sent to the showers by McGraw.

Once again Barnes was rushed to the rescue. In the second inning the Yanks scored two runs at the expense of Barnes, then he settled down and blanked 'em the rest of the way. In this game he struck out 10 men. The Giants won 8 to 5.

Easy to See.

Thus it is an easy matter to see the all-important part played by the pitching. No feature of this department stood out more than the relief work of Jesse Barnes.



But Breaks of the Game Count Heavily, as Well

Now for the part played by the breaks of the game.

In the second game of the series, with one out, and a man on first, the batsman hit the ball to Nehf, With a double play in sight he threw wild to second ,both runners being safe. That misplay permitted a run to go over the plate. That run was enough to win ,as Hoyt blanked the Giants.

In the eighth inning of the fourth game, with the score a tie at 1 to 1, the failure of Mays to handle a bunt proved his undoing. The Giants scored three runs in that inning, enough to win.

Two Fatal Fumbles.

Two fumbled balls by the usually reliable Ward at second enabled the Giants to score both of their runs in the seventh game of the series. The Giants won 2 to 1. The two fumbles were fatal.

The eighth and deciding game was won by the Giants 1 to 0. The only score was made in the first inning, when with two down and two on, Peckinpaugh allowed an easy roller to get away from him for the only run of the contest.

Pitching, of course, is the big thing, but the breaks of the game often erase many a superb exhibition of twirling.

CHEER CANADA'S AID TO SMYRNA REFUGEES

LONDON, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press Cable).—A Reuter despatch from Geneva says that cheers greeted an announcement to-day by Hon. W. S. Fielding of Canada to the assembly of the League of Nations that the government of the Dominion had placed $25,000 at the disposal of the league for the assistance of refugees in the near east.

It was also announced amid renewed cheers that the Danish government had contributed £1,000 for the same purpose.

When Static Dies Out, Beware Of Other Interferences

Interference is destined to remain the bane of the radio fan's life.

If not static, it will be some other form—neighborhood gossips, office seekers, collectors and such.

For when static is eliminated, radio will be improved so that everyone will be owning a receiving outfit and almost everyone will have a transmitting set besides. Then they will be as popular and as cheap as the telephone or the phonograph.

That will open up the golden opportunity to the daily pests of housewives and voters. Instead of ringing doorbells they will tune in on a popular wave length and let 'er flicker.

The neighborhood gossip will leave the line telephone and backyard fence to broadcast her scandal to a much larger audience. The politician will polish up his pet phrases and let them soar through the ether to interfere with concerts and lectures. The life insurance salesman, the book agent and their associates and let their line of lingo loose on the unsuspecting radio listener and hope for the best results.

Fantastic dream? Not a bit.

Already advertisers are bickering for rights to broadcast their announcements through the large radio transmitting stations. In fact, some of the broadcasting firms are trying to devise a plan by which advertisers could broadcast an acceptable program for a specified sum. The advertising would have to be camouflaged underneath a cloak of classic music or educational lecture. But it would play an important part in the program.

For the present this could be under control. But when radio gets to be as popular as the telephone or phonograph, then will come the avalanche of salesmen, politicians and other interferences.

TALKING MOVIES BY RADIO

Talking movies have become an assured success through the aid of radio!

The little vacuum tube, which sends and detects sound sailing through the ether, is the means by which inventors have been able to co-ordinate action and speech on the silver screen. The man who had an important part in the perfection of this tube now can claim a share in the completion of the talking movie film.

He is Dr. Lee De Forest of New York, who is prepared to exhibit what he terms his "phonofilm," by which the characters on the screen are made to talk at the same time. With him, however, in this endeavor to produce a talking film have been other inventors. Most famous among them have been C. Francis Jenkins of Washington, D. C., and Prof. Joseph T. Tykociner of the University of Illinois.

Jenkins.

These two inventors have already produced instruments the principles of which seem to have been co-ordinated into the ultimate invention of De Forest. The Jenkins apparatus is said to be based on the principle of transmission of pictures by wireless. According to the inventor, movies may be transmitted from a central broadcasting station just as are concerts into the homes of those who own a radio movie receiving outfit.

Jenkins has been experimenting for more than 20 years on the various stages of motion picture exhibition. About a year ago, he conceived the radio movie transmission problem. He holds the Elliott Cresson gold medal, presented by the Franklin Institute of America, for his efforts in this direction.

Tykociner.

Professor Tykociner's invention relates more to the co-ordination of sound and sight on a film, than to their transmission by radio. He also worked on this machine for 20 years before he felt safe in announcing his invention. His apparatus photographs the object and the sound at the same time and on the same strip of film. It is equipped with a mercury arc of special construction.

The intensity of light varies with the speech of the actor. It is focused upon the moving film by a sound-recording instrument. This sound record is a narrow band, of varying transparency, running alongside the photographed scene on the film. In this manner every action and every sound are reproduced side by side, the action taking up three-fourths of the celluloid, and the sound picture the rest. This guarantees synchronism of sound and action.

With the radio transmission idea of Jenkins and the talking idea of Professor Tykociner to work on, Dr. De Forest has been able to complete his own radio talking movie film. His contribution is the vacuum tube. With the help of this audion amplifier and of selenium photo electric cells, the voice is reconstructed at the same time the film is shown.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH HARVEST FESTIVAL

Quiet, Harmonious Decorations, Thoughtful Sermon and Excellent Music.

The Peoples' Chimes last evening rang into St. John's Church a fairly large congregation on the occasion of the parish's annual harvest festival, which will also be continued on Sunday next.

The interior of this sacred edifice at all times permanently beautiful without recourse to additional adorning with fruits of field, garden and orchard, was daintily and tastefully decorated, but in a strikingly quiet an unornate manner. The decorations consisted mainly of grain, foliage, evergreens and flowers, with a few fruits on the chancel steps, etc., whole being dominated by a large cross, emblematic of the church's foundation, constructed by Mrs. R. J. Devey of red and white asters, and hanging conspicuously west of the chancel at the head of the nave. Another marked feature in festival adornment consisted of a towering arch at the entrance to the centre aisle, built of evergreens, foliage and colorful bloom, relieved here and there with clusters of brilliant red berries. The decorating was the work of the A.Y.P.A. and Church Women's Association.

Fully choral, and with fitting sermon proved of that stirring and beautiful festival character typical of the Anglican church on such occasions.

The Vicar, Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave had acceptable assistance by Rev. G. J. Bousfied of St. Luke's Rev. Dr. J. B. Meyer, assistant at St. John's the special preacher being Rev. T. J. O'Connor-Fenton, incumbent at Norwood.

Mr. O'Connor-Fenton delivered an exceedingly thoughtful and appropriate discourse on the text: "In the multitude of my thoughts within me they comforts delight my soul") Psalm 94 verse 19. Interpreting these words in both their spiritual and material sense, he left his hearers with the thought of those refreshing comforts to man's soul and body attainable through God's abundant providence in harvests and his strengthening support when one's heart is suffering from a growth of tangled perplexities of hopes and fears. He saw God's hand in the bountiful harvests with which Canada had been and is to-day blessed effacing all fear of that spectre of starvation which has depeopled other lands, and may stalk abroad again next year in some parts of the Old World.

The reverend gentleman stressed the fact that man is only required to work faithfully, select good seed and then patiently await the reward from God to whom parsimony is unknown but who deals out his harvests not in doles but altogether and at one season. In like manner he saw the Almighty's hand in past and future relief for distressed people's and the solving of industrial, national and international problems.

Turning to the question of church union, he assumed that few of other Protestant donominations realized the position of the Anglican church; and he urged all Anglicans to individually dissemenate its truly Christian doctrine, its reverential worship, and to cheerfully and steadfastly walk the life of one who holds faith in this old English Catholic Church. In such circumstances he believed that God will grant a harvest of church unity and religious revival satisfyingly abundant.

In conclusion the Rev. OConnor-Fenton, referring briefly to spiritualism, could not imagine any satisfaction in or desire for that vague shadowy communication with the departed as declared possible by spiritualists. For himself, he was satified to await patiently for that great day, as one must awiat patiently for one's harvest, when God's promise shall be fulfilled in a re-union with those loved ones who have gone on before.

The Music

Clergy and choir, numbering exactly fifty-four, made an impressive sight as they marched singing in procession at the opening and close of the service.

Gloriously choral, the service was very finely sung, all the music, voluntaries, Psalms, canticles and hymns standard compositions. Mr. R. J. Devey's voluntaries were: "Grand Sonata" (Beetboven), "Hallelujah," from Handel's "Juda Maccabaeas."

Bridge's anthem "And God Said" was sung during the offertory. The opening Recit. by Mr. Fred. Johnson, bass, the soprano solo by boy voices.

Coming so early in the season a festival service is no small task on any choir. St. John's singers rose nobly to the occasion, and reverently and heartily led the singing, with the ready co-operation of the large congregation.

IN MEMORIAM.

McILMOYLE. — In loving memory of my dear son, Private W. V. McIlmoyle. killed at Cambrai, on September 29, 1918.

If we could have raised his dying head,
Or heard his last farewell,
The grief would not have been so hard
For those who loved him well.
Time may heal a broken heart,
Time may make a wound less sore.
But time will never stop the longing,
For the dear one gone before.
Earth with all its joys and sorrows
Soon to us will be no more,
Then we'll cross the River Jordan,
And meet you on the other shore.

VERDICT OF NOT GUILTY IN CASE OF G. DIBSDALE

Jury at London Conclude That Slayer of Sixteen-Year-Old Sweetheart is Insane.

TO BE DETAINED

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press.) — "Not guilty, and insane," was the verdict reached at 1 o'clock this morning in the case of Gordon Dibsdale, charged with the murder of his 16-year-old sweetheart, Chrissie Near.

"Gordon Dibsdale, the jury has found you not guilty, and I now discharge you into the arms of your family," Justice Mowat announced to the prisoner.

Amazed at the Judge's ruling, the foreman of the jury arose and informed the bench: "Your Lordship has understood our verdict wrong. We have found him not guilty, but intend that he shall be kept in an asylum in close confinement."

The Judge at once recovered the ground by resuming his statement to the prisoner, adding that "I discharge you into the arms of your family, but you are to return forthwith to the dock to be placed in an asylum in close confinement. You will go back to where you have been to await the pleasure of the Lieutenant-Governor as to where you shall be confined."

One of the dead was a baby of four thrown from the burning building by a frantic mother. Another, a boy of 16, was killed when he jumped from a window.

A FIRE CHIEF WHO IS BILLED FOR THE SHELF

Chief O'Connor of Chicago Has Not Gone to a Fire for Months — Ill Health and Old Age.

SHELVES ENQUIRY

Chicago, Sept. 30.—"Big Tom" O'Connor, chief of the Chicago fire department for the last eight and one-half years, and a fire fighter for thirty-six years, is slated for removal in the near future, Mayor Thompson announced yesterday.

The mayor's statement came as at the end of the city council session at which he had listened to a caustic denunciation of conditions in the fire department and had heard the question of authorizing a general investigation of the department debated for nearly an hour. Curiously, in all the criticism of the department, not one word harsh was spoken about "Big Tom," whose failing health was referred to as "a public misfortune."

Council Shelves Inquiry

"The chief's condition is not what it once was," Mayor Thompson said after the council had shelved the inquiry demanded by Ald. Arthur F. Albert by sending his resolution to the fire committee.

"He has reached a condition of health and age which I believe warrants his retirement on a pension. I didn't want to ask the old gentleman to resign while Ald. Albert was hurling charges at the department—charges which, I was assured by Ald. Armitage, chairman of the fire committee, were without the least foundation.

"Under the circumstances, however, I will send the name of my selection as O'Connor's successor to the city council in the near future."

The old chief, idol of Chicago fire fans for years, will retire on Wednesday, Oct. 4, it was reported. That is the date of the first regular fall session of the city council.

Cullerton Actual Boss

Chief O'Connor has not gone to a fire in many months. He has spent much of his time in his office, reading, and the actual direction of the department has been in the hands of John F. Cullerton, business manager, and a nephew of former Ald. Edward F. Cullerton, now dead, who was responsible for the entrance of Chief O'Connor in the department as a truckman on Hook and Ladder campany No. 1 on March 8, 1886.

"Big Tom" shook his head and said nothing when the news came that his removal was imminent. Though he has known for more than a year that his successor was a matter of debate, he has hoped to remain as chief at least until Mayor Thompson's term expires next April.

Ald. Albert furnished most of the fireworks at the council session. He looked squarely at Mayor Thompson when he said:

"The condition in the fire department is a disgrace. It isn't Tom

PRESENT DIPLOMAS TO SCHOOL PUPILS

Home and School Association Provided the Entertainment.

A. A. Fowler, chairman of the Board of Education, presented diplomas to twenty-six pupils of the King Edward school last evening, at a meeting of the Home and School Association, which was well attended.

Programme.

Chairman's address, Mr. G. S. Mattice, principal; piano selection, Mrs. G. G. Evans; violin selection, Miss Catherine Taylor; song, Miss Edith Tucker; recitation, Miss Jean Hamilton; song, Miss Hilda Evans; song Miss Edith Tucker.

Presentation of Entrance certificates by A. A. Fowler, chairman of the Board of Education.

Mr. Fowler congratulated the King Edward school upon their splendid showing at the Entrance examinations. 26 out of 27 who were recommended passed successfuly. Mr. Fowler also pointed out that out of 200 pupils who presented themselves for Entrance examination in this city, 189 passed successfully, in this city, a total of 94 1-2 p.c., which means that 7 p.c. of the total number in city schools passed the Entrance this year, which is a very high standard. Mr. Fowler congratulated the teaching staff of our Public schools, for their very efficient work, also the Inspector, who Mr .Fowler stated was one of the best in Ontario. To him was given the credit for this splendid showing, because he was the one that the Board of Education looked up to keep up the efficiency of our schools. From the size and age of some of the pupils, Mr. Fowler thought that possibly Mr. Kenner was starting a kindergarten class.

After the programme was finished there was community singing and games of various kinds. Refreshments were then served.

The success of the entertainment was largely due to the efforts of Mrs. Wm. Watt, President of the Home and School Association, and Mrs. Jas. Gerrard, secretary, also Mrs. J. W. Howden and others of the Association.

MORE BRITISH TROOPS ARRIVE IN NEAR EAST.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press).—The arrival of several thousand additional British troops has encouraged Greeks and Armenians here to discard their Turkish fezes and resume conventional western headgear. At the beginning of the present crisis every Greek and Armenian provided himself with fez, which he wore continuously until he thought the danger of Turkish occupation was past.

British airplanes flew over the capital to-day, causing a flurry of excitement in Stamboul. Aerial manoeuvres gave the population another evidence of Great Britain's preparedness to meet eventualities.

Cow Boss! Cow Boss! Disturbs the Early Morning Snooze of Natives

East City Resident Objects to the Time and Manner in Which His Neighbor Calls the Cow Home at 5 a.m.

Mr. Editor,—Being a constant reader of your worthy paper I ask you to kindly publish this letter. I am fortunate enough or unfortunate enough, I don't know which to be a resident of East City close to Armour Hilll, which is largely used as a cow pasture, to which I have no objection. But one owner living about 500 feet from said estate has a cow in pasture which by the way he hollers to it every morning between 5 and 5.30 must have a bad habit of going over every a.m. to view the Lift Lock instead of being near Armour Road. Now my complaint is that as soon as he steps out his back door he starts a yell (maybe one he learned in Varsity) which runs like this—cow boss, cow boss, boss, boss, boss, boss, boss, then a whistle as if calling a dog and then, bring her down, here boss boss, boss, boss, boss. This yell is kept up on an average 10 minutes every a.m. which I am sure can be heard at least 5 blocks away. Now I am an early riser myself, but have several others in the house three children who would at least like to sleep until 8 a.m. on Sunday anyway. I am not putting my name to this letter as I am a neighbor and friends of the party with the college war-whoop and would not like to cause any hard feelings, so am trusting you will publish this letter so he may see it, as I know he is also a reader of your valuable paper, as well as myself. I beg to remain,

Yours sincerely,

"RISE EARLY TO COW BOSS"

Alexander Zaimis is Selected Head New Greek Ministry

ATHENS, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Alexander Zaimis who was Premier when Constantine was expelled from Greece in 1917 and whose father headed the Greek Cabinet when King Otho I was dethroned by the revolution of 1862, has been selected to head the new Ministry which is composed of Independents, Venizelists and military officers.

Almost favorable impression was created by the proclamation of the revolutionary committee that the arrested political and military leaders shall remain in prison but that the manner of their trial shall be left to the future National Assembly.

PARIS, Sept. 30 — (Canadian Press).— M. Venizellos last night telegraphed to Athens his acceptance of invitation extended by revolutionary committee, to take up task of defending Greeces interests in Allied capitals. Shortly after sending message he left for London where he hopes to see Viscount Curzon, British Foreign Secretary, sometime today.

MERRY BEGGARS FEAST AND PLAY IN OLD MOSCOW

Are a Happy Lot When Off Duty and Serve Tea With Jokes and Laughter.

MOSCOW, Sept. 30.—(Associated Press).—The beggars of Moscow have been enjoying the resumption of free trade under the Soviet regime nearly as much as the profiteers and speculators.

A year or so ago, when the government doled out everything to everybody, the aristocrat and the beggar alike, and money was of very little use, mendicants virtually disappeared from all their haunts at the various street corners. But with the reopening of trade, and when the daily parade of shoppers began anew, the beggars returned and apparently brought a lot of relatives and friends with them.

The professional beggars of Moscow are a happy lot when off duty. They congregate in vacant lots and in nooks and corners of tumbled down buildings, where they gamble among themselves, joke and laugh, hold their feasts, apparently oblivious of the past or the future, and have quite as jolly a time as any group of average individuals. The non-professionals, the men and women of the better class of other days, who beg only as a last resort, do not participate in these gatherings which are made up of the class which has always been beggars and knows nothing else of life.

Tea is served regularly at the beggars' resorts, the water being heated in big black kettles with a wood fire underneath. Tin cans and broken cups are brought into use by the various individuals, the scene in some respects resembling the camps of American tramps by the roadside in summer.

Late in the day or during the evening substantial food is served, the beggars paying the boss beggar in kind, or with a few rubles, for whatever they may eat from the mess. The boss beggar does not actually beg himself, his chief duties being to cook the food brought by the others and to carry to and from their places of "work" some of the beggars unable to walk or crawl because of their deformities.

When a beggars' feast is at its height, in Moscow, as much laughter and as much merry-making may be heard as anywhere in Russia.

"A GREAT ADDRESS ON A GREAT SUBJECT"

Rev. George R. MacFaul is the pastor of the French Baptist Church in the city of Ottawa. He comes to Peterborough on Tuesday next for eight hours only. He will speak at the Ladies' Mission Circle Rally at Murray Street Church at eight o'clock. The subject is "Our Neighbors" which includes in the most brotherly way a full discussion of the whole question of the relation of Protestant Canada to our neighbors in the Province of Quebec.

One who has heard the address declares it to be one of the most logical and convincing addresses on the subject ever delivered. When Mr MacFaul concluded this speech at the Convention in New Brunswick last month the whole audience arose spontaneously and cheered.

The public both men and women willl be welcomed to this gathering.

WILL PARTICIPATE IN FISHING SCHOONER RACE

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press.)— The barring of the United States schooner 'Mayflower' by the Canadian trustees of the International Fishermen's Trophy, will not prevent American participation in the cup series to be raced off this port next month, the American race committee announced at 1.30 o'clock this morning after a meeting which lasted nearly six hours.

Renewed Anxiety In the War Zone

OTTAWA, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press).—The sending of the Turkish ultimatum, ordering the British to leave Asia, has led to renewed anxiety here and to increased prospects of Parliament being summoned to decide upon the matter of Canada's participation in the British military effort if such is actually needed. Faint hope that fighting will be averted continues to be voiced, but at the same time it is considered very unlikely that events having gone so far towards hostilities, a peaceful arrangement will be reached.

Y. M. C. A. OPENS TO A GOOD START

The Annual Membership Campaign Opened Last Evening—The Addresses

The annual membership campaign of the Y.M.C.A. got away to a flying start last night when a banquet was tendered the workers by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Association.

Over 140 members sat down to partake of the bountiful supply of good things. When the needs of the inner man had been taken care of, Chairman J. J. Turner, who was acting in the unavoidable absence of the president, Mr. G. A. Gillespie, fulfilled his duties in a happy and very efficient manner. He began his remarks by expressing the appreciation of the gathering to the ladies for the excellent manner in which they had fulfilled their duties in the matter of provision of the good things and the caring for the tables.

Following the chairman, Mr. H. B. Cowan, chairman of the Association Physical Committee, spoke briefly on the salient points of salesmanship with which the workers should approach new membership prospects. Mr Cowan asserted that after a worker who is enthusiastic has laid before the prospect all that membership in the Association means there is little likelihood but that a new name will appear on the membership roll.

Rev. Robert Pogue then told of some very practical ways in which the Peterborough Y.M.C.A. had helped at least three of its members, now attending Association College in Chicago, who through the knowledge gleaned in the local Y gymnasium, were now able to maintain themselves in college by part time work as physical directors. The reverend gentleman, in passing, eulogised the part the Association has taken in the development of his own boys. In stressing determination as a means of realising the campaign's objective of 300 members in a week, Mr. Wearing told the boys how to

SEPTEMBER IS TRYING HARD TO TAKE LOVING CUP FROM JUNE

The June Bride Will Soon Be as Scarce as Anthracite Coal—Girls Like the Bright Lights for The Honeymoon Trips

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 30. — Is there a new champion in the offing?

Norman H. H. Lett, clerk of the Carleton County Marriage License Bureau says that one is rounding the turn of the road and the consequently he is urging all of the prospective brides and bridegrooms in the city and suburbs to lend their immediate aid. If they do, he says, history will be made at the city hall for September is trying hard to take the loving cup from June.

June, with its blooming orchards and balmy weather and blushing brides, has been the champion month of marriages ever since Adam wedded Eve. This statement is upheld by the records of marriages.

But this year the crown may pass. Up to and including Thursday, September was only three licenses behind the whole month of June.

"Brides' ideas, like brides' hair and gowns, have changed," Mr. Lett explains. "Time was when a wedding trip lacked the proper finish if it did not include a visit with Aunt Samantha and Uncle Homer on the farm. Time was when every bride wanted to watch Niagara Falls through the curve of her husband's arm.

"But now th e girls want to go to New York or to Chicago when they are married and they want to go when the theatres are wide open and the cabarets have been tuned up for the winter. They want to see Fifth Avenue and Tiffany's instead of tumbling water and Uncle Homer's prize winning Rhode Island reds.

"And besides," Mr. Lett adds, "the modern bride dreads the housekeeping season that follows the honeymoon. She knows that it is pleasanter to make the acquaintance of the cook stove in the brisk weather of October than it is in the torrid days of July."

TO IMPROVE LIGHTING OF STREETS HERE

Recommend Re-distribution of Incandescents Where Needed and Trim Trees.

COMMITTEE MET

Council's Fire, Water and Light Committee will have a survey made of the city's street lighting on the incandescent plan. That is to say, they are now seeking long-delayed inquiry as to where such lights are located, what lamps are obscured by the foliage of the trees, and where lamps are, too, which in situation, affording opportunity for the removal of some to spots where street lighting is unsatisfactory.

Ald. Gainey, in raising this question, remarked that a thorough inspection should be made of the situation in regard to these lights, as no one on the committee appears to know what kind of service they are giving, and if they are being utilised to the best advantage.

"When we are paying $9.00 a year for each light, we should see that we are getting full value for the service," he said.

Ald. Crowe thought that as many of these lights are practically obscured by the foliage of trees now is the time to trim such trees higher up before they are denuded of their leaves.

Ald. Jones: "If you are going to have trees trimmed, let some man do it who understands tree-trimming."

The committee agreed that Council should appoint an expert man for such work.

In evidence of the contention that a redistribution of lights here and there is necessary Ald. Crowe drew attention to two lights adjacent to W. Hamilton's on Kirk Street, which he said, are but 30 feet apart, with others scattered all around the spot.

Ald. Gainey and the Mayor moved that Chairman Ald. Crowe request the Utilities Commission to take this matter up—report where lights are too thick, what transferences could be made, what trees should be trimmed, etc.

This carried.

More Lights.

Residents on Cross Street applied for a light on Cross Street between Cedar and McDonnel Streets.

This matter was left with the chairman to act.

The chairman was also instructed to exercise his discretion regarding a proposition to install a light on Water Street, between King and Sherbrooke Streets, a dark spot, where there is much activity.

Just about every resident on Gladstone Avenue petitioned for a hydrant at the east end of the street

On the motion of Ald. Hamilton and the Mayor the petition was granted.

Residents on Centre Street, East City, asked for two lights on that street, and the chairman was authorised to look into the matter.

Expenditures to Date.

Payments in August were $2,928.63, making a total expenditure of the department for this year of $24,892.33 as against an appropriation of some $29,000.

GOSPEL HALL NOTES.

To-morrow night Mr. Bentley will take for his subject, "Nicodemus," or the development of a soul. This is a message that speaks to every one as every one has a soul.

THOUGHT PETERBORO FIREMEN TOO WELL INSTRUCTED TO ERR

Fire Chief Geo. Gimblet Reports to Fire, Water and Light Committee on Saturday's Fire and Punishment of Men Responsible for Error in Taking Alarm.

VEILED SARCASM FROM ALD. JONES

Fire Chief Geo. Gimblett reported to the Fire, Water and Light committee last evening the punishment he had meted out to the firemen responsible for their mistake in taking the alarm on Saturday evening last, when the brigade responded to Box 23, at the corner of George and Hunter streets, when the alarm rang 113 for the corner of Romaine and Monaghan road.

The report was in writing, Chief Gimblett was not present, and the document read as follows:

"I am fining each man four days' pay— James Weyer, the man on watch, for taking the alarm wrong; Capt. Jones for disobeying my orders, which are that the captain and lieutenant shall take two repeats of every box off the tape before pulling out; Lieut. Hatley for starting for Box 113 with the ladder truck and coming back. When I met him on Aylmer street I sent him back to the fire.

"I think this will be a more effective punishment for these men than suspending them, when I would be leaving the department short-handed and have to bring men of the "off day platoon" to take their places; thereby punishing them as well by making them work extra time.

"When I arrived at Box 23, I saw that the box had not been pulled. I immediately sent the Assistant Chief down George street with the combination and told him to go to Box 113 as quickly as possible. They made 60 miles an hour on the way to the fire. In fact I think they picked up the lost time. When I arrived at the fire they had a water line on and were laying the second one."

Veiled Sarcasm.

Veiled sarcasm and a hint of intention to resurrect the hatchet of contention which found birth in the St. Andrew's manse fire early this year ,were noticed in Ald. Jones' attitude toward the above report.

Ald. Crowe, chairman of the committee, after reading the Chief's explanation, stated that he had sent word to the men affected, through Chief Gimblett, that they could come before the committee and present their case, but none were on hand.

Ald Jones wanted to know what penalty had been imposed on the Chief ,and why he had gone to Box 23.

Ald. Crowe— "The Chief read the alarm all right as 113 ,but he met one of the drivers, who declared he had received orders at the fire station to respond to Box 23.

Opining that the mistake was somewhat similar to that in Chief Grange's time last February at the St. Andrews' manse fire, Ald. Jones was curious to know if Chairman Ald. Crowe was satisfied with Chief Gimblett's report.

Ald. Crowe—"I am."

Ald. Jones—"You are easier satisfied now than than last spring."

Ald. Crowe could not see where Chief Gimblett had been in error.

In discussion it appeared that the men at the hall took the number from the indicator, which it seems is not altogether reliable and showed No. 23, in spite of the Chief's positive instructions to take two repeats of the alarm from off the tape before pulling out.

Ald. McIntyre here understood that Chief Gimblett had his men so well trained that they could not make such a mistake.

Ald. Gainey replied that Box 113 is a new alarm, which had been rung for the first time last Saturday.

Mayor Taylor and Ald. Hamilton moving that Chief Gimblett's report be received as satisfactory, Ald. Jones countered with a proposition that more information be forthcoming before that motion was carried.

Ald. Crowe replied that the committee were welcome to an interview with Chief Gimblett if so degired. He could call him up at once.

Ald. Jones, not wishing to press such action then, agreed to accompany Chairman Crowe to the fire hall at any date fixed upon and institute with the Chief himself further enquiry as to the incident in question.

The motion here carried.

There were present: Chairman Ald. Joseph Crowe, Mayor W. H. Taylor, Aldermen Phelan, Malcome McIntyre, R. N. Jones, Ald. Gainey, Walter Stocker.

Girls Plan an Active Programme Full of Good Things for Winter Months.

The fall rally of the local Young Women's Christian Association, marking the opening of th winter's activities at the building, was held last evening, with a good attendance.

Mrs. T. Cruickshank, in the chair, opened the programme with a brief talk on the work of the Association, and Rev. A. J. Langford, pastor of Trinity Church, gave a devotional address, with a commendation of the activities of the Y, and a recommendation to membership.

A pleasing musical programme was contributed by Mrs. W. R. Widdess, a vocal solo, Miss Irene Breckenridge, a reading, and Arnold Spencer, a violin solo.

Miss Leta Brownscombe, in the absence of Miss Carlisle, the general secretary, gave a summary of the proposed schedule of the winter activities, referring to the class and club work, the successful summer season just passed at the Y Camp at Kawartha Park, Clear Lake, and to the return of Miss Littlefield to the local staff, in charge of the gymnasium department.

The slogan of the Y.W.C.A. was repeated by Miss Brownscombe: "There is almost everything any girl could want at the Y.W.C.A. nowadays. Why not become a member?"

Miss Carrie Littlefield outlined the work of the physical department, over which she will have charge this year.

Three gymnasium numbers were given—Club swinging, the "Gipsy Beggar" dance by the Misses Martha Kirn and Edna Connor, and the little interpretive dance, "My Lady Goes a-Walking" by Mary Dunlop. Two of the junior clubs, the C.O.S. and the Jolly Juniors, gave a demonstration of a couple of games.

Special swimming stunts in the pool and the service of refreshments in the Green Room closed an enjoyable evening.

GIGANTIC BRITISH ARMADA PATROLS THE DARDANELLES

"Floating Walls" Guard the International Waterway From the Straits to the Black Sea — Huge Bombing Planes Arrived on Friday.

Formidable Armament.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 30.—A formidable fighting force in floating fortresses and powerful bombing and combat aircroft, together possessed of greater destructive power than the British Grand Fleet as Scapa Flow, now guards the great international waterway of the Near East from the Narrows to the Black Sea.

Britain's gigantic armada in these waters is led by the two 34,000-ton super-dreadnaughts Revenge and Resolution. Then come the three veritable giantesses of naval prowess, the battle ships Centurion, King George and Iron Duke. Some of these super-warcraft possess ponderous 16- inch guns having a range of twenty miles. The remainder of the British naval fighting force here consists of a number of the most modern cruisers, destroyers and the airplane carrier Pegasus and Argus.

The British are confident that this formidable line of fighting ships will easily prove a stone wall barrier to the Kemalists, should the latter attempt to cross the Straits. It is also thought that they will be sufficient protection for the troops entrenched at Chanak and other points.

Constantinople, too, will have air battles in the event of war. The British airplanes will fly over Stamboul and over other Turkish centers of population for the purpose of quickly observing any threatened uprisings. These would be wirelessed to the naval and military police. These observing planes will be reinforced by a fleet of bombers, combat planes and seaplanes.

Opposing them, the Kemalists will have aircraft of various types to the number of sixty. The British, however, are confident that in the air the Kemalists are no match for them They point to the fact that, the Turkish Nationalist Army does not possess anything approaching the twenty super-planes which arrived today on the aircraft carrier Argus.

CONSTANTINE HAS MILLIONS SALTED.

Feathered His Nest Against the Whims of Fate.

PARIS, Sept. 30 ——King Constantine is in no danger of being reduced to the penury which embittered the last days of former Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary, according to Greek circles in Paris.

It is asserted that Constantine took precautions against this long ago and has ten million gold francs in safe investments, deposited partly in New York, Brazil and Switzerland. In addition, as soon as the situation in Greece became disquieting the magnificient jewels of Queen Sophie and the royal household plate were shipped off to Zurich, Switzerland, in charge of a trusted friend and safely deposited in the vault of a bank there.

SULTAN ON THRONE YET

Report of Abdication Not Correct—Expressed the Desire to Resign.

PARIS, Sept. 30. — (Canadian Press.)—The abdication of Mohammed VI., Sultan of Turkey, is not yet accomplished, but the Sultan has expressed the desire to abdicate in favour of his cousin, according to a telegram received from the Angora correspondent of the Havas Agency, who attributes the news to a Constantinople despatch to Angora.

The despatch further states that the Sulttan's state of health prevents him from attending to the affairs of the Empire. In Angora parliamentary circles, the news is considered as correct.

A Havas Agency despatch from Constantinople yesterday said that the Sultan had abdicated in favor of the heir apparent, Prince Abdul Medjid Effendi, the Sultan's cousin, but added that the news was not confirmed.

SITUATION IS TENSE AGAIN IN NEAR EAST

Note From Kemal Pasha Considered By Some to Close Door to Peaceful Settlement.

NEWS CONFLICTING

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 30. — (Canadian Press.)—The situation between the British and Turkish Nationalists was extremely tense last night. A note from Kemal Pasha to Brigadier-General Harrington, the British commander, couched in a hostile tenor, was considered by British military circles here as the closing door to a pacific settlement of the Straits question. The prospects of an armed conflict were considered more evident than previously. The note of Kemal demands retirement of all British troops from the Asiatic side of the Straits, as the French and Italians have done, and says in case of acquiscence he will withdraw Nationalist forces slightly from the neutral zone. It also demands cessation of what are termed arbitrary measures of British authorities in Constantinople in dealing with the Turkish population, and a solemn undertaking that no Greek vessel shall be permitted to pass the Dardanelles. It concludes with a protest against the destruction of Turkish war materials in the Straits.

The note of Kemal was in reply to the last written communication of General Harrington transmitted through Hamid Bey, the Nationalists' representative in Constantinople to Kemal in Smyrna. It is felt in British circles to-night that they would be forced to modify their conciliatory attitude at a moment when the Turks bring up heavy artillery with which they would be able to seriously threaten the European side of the Dardanelles and also hamper passage through the Straits of British vessels.

Six submarines of the British Atlantic fleet have arrived and will be used to prevent transport of Turkish troops across the Sea of Marmora in event of war between the British and Turks. The British also have posted batteries in strategic positions on the heights of Chanliga, eastward of Scutari and Maltepeh on the Haidar Pass railway. These positions are on the Asiatic side of the Bosphorus, a short distance from Constantinople.

HOPE FOR SETTLEMENT.

SMYRNA, Sept. 30.—(Via Radio).—After a conference lasting well into the night, Mustapha Kemal Pasha decided to meet the Allies for a preliminary conference early next week to discuss terms for an armistice and to prepare for a further meeting at Venice to decide the Near East questions. Kemal, with Yussuf Kemal, Raouf Bey, Feithi Bey, Fezhi Pasha and Izzet Pasha, will leave shortly for this conference. Henri Franklin Bouillon, a French envoy, arrived here yesterday morning and will accompany the Nationalist leaders to the conference. While the Allied note mentions the League of Nations' control of Gallipoli, which is not entirely to Kemal's liking, he feels sure that a working plan can be found whereby the freedom of the Straits can be guaranteed without the presence of foreign garrisons.

MORE TROOPS ARRIVE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 30. — (Canadian Press.)—Large forces of British infantry have been landed here from the Trans-Atlantic liner 'Glengorm Castle.' These soldiers are to reinforce the lines on the Asiatic side of the Bosphorus, which the British will defend in the event the Turkish Nationalist army at Ismid begins a movement toward Constantinople. The Kemalist army is understood to consist of two divisions.

When the Glengorm Castle entered the Golden Horn and the masses of infantrymen became visible from the city, the immense gatherings of Greeks and Armenians seeking visas outside the Inter-Allied Passport Bureau, quickly melted away. The expression was heard: "We won't bother with passports now. The British are sending ships and troops."

HARRINGTON HAS FULL POWER TO DEAL WITH THE TURKS BUT ALLIES NOT UNITED

British Cabinet Impatient of Kemalists' Defiance—Issue Ultimatum That Chanak Zone Must Be Vacated.

French Envoy's Role.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The events of the next few days probably will be largely influenced by the outcome of the meeting which M. Franklin-Bouillon, the French envoy sent by the Paris Government to Asiatic Turkey, has just had with Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist leader.

The policy the British authorities have pursued in the face of the continued occupation by the Kemalists of the region in the vicinity of Chanak is believed in London to have been due partly to the absence of definite information as to how far Great Britain could depend upon French and Italian support in the event of hostilities with the Kemalists. An agreement with the Angora Government, concluded some time ago by M. Franklin-Bouillon, included a clause under which France undertook not to engage in military operations against the Turks in Asia Minor.

Opinion Divided

Reports from Constantinople are to the effect that Mustapha Kemal is in favor of peace; but on the other hand the Associated Press correspondent asserts that the French and Italian generals express the opinion that the British ought to withdraw from Chanak and confine themselves to the European side of the Gallipoli Peninsula. It is expected that the meeting between Franklin-Bouillon and Kemal will make the actual situation clearer. The situation as revealed here to-day following an important Cabinet meeting appeared to be that the British Government had arrived nearly at the end of its patience.

What is said to have been virtually an ultimatum demanding that the Turkish troops quit the Chanak zone has been sent to Mustapha Kemal Pasha, and after the Cabinet meeting it was said that Brigadier-General Harrington ha dben informed that he would have the full support of the Government in taking whatever steps he considered advisable to bring the Turkish occupation of the forbidden zone to an end and thus terminate the grave situation, which was considered nothing less than Turkish defiance to the British Empire and in direct contravention of the terms of the Allied note. The British Government's view regarding this note is that if one part of it is broken the whole of it becomes ineffective.

Promise Not Enough

It was added that the British Government no longer will be satisfied with Kemal's promise that his troops will advance no further but will require the actual withdrawal of the Nationalist forces.

According to the official view here at the coming meeting between General Harington and Kemal nothing will be discussed but actual military matters it is intended to celar up any misunderstanding arising from the Kemalists' charges of aggression. It will be contended that the British operations are necessary and justifiable, but not hostile.

Admit Turks to Thrace

There have been reports to-day that the Turks might be allowed to cross into Thrace in return for the evacuation by the Kemalists of the Kemalist of the whole of the neutral zone. These reports met with little credence in London, but according to the Associated Press correspondent in Constantinople there is talk there of the Greeks being asked to evacuate eastern Thrace by October 10, thus permitting the Turks to enter the region by way of ports on the Sea of Marmora. The view in official circles here to-night was that as the Sea of Marmora has been declared neutral the Greek fleet can operate there and effectively prevent the Turks crossing.

Malta despatches received in London report that the British fleet in the Dardanelles and the British army at Chanak are beinng constantly reinforced, while Mudros is being converted into a subsidiary base for the fleet operating in Turkish waters.

FRENCH ENVOY INTERVIEWS KEMAL

LONDON, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press.)—A despatch to the Central News from Adana says M. Franklin Bouillon and Mustapha Kemal Pasha had a long and intimate conversation there. Among others present at the conference were Kemal's chief of staff, Fethi Bey, the Angora Premier, and the Foreign Minister.

Call Upon Venizelos

Greek Revolutionary Committee Urge Him to Assist in the Nation's Defence.

PARIS, Sept. 30.—Former Premier Venizelos received the following telegram here to-day:

"The Revolutionary Committee expresses its entire confidence in you in charging you with the defense of our national cause and solicits your immediate cooperation."

M. Venizelos to-night sent a reply to the telegram, in which he warmly thanked the Committee for its message and promised to give the fullest of consideration to the proposal.

The former Greek premier spent this afternon and evening in conference with Prominent Greeks in Paris following his return from Deauville at noon to-day. Although the Greek statesman refused to make any statement, there is a growing feeling in well informed Greek circles, that he will accept the call of the Revolutionary Committee to plead the cause of Greece before the Allied Powers.

Friends of the former Greek Premier expect a definite statement from him within a few days.

The reported decision of the revolutionary leaders in Greece to renew as soon as possible the friendliest relations with the Entente, especially France, is further pointed to as a reason for Venizelos looking more favorably on the Committee's appeal According to his supporters he is strongly opposed to taking up the Greek cause abroad unless the new Government is willing to follow a pro-Ally policy.

TWO COMMUNITY ASSETS.

With the annual fall rally of the Y.W.C.A. and the announcement of the annual membership campaign of the Y.M.C.A., these two splendid institutions, which have done and are doing so much for the young people of Peterborough, may be said to have commenced their autumn round of activities.

The two organisations fill a unique place in the community, and neither could be dispensed with without being a distinct loss to the whole city.

They are community centres in which young people are developed physically, mentally, and morally. They supply healthful amusement and recreation for hundreds of people. They have an atmosphere that is inspiring and wholesome, and each is an uplifter and a character builder.

Those who take full advantage of the privileges offered by the two "Y's" are better citizens as a result. They are better able to face life's tasks and fight life's problems, and Peterborough is a better city because of the work carried on by the two institutions.

A successful season for both of them is the cordial wish of The Examiner.

HONOUR THEIR MEMORY.

"They are talking about another war before we have done anything to honour the memory of the men who were killed in the last war," complained a war veteran the other day.

So far as Peterborough is concerned he was right.

The fourth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice finds the city without a memorial for her citizens who did not come back from the Great War.

It is not a condition of affairs in which we can take much pride; rather our citizens are shamed when they go elsewh re and see the handsome memorials bearing the names of the unreturning brave.

Few cities in Canada had a better recruiting record than Peterborough—her sons offered themselves quickly and willingly, and a large percentage of them gave up their lives.

The least that their home city can do is to see to it that their names are preserved and their memory recalled through the medium of a permanent memorial.

The longer this tribute is deferred the deeper the shame of the community.

It must not be said of Peterborough that her men were the first to go and the last to be remembered.

AN IMPORTANT EXTENSION.

In securing an inspection of the proposed route by the Minister of Public Works, Hon. F. C. Biggs, the Chamber of Commerce has taken the first step in the campaign to have the Provincial Highway system extended from Peterborough to Young's Point and Burleigh Falls.

Undoubtedly if the tourist traffic to the Kawartha Lakes is to be developed to its fullest capacity, it is essential that the Port Hope-Peterborough Highway should be extended to Stoney Lake.

Some sections of the roadway at present are such as to discourage motorists from making a second visit.

With the completion of the Highway as far as Peterborough, it is expected that there will be a marked increase in the number of tourists visiting the city, and if they could be assured of some excellent road conditions all the way, the influx of visitors to the Kawartha Lakes would soon break all records.

The value of this to the whole district is apparent.

It is estimated that American visitors have spent many millions of dollars in Canada this summer. The extent to which this traffic will develop is measured only by the condition of Canada's highways and the districts which are best provided for in this respect can confidently expect to secure a large share of the revenue from this source.

The Chamber of Commerce is acting in the general interest in endeavouring to have the proposed extension authorised by the Provincial Government.

THE AUTO BANDITS

The epidemic of bank robberies by bandits who go about their business with the calmness born of a definite sense of immunity from detection, is causing considerable uneasiness throughout the West, says the Montreal Star. There seems to be little or no risk attendent upon their operations, if the success with which their daring has been attended of late may be taken as any criterion. They hold up trains, cut telegraph and telephone wires, render helpless any bank employees on the premises, and then proceed to blow open the safe and extract the securities, departing in high-powered automobiles. And thereafter they are seen no more.—until the next bank robbery is announced.

In a law-abiding country such as Canada, this state of affairs ought not to be possible. It would not be possible if the precautions taken by the various provincial authori ies were adequate. There is only one successful way in which to combat the operations of men who carry robbery into their realms of scientific business, and that is to fight them with their own weapons. In the case of these bank robberies, the main weapon of the robbers is speed, in the shape of high-powered automobiles. Very well; the provincial police ought to be equipped with high-powered automobiles also, as well as high-powered motor cycles. Provincial highways patrolled by such a force would constitute so serious a menace to the professional bank robber that he would find himself compelled to seek some other and less risky form of getting rich quickly.

The cost in cases of this kind is not, and ought not to be a primary consideration. In any event, it would not be heavy. The public is entitled to protection from the State, and it is the duty of the State to see that such protection is provided. To permit these bank robbers to continue their operations with impunity is to confess that the State is unable to protect the citizen and that civil guarantees are no longer in force. Such a condition of affairs is unthinkable. No province is so poor that it cannot afford adequate police protection, and the duty of patrolling provincial highways is one that undoubtedly falls upon the provincial governments. The sooner they realise this fact and act upon it, the sooner the bank robber will disappear from the scenes of his present unwelcome activities.

THE BURDEN OF BUSINESS

Canada's industries are burning up. Its wage and wealth-producing properties are being destroyed by fire. Buildings and products worth millions of dollars are annually reduced to worthless ashes. That is why the people of Canada are paying such high fire insurance rates.

The insurance companies know all about this destruction of wealth. They pay out huge sums because of it. They are not the losers—they make a profit on the transaction. They merely pay out the money we foolishly furnish them with. By carefully constructed tables they can estimate the approximate amount they will require. Those figures enable them to make out the bill.

That bill is rendered with grim regularity. It commences, "Your Fire Insurance Premium is Now Due." And we pay it—pay it to the last dollar, no matter what it amounts to. Every property-owner in Canada is as helpless before the demand as the unarmed wayfarer before the automatic of the thug.

These premium payments pour into the giant fund that goes to reimburse the suffers by fire. We pay our contribution because we are aftaid that some day we shall need to draw upon that fund. We pay heavily in proportion as the companies estimate that "some day" will be "soon."

Are we going to continue longer in this bondage of fear? Shall the devouring greed of preventable fire rob us further of the earnings of our industry?

Can we stay this tremendous waste of our National wealth? We Can by Preventing Fires.

THE LONDON MONEY MARKET

Now that so much depends upon the strength of the London Money Market, it is a matter of unusual interest to know precisely the nature and the structure of the Money Market.

Every Britisher believes it to be the world's greatest mechanism of finance. He believes it to be indestructible and eternal.

Governments may come and go, and great bankers may come and go, but the structure of the London Money Market will remain, so thinks every English business man.

The London Money Market is impersonal. There is no outstanding personality in it. London has never had a J. P. Morgan and has never needed one. Outside of Reginald McKenna, not one of London's greatest financiers is generally known to the British public. No one is indispensable.

The London Money Market may be likened to a wheel. The hub is the Bank of England. The spokes are the banks. The rim consists of the discount and financial houses, the insurance companies and other trustee institutions.

Closest to the Bank of England, are the "Big Five" banks—the Midland, London County Westminster, National Provincial, Barclay's and Lloyd's.

The three big discount houses are fully as important as banks—the Union Discount, National Discount and Alexander's.

There is the Clearing House, to facilitate exchanges, through which pours a flood of $200,000,000,000 in the course of a year.

There are the gold and silver markets and the Mint; and back of it all is the British Empire as a going concern. That is the Money Market of London.

The centre of it is the Bank of England, which is known throughout Great Britain simply as "the Bank."

The other banks are only buffers in any time of high pressure. Any sudden or prolonged strain comes on the Bank. This is the secret of the enormous strength and recuperative power of the Money Market.

The Bank first opened its doors 228 years ago, and it has been standing the strain of wars, panics and squandering Governments ever since. It has had eight generations of experience in withstanding financial shocks.

There is no other bank like it. It is private and yet it has the Government behind it. All other banks in the Clearing House are required to keep balances in the Bank of England. It receives all taxes and carries all Government overdrafts. It has full power to do anything that needs to be done, to meet an emergency.

No matter what happens, the bank never stops functioning. When the outside discount houses refuse to discount bills, the Bank will, at its own price.

To tell the truth, the Bank has good reason to like a crisis. It makes most of its profits out of stringencies. In every crisis, London bankers and brokers say that "the market is in the Bank."

If a very serious crisis comes, as it did at the beginning of the war, the Bank can declare a moratorium. It can prevent bankruptices by the delay of payments. When the crisis is over, payments are resumed.

Then, if it comes to the worst, the Bank Charter Act is suspended, and the Bank can issue paper money without any gold basis. This was done in 1914.

So, the London Money Market is like a system of rivers and reservoirs, all centering around a great central reservoir; and the keepers of the central reservoir have power to turn off all taps and to pump from a deep well.

Such a system is as safe from panic and disaster as any human invention possibly can be. It does not depend upon any man or any institution or any government. It is a vast system of protection, improved by two centuries of vicissitudes

Every Thursday at 2 p.m., a small sheet of paper is given out at the chief cashier's office in the bank. This is called "The Return." It gives the financial situation of the bank for the week, and it is the barometer of the Money Market.

Before the war, the reserve was the key to the Bank Rate. It was usually 40% o deposits. At the moment it is only 17%.

The key to the Bank Rate to-day is the amount of "other deposits." When these are high, there is cheap money.

The Bank Rate is now 3%, but it may very likely be raised before these words are printed. Its suppleness is its chief value and makes for stability of prices. It shot up to 10% in 1914.

The Government has built up such an extensive pipe-line system of taxation that it interferes with the operation of the reservoir system of the Money Market.

There is such a flood of Treasury bills that the ordinary bills of commerce are apt to be swamped. In 1914, for instance, these Treasury bills amounted to only $75,000,000; but in 1921 they rose to the stupendous total of $6,000,000,000

But this dominance of Government is regarded in London as being a temporary phase. In the end, in England, kings and governments are both brought to heel—such has been the history of these islanders.

Eventually, the matters of international finance, which are now being babbled about in Parliaments and Congress, will be settled quietly by quiet men, in the the little back parlors of the banks of London.

It is not likely that the London Money Market will be overwhelmed by the break-up of other markets. On the contrary, as one London banker told me last week—"the more trouble there is in the world, the more the world comes to London..' —Herbert N. Casson, in Barron's.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

History is being made so fast these days that one is inclined to pity the students of fifty years hence.

To-day is one tag day when nobody minds being "it."

The anniversary of Armistice Day would be an appropriate time for an announcement that Peterborough proposes to erect a memorial in honour of her soldier dead.

There was a time when the Provincial ploughing matches could have been held in the middle of Lindsay's main street.

In spite of the regulations, glaring motor car headlights continue to prove a source of danger to other cars on the road. An example should be made of some of the offenders.

The Fuel Controller has ruled that no one is to be allowed to have more than one month's supply of hard coal at one time. Most people would be more than satisfied if they could get that much.

Fire Prevention Week should be made to mean much for Peterborough. Citizens generally should endeavor to co-operate with those who are trying to remedy conditions that are a disgrace.

The Chicago Tribune has three planks in its platform for a better Chicago. The fact that one of them is "Stop reckless driving" shows the degree to which careless motorists are menacing human life.

So long as the Near East trouble is confined to a letter-writing argument between the Canadian Premier and the leader of the Opposition, no one is liable to get seriously hurt.

THE MYSTERY MIND

Arthur B. Reeve and John W. Grey

In the darkness, he was conscious, slowly, of the presence of some invisible enemy. Was this the influence which had dictated the actions of the girl? Something about it was vaguely familiar. A strange phenomenon was his feeling that, while he was able to sense its nearness, if, in turn, was aware and conscious of him, of his reflections.

The minutes passed and much of the night slipped away. Sleep did not come to him. Violet lay still, her slumber untroubled by dreams. The presence hovered, neither gaining nor losing in strength. To Dupont, it was as though some living man, some throbbing thing, sat close, waiting, reading his thoughts with ease, rather amused at his mental discomfort. Now and then he caught the faintest odor of sandalwood, the odor of the astral double as taught him by a Hindu teacher years before. That the intruder was no tangible realty he understood. He felt no fear. Yet he knew that there was he mental embodiment of the menace faced by Violet and himself.

"Who are you?" he asked, finally, in his irritation.

"I am the Mystery Mind."

To his surprise he had not framed his question audibly. As though from instinct he had projected it directly from his brain. In the same way the answer returned to him. He heard, but not with physical ears.

"Are you Evil Eye?" he asked.

Echoing in space came a cold, distant, mocking laugh. "Evil Eye is my servant mine to do with as I wish. Phantom Face was my servant and Phantom Face I destroyed. Evil Eye I will destroy if Evil Eye fails. I have man servants, and my power is beyond your power to check."

"Who are you, Mystery Mind?"

"I am the living arm of the Devil God."

All at once a fantastic realizati n came home to Dupont. He nkew, and could not tell just how he knew, that in this sort of psychic conversation it was impossible to project a lie. So long as the invisible presence was willing to answer, it was forced to answer with the truth.

"Have you a body, a physical, breathing human body?" he asked.

Again there came the hollow laughter. But the tones came increasingly soft and distant, as if the Mystery Mind feared the questions of Dupont now, wished to avoid the necessity of reply.

"Yes I am a man, like yourself, but I have the power of a god." Even through the silent spheres came the vibrant echoes of his pride.

"Are you here? Is your physical self in New York, in the United States?"

The answer, the final answer, was so faint that Dupont could hardly hear it, even in the realm of mind.

"No I dwell in the Cavern of the Skull, at the headwaters of the Orinoco."

XXXI

"DOMES OF SILENCE"

"Robert is wholly unreasonable," Mr. Clews," Violet stated, with emphasis. Then her expression softened very wonderfully. "He's a dear boy, though," she added, so that no one would misunderstand her feelings.

The man glanced at her appreciatively, noting her heightened color and the slim trimness of her as she sat, very erect, on one of Miss Julia Sutton's upholstered parlor chairs.

"I'm surprised he hasn't listened to you before this," Clews murmured. "I don't see how he could refuse you anything."

Violet ignored the compliment. "He did, however. He said he's bumped into enough danger by being in a hurry, and that he wasn't going to risk my safety again."

Clews was a dapper individual with a tiny, bristling mustache and pointed eyebrows. He raised the latter questioningly. "You mean, Miss Bronson, that he thought if your aunt engaged me to run down the band it would"—a note of indignation crept into his voice—"it would bring you into danger? Why—why—" He spluttered to silence.

"Mercy, no" Violet laughed merrily. "Aunt Julia and I told him of your wonderful success as a detective abroad, and out in San Francisco, and all that, but when Aunt Julia said you would only take the case on condition that all other detectives were called off and that you were left unhampered and unquestioned, why"—her eyes softened and she paused momentarily, as she did always when she called up some mental picture of him—"why, he said it was a risk and that he wouldn't chance it."

PEACE WITH TURKS WAS NOT CONCLUDED

Hence No Necessity of Declaring War If it Comes

LONDON, Sept. 30.—In connection with reports circulated in the United States that war had been declared by Great Britain on Turkey it was pointed out to-day that no declaration of war would be necessary as peace never has been concluded between the two countries. NORTH CAVAN RURAL SCHOOL EXHIBIT DREW A LARGE CROWD

Last in the Series of School Fairs For Durham County —Seven Schools Represented.

MILLBROOK, September 30. — The North Cavan rural school fair, which was held at Ida on Thursday, was the last in the series for Durham county, and was attended by about 800 people. This is always one of the best fairs in the county, and this year though the exhibits were not as numerous as last season, yet in quality they were quite equal to those shown at any of the other rural fairs which have been held. The seven schools belonging to the district were all represented in the parade and acquitted themselves most creditably in marching, singing, etc., as well as in the pleasing appearance of their uniforms. Colonel Odell was present to inspect the parade, the physical culture exercises, Rev. (Major) C. R. Spencer acting as judge. The order of merit was: 1, Beachwood, S. S. No. 4, Miss E. B. Rogers, teacher; 2, Cairo, S. S. No. , Miss Helen Waterman, teacher; 3, Fairmount, S. S. No. 3. Miss Mary Eastwood, teacher.

The results in physical training were 1, :Cedar Grove, S. S. No. 7, Miss M. M. Weir, teacher; 2, Beachwood.

Only two entries were made in the public speaking contest, the first prize going to Master Lawrence Sandy, who appeared in Scotch costume, having chosenn as his subject, "Harry Lauder's Tour of France," and who certainly deserves credit for the clever manner in which his speech was delivered, even the singing of "The Wee Hoose Amang the Heather" being included to the great pleasure of the listeners. Norma Staples won the second prize. her subject being "Canada's Naval and Merchant Marine."

It was found impossible to induce either teachers or trustees to compete in a race at this fair, and this was disappointing to the management at least, as these have been among the best events on the sports programme at other places. The list of prize winners is as follows:

SO MANY PEOPLE ARE NERVOUS

"Fruit-a-tives" the Greatest of all Nerve Remedies

This Fruit Medicine Restores Health

The increase in the number of persons suffering from Nervousness is world-wide; due, in a measure, to the reaction following the war. Sleeplessness, Headaches, Mental Depression, Rheumatism, Nervous Dyspepsia, Bad Heart Action, are the results of a disturbed condition of the Nervous System.

The nerves and the blood are so intimately, so vitally, connected that the condition of one is bound to affect the condition of the other. If the blood is laden with impurities, it is impossible to have strong, steady nerves.

The first essential in treating nervous troubles is to purify and enrich the blood. This, "FRUIT-A-TIVES" will do.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" stimulates the bowels, kidneys and skin and purifies the blood. "Fruit-a-tives" improves appetite and digestion and insures food being properly digested, thus enabling the blood to carry wholesome nourishment to build up the body, particularly the nerves.

Men and women who take "Fruit-a-tives" for some form of nervousness—because they cannot eat or sleep or work or enjoy life—say that this fruit medicine is simply marvellous in its action.

CAMPBELLFORD FAIR IS OVER

Was the Best Show Ever Staged in Campbellford—News of the Town and District—Personals.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 30.—The big fair is over, and officers and directors have been well repaid. It was the best fair ever seen in Campbellford. The midway kept the crowd amused all evening and the management have decided to have fireworks next year and run things on a larger scale. The total receipts more than doubled any previous years, and the races, with well filled entries, were the feature of the day, being very keenly contested. The purses were good and brought out a fine lot of horses.

Horse Ran Away.

A runaway horse in the single driving contest caused a little excitement during the afternoon. Fortunately no one was hurst.

Race Results.

The 2.15 Class Trotters.

Mrs. Ed. Plummer has returned home after a very pleasant visit spent with friends in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Gould of Morganston, were in town on Friday, visiting friends and relatives and attending the Fair.

A Good Fair.

There is no question about Campbellford's Fair being a great success. It totally eclipsed all former years.

Inspector Gooderich of Colborne, was a visitor in town on Friday attending the Fair and visiting friends.

Lacrosse News.

Campbellford lost out on the protest and it looks as though the players will fold their tents for the balance of the season.

Bernie Gannon, who has been laid up with a bad leg as a result of a wallop he received at Bradford, was able to be out for the first time on Friday, but will have to take things easy for a while.

Girl Guides Busy.

The Girl Guides were as busy at the Fair yesterday as bees, where they served afternoon tea and sold cakes and sandwiches, etc. The proceeds which amounted to over $50, were surely most gratifying to the Girl Guides and their officers, Captain Payne and Lieut. Taylor.

De Carrol—Burleigh.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Saunders Burleigh, Campbellford, on Wednesday evening, Sept. 27th, when their younger daughter, Marion Georgina, was united in marriage to Mr. Frank G. De Carrol, only son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. De Carroll, of Boston, Mass. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. F. McIntosh, in the presence of a few friends and relatives. After the ceremony a wedding supper was served. Later the bridal couple left amid showers of confetti and good wishes to spend the honeymoon in New York and Boston, the bride travelling in a suit of navy blue tricotine and French model hat of black velvet trimmed with gold and coke feathers and wearing a mink neck piece. The bride is one of the town's most popular young ladies, and her many friends unite in extending congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Walterhouse, with Mr. and Mrs. Claude Goodman, motored down from the bridge on Friday and attended the big Fair.

Mr. John Fry, of Peterborough, was a visitor in town on Friday, renewing acquaintances and attending the Fair.

Mr. John Fry, of Peterborough, is in town on business this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Neale of Galt, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Henson.

Mrs. Garnet Green and children, who have been visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Ivey, will return to their home in Toronto on Tuesday.

Mr .and Mrs. John Fox have taken up residence in their bungalow on Queen street, recently occupied by Mrs. Maude O'Sullivan.

Mr. George Smith, Front street, has gone to Kingston, where he will take treatment for his arm, which was injured while overseas. His many friends wish him a speedy recovery.

Cook Quaker Oats the Quaker Oats Way

SINCE all tests prove that oatmeal is the most wholesome, nourishing and economical breakfast food for everybody—naturally the housekeeper wants to make it the most appetizing.

Her success depends on two things—the quality of the oats and the way they are cooked.

Quaker Oats cooked in the Quaker Oats way guarantee the best oatmeal porridge in the world—at a cost of less than one cent per serving.

Quaker Oats have a rich, distinctive flavour that comes from using none but the finest oats grown, and protecting them with the sealed cartons. In order to retain all the nourishment and fine flavour, Quaker Oats should be cooked in a double boiler. To make this possible for every housekeeper, we are giving away free, a large aluminum double boiler in exchange for premium coupons which are inclosed in all Quaker Oats cartons.

Save the Coupons—Get the Quaker Double Boiler—then you will enjoy porridge at its best.

The Quaker double boiler is pure, high grade aluminum with a capacity of two quarts wine measure. It is manufactured by a nationally known maker and is guaranteed for ten years. Full particulars for procuring it are given on each coupon.

Remember the name—Quaker—when you are ordering supplies from your grocer.

"It is a Splendid Article to have in One's Kitchen"

The following letter is typical of many we receive:—

"Thanks ever so much for sending the aluminum double boiler so promptly. I am sure it is a splendid article to have in one's kitchen. I have used the aluminum boiler and find it in every way satisfactory and I shall surely recommend it to all my friends."

The Quaker Oats way to make Porridge.

Stir slowly one part of Quaker Oats into two parts of freshly boiled water. Remember to salt the water to taste before adding the oats. Cook in a double boiler for half an hour. No further stirring is necessary as the double boiler prevents burning.

Our five minute plan is a convenient way of having Quaker Oats always ready for breakfast. Cook Quaker Oats at any time during the day according to the above recipe and when cooked leave in the double boiler, but set aside until next morning. Five minutes is then sufficient to heat it for breakfast.

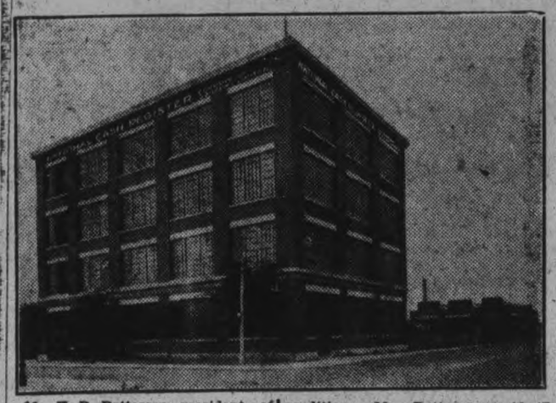
RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

NEW CANADIAN FACTORY PURCHASED BY N.C.R. CO.



Mr. F. B. Patterson, president of the National Cash Register Company, in an interview to-day, announced the purchase from Gibson Bros. of the fine four-storey building located at Bloor and Dufferin streets, by his company.

"The new home of the National Cash Register Company of Canada, Limited," said Mr. Patterson, "is in keeping with N. C. R. standard in all parts of the world.

"The building was constructed in 1916—it is modern in every respect, of concrete, fireproof construction, faced with brick. The height between floor and ceiling on each floor is 14 feet clear, with large windows on all four sides, affording maximum of light and best of ventilation, assuring our factory people of working conditions that will assist them in turning out the best possible product.

"We have purchased sufficient property to permit of increasing the plant, so as to provide for three times the present floor space."

Asked about Canadian business conditions, Mr. Patterson said, "I believe Canada is entering a period of sound prosperity, as is evidenced by the very considerable investment involved in the purchase of the new plant.

"Prior to the war period our sales force in Canada for a number of years led all of the divisions in the United States. Since 1914, although our business has more than doubled in both the United States and Canada, our sales force in the United States accounted for, proportionately, a better business than was secured by the Canadian division.

"However, with the splendid crops and the return to Canada of prosperity on a sound basis we expect a big increase in our business, and know of no good reason why our Canadian organization should not soon again lead the entire American selling force.

"Possession of the new plant places us in a better position than ever before to serve our users in the real N. C. R. way."

DEATH CAUSED BY SHOOTING HIMSELF

Verdict of Jury in the Christian Hulley Case

LINDSAY, Sept. 30.—A jury empanelled to investigate the death and the finding of the remains of Christian Hulbig, of Minden, came to the decision that death was caused by Hulbig shooting himself. Hulbig disappeared three years ago, when it was thought he would return. It was not until a couple of weeks ago that a few trinkets owned by the dead man were found alongside a few skeleton bones in a lonely spot near Minden. Farmers living near the spot remembered that they had heard a shot on the morning that Hulbig disappeared, but nothing was thought of it. Hulbig's rifle was found beside his skeleton.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press). — The seventy-three passengers aboard the Canadian Pacific steamship day service boat Empress, plying between Digby, N.S., and St. John, N.B., were safely landed at Reeds Point last night, five hours and a half after the vessel had run aground at Black Point in a dense fog.

A Wonderful Little Upright Piano

A Heintzman & Co.

For the Home with parlor of only moderate size

In many homes of the present day only moderate space is given to the parlor. With this new custom in building there has come a wide demand for a piano small in size, at the same time possessing all the attributes of the Grand Piano.

These conditions exist in the Heintzman & Co. Miniature Upright Grand—a gem in piano building. Its tone is the beautiful Heintzman & Co. tone so loved by great artists and musical critics — a tone that is clear, vibrant and musical, a charm to all who hear it.

By Stuart P. West.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.— (Special.)—The strain of the situation at the Dardanelles was admittedly greater on the markets to-day than at any time since the war cloud loomed on the Near East horizon. The market viewed the situation only short of actual warfare. No calculations affecting the day's markets could well have been made without taking into account the possibility of a clash between British and Turk beginning over the week end. If there was to be a war scare it seemed as if it must have come to-day. What actually happened, however, was a series of moderate price movements, indicating uncertainty and uneasiness, but no serious alarm.

Sterling went lower, but did not get down to its low point of the previous day. British Government bonds sagged off a bit but they did not equal their recent low. French and Belgian bonds were off fractionally but as against this the continental exchanges were all steady. Some rather active selling in the cotton market was directly traceable to cable news. So, too, was the resumption of the rise in wheat.

The bond market, with the exception of liberties, which were again noticeably soft, was inclined to do better.

On the stock exchange, trading was quiet during the first hour, with prices only slightly lower. Then operations for the decline were tried again with some success, particularly in the independent steel stocks. Republic Iron and Steel and Bethlehem Steel B were the weakest. Their decline along with a sharp drive against Mexican Petroleum and the Pan-American, had an unsettling effect upon the entire list. Prices went gradually lower and in the speculative leaders the losses were rather substantial. Still there was no violent unloading of stocks as there would have been in a genuine war scare. The main point was that people who might have bought ordinarily were delaying purchases over Sunday to see what would happen in the Near East. This temporarily weakened the buying power and it was curtailment in buying rather than any keen desire to sell that was responsible for such weakness as occurred.

tree a fox. This spirit should be ever present in the campaigners when they go out to interview their prospective members.

Mr. G. H. Roper then briefly presented to the workers the outline of organisation and assured the teams that by close attention to team work during the coming week the objective would be more than attained. This did not mean that each worker was to think in terms of the 300 objective, but that if each would assume the full responsibility of signing up two new men, the 190 could more than do their full part.

There never was a better supper served; there never was a better crowd gathered together; there never was a better, snappier after-dinner programme; and it's going to be a pace-setting campaign!

FARMERS' MARKET

Buying on the farmers' market this morning was lackadaisical. Although there was plenty of produce in the curb carts, the tendency of buyers seemed to be to enquire the prices, feel the stuff speculatively, or regard it with an undecided expression and pass on to the next dealer. Probably the warm weather had something to do with the general atmospheer of cheerful lassitude. The only brisk note encountered was the loud voice of the foreign dealer in peaches, offering to turn his baskets upside down for casual inspection, their contents retailing for the sum of 50 cents.

Potatoes of good quality and very plentiful, were one of the main offerings this morning. One farmer had already disposed of eight hundred bags at a price that seemed to prevail this morning of $1 per bag. One lone dealer was asking 95c a bag.

The last of the tomatoes were going for $1 a bushel or 40c a basket in one instance, 50c a baskets in some carts, while one man was asking 25c a large basket. Green tomatoes were 25c a peck.

Apples were plentiful also; enormour, pink-veined Wolf Rivers, at 50c a peck, the smaller variety in these and the Wealthys at 20 and 25c a peck. $1.25 a bag for the cooking apples.

One dealer had his conveyance filled with melons; watermelons at 35c apiece, muskmelons in the elongated variety at 20c, the corrugated brand at 25c. Little samples in pink and green were selling for three and four for a quarter, with plenty of buyers. White onions were 40c a peck, or $2 a bag; one man had green onions at 5c a bunch; turnips and new parsnips were a nickel, a small bunch and Brussels sprouts 15c a quart. Pickling beets were 25c a basket; pickling cucumbers 65c; and wild grapes 40c. Red, green and blue grapes in a profusion that would tempt the hand of an artist to reproduce, were selling at 75c for a large basket, and green pears were 50 cents a peck. Green and blue plums found plenty of patronage at 10c per quart. Citron weres 10c apiece.

There was a good deal of honey on the market this morning, the amber clover brand selling at 18c, and the mixed buckwheat at 12 1-2 and 13c.

Upstairs in the basket section fowl loaded every table. Chicken was selling at from 25 to 30c a pound; there was one lone duck at 33c and turkey at 40c a pound. Butter ranged in price from 35c to 40c a pound, and eggs were stationary at 38 cents a dozen, with two dealers asking 40c.

O'Connor's fault. All Chicago loves him. He cannot help it that, in his old age, he has been permitted to remain there so that certain city officials could take advantage of him.

Ald. Albert's Resalution

Ald. Albert introduced a resolution declaring that "the friction within the department, the charges of graft, corruption, usurpation of authority, and the fact that the present fire marshal is seriously ill and unable to discharge efficiently the duties of his office, creates a condition which the city council should no longer ignore."

He demanded that the council resolve itself into a committee of the whole for the investigation made last spring.

"If you have graft charges to make why don't you take them to the state's attorney's office? Ald. Horne asked.

"Why pick on me?. You are as responsible as I am," Allbert replied.

When the Albert resolution was put on passage it received only a few scattered votes. A few seconds later Mayor Thompson made the announcement that "Big Tom" is to be rested.

EXCHANGE MARKET MUCH UNSETTLED.

Sterling May Go to $4.30 Before Reaching $4.50 Again.

LONDON, Sept. 30—The foreign exchange market is considerably unsettled by the situation in the Near East. There are constant rumors floating around the city, but there is nothing in the nature of a panic. The feature of to-day's movements is the decline of the New York rate to $4.36 1-2 per pound Sterling.

The decline is attributed partly to the fact that coal shipments to the United States have ceased, while France and Britain require wheat and cotton. These factors are pressing rates downward it is said, though evidence in support of it seems to be lacking.

HEAVY YIELD AND BIG HOUR'S WORK

Four hundred and fifty-nine bushels of oats were threshed in one hour yesterday on the farm of Chas. Matthews, Otonabee Township. The thresher in this case was John Torpay, and the machine was fed by Austin Allen.

THE HOPE FOR DISTRESSED HUMANITY

Resurrection of the Dead is at Hand

MILLIONS NOW LIVING WILL NEVER DIE.

SPEAKER: H. HOWLETT,
Travelling Representative of the International Bible Students Association.

REGENT THEATRE

Sunday Evening, Oct. 1st, 7 p.m.

Never in the history of mankind has the unrest been so general as it is to-day, and on every hand the question is being asked "What does it all mean?"

The students of God's Word are reminded of the words of Jesus, "Upon the earth distress of nations, with perplexity; the sea and the waves (the restless, discontented) roaring; men's hearts failing them for fear and for looking to the things coming upon the earth (society); for the powers of the heavens (ecclesiasticism) shall be shaken . . . . When ye see these things begin to come to pass, then know that the Kingdom of God is at hand. Look up, lift up your heads, rejoice, for your redemption draweth nigh."

Hoppers Are Latest Bugs Lured to Great White Way

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—He came from Missouri and an old friend met him as he stepped from the Grand Central Station early to-day. The friend sat red-legged, brown and serene on the window-sill of the waiting yellow taxicab.

The travelling man from Kansas City rubbed his eyes and looked again. The taxi got under way, but the friend was not disturbed.

"Well, what the——?"

Further astonishment, as he halted the remark. It was, truly enough, a real grasshopper, riding placidly down Fifth Avenue in a taxicab. The Missourian, accustomed as he is to grasshoppers, never would have believed it, except through his own eyes. Missourians are notorious in that respect.

The man watched the insect with a peculiar fascination. Nothing happened until the cab reached Fifth avenue and Thirty-fourth street. There the hopper calmly pulled himself together and hopped out into the traffic.

What became of the tiny taxi rider in the maelstrom no one will ever know. Many another wayfarer from the country has become engulfed in the mysterious city.

How the hopper got into the taxi the driver didn't know. But all New York is wondering at a real grasshopper invasion.

A few days ago a veritable nest of them was found on the ledge of the forty-second storey of the Woolworth building. It is assumed that westerly winds blew them over with the mosquitoes from New Jersey. Naturalists say the supposition that hoppers can only hop is all wrong. Some have been known to fly as much as three miles. None before, however, ever had been known to reach the forty-second story of a building.

The light in the Woolworth tower may have attracted the bugs. New York's bright lights have attracted many other sorts of bugs for lo, these many years.

Lake Victoria, in Africa, the second largest fresh water lake in the world, is almost exactly circular.

QUEBEC SOCIETY OPPOSED TO WAR.

Says Canada's Economic Conditions Already Too Burdensome.

MONTREAL, September 30. — In connection with the threatened outbreak of war in the Near East, and Canada's possible participation therein, the general council of the St Jean Baptiste Society has adopted the following resolution:

"War questions and the status of the country are public problems of interest to all citizens. The National Society of French Canadians knows that it interprets the unanimous sentiments of its members in asking that Canada, a North American country, shall refuse all participation in the present crisis in the Near East. The economic conditions of our country make it impossible for it to bear further burdens. In view of such a situation participation in such dispute against the will of the people would hasten definitely the rupture of the National unity which is already affected."

The water of Lake Geneva rises and falls irregularly, much like the ocean tide.

SCHOONER LOST IN FIRE AT SEA.

Crew Saved From Newfoundland Vessel.

NEW YORK September 30 (Canadian Press). — News of the destruction by fire at sea of the schooner Madeline Constance, of St. John's, N.F., was received in a wireless message to the Naval Communication Offices from the steamship Mauretania last night. Members of the crew were saved.

The fireless message was sent by the steamship Joseph Seep, and had been relayed by the Mauretania. It was as follows:

"Encountered schooner Madeline Constance of St. John's N.F., afire and abandoned in latitude 48.03 north, longitude 37.0 west. Crew taken off."

The Constance, which is listed as an auxiliary barque of 418 gross tons, left Rotterdam for St. John's on 15th August, but was delayed a week at Falmouth, England, for engine and rigging repairs.

The vessel was built in 1892, and was the property of Job Brothers of St. John's.

MODERN FARMING METHODS MAY TRIPLE ARMENIA'S CROPS.

ALEXANDRIA, Armenia, Sept. 30 —(Associated Press).— Twenty-two American tractors, imported by the Near East Relief Commission, have ploughed 2,000 acres and produced 20 bushels of barley per acre, against ten bushels per acre the result of native methods which called for 500 men and 1,500 oxen on the same job.

Professor Hartill, of the New York Institute of Agriculture, directed this experiment in order to prove to the Armenian agriculturists the advantage of American farm machinery that the cereal production of Armenia can be increased 300 per cent by the use of modern methods.

WESTERN TRADE FAIRLY STEADY

Collections Show Very Little Improvement, the Credit Men Report.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 30.—The Canadian Creditmen's Trust Association, Ltd., reporting on conditions for this week, states:

Maritime Provinces — Wholesalers report business fairly steady, while retail business men report not much improvement.

Montreal wholesalers report the grocery trade fairly busy; dry goods, boots and shoes somewhat busier; hardware business slowly improving. Manufacturing trade gradually improving. Retail trade fairly steady, winter goods. Collections fair to slow. Quite a number of business failures this week.

Toronto says the wholesale trade is getting a little more business, and the outlook appears more cheerful. Manufacturing trade fair, some plants running to capacity. Retail trade, considering the times, is fairly good. Collections improving though not as hoped for. The unemployment situation is much easier.

Winnipeg wholesale trade reports but owing to the continued fine weather no great demand for fall and dry goods, boots and shoes are getting more business, the latter reporting good orders for spring delivery. The hardware business, which has been fair until recently, has slackened off somewhat. Grocery business generally is only fair. Collections show very little improvemnt. Retail business generally is quiet. Some of this is accounted for by the unusually warm weather prevailing. Saskatoon reports wholesale trade fair and retail trade improving. Collections just starting.

Good in Regina.

Regina reports wholesale trade brisk; retail trade quiet; collections improving.

Calgary reports the volume of wholesale business is less than for the same period last year, particularly in so-called luxury lines. Grocery houses say sales slightly less than for same period of 1921. Collections slow. All business, however, shows some improvement over summer months, due to harvesting and threshing operations.

In British Columbia the wholesale dry goods report business good, grocery, city trade improving, country trade not so good; hardware sales keeping up well; boots and shoes slightly improving. In the retail trade, dry goods are quiet, groceries fair, hardware somewhat better, boots and shoes no improvement. Collections fair to slow.

FOR DEVELOPMENT OF PUBLIC SPORTS.

The movement started last spring for the encouragement and development of athletics in the public and separate schools of the Province, which has for an expression a day of public sports throughout the length and breath of Ontario, includes in this day a competition for girls in the 75-yard dash, all the competitions to be limited in age to 15 years and under.

The underlying reason for these competitive athletic events, as described iin the circular letters to teachers, is; "that competitive athletics, besides the noticeable improvement they effect on bodily physique and general deportment, are a great moral force, teaching lessons of loyalty, patriotism and fair play, and create a manliness that makes these effective. It is on our Canadian athletic fields that unwritten laws are largely developed, the laws of honour, fair play and self restraint. It was on our athletic fields that we developed the moral that won the war, the will to win, the team play to carry it on and the grit to stick to it to the finish.

The girls of Peterboro have taken a great interest in sports and athletic games of all sorts during the last two seasons than they have done in this city for many years past, and a man who has been in close touch with the activities of the Girls' Soft Ball League throughout the summer and watched the results of the game on its devotees makes the assertion that the girls are better in every way for participating in the contests. They are keener and brighter in body and mind, take a greater interest in their place of employment and do better work, so he claims. Nearly 150 girls took part in the games in the different teams during the summer months, and now that the League has been discontinued until the Spring season opens, further activities along the lines of basket and volley ball are being planned.

ANTHRACITE FIRST BURNED IN 1808

Anthracite coal was first experimentally burned, and its value as a fuel and marketable commodity tested, in the old Fell House, Wilkesbarre, Pa., in February, 1808. The experiment was conducted in a very primitive sort of grate built for the purpose by Judge Jesse Fell, then one of the leading men in the community. He had written in letters to relatives describing the achievement, and had for some time contended that if properly ignited the "stone coal," as it was then called, would burn, but his friends laughed at him. They would not believe him until they had, as he wrote, "ocular demonstration of the fact."

Day after day the old room in the tavern was crowded with the people of the little village, and the travellers who passed through, and soon to all parts of the region where outcroppings of coal had been discovered, the news was borne.

CAN'T DO WITHOUT SILK STOCKINGS.

A recent ruling of the Ontario Board of Minimum Wage Commissioners, when, after reckoning up the necessities of life for women engaged in certain occupations, they neglected to include in their budget any mention of silk stockings, substituting therefor the lisle variety at a low price, has been the subject of much newspaper discussion since its publication. Silk stockings have become in late years a very necessary part of the wardrobe of the poor working girl, and their omission from a consideration of her expenditures necessarily leads to considerable speculation.

The Minimum Wage Board for the State of Mussachusetts evidently believed in going into the thing good and strong when they were at it. Here are some of the items included in their estimate of the proper financial outlay for a woman earning anywhere from $15 to $25 per week: 1 street dress and two hats per annum; a pair of corsets every two years; a kimona at $2.98 every five years; 7 cents a week to be expended for charity; no rouge or candy; meals. $1 per day, with 25 cents for breakfast, 30 cents for lunch and 45 cents for dinner. The amount to be spent for clothes in a year not to exceed $151.92.

GIRLS! LEMONS BLEACH SKIN WHITE

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of harmless and delightful lemon bleach. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day, then shortly note the beauty and whitness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this lemon lotion to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion also as a freckle, sunburn, and tan bleach because it doesn't irritate.

FRANCE STANDS FIRMLY BY HER DECISION FOR TURKISH RECOGNITION

PARIS, Sept. [illegible]. — (Canadian Press.)—France stands firmly by her decision taken with Great Britain and Italy last Saturday to insist upon Turkish recognition of neutrality of zone of Straits and while there is no question at the moment of military forces to back up this attitude, the French government will exert its fullest influence to induce the Turks to withdraw. This was the view in official circles to-day, following the British demand for retirement of Turkish Nationalists from the Chanak area.

INVITES THE PUBLIC TO BIRHDAY PARTY.

Not the least evidently of the festivities in popularity, arranged in celebration of the twenty-fourth anniversary of the establishment of the Cressman Company, Limited, in Peterboro, is the birthday party free to all comers on Thursdays of the two weeks" event, when cake and ice cream are served from 3.30 to 5.30 in the store's tea-room. On Thursday afternoon of this week, there was a constant rush on here during the two hours. Men and women, old and young, little boys and little girls, stood in line and waited for their turn at the little tables. There was evidently something novel about the affair that attarcted many, but the children, pushing and crowding under the wings of their elders, were frankly interested in the dainties provided. A woman with a small baby waited patiently for nearly an hour, while little things at several of the tables had to be gently reminded that all was over, when the ice-cream and cake had disappeared from their plates, some of them apparently being in the hopeful "Oliver Twist" attitude of looking for "more." The broad shoulders of Mr. Rattenbury, a warm look on his genial countenance, were a firm, necessary brace at the entrance against the jam that followed the school closing hour.

THE WAY TO BE WELL

Good Health Maintained Through Rich, Red Blood.

There are many men and women who, every few weeks, have spells of weakness, during which time they are little better than invalids; yet at other times they feel very well. Why does their health fluctuate so?

In the case of men worry and overstrained nerves are usually responsible for this state of unfitness and inability to face the anxieties of daily life.

As for women, her back aches, she is dizzy with sick headaches, and often has stabbing pains in the side. The only real health is all-the-year-round health; and the secret of it is good, red blood and plenty of it. One way to keep the blood in good condition is to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. There is scarcely a nook or corner in Canada where someone will not be found who will tell you the benefit they have had through the use of these pills. And the reason is that through the improved condition of the blood they strengthen and tone up the nerves of worried, enfeebled men and women, and at the same time have given new vigor to pale, delicate girls and thin weedy boys. The value of these pills in all run down conditions is shown by the statement of Mrs. Lawrence Brown, Walton, N.S., who says: "When I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I was in a weak, bloodless and nervous condition suffering from all the depressing symptoms that accompany this run down state of health. I had taken much medicine, but it did not do me any good, and as I had a family of small children, was much discouraged. Then reading about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I decided to try them, and I can honestly say that I feel these pills have saved me from prolonged misery. My health is now good, and we now keep the pills in the house for use as a family medicine."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BRINGING HIM BACK TO LINDSAY FOR TRIAL.

LINDSAY, Sept. 30.—Frank Spry, who last spring stole a horse and buggy from the Elmire Livery here, sent a letter last August from St. Michel, Que., that he was on his way to New Brunswick, and that he had sold the outfit near Burlington and St. Catharines. He wished the liveryman good luck, until we meet again.

This morning the Lindsay police received word that Spry had been arrested at Chatham, N. B., and would be brought back for trial.

I was helped by them, after months of suffering. I tried many other remedies, but all failed; then I tried Gin Pills, with the result that I am well to-day."

AN ONION, AN OLIVE AND A PRUNE A DAY.

"An olive, an onion, and a prune a day will keep, not only the doctor, but old age away." This is the pronouncement of Mrs. Margaret J. Fair, of Minnesota, who found herself, at 50 years of age, the typical old lady, as she says, but now, after ten years of this diet, combined, by the way, with plenty of walking, water and no worry, is able to turn handsprings as well as her eight-year-old grandson, dance four hours a day, and stand on her head as part of her morning exercises." The humble prune, the despised onion, and the supposedly too fattening olive, have been excellent aids in the rejuvenating process, she declares.

New Method of Reducing Fat

A news item from abroad informs us that the American method of producing a slim, trim figure is meeting with astonishing success. This system, which has made such a wonderful impression over there, must be the Marmola Prescription Tablet method of reducing fat. It is safe to say that we hae nothing better for this purpose in the country. Anything that will reduce the excess flesh staedily and easily without injury to the stomach, the causing of wrinkles, the help of exercising or dieting, or interference with one's meals, is a mighty important and useful addition to civilization's necessities. Just such a catalogue of good results follow the use of these pleasant, harmless and economical little fat reducers. We say economical because Marmola Prescription Tablets (made in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription) can be obtained of any druggist the world over or from the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward avenue, Detroit, Mich., for one dollar a case, which is a decidedly economical price, considering the number of tablets each case contains. They are harmless.

CANUCKS LACKING PATRIOTIC FERVOR.

The Canadian Clubs, in convention, have just recommended as a national expression of patriotic fervor, one particular version of "O Canada." This is probably a step forward in an endeavor to awaken some patriotic zeal in the people of the Dominion by giving them a particular song of their own, but it will need to have a considerable amount of pep behind it to accomplish much. The inhabitants of our "far-flung Empire" have never been very enthusiastic about singing the praises of the country they dwell in, affording a marked contrast in this respect to residents of the U.S.A., whose national songs, numerous and varied, are sung on all occasions with warmth and vim. Probably the practice in the schools to the south of us of teaching the children to sing daily such patriotic airs as "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," "The Star-Spangled Banner," and the stirring "Red, White and Blue," may have something to do with the persistence in adult life of a fondness for the same national songs.

"God Save the King," sung with lackadaisical effect by a weak-voiced minority, is the usual Canadian contribution on public occasions to the spirit of national progress. It might be a safe bet to say that if the words were changed to something entirely different and the same tune played by the orchestra, most of the people present would recognize little or no difference, occupied, as they usually are, with hats and coats and stifled yawns. As for the "Maple Leaf," which has a certain amount of swing to it, a rendition in quartette by visiting Chautauqua artists during the summer months of this Canadian air brought expressions of pleased surprise from the audience, principally on account of the delightful effect achieved by these stranger singers, who paid us the compliment of singing one of our patriotic songs with the same amount of verve they put into their own national anthems.

It will take some time to get people accustomed to singing "O Canada" in any version. An enquiring gentleman who just lately desired to purchase a copy of this air at a local music store, was much incensed at his inability to find it on the shelves, but the store manager had a good case on his side, when he asserted that during the last ten years, none had ever required a copy of it. A young composer of Canadian patriotic music whose work shows some promise, only succeeds in adding to the pile of dusty music on the shelves. A change to syncopated compositions, with deleted harmony and words, like some of the latest hits, which describe the reactions of a loving, constant lady whose husband beats her, or of a jazz-struck maiden, might work a considerable change in this composer's estimate of what is likely to attract the popular fancy.

It was John Ruskin who said: "Music is thus, in her health, the teacher of perfect order, and is the voice of the obedience of angels, and the companion of the course of the spheres of heaven: and in her depravity she is also the teacher of perfect disorder and disobedience."

MINISTER OF TRADE WILL GO TO AUSTRALIA

Canadian Government Looks For a Reciprocal Trade Agreement.

OTTAWA, Sept. 30.— (Canadian Press.)—Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Trade and Commerce, will leave Ottawa on October 12 and sail from Vancouver on October 20 for Australia, where he will continue, on behalf of the Canadian Government, negotiations with the Australian government looking to the execution of a reciprocal trade. There have been from time to time some years exchanges of views between the two countries on the subject of trade relations. About a year ago negotiations were in progress between the Meighen government, for which Sir George Foster acted, and the Government of the Australian Commonwealth. They were cut short so far as the Meighen administration was concerned by the result of the Dominion elections last December. However, since then they have been carried on by the King Government. A representative of the Commonwealth of Australia has visited Ottawa and conferred with Premier King and members of his ministry. Now the negotiations are approaching their final stage with the visit of a Canadian minister to Australia.

C.G.E. Even Up With Picton--Yanks Lose Again--Sport News

C. G. E. Swamp Picton And Tie Up the Series

Intermediate Champions Are Beaten 12 Runs to 0 in Game at Riverside Park — Third Fixture Necessary.

BARRIE BADLY HURT.

The Canadian General team evened up their series with Picton in easy fashion at Riverside Park yesterday, beating the double intermediate O.B.A.A. champions by 12 runs to 0, all the scoring being done in the first three innings. As Picton won the first game by 3 to 2, a third will come is necessary, and the teams will come together in Colborne on Tuesday afternoon to settle the argument. Judging by yesterday's showing, C. G. E. should have had a look in at any handily.

Picton new fixture. Their star stage of Croft, had nothing with twirler to fool the C.G.E. batters, which his teammates were loose as ones. Croft was touched up for nine hits and twelve runs and retired after the fifth in favour of Welsh, the left-handed second baseman, who got by for the remaining three innings without being scored upon.

On the other hand, Frost, on the rubber for the C.G.E., held the Easterners to five scattered hits, three of them by Croft, and did not give a base on balls, while the Generals fielded in sparkling style behind him, Rose, Jackson and McCarney all contributing some classy support.

The C.G.E. victory was marred by an accident which cost Second Baseman Frank Barrie a broken leg. Barrie, in scoring on a short passed ball in the second innings, slid into the plate and broken a bone in his left leg above the ankle. He had to be removed to the Clinic in an automobile and will, of course, be out of the yame for the balance of the season.

C.G.E. put the game on ice in the first innings. Barrie beat out a tap to Croft and McCarney cracked a hit off C. Frederick's shins. Corrin and Helson fanned. Rose walked, filling the bases, and then Croft hit Frost, forcing in the first run. C. Frederick let Ross' drive slip out of his hands, and McCarney scored. Jackson's roller to Welsh retired the side.

Four more came over in the second. With one gone, Barrie singled and stole second, going on to third on Frederick's bad throw. McCarney walked and stole second, and Corrin also strolled, filling the bases. On a short passed ball Barrie scored when Croft dropped the catcher's throw. It was on this play that Barrie broke his leg. On Helson's roller, which was fielded to the plate, McCarney registered. Rose was hit. Frost singled through short, scoring Corrin and Helson. Croft took the throw from the field and caught Frost between first and second, while Rose was doubled at the plate.

The third frame saw the C.G.E. bag half a dozen more. Jackson's two-bagger, which Rorke misjudged, started the fireworks, with one out. Mulholland's error on Legon's tap scored Jackson. McElroy hit to Campney, and Legon was safe at second when Welsh missed the third baseman's throw. McCarney bunted, and Legon beat the throw to third, filling the bases. Then, hits by Corrin, Helson and Frost and Welsh's error on Rose's tap sent five more counters in before Ross ended the fun by grounding to Mulholland.

That ended the scoring. Croft succeeded in blanking the winners for the next two innings and Welsh held them scoreless during the last three.

Picton's only real chance to register was in the third innings. Mulholland led off with a hit through short and Croft dropped a single into left. R. Frederick flied to Corrin. Huggin sent to Rose and was safe when Corrin lost the throw, but Mulholland foolishly tried to score was out a mile at the plate, Hudgin going to second. C. Frederick rolled to Rose, and Picton's opportunity was gone.

RUGBY MEETING MONDAY NIGHT

At Chamber of Commerce — Discuss Rules and O.R.F.U. Team.

A meeting of the Rugby Association will be held in the Chamber of Commerce on Monday night at 8 o'clock. Players and all others interested in the game are requested to be present. Mr. C. S. Browne and Dr. A. W. McPherson will give talks on the rules and principles of the game. The executive has considerable important business to bring up, especially in regard to policy in the development of the city's O.R.F.U. team and its financing.

The game is off to a good start this fall. The executive of the association have demonstrated that they are very much alive, and have made an earlier start than most other cities in the Province by opening the playing schedule a week ahead of them. With this spirit in the leaders, the players and general public should cordially co-operate with them. A good turn-out Monday evening will help everybody.

IF YANKS REPEAT, HOW ABOUT RUTH?

Disappointing in the 1921 Series, Billy Evans Says

Babe Doesn't Look as Good Now as He Did Then

By BILLY EVANS.

If the New York Yankees are fortunate enough to take part again in the world series, what part will Babe Ruth play?

While Ruth led the Yankees in hitting, with an average of .313, in the clash with the Giants his showing at the bat was a disappointment.

Never has a player gone into a world series carrying such a burden on his shoulders as Ruth in the 1921 Yankees. He had just finished one of the most sensational years ever enjoyed by a major league player. He had broken all slugging records by making 59 home runs, thus eclipsing by five his best previous record.

Record 204 Hits.

Nor had he confined his 1921 hitting to home runs. Aside from his 59 homers he cracked out 44 two-base hits and 16 triples. His record for the season was 204 hits for an average of .378, giving him third place in the American League batting averages, just below Heilmann and Cobb.

The baseball experts who predicted victory for the Yankees based much of their dope on Ruth's swatting ability. The Babe was figured to be the big punch in the Yankee offense.

Ruth did make one home run in the 1921 series, but it was a wasted effort. It came in the ninth inning of the fourth game, with no one on, and the Yankees beaten, 4 to 1.

Throughout the series, with the exception of the second game, in which Ruth drew three bases on balls, the pitchers on the Giants' staff worked on Ruth and made him hit. Ruth struck out eight times during the series.

Took Real Nerve.

In the Babe's defense I want to say that nobody ever played the game in worse physical condition. A terribly infected arm made it impossible for him to take his natural swing and forced him to remain out of several games. Due to his failure to hit, the gossips had it that he quit under fire. In justice I must say that such comment was decidedly undeserved.

Babe Ruth certainly did not quit in the series last year. It took real nerve to play, considering the condition in which he entered the series. In poor shape physically unable to do himself justice, he was constantly "razzed" for his failure to hit.

Ruth deserves credit rather than censure for his play in the series last year. The only criticism that might be offered is that he stayed in the game entirely too long after being physically unfit.

What about the Babe Ruth of 1922, should the Yankees again get into the series?

It is my opinion that the Babe Ruth of this year is not the serious menace at the bat that he was last season. Any number of reasons could be offered for such a belief.

An eight weeks' layoff at the start of the season certainly didn't improve Ruth's batting eye or stride. In addition, the Babe has suffered from various physical ailments that have not improved his work.

Then, there is the state of mind. Ruth is worrying this year. Last season he was the personification of confidence.

Babe's eye doesn't seem as keen this year. He is missing the style of pitching he once murdered. Pitchers who once feared him are taking chances on his prowess.

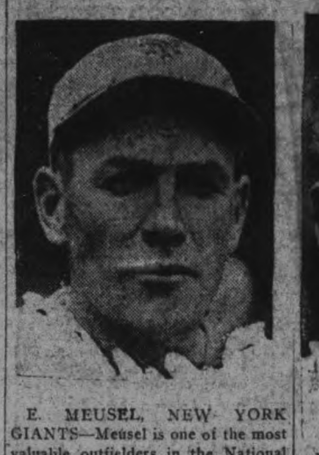
In summing up the chances of the Yankees this year, should the New York Americans get into the series, Ruth will not get such a big play from the experts.

Such being the case, it would be just like the Babe to cross everyone up.

WORLD SERIES COMPARISONS

LEFT FIELD

By BILLY EVANS



E. MEUSEL, NEW YORK GIANTS—Meusel is one of the most valuable outfielders in the National League. He does everything well.

In the series with the Yankees last fall his work was one of the outstanding features. He fielded perfectly and hit the ball timely. The Yankee pitchers found him troublesome throughout.

Meusel has played fine ball for the Giants this year. He is of the aggressive type and has plenty of nerve, the kind of player who shines in a tough series.

Meusel bats right-handed and is always well above the .300 mark. Hits the ball hard. While not rated as a Cobb on the bases, he is anything but slow.

BOB MEUSEL, NEW YORK AMERICANS—Bob Meusel possesses remarkable ability in every branch of play, yet does not get the most out of his possibilities because he lacks initiative. He is rather carefree, doesn't take the game as seriously as he might, and is satisfied to be rated a mighty good player rather than a great star.

Meusel is a right-handed batter, takes a healthy swing, and is one of the most dangerous hitters in the American League. For a big fellow he is very fast on his feet. Has a wonderful arm and is so accurate that opposing players say he throws strikes from the outfield.

THE RULES OF RUGBY

THE OFFICIALS.

(1)—There shall be one referee, one umpire, and one head linesman, for a match, all of whom shall be appointed for each match.

(2)—The referee shall enforce the rules and penalties, adjudicate upon disputes or cases provided by the rules. He shall appoint touch judges, two time keepers, a penalty timekeeper and two yardsmen. The referee, if he deems it expedient, may over-rule any other official's decision, and except in the case of the umpire, may immediately replace the official over-ruled.

(3)—The umpire shall have power to stop the game by sounding a whistle for any infringement of the rules regarding off-side, off-side interference, charging, hacking, obstructing, or rough or unfair play, but the penalty, if any, shall be inflicted by the referee only.

(4)—The head-linesman shall supervise the yardsmen and instruct them where to place their pickets on the first down. If so desired by the Union under whose auspices the game is played, the head linesman may be given power to sound a signal for infringement of the rule regarding offside on the line of scrimmage. This signal shall be such as to be readily distinguished from those used by the referee and umpire, and shall not be effective to stop the play, which shall continue until stopped by the referee or umpire. He shall be responsible under the direction of the referee for keeping the score and list of players and substitutes.

(5)—The touch judges shall inform the referee how and where the ball goes into touch.

The duties of timekeeper are the same as in other games.

(8)—The yardsmen shall be provided with two pickets, spaced ten yards apart, which they shall place on the first down as directed by the head linesman.

The Kick-off.

(1)—The ball shall be kicked off (1) at the centre point of the field, (a) at the commencement of the game by the side making that choice, (b) at the beginning of the third quarter by the opposite side; (c) after a score of more than 3 points; (2) at the centre point of their 40-yard line by the side scored against after a score of three points has been made.

()—(a) The ball must be kicked more than five yards toward the opponent's goal.

In case of infringement the ball shall be scrimmaged by the side not offending on the spot where it was kicked.

(2) The ball, unless it has touched an opponent, must not go out of bounds. In case of infringement the ball shall be kicked off again, but if the ball go twice out of bounds without touching an opponent it shall be scrimmaged by the side not offending on the spot where it was kicked.

(c)—The opponents shall stand at least ten yards in front of the ball until it is kicked. In case of infringement the ball shall be advanced five yards and kicked off again.

(Note this one.)—The ball shall be scrimmaged on their 25-yard line by the side against whom one or two points have been scored.

AMERICAN LEAGUE IS STILL UNDECIDED

Boston Blanked New York While St. Louis Won at Home From Chicago — Browns Have a Chance Yet.

ISSUE IN DOUBT.

Boston 1, New York 0.

BOSTON, September 30 (Canadian Press).—Boston again defeated the League leaders, the New York Yankees, yesterday. Jack Quinn, a former Yankee spitball star, held the visitors to five hits, and had the better of Bob Shawkey in a sensationally played 1 to 0 game. As the St. Louis Browns won their game yesterday with Chicago, the pennant issue in the American League remains undecided. To clinch the flag the Yankees must win a game or the Browns must lose one.

The winning run was scored in the sixth on John Collins' double to right centre, Mitchell's sacrifice hit down the third base line, and Ruel's drive which Scott managed to knock down. Collins scored as Scott threw out Ruel. Bob Meusel twice struck out with men on second or third and two out. Ruth's fielding was sensational. His single hit was a bunt with one out and none on in the sixth. Score:

New York ..... 000000000—0 5 0
Boston ..... 00000100x—1 6 1

Shawkey and Schang; Quinn and Ruel.

BROWNS HANG ON.

ST. LOUIS, September 30 (Canadian Press). — Two home runs by Johnny Tobin and masterful pitching in the pinches by Vangilder, gave St. Louis a 3 to 2 victory over Chicago yesterday in the first game of the final series of the season. The victory continues the mathematical possibility of the Browns tieing the pennant, in view of New York's defeat by Boston yesterday. Should the locals win their two remaining games and the Yankees lost their's, the teams would be tied for first place, and a play-off series would be necessary. Score:

Chicago ..... 000100100—2 5 0
St. Louis ..... 10101000x—3 8 1

Faber and Leverette and Schalk; Vangilder and P. Collins.

HIS 26TH VICTORY.

Philadelphia 4, Washington 3.

PHILADELPHIA, September 30 (Canadian Press). — Philadelphia took both ends of a double-header from Washington yesterday, winning the first game in twelve innings, 4 to 3, and the second, 8 to 4.

The first game was a pitchers' battle between Ogden and Erickson, and the former gave way to Rommel in the twelfth, who won his twenty-sixth victory. Brillheart was driven from the mound in second contest. Hasty had it easy after the third inning. Scores:

Washington .. 100001000001—3 6 0
Philadelphia .. 001001000002—4 9 0

Erickson and Lapan; Ogden, Rommel and Bruggy, Perkins.

Philadelphia 8, Washington 4.

NATIONAL.

UNUSUAL MIX-UP IN NATIONAL LEAGUE GAME.

Chicago 3, St. Louis 0.

CHICAGO, September 30 (Canadian Press). — Ernest Osborne held St. Louis to two hits while Chicago bunched five of its hits off Pfeffer and defeated the visitors, 3 to 0, in the first game of the final series of the year. The entire visiting club surrounded Umpire Rigler on a peculiar play in the eighth inning.

Fournier batted for Levan, and walked. When he reached the base, Mann took his place to run for him without notifying the umpire. Fournier went to the bench. O'Farrell then threw the ball to Grimes, who touched Mann and he was declared out. The St. Louis players ran from the bench, and while they were arguing, Fournier returned to first. The umpire then ruled that Mann was not in the game and Fournier had not been tagged out. Then Mann was announced as the runner, and the game resumed. Score:

St. Louis ..... 000000009—0 2 2
Chicago ..... 02000010x—3 8 1

Pfeffer, North and Ainsmith; Osborne and O'Farrell.

SIKI HEADING FOR CONTRACT TANGLE.

Kid Norfolk Puts Up Bond After Rickard's Announcement.

NEW YORK, September 30 (Canadian Press).— Kid Norfolk, of New York, negro light heavyweight boxer, has deposited a forfeit of $2,500 binding a challenge to Battling Siki, conqueror of Georges Carpentier, and will be entitled to first consideration as an opponent for the Senegalese in New York, according to announcement last night by the New York State Athletic Commission.

Issued after the announcement by promoter Tex Rickard that he had signed Siki for a contest on Thanksgiving Day against an opponent to be selected later, the Commission's statement added that if it verifies reports that Siki is coming to the United States "under contract for very large sums, neither he nor the men to whom he is under contract will be permitted to operate in this State."

What Loss of One Player May Mean in a World Series

This is the sixth of seven articles written for The Examiner by Eddie Collins of the Chicago White Sox. Collins has played in more world series games than any other major league player.

By EDDIE COLLINS.
World's Greatest Second Baseman.

WHILE trying to figure out the dope on the chances of the Giants, Yankees or Browns being the 1922 world series champion, the thought occurred to me, how much of an upset in the calculations would the loss through injury of a man like Sisler from the Browns', or Kelly from the Giants', or Pipp from the Yanks' lineup mean?

Rather odd, but a fact nevertheless, that just previous to a great many world series, some member of one of the contesting teams has been rendered hors de combat.

As far back as 1905, Rube Waddell was incapacitated as far as baseball was concerned, in a friendly rough-and-tumble straw hat breaking affair.

Rossman took a forced leave of absence from one of the Detroit-Cub affairs, in 1907 or '08.

Johnny Evers broke a leg just previous to the 1910 Cub-Athletic series.

Stuffy McInnis, Rube Oldring, Fred Merkle, Red Smith, Jack Barry, the late Ray Chapman, and Babe Ruth and other notables I recall offhand who were forced out of whole or part of world series because of injuries. And in the majority of cases the absentees were members of the losing team.

Teamwork Counts.

What of it? Just this: The success of every championship team, I believe, is due primarily to teamwork.

There are lots of good ball teams where teamwork is not so obvious, but very few championships are won without it.

I know that the absolute harmonious co-operation of the Athletics was the secret of their success from 1909 to 1914.

A good ball team might be likened to a well-oiled piece of machinery. The various players represent the cogs. Failure to hustle, loafing, or otherwise not putting forth one's best efforts to win, is apt to throw the whole machine out of gear, and spill the works. Just so, take out one of the important cogs, and the effectiveness of your machine is impaired. It happens occasionally, but not often that the substitute shines even better than the regular. One instance, George Rohe, White Sox who substituted for Lee Tannehill, was the series star in 1906.

The loss of one of the regulars from the lineup of a world series contesting team is not only an actual loss, but is very apt to have an important psychological effect as well.

Doubt Arises.

Confidence has a big part in a team's success. Shake this confidence by the removal of one of the tried members and the thought arises: "Will so-and-so be able to fill his shoes?" There is an existing doubt, and as the doubt continues, confidence ebbs with the one team, and grows with the opponents. The threat that a man like Ruth or Sisler must always carry for the opposition cannot be made as formidable by any substitute. No one realized that more than the Giants in those last three games last fall.

Considering the fact that he was a pitcher, George Wiltse performed most creditably at first base for Fred Merkle in a part of the 1913 Giant-Athletic series. But he was not nearly as formidable at bat, and that is where the Giants suffered and the Athletics gained.

Janvrin displaced Barry in the Red Sox-Brooklyn series and did very well.

As far as substitutes go this year, if any are necessary, the Giants appear to be the best fortified. Johnny Rawlings can fill any infield position most acceptably. For pinch hitters the Yanks present a likely lot, including Baker, Elmer Smith and Hoffman. For the Browns, Jimmy Austin, after many years of earnest service, is certainly deserving of first call.

SUDDEN DEATH OF FORMER HOCKEY STAR.

PERTH, Ont., September 30 (Canadian Press). — Hector Dupres, 40, veteran lacrosse and hockey player, dropped dead at his home here last night. The deceased was a member of the National Lacrosse team of Montreal for many years, and only retired from the game in 1917. He was also a member of the Canadien hockey team of Montreal when that team was first organised.

ATHLETIC FIELD DAYS FOR THE PETERBORO DISTRICT ON OCT. 7

Planned By the Ontario Athletic Commission to Develop Physique and Character — All Schools Urged to Enter.

PROVINCIAL SCHEME.

A movement started last spring for the development of athletics in the Separate schools of the Province will be brought to a head in one big athletic day next month throughout Ontario to the other. from one end of Ontario to the Athletics Commission, in conjunction with the Ontario Amateur Union, is arranging for these meets, which extend from one end of the province to the other, and will be held at eleven different centres, embracing entrants from adjacent counties as follows: At St. Catharines, Guelph, Peterborough, London, Brantford, Cornwall, Ottawa, Belleville, Ste. Marie and North Bay, Sault Port Arthur. Saturday, October 7th is the date set for Peterborough, in a district embracing the Counties of Haliburton, York, Ontario, Victoria and Peterborough, Northumberland and Durham.

There are to be no admission fees and the races are to be held in public parks where possible. The events are all limited to boys and girls of 15 and under.

They are: 12 years and under, 75 yards, running broad jump; 15 years and under, 110 yards. 220 yards, running high jump, running broad jump, running, half-mile relay, (4 boys to a team and from the same school.) Girls, 15 years and under, 75 yard dash. Equipment is provided for all schools for practice work, and the commission is donating first, second and third medals for the several events for all these centres. A special die is being made for the commission medals which will be used in future as the official prize of the commission. The object of the event is to raise the moral standard of sports and to show what a real day of sports can be made. Dr. R. W. Frank is in charge of arrangements here, with Messrs. M. Park, J. R. Corkery, J. E. Sullivan and J. E. Munro as members of the committee.

Commission's Plan.

The circular letter sent to teachers in schools throughout the province, in connection with this event, is as follows:

Your attention is here directed to the purpose and work of the Ontario Athletic Commission.

This Commission was formed last spring under the auspices of the Ontario Government for the purpose of fostering and propagating competitive athletics in the schools throughout Ontario. The underlying reason for this is that competitive athletics, besides the noticeable improvement they may effect on bodily physique and general deportment, are a great moral force, teaching lessons of loyalty, patriotism and fair play, and create a moral or manliness that makes these effective. It is on our Canadian athletic fields that unwritten laws are largely developed, the laws of honor, fair play and self restraint. It was on our athletic fields that we developed the moral that won the war, the will to win, the team play to carry it on and grit to stick to it to the finish.

The Commission wish that teachers shall develop sports in the schools and emphasize unceasingly on the minds of the youth these manly ideals.

Now, in small schools organized games such as football or baseball may be impossible owing to small attendance, but there is one line of sport that is always possible because it is a competition of individuals not teams. That is what is known as tract and field sports, running, jumping, shot putting (shoulder stand), etc.

List of Events.

The Commission is desirous of developing these first and to encourage them are arranging for competitions in eleven centres throughout Ontario this fall. The above named counties are grouped as our division of the Province and the best athletes from these counties are invited to come to Peterborough when the Commission has arranged for the games to be held on Saturday, October 7th at 1 p.m. The events are:

For boys, 13 years and under—75 yds. dash ,and running broad jump.

For boys 15 and under—100 yds. dash, 220 yds. dash, and running broad jump, running high jump, pole vault.

8 pound shot put, half mile relay (four boys to a team all from one school, each to run 220 yds.)

For girls 15 and under—75 yds. dash.

There is no entry fee and medals will be given for 1st, 2nd and 3rd places in each event.

Will you then encourage the boys and girls to take up these sports and if you have any promising athlete in your school will you explain to his parents the scheme and encourage them to let the boy or girl come to compete for the honor of his school and county.

If you have entries please send their name, age, school and county to us not later than October 5th, for their information, when they arrive in Peterborough on October 7th, have them report at once to the Y.M.C.A. for instructions.

For further information write the committee: Maurice Park, John R. Corkery, Dr. R. W. Frank, J. E. Sullivan, J. E. Munro.

HARRIERS TURNOUT ON MONDAY NIGHT

Another Invitation to Join the Running Squad.

Harriers are reminded of Monday night's turn-out from the "Y" at 7.45 o'clock, with Charlie Thorpe in charge. There is still plenty of time for new men to break in, and a general invitation is extended to them. One object of these practices is to train candidates for The Examiner's road race on Thanksgiving Day, and incidentally another direct benefit is the improved physical condition that is derived from road running.

A special invitation is offered the younger boys of from thirteen to seventeen. They will find the company congenial, and will profit in many ways from the harrier work.

ROCHESTER BUYS PLAYERS.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., September 30. (Canadian Press). — The purchase of Shortstop Johnny Mann and Outfielder Herman Layne from the Detroit Americans was announced here yesterday by the Rochester International League Baseball Club.

SOFT BALL GAMES DRAWING CROWDS

Newly Launched League With Twelve Teams Creating Interest.

The fact that Peterborough finds itself above that plane in sports which is represented by only baseball and hockey as the year's diversions and activities, is no doubt largely due to the efforts and stimulus of the P.A.A.A. These two games we have always with us, but this year, for example, there has been not only baseball leagues of all age limits, but also lacrosse, soccer, tennis, hockey, boxing, and now rugby, not to mention several other branches of outdoor pastime, including golf, which hardly falls within the scope of the P.A.A.A.

One of these comparatively recent developments is softball, which has taken hold all over the country and is strongly entrenched in Peterborough. The Girls' League ran an interesting course all summer, and now the Men's League has blossomed with twelve teams in two sections. The fact that many of these players would be otherwise relegated to the ranks of spectators at other games is one of the most commendible aspects of softball. It provides all the pleasure and relaxation of baseball, and not a little of its strenuousness. Friendly rivalry has already taken hold of the contesting teams, and from now on the league will occupy an important place in the city's sporting life this fall. At the Armoury there is adequate room for the game, and in this particular the city is fortunate both in playing space and other facilities afforded, and also in the encouragement given by Col. A. W. McPherson and the officer of the garrison.

The members of these teams will not regret their participation in the Softball League, which, as a matter of fact, could be duplicated without difficulty by other teams that could be organized throughout the city. Athletic games should not be forsaken by men who have been engaged in them during their youth and then suddenly drop them as if "them days was gone forever." The interest shown by the increasing number of spectators at the softball games is ample evidence they bound to be a real success this season.

BLOOD AND SAND IS A SENSATION

Valentino Scores Greatest Triumph of His Career

The screen sensation of the season is booked for the Capitol Theatre for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, "Blood and Sand," which has been shown to crowded houses in all the great cities of the continent and has been acclaimed by press and public as the really great production of the year.

Ingine Rodolph Valentino as a hot-blooded toreador, the dashing idol of Spain, hero of many loves, in a torrid story which is the greatest from the pen of Vicente Blasco Ibanez, author of "The Four Horsemen." It is produced in lavish splendour by Fred Niblo, who made "The Three Musketeers," and the stars supported by Lila Lee and Nita Naldi. What a combination in a picture that has all the romance, the fiery passions of Spain and is a thousand times bigger than "The Sheik."

Valentino risks his life in the most spectacular sports known to man — bullfighting. He is lured by the maddening beauty of a titled Spanish temptress. He rises from poverty to revive the plaudits of a nation. There are scenes of love and passion never approached before on the screen, scenes of dancing and revelry filled with breathless thrills. It is the greatest Valentino triumph yet.

AT THE GRAND.

"A Day in Spain" is the title of the offering of Jimmie Evans' Musical Revue at the Grand Opera House for this week end. Opening with a brightly-colored chorus, dancing to the strains of "La Paloma" and with a fantastic finale in "Si, Si, Senor", it affords a merry evening of nonsense and music, to a Spanish atmosphere. Jimmy Evans and Joe Devine have some cheerful bits in the sad story of a blighted romance, and the explanation of a union; Burt Ryan and Joe Devine sing "The Fandango" in great style, and there are a couple of catchy choruses in "I Ain't Nobody's Darling", led by Kittens Fraser in a fetching orange get-up, the Girls in overalls and large hats, and "Swanee River Moon", with Grace Gould and a orchid-satin-clad chorus.

George Wheelers song and monologue, "While Others Are Building Castles in the Air" and Jimmie Evans' piece of recitative advice were innovations that took well, and Florence Pippin, in stunning yellow costume, introduced a partner with her violin specialty, Katherine Phillips in flame color contributing a second fiddle to the bright musical numbers that received a triple encore.

Katherine Phillips also had a clever step dance, that brought her plenty of applause; and Roy Elles and Dolly Jollymore do "Espana" in costume, with their usual nimble, light-footed efficiency.

"Mary of Argyle" is Jimmie Evans vocal selection for this programme. These old favorites in song make an excellent interlude in the light entertainment, and "Mary" is evidently one of Jimmie's best numbers. He sings it with feeling and expression the cool clear tones of his fine voice bringing repeated encores.

Joe Devine has some wonderful Yiddish in his vocal contributions.

Next week will be the fifth and final week of the Evans' Musical Revue entertainment in Peterboro. Two particularly good programmes have been arranged.

AT THE ROYAL.

KNIFE THROWING IS A DIFFICULT FEAT

To become expert in knife throwing is a difficult task, requiring much patience. The weapon is thrown while grasping the pointed blade. The point must be sharp or it will not stick in its target. If thrown by holding the handle it travels inaccurately, and generally lands handle first. The utmost speed must be used to make the throw effective. If you take these things into account you will see the danger to the beginnner's fingers.

Should you be of venturesome spirit, try flinging a knife at the side of the barn located at least one hundred yards from everybody. A radius of less than a hundred yards is not advisable. After you have lost the knife, go to the drug store and get some iodine and bandage.

"Trooper O'Neil" will open at the Royal Theatre on Monday.

PORT ARTHUR HOCKEY CLUB'S DECISION.

PORT ARTHUR, September 30 (Canadian Press). — The Port Arthur Hockey Club has decided not to enter the proposed series with the Soo, Sudbury, and Fort William on an exhibition basis, but stands willing to take membership in any such league, providing the championship and right to compete for the Allen Cup are involved.

Despatches from the Soo announced a Big Four series for a local cup, but without Allan Cup competition rights.

Cablegram Which Clears Atmosphere in Near East

TORONTO, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press.)—"Thanks for very kind offer. No need now." This cablegram which was sent from Constantinople, and signed by Gen. Sir Charles Harrington, British commander, on whose judgment Britain is relying in the Near East crisis, was received last night by Col. W. G. Mackendrick.

On Wednesday last, Col. Mackendrick, who earned a decoration by his valuable services in directing road building in France during the Great War, cabled General Harrington as follows: "Beg to offer my services as road expert with your forces. Formerly roads Canadian Corps and Fifth Army. Could leave instantly."

General Harrington's reply seems to indicate that at the time cable was the news [illegible] one of the Dardanelles to have definitely cleared.

GOOD HEALTH AND ATTRACTIVENESS

mean much to the woman in the home and in society. The weak, nervous, tired, worn-out woman has not much chance in the active world of today. If you have headache, fever, constipation, kidney or liver trouble, bronchitis, neuralgia, or any other ailment, that these are only effects and that to successfully get rid of them you must adjust their cause. The cause of most human ailments is interference with transmission of life force from the brain to the tissues. This interference will usually be found in nerve pressure at the spine.

REMEMBER

Chiropractor by adjusting the misaligned segment of the spine releases pressure on nerves, thus opening the path for a normal current of life energy to all parts of the body. The result is HEALTH.

Social Calendar

Mr. Edward Jones, who has been on a visit to his old home in Wales for the past two or three months, arrived in the city this morning. He had a splendid holiday, what with listening to massed bands, concerts, and many treats along musical lines. And "Teddy" certainly looks as if the change had "set him up".

Miss M. A. O'Connell, of East City, was the guest of her sister, Miss Marguerite E. O'Connell, at the banquet and dance given last night at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, by the ex-pupils of old historic Jarvis Collegiate, on the occasion of the laying of the corner stone of the new Jarvis Collegiate.

A very enjoyable meeting of the Home and School Association of the Queen Mary School was held last evening with a good attendance. The first meeting for the fall season was marked by the presentation of diplomas to the graduating class by Mr. M. N. Clark, the principal, and of prizes of books to the most efficient boy and girl in Mr. Clark's room, these being won by Mildred Morphet and Jack Hall.

Mr. Joseph Wearing, representing the School Board at the meeting, gave a timely and much appreciated brief talk on the work done by the Home and School Association and of the advantages enjoyed by pupils in present-day schools as compared with boys and girls of some years ago.

A musical programme was provided by an instrumental duet by the Misses Morphet; a vocal solo, the Miss Dones, and a reading by Doris Wright. Refreshments were served and the remainder of the [illegible] session at the social hour spent. The president, Mrs. J. E. Johnson occupied the chair.

A full course in Commercial Telegraphy is also given, and many ladies enroll for this purpose. 1d-77-1w-40

PETERBOROUGH MALE VOICE CHOIR.

Good Prospects For Winter Session—Executive Met Last Night.

The Executive of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir met last night to make preparation for another successful winter's work.

Mr. Fred. Skitch, the new president, will guide the business end of this organization for the ensuing term, and with the valuable aid of the able secretary, Mr. C. S. Thompson, and the experience of the other executive officers elected, a good season is assured.

Mr. J. H. Renwick is very optimistic and is looking forward to greater efforts for the 1922-1923 season, and new music is already coming in, and other orders are expected at any time from England.

The Choir will hold the first rehearsal in the J. M. Greene Music Academy on Tuesday evening next, Oct. 3rd, at 8 o'clock sharp, when a hearty invitation is extended to all old members and also those interested in male voice choir work. Some fifteen new members are already enrolled, and applications are still being considered.

Edward Jones, the popular tenor, arrives in the city to-day, after a three month trip to the Old Country, and the Choir welcomes him back again. We understand he brings along some good musical numbers.

Mr. Welch, the "Daddy" of the Choir, sends his kind regards to the boys and wishes them every success for the coming year.

NOTICE
This announcement is for those who have received "the letter" signed "A Follower of Jesus." You would easily understand its import. This move is not for any purpose such as riding some hobby, to get members for some church, or to propagate any ism, which is contrary to the teaching of the Scriptures; but it is for the purpose of getting honest hearts in unison with the Spirit of God. The "Word" that was made flesh and the Holy Spirit agree, so those who receive Jesus as Saviour and Lord, and continuing to learn of Him, really come under the "law of the Spirit" of life in Christ Jesus. We who come under the law of the Spirit find the yoke of the Lord Jesus easy and His burden light, and His commandments not grievous. Meet again Sunday, Oct. 1st, 1922, 3 p.m., 679 Stewart street.

A FEELING OF RELIEF WAR CLOUDS DEPART

Favorable Week-end Developments Puts the Quietus on the Efforts of the War-Mongers--Turks Not Anxious to Fight.

THE ALLIED POLICY

LONDON, Oct. 2. — (Canadian Press.)—A feeling of relief was evident in all British official quarters this morning as a result of favorable week-end developments in the Near East, and authorities are hopeful that the conference between the Kemalists and Allies will have good results. A similar feeling of relief is noted in official despatches from Constantinople owing to a less menacing attitude of Turks about the neutral zone. In addition substantial British reinforcements have arrived in the Straits and the British military position is much stronger in consequence. No results are expected from the Mudania conference before the middle of the week. Meanwhile the Government is marking time. Prime Minister Lloyd George is still in the country and no cabinet meeting has been called for to-day. Governmental authorities reiterated to-day that complete evacuation of the neutral zone by Turks would be required before parleys began.

HAS SAVED BRITAIN.

The bulk of press opinion this morning is that General Harrington has saved Britain from war thus far and there are many eulogisms of his tact and skill, hope being added that he will be given a free hand to deal with the situation until it is settled. Anti-Government newspapers renew their strong criticisms of the Government's handling of the situation, but the Daily Chronicle attributes present hope of peace to the "firm and reasonable stand of the British Government."

CALL OFFICERS TO SERVICE.

ATHENS, Oct. 2. — (Canadian Press.) — Newspapers to-day announce that the British Minister signed the visitors' book at the palace yesterday and they interpret this as British recognition to the new king.

M. Venizelos' acceptance of a special Grecian Ambassadorship to European capitals is interpreted here as clearly indicating that while the character of the new regime is entirely non-partisan, Venizelists will be predominated.

The revolutionary committees' first step in re-organization of the army was to recall to service all officers placed on the inactive list under Constantine's regime.

THE TURKS APPROVE.

The Turkish Nationalists Assembly at Angora has unanimously approved the action of Mustapha Kemal Pasha, and has authorized the despatch of delegates to Mudania, and later to the peace conference, according to a Central News despatch from Constantinople.

DECIDE POLICY TO-DAY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.—(Canadian Press.)—Allied policy at the Mudania conference, it was learned this forenoon will be decided upon at a meeting in Constantinople this afternoon of Allied Generals, Admirals, High Commissioners and Military attaches in extraordinary council.

The conference will discuss the occupation of Thrace by detachments of Inter-Allied Troops during the Greek armys withdrawal. Expectation here is that the Greek evacuation will begin immediately after the conference, permitting establishment of Turkish administrative control. The British general headquarters has issued a denial of the report that General Harrington would demand evacuation of the shores of the Dardanelles by Turkish troops within twenty-four hours. Allied generals leave on warships for Mudania to-night.

ABDICATION SINCERE.

Assurance that the abdication of Constantine was sincere and final was given by his son George II, to members of the revolutionary committee on Saturday. Col. Gonatas told the King the committee was determined to smash mercilessly any reactionary movement from whatever quarter it came.

Peggy, Engaged Again, Flits in And Out of City

CHICAGO, Oct. 2. — Peggy Hopkins Joyce, whose multitudinous affairs de coeur have caused her to be known as the "most engaged woman in America," is, according to rumor, engaged again. The latest fiance is said to be a youthful Texas millionaire whom Peggy met recently in San Francisco and who accompanied her to Chicago.

Hard upon the heels of this report, however, comes another that Peggy's next intended is Marshall Neilan, movie star and producer. Neilan is reported estranged from Blanche Sweet, who became his bride in Chicago last July.

Those who circulate the rumor of the young Texan, who is reported to own a bank and a couple of hotels or so in the Lone Star state, point to the fact that Peggy, during her forty-five minute stay in Chicago Thursday was exceedingly and unnaturally shy of publicity. She dodged skilfully in and out of the corridors of the Hotel Sherman, employing as accomplices various hotel attaches in her efforts to circumvent the reporters.

IS SUSPECTED OF POISONING CATTLE

Davis Hill of Dummer Remanded for One Week

Davis Hill of Dummer Township is again in police custody on the charge of poisoning cattle in the same township, the name of whose owner has not yet been divulged. Information was laid at police headquarters here Saturday that cattle had been found poisoned and Provincial Constable Cookman and Inspector Joseph Stewart immediately started for Dummer, effecting at midnight the arrest of Hill, suspected of perpetrating the cowardly deed

In police court this morning Magistrate O. A. Langley remanded the accused for one week, offering to accept bail of $2,000 from Hill's family and $2,000 from a outside source Neither of which has yet been forthcoming.

Davis Hill was suspected of being implicated with his brother William a year ago in poisoning cattle, but there was not sufficient evidence to convict him. His brother is now undergoing an five year sentence in Portsmouth Penitentiary for that offense.

YOUNG MEN'S CLUB TO BE ORGANIZED.

Mr. J. E. Sullivan, of the Quaker Oats Company, and Messrs. F. Overend, R. Brown and Leon Frazer, of Peterborough, are to-day the guests of the Young Men's Club, Board of Trade, in Toronto, acting as delegates from the local Chamber of Commerce to secure first-hand information as to its functions. They are also arranging for a deputation from the Toronto Young Men's Club to visit the city for the purpose of organizing the young men of our city into a business club in the near future.

There being no organization of this nature in the city at present, it should prove a great assistance to ambitious young men who are desirous of obtaining a broader knowledge of business affairs and civic problems.

Any young men wishing to attend the first organization meeting should notify the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce at once.

DOUBT ABRAMS SAY DOCTORS IN THE U.S.A.

Let Him Drop Mystic Cloak and Reveal Secrets to Science, Their Stand.

"FAKIR OR SELFISH"

DETROIT, October 2. — In Detroit, as in the United States generally, there are a few medical men who profess to believe—and many who doubt and condemn—Dr. Albert Abrams, of San Francisco, who says he can diagnose disease from a drop of blood or a bit of handwriting, and cure it by electronic vibrations.

They all agree, however, that if Dr. Abrams' claims are well founded he has made probably the greatest discovery in the history of civilisation.

The doubters include Dr. Frank A. Kelly, chairman of the legal committee of the Wayne County Medical Society. A while ago Dr. Kelly was treating a woman for cancer of the gall bladder and metastasis of the liver. He had cut away one cancer and was in doubt as to the nature of the malady. As a test, he sent a drop of the woman's blood to Dr. Abrams. He gave Dr. Abrams no other hint of the patient's condition, he says, and did not even mention her sex.

The San Franciscan replied "by return mail," correctly diagnosing the woman's illness. He further asserted that her condition was acute, and the truth of this statement was demonstrated by the woman's death a few weeks later.

He Hints at Collusion.

"But I would not care to base my judgment on this one experience," said Dr. Kelly to-day. "One or two other persons knew what was wrong with her and I have thought sometimes one of them might have informed Dr. Abrams. But neither would I care to say that he is wrong. I will say this however: Either he is absolutely wrong, or he is the most selfish man in the world. He must answer to one or the other indictment. If he has what he says he has, the world has a right to it. He is keeping is knowledge to himself, and has made no demonstration of it.

"Dr. Klopfenstein, who is practising Dr. Abrams' system here in Detroit, has been a friend of mine for ten years, and I am sure he is absolutely sincere. He may be deceived, but he is honest."

Dr. Rollin H. Stevens, a specialist in X-ray treatments, probably the nearest thing to the Abrams system in general use, also is sceptical.

"I guess everybody will agree that the electrons are disturbed where disease has set in," he says, "but if Dr. Abrams has found a way of curing disease by replacing the electrons he has done something so remarkable as to be almost unbelievable. Most of the great discoveries in our field, as in everything else, have come gradually. One man has discovered one thing, another something else, until a complete system has been developed.

Fraud or Genius.

"We know practically nothing about the electron, yet Dr. Abrams would have us believe he has gained absolute mastery over it. He is either a fraud or a genius. The advance he says he has taken is so great that I am extremely doubtful, but he may have something; I hope he has."

"I do not care to express an opinion about something of which I know nothing," said Dr. J. B. Kennedy, "but Dr. Abrams' theory has not been demonstrated to be a scientific truth.

"The art of healing has come to be largely a science, since 1883, when Louis Pasteur made known his wonderful science. I mean something which has been proved true by two or more investigators, working separately. Has anyone else arrived at Dr. Abrams' results? No; nobody else has even taken the first step toward those results.

"To illustrate what I mean, consider Pasteur's discovery that vaccination would prevent authrax in animals. He was laughed at when he advanced that assertion. What did he do He arranged with a group of investigators to innoculate a number of animals, some of which he had vaccinated, with the disease. All the vaccinated animals were grazing in the fields when the test ended; the others were dead. That was a practical demonstration of a scientific truth; and his discovery had to be accepted as truth. All the

BARBERS WAIL AS WOMEN START FLOCKING TO SHOPS

Girls Will Soon Have Barber Shops Turned Into Beauty Parlors--Like to Do Everything the Men Do—Started With Bobbed Hair

Following in the wake of Miss Muriel McCormick, daughter of Harold F. McCormick and granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, the most fashionable of the bobbed hair debutantes ,sub-debs and younger married women actually are deserting the effete beauty parlors for the bourgeoise barber shops and the famous pink weeklies without which no barber shop is complete.

The girls come in for everything on the price list except a shave, according to John Conroy, manager of the barber shop at the exclusive Drake Hotel—the shop where Miss McCormick has her barbering done.

This barber shop is only one of scores which the barbers claim are now being turned into beauty parlors. Proprietors of other shops are having their troubles in hurriedly hiding the pink weeklies and stifling the profanity of the male customer, whose face is covered with hot towels and who consequently can not note the approach of the female customer.

Last time Miss Muriel dropped in, according to Conroy, she had a shampoo, a manicure, a shine "and something on the hair."

The barber with the distinction of having fixed up Muriel was out, Conroy explained, but if the reporter would like to talk to that fellow on the third chair, who was yelling "next!" in a voice most cultured, he might get a few ideas from him, as he seemed to be a favorite of the female trade.

Contrary to what might have been expected the man on chair No. 3 wasn't at all enthusiastic about this new idea.

"In the first place, they like to do everything the men do," he philosophized, "none of our pleasures or vices is sacred.

"They like to have men wait on them, I guess.

"Then again barbers are much better trained in hair cutting, massaging and shampooing than hair dressers are. They are most careful. Their hands are deft and tender, yet firm.

"We save the girls money, too. We can only charge 75 cents for bobbing hair and 40 cents for a shampoo."

"We barbers will have to make a stand, thats' all. A barber shop is not supposed to do beauty parlor work at barber shop prices. If we wanted to study to be hairdressers, we would have done it. We get more of these girls all the time. When one of them comes, they all do. We've had at least 20 in the last week."
